Graphic Accounts Of Bus Crash Given By Two Survivors

Two English Passengers Tell How They Escaped Death

By BOB JOYCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Englishmen—George Tinsley, 28, of Liverpool, and David Christian, 35, of Barrow-in-Furness — told graphically Friday of their escape from the bus which went into a canal at Morrisburg with loss of 20 lives.

Both reached Montreal, with others among survivors, dressed in borrowed overalls and work shirts.

Here is Tinsley's story:

"I was dozing and awoke as the bus began rocking. There was a jar, a screech of wheels and a crash. I slid down between the seats. The bus lurched and tore down the bank. Then there was a splash.

"The lights in the bus suddenly came on. Then it began settling in the water, the rear end first.

"Women were screaming and several people had fallen into a heap at the front.

Many Hysterical

"The bus driver was yelling 'be calm' but many of the passengers were hysterical. One old woman seemed to think the bus wouldn't sink. I yelled to her: 'Get out and swim.'

"The driver got the front door open before the bus settled too far. He dived out, shouting to the others to follow him.

"There was a crowd around the door fighting to get out. I kicked out a window on my side, which appeared going down faster than the other side.

"By then the water was as high as the racks.

Women Still Inside

"I don't know how I got out. I must have dived through the window. I climbed to the top of the bus. I didn't know the depth of the water or even that we were in the canal. I could still hear the women screaming inside.

"I thought the bus had settled on the bottom but it lurched and I began slipping. I am not a strong swimmer but I started out. I went down several times before I managed to get over on my back. I couldn't get my shoes off and my clothing made it hard to swim.

"Someone grabbed me and hauled me to the bank."

And here is Christian's story:

Second Experience

"When the bus went into the water I knew what was happening. I've been through that sort of thing before. In Italy, during the war, 18 of us soldiers were in a bus that went sailing across a bridge that wasn't there. The Italians had blown it up. Twelve of the 18 got out.

"This time I just sat and waited. Then I saw the water coming up fast inside the bus. Those at the back had made a rush for the front door and were falling all over one another.

"I saw that it wasn't the way to get out so I kicked through the glass window, held on to the baggage rack and swung my feet through the hole in the window. Then I got hold of the top of the bus, and as I went out I could feel the bus pulling me down with it.

"I managed to swim away and reached the bank.

"I saw two young girls holding on to each other in the water. They were screaming for help. I went back, got one of them and hauled her ashore. All she said was 'For God's sake get the other girl out.' I went back and got her."

DROWNS OFF LOG BOOM

HULL, Que. (CP)—Marcel Lavigne, 19, an employee of the E.B. Eddy Co. here, was drowned Friday when he fell from a log boom. He was attempting to recover a log.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Comparatively cool air with low humidity covers Ontario today with warmer and more humid air over the southern and central United States. Along the boundary line between the cool and warm air there is considerable cloudiness which spread into Ontario overnight resulting in a few brief showers early this morning. Numerous showers and thundershowers were reported early today, extending from western Lake Erie to Lake Superior and across the Prairie provinces. Latest weather charts indicate that this shower activity will advance into Ontario tonight and Sunday.

Reeve Declares Accident Shows Road Dangerous

MORRISBURG (CP) — Reeve George Beavers said Friday something should be done by the Ontario highways department about the road where a bus and truck crashed into the Williamsburg canal killing 20 persons.

"This horrible catastrophe will serve, I hope, to focus attention on the highway along here. It has been an extremely dangerous stretch for many years, narrow and winding along the very banks of the St. Lawrence river.

"It has long been recognized by the authorities as one of the worst traffic hazards in Ontario."

RAIL UNIONS TO MEET

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Hall, chairman of the general conference committee of railway unions in Canada, said Friday a call has gone out for a meeting of the committee in Montreal Sept. 16 and 17 to map union policy. The committee includes the 16 non-operating unions and the four operating unions. Mr. Hall in an interview gave no indication whether forthcoming union demands will include the question of wages.

DOUCETT PLEDGES SEARCHING PROBE OF BUS ACCIDENT

Minister of Highways Is Shocked by Tragedy

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario said today there will be "an immediate and searching probe" into the bus accident which killed 20 persons near Morrisburg early this morning.

Seventeen of the 37 passengers escaped when the Colonial Lines bus hit a truck and plunged into the Williamsburg canal.

Mr. Doucett said in a statement: "I extend to all bereaved by this tragedy, probably the worst of its kind in Ontario's history, my deepest sympathies. Ontario and, indeed, Canada will be shocked by this disaster.

"From preliminary investigation I hasten to add that there will be an immediate, complete and searching probe of all causes leading up to this tragedy. All members of the provincial government express a joint determination to find out the cause and to aid in fixing the blame."

German Crown Jewels Stolen From Museum

HECHINGEN, Germany (CP)—An international police hunt was in full swing today for a gang of thieves who stole the crown jewels of Frederick the Great from the Hohenzollern Castle museum here Thursday night.

Though the basic value of the historic jewels is placed at $225,000, collectors estimate their value to be at least $7,000,000.

All German frontier checkpoints and airfields were altered and all people leaving Germany were carefully searched.

Police believe burglars climbed over the castle wall during the night and with special tools cut the iron grate of a museum window and smashed the panel.

Inside the museum they smashed four show cases containing the crown jewels.

A member of the Hohenzollern family said the jewels were not insured.

Police said only the crown of the German emperors remained untouched.

Archie Munro Named To Defence Board Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Archie Munro Pennie 37, of Quebec City, Friday was named secretary of the defence research board to succeed Dr. J. C. Clunie of Sarnia, who will carry out research activities at the board's Kingston laboratory.

Mr. Pennie is a specialist in applied chemistry who joined DRB's armament research and development establishment at Valcartier, Que., in 1948. He is also a wartime RAF pilot.

FIREMEN MEET

THOROLD (CP)—The 52hd annual convention of the Ontario Firemen's Association opened here Friday when Mayor M. L. Shanks officially welcomed the visiting delegates. Some 200 firemen from 89 fire departments are attending the four-day gathering, held in conjunction with the Thorold Hose protection Company's centennial celebrations.

Know Russian Planes Have Scouted Fringe of North America in Arctic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian planes have appeared over the polar perimeter of the North American continent and Greenland, where the United States has air bases and other defences, about a dozen times within the last 12 months.

Similar scouting expeditions over Japan average about one every two weeks, a well-informed U.S. Air Force source said today.

This information was made available in answer to questions arising out of the incident two days ago in which Soviet planes shot down an American B-50 bomber which U.S. officials said was flying 40 miles off the Siberian coast over the international waters off Japan.

The information was received before Russia formally protested that four U.S. fighter planes shot down a Soviet passenger plane with 21 aboard near the Chinese-Korean border last Monday.

Exact Number Secret

The exact number of incidents involving forays by Soviet planes in the Arctic, the time, location and circumstances—none of this data may be given. But in only one instance, already reported, were shots fired by American airmen against the Russian aerial reconnaissance parties—when the foreign craft made a firing pass at the U.S. planes which discovered them.

The approximate dozen instances of Soviet scouting of this continent and Greenland are only for the last year. Others are suspected to have occurred before that.

St. Laurent Denies Letter Sent to Troops Is Dishonest

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

A "dishonest" campaign letter, those Petawawa horses, motor-car taxes and co-ops figured in the federal election campaign Friday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said at Cornwall, Ont., he has no intention of repudiating a Liberal federation campaign letter sent to Canadian troops in Korea. He said the letter is neither dishonest nor libellous.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the previous night at Sarnia, Ont., that the letter was the "most dishonest" he had ever seen and demanded that Mr. St. Laurent repudiate it.

The letter said the Liberal government is trying to make certain troops get a "fair share" of Canada's "high" living standards, but that the Progressive Conservatives "think the government has been extravagant in providing such lavishness and luxury for the armed services." It quoted Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, as saying troops might forgo "some amenities" rather than Canada have a lower standard of living.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had found on inquiry that Gen. Pearkes had made the statement in Parliament's official report.

The prime minister, on another subject, charged Mr. Drew with "misrepresenting and distorting" the facts of the Currie report, which said there was an administration breakdown in the army works services.

Mr. St. Laurent said there had never been any horses on the payroll at Petawawa, but no matter how often he told Mr. Drew this fact "he keeps on asserting this statement which is not true."

He was "getting a little tired" of Mr. Drew's charges that Defence Minister Claxton is negligent: "Every one in Parliament—including Mr. Drew—knows that there has never been a more devoted or hard-working or competent minister than Brooke Claxton."

Cars Over-Taxed

At Windsor, Ont., Mr. Drew said cars are over-taxed and promised an inquiry into how much the taxes should be reduced.

Speaking in Canada's biggest car-manufacturing centre, he said automobile taxes are adding to the cost of production in a thousand ways in this country. He estimated that taxes make up some 40 per cent of the cost of cars in Canada.

"This tax burden on necessary transportation is something which must be tackled right away," he said.

On housing, he said: "We have one of the sorriest records of any industrial nation because of the bungling and lack of planning of our government." Down payment on homes should be reduced to about 10 per cent and a 30-year period should be allowed for paying off loans in which the government takes a hand.

At Chatham, Ont., Mr. Drew said a Progressive Conservative government would create a long-term policy to ensure stability in Canada's sugar beet industry.

At Wallaceburg, Ont., he said that if he became prime minister he would appoint Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister.

Co-op Taxes

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, still campaigning in British Columbia, said at Penticton that the Liberal government not only had failed to help in the development of co-operatives but also had obstructed consumer co-ops. It had refused to recognize that they gave their members non-profit service and had taxed them as if they were profit-making companies.

"This is perhaps understandable in view of the fact that the Liberal party, like the Conservatives, has always catered to the large and vested interests. As long as either of these parties controls the government the development of co-operatives will be retarded."

At Moosomin, Sask., CCF premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said an inevitable depression had been postponed only by the Marshall Plan and the Korean war.

"The hands of the clock are close to midnight, close to economic chaos," he said.

Quartet Broadcasts

In a recorded free-time political broadcast over a CBC network, four Progressive Conservatives went after the government on the issues of defence administration, housing, agriculture and municipal relations. The quartet comprised E. D. Fulton, member of the last Commons for Kamloops, George Hees, Toronto Broadview, Gordon Graydon, Peel, and George Nowlan, Annapolis-Kings.

Mr. Fulton said:"You know that taxes can be reduced just by cutting out the fluff and eliminating inefficiency in all government administration."

Mr. Graydon said the federal government was riding "piggy-back" on the municipalities by requiring them to pay sales and excise taxes on their equipment and by exempting federally-owned property from municipal taxes.

Claxton Speaks

Mr. Claxton, in a broadcast over radio station CFCF, Montreal, made what he termed an attempt to "put in proper perspective" press reports of theft charges against service personnel being servative newspapers.

"The armed forces and other government agencies do everything possible to prevent loss. When there is fraud or theft it is prosecuted. . . . But when the magnitude of the operation . . . and the speed with which the build-up has occurred is taken into account, I think you will find that the losses have been smaller than those suffered in comparable activities on civvy street."

At Rothesay, N. B., Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of the last House for Toronto Eglinton, said the Liberals refuse to tie themselves down to any specific platform so they can "have a free hand to do exactly what (they) please" if re-elected.

U.S. WILL REJECT RUSSIAN PROTEST PLANE SHOT DOWN

Reds Maintain Plane Was Flying Over China

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials today drafted a rejection of Russia's protest that American pilots shot down a Soviet plane—and pondered the curious timing of the Russian communication.

American fighter planes downed the Soviet craft Monday in the dying hours of the Korean war. The United States says it was over Korea. The Russians say it was over Red China. But the Russians waited four days before protesting.

Meantime, Wednesday their MiG-15 fighters had attacked and destroyed a U. S. B-50 bomber off Siberia. They charged this aircraft violated Soviet territory. The U.S. denied this, protested "in the strongest terms" and demanded a report on some survivors said to have been picked up by the Russians.

U. S. officials wondered, considering the ceaseless contest between East and West for propaganda advantages, why the Russians had delayed and then protested. Were they attempting a bold cover-up for their own action?

See U.S. "Out-foxed"

Two senators complained bitterly that the United States had been out.

Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.), a member of the armed services committee, said that letting the USSR tell the world first about the B-50 incident in the Sea of Japan was "just another case of stupidity at the Pentagon or the state department, or both."

Senator Albert Sparkman (Dem. Ala.), a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said: "I think it's a mistake to let the Russians and Communists get the jump on us so many times. It puts us continually in the position of answering Communist propaganda when we could be out first with the real acts."

Capt. M.F. Smith Will Stand Trial For Scrap Theft

CAMP SHILO, Man. (CP)—Capt. Martin F. Smith, 34 of Westboro, Ont., ordnance officer at Camp Shilo in 1952, Friday was committed for jury trial on charges of theft in connection with disposal of $30,000 worth of scrap metal at the military camp.

A Brandon scrap dealer was named as the alleged receiver of a large quantity of brass shell casings unaccounted for at the camp.

Smith was arrested at Regina last week and taken to Winnipeg for arraignment. His arrest followed a joint army-RCMP investigation into suspected irregularities. Smith, still not represented by counsel, chose jury trial at Winnipeg.

Staff Sgt. Douglas R. Morley of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps testified Friday he was ammunition examiner and NCO in charge of the ammunition magazine at Shilo up to May, 1952.

He said Smith had told him he (Smith) was "desperately short of cash and if he didn't get some soon the old man would cashier him."

Distribution of Parcels of Food Hits Million Mark on Saturday

BERLIN (AP)—Defying Communist arrests and confiscations, new masses of hungry East Germans swarmed into West Berlin today to snatch up free Western food parcels. Distribution of the U. S.-financed gifts was due to pass the 1,000,000 mark during the day.

In the crowds, as the gigantic give-away rolled through its sixth day, were the vanguard of a week-end invasion of thousands of Russian zone factory workers, using their day off to "come and get it." They included employees of the huge Leuna synthetic gasoline refinery and other large state-owned industries.

Many of these workers had defied Communist police and Russian tanks in the great strikes and demonstrations of June 17. Now they again showed their defiance of Communist orders by accepting the Western bounty.

By mid-morning the crowds around the big Schoenberg city hall relief station were three city blocks long, with the standees four and six abreast.

West Berlin authorities announced there would be enough food for all who applied. This could mean that parcels would be made available for all the more than 18,600,000 inhabitants of the Russian zone.

Hundreds of East Germans had their prized fats, milk and flour seized Friday by Communist police.

Most of the confiscations occurred at Potsdam and other stations at the end of Berlin's suburban railway lines. The Communists then distributed the confiscated Western food as Soviet aid. West Berlin police quickly broadcast a warning for East Germans to find other safer routes home.

Have Identified 13 Of 20 Drowned In Bus Accident

Bus Rammed Small Truck Stalled on No.2 Highway

MORRISBURG (CP) — Twenty persons plunged to watery death Friday when a Toronto-to-Montreal bus rammed into a small truck and hurtled into the Williamsburg canal.

Early today, 13 of the victims had been positively identified and seven tentatively. Of the 20 who perished, 12 were men and eight women. Nineteen persons escaped —17 passengers, the bus driver and the truck driver. Of the seven tentatively identified, six were women.

Undertaker Leonard Keck said the women were more difficult to identify than the men because women normally carry their only means of identification in their purses. The purses were washed about inside the submerged bus or floated free of it and have not been recovered.

Truck Was Stalled

The Colonial Coach Lines express bus was rolling toward Montreal when at 4:05 a. m. it smashed into the stalled, half-ton delivery truck. The bus tossed the truck into the canal, running beside the highway, then followed it in an arc like a mammoth projectile. It apparently cleared the 30-foot embankment in one giant leap. The bus struck in mid canal, settled rapidly in 20 feet of water, its lights still on.

The water was pouring into the open windows before most of the dozing passengers knew what had happened.

Ronald J. P. Mortished, 62, of Dublin said a fellow passenger pulled himself up on the luggage rack, shoved his feet through the window and escaped.

"I followed him. I came to the surface and saw other people milling about in the water and shrieking. In the dim light I could see the side of the canal and set out for it."

When the bus was pulled out of the canal, legs, arms and heads protruded from the windows. Ten soaked bodies were sprawled in the aisle, over the seats. Police pulled the curtains and threw a tarpaulin over the front of the bus. The other 10 bodies were taken from the canal.

Exact cause of the accident was not yet known. The bus driver, Lorne Chesebrough, 30, of Kingston, and the truck driver, Max Roodman, 40, of Toronto, were still in hospital at Cornwall in a state of shock.

Police declined to issue an official statement on the accident before interviewing the drivers. Neither was in condition to talk. Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario said there would be an immediate and searching probe into the accident.

At Montreal, Colonial said the truck was stalled, without lights, on the highway, apparently pointed east, in the same direction as the bus was going, and that the truck driver was standing beside his vehicle when the accident occurred.

Colonial said two transport trucks took to the ditch to avoid the truck.

One transport driver warned police of the hazard and another, after missing the truck, was racing toward it with flares when the bus loomed out of the blackness. Police were on the way.

But it was too late.

Neutral Officers Hold First Meet At Panmunjon

MUNSAN (AP)—The four-nation neutral commission which will police the Korean armistice met at Panmunjom today for the first time and heard the Communists' chief military armistice delegate wish it success.

Meanwhile, the first group of Allied prisoners was reported on its way down the road to freedom and the UN command prepared a full dress reception rehearsal for Monday to speed their homeward journey. The prisoner exchange is scheduled to begin Wednesday at Panmunjom.

Exchange Credentials

The neutral commission officers from Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia were introduced and exchanged credentials in a formal meeting at the dusty truce site.

The commission's chief function is to watch for violations of the armistice.

Maj.-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, the Allies' senior delegate to the UN-Red military armistice commission, introduced the Swiss and Swedish representatives. Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho, Bryan's counterpart on the commission, introduced the Poles and Czechs. Lee told the officers:

"I hope for the success of the members of the neutral nations supervisory commission."

Exchange Sick First

The Red Peiping radio said the first Allied prisoners would be "non-Korean" sick and wounded—including Americans and British —from a camp at Pyoktong near the Manchurian border.

The radio said the prisoners were given a farewell "grand feast" before being put on trains for the trip to Panmunjom.

The Reds have said they will return 12,763 Allied captives including 14 Canadians, in the massive exchange. The UN will deliver about 74,000 Communist PoWs.

On 100th Birthday Woman in Court For Vagrancy

LIVERPOOL (AP) — Elizabeth Stringer celebrated her 100th birthday Friday in the dock at magistrate's court on vagrancy charges.

She was found asleep on a step by a police officer who said she could not give a satisfactory account of herself.

"I won't go," the constable quoted the centenarian as saying when he informed her he would have to arrest her if she would not go to an aged home.

When she came into court she announcer: "Believe it or not, I am 100 today." She said she was an "old artiste of the music halls."

When told to go to the old folks home she said "get a gun and shoot me." But, later, after consultation with two women probation officers she yielded and said she would go.

YOUNG CYCLIST BREAKS WRIST

John Rivest, age 10, of 350 North Front Street, suffered a broken right wrist late Friday afternoon when he was knocked from his bicycle as it was in collision with an auto driven by Mr. O. H. Scott of Belleville. Details of the accident, which happened near the lad's home, were not learned.

Steady Stream Of Cars Passes Through City

Long lines of vehicular traffic heralded the "long holiday" last night and this morning as "week-enders" streamed out of and through the city, holiday bent. Highway No. 2 was crowded with all kinds of vehicles and at one time a steady line of cars crawled through the city practically bumper-to-bumper.

Observers said cars were lined from the lower city bridge to Highland Avenue at an early hour this morning.

World's longest non-stop railway run is believed the 93 miles from London to Edinburgh, taking 6 hours 40 minutes.

Excellent Fishing Reported in Bay Of Quinte District

Fishing in the Bay of Quinte district is the best encountered in many seasons, Fish and Wildlife Inspector R. G. Sheppard, Lands and Forests Department, Tweed, said today.

"Catches are so good," he said, "that most limits are trophy fish, and smaller specimens are put back in the water."

A Kingston resident, the inspector related, boasted of two 20-pound muskies captured near Wolfe's Islnd and putting them back in the water. "What's the use of keeping them if you don't intend to use them," he is supposed to have said.

The inspector is of the opinion that trophy fish are more the objective this summer, and not so much the number taken.

Kingston Man Believed Drowned Near Picton

PICTON (Special) — Dragging operations were commenced this morning in an effort to find the body of Bill Garrah, 27, of Kingston, believed drowned in the Bay of Quinte two miles east of Picton early Saturday morning.

Garrah, an oiler for the Canada Dredge and Dock Company which is engaged in dredging operations at the site of the new Bethlehem Steel Company dock on the High Shore Road, had been in Picton Friday night and took a taxi back to the dock site. He has not been seen since. His father, Joseph Garrah, is chief engineer for the dredge company.

Garrah's clothes were found piled on the shore at the dock site and it is believed he may have attempted to swim to the barge about 100 feet out in the bay. A small boat tied up at the dock site was not used.

Police said that swimming from the shore to the barge was a popular pastime for dredge company employees.

Several Minor Traffic Mishaps

Several minor traffice accidents were reported by city and provincial police during the past 24 hours. Only in one on the Foxboro road where a bicyclist suffered a broken wrist was there any serious injury.

At Wallbridge this morning a car driven by Gilbert Purvis R.R. 2, Belleville, was in collision with a truck driven by George Brooks of R.R. 3, Havelock. Damage of about $400 resulted to the Purvis auto.

On Sidney Street Friday noon a rear-end collision caused considerable damage to two vehicles and one person, Ralph Nelson, 18, of 23 Meyers street, received a cut on the head. A car driven by Arthur A. Miller, Carrying Place stopped in the line of traffic and the second auto driven by James R. Gay of Foxboro failed to stop in time and bumped the other auto.

Diana Wrightman, 9, of 63 Dunbar street, was knocked down by a car as she darted out from the curb near the Crystal Hotel on Front street. The car was driven by M. Vanwyck, 52 Purdy street. The girl fortunately escaped injury.

Over-Flow Crowd Greets Lee Grills, Party Officials At Meeting Held in Tweed

The old fashioned political meetings with speakers extolling party policies are drawing scattered audiences in the current election campaign; but pare the speaking, toss in a good variety program and a free dance and an entirely different picture is seen.

At least an entirely different picture was seen at Tweed Memorial Park pavilion Friday night when the dance hall was filled to capacity for a Lee Grills Conservative party gathering. Every available seat in the hall was filled for the meeting and those unable to gain admission listened to the program over loud speakers on the park.

A hearty sing song, with the Tweed Melody Men orchestra put the crowd in fine spirits for the mixed program of variety numbers and speeches and the evening was topped off with a dance and refreshments.

In the words of W. E. "Sandy" Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, a crowd such as turned out for the Tweed meeting would have thrilled cabinet ministers who in the main are speaking to slim audiences in tours about the province.

Ready For a Change

Mr. Sandercock said the big turnout showed that people were interested in having a change of government.

Ray Gunsolus, secretary of the Belleville Conservative Association, prophesied victory for candidate Lee Grills in the forthcoming election and also saw victory for the Conservatives across Canada.

"It is time there was a change of government at Ottawa," he said. "People are getting tired of the Liberal government showing large surpluses every year without seeing their taxes cut."

Mr Gunsolus referred specifically to the sales and excise tax which raised the price of Canadian built autos. He said excise taxes paid by auto purchasers totalled more than the wages it took to build them.

Other speakers on the program included Reeve T. C. Graham of Tweed, Warden Jack Kincaid, Harold Varty, president of the Hungerford Conservative Association; Ex-M.P. George Stokes; Jim Gunn of Trenton; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East, and Harry Rollins who introduced candidate Lee Grills.

Mr. Robson paid tribute to Lee Grills as a man of action and said that George Drew was a great leader. He said Mr. Drew was feared as opposition leader and when elected would be the one man who could get British markets back for Canada.

Mr. Grills criticized the Liberal government and charged that the present government and cabinet ministers had tried to intimidate the Conservative party by saying they were not able to form a government.

Also, he said, they have thrown up a smoke screen to hide their own errors and the record of the Liberal government.

Poor Date For Election

Mr. Grills was extremely critical of the Liberal government action in calling a general election in August which, he said, would deprive thousands of people of their franchise or their summer holiday "By calling an election in August the Liberals did not think we could get out the vote," he said

Referring to Mr. Drew's promise to cut taxation by half a billion, Mr. Grills said the Conservatives could do this without taking away any pensions or social services received at present.

"Don't let them say that the Conservatives have no respect for the old people," he said. "Proof of this is that the Conservative government of Ontario pays mothers' allowances and also contributes 50 per cent toward the operation of old people's homes.

Mr. Grills said he never liked to criticize the opposition and had yet to mention the name of his opponent on a public platform.

But he referred to the representation given the riding in the past four years by the member for South Hastings and said the local member had voted on only 86 questions in 243 votes taken in the House of Commons during the last parliament. On 117 occasions the local member had not voted.

"Either that means he did not care to vote or was not present," Mr. Grills said.

"I would like you to compare the record of your member for the past four years with that of my own in municipal politics," Mr. Grills went on. "In seven years as member of township and county council I never missed a council session or committee meeting."

Strong Desire to Serve

Mr. Grills assured he was but a very ordinary person with no outstanding ability, but he had a strong desire to serve the people. He paid tribute to the members of his riding organization and was confident with their assistance he would win on August 10th.

"Give us your support and we will clean up the mess at Ottawa," he promised.

Program chairman S. A. R. McCarey lined up a fine variety program for the night, consisting of violin numbers by Mrs. Les Brady; tap dancing by Judy McKnight, Betty Montgomery, Joan Black and readings by Gil Cotton; accordion numbers by Chas. Tilbrook, with saxophone and piano selections by Harold Knapp and Fred Porter. Russell Pyear of Stirling, entertained with a retinue of humorous jokes that were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

Voting to Start By Servicemen Week in Advance

OTTAWA (CP) — The armed forces at home and abroad go to the polls Monday, getting the jump on other Canadians who won't cast their ballots in the federal election until Aug. 10.

Special civilian returning officers, aided by liaison officers from the three armed services, have their election machinery geared to handle the vote in Edmonton, Ottawa and Halifax in Canada; Kure in Japan and London, England. Kure takes the votes of troops in the Far East and London those in the United Kingdom and Europe.

The vote from overseas will be the hardest to handle. In Europe, there are Canadians serving in France, Germany and Britain and some may be travelling elsewhere on the continent. In the Far East, there are Canadians in Japan and Korea.

Special Officers

These five headquarters are in charge of special returning officers, some of them retired servicemen. At London it is Maj. F. R. Palmer of St. Thomas; Lt.-Col. Aime DesRosiers, of Baie d'Urfe, Que., is at Kure; Col. Edgar W. Mingo of Halifax at Halifax; Lucien Bouchard of Montreal at Ottawa; and Archie Baptie of Edmonton at Edmonton.

Their job is to count the vote and forward the result. The votes come to them inside two sealed envelopes. The inner envelope contains the soldier's ballot, marked by him and sealed in secret. The outer envelope is airmailed personally by the voter to make sure it gets to the special returning officer.

Next-of-kin of Canada's 18 servicemen taken prisoner-of-war in Korea may exercise their right to cast an extra vote as proxy for their absent menfolk.

Among those assisting the special returning officers at territorial headquarters are Lt.-Col. N. M. Gemmel of Peterborough at Kure and Lt.-Col. W. H. Ellis of St. Thomas at Halifax.

CHATHAM (CP)—A movement is afoot in Elgin county to start a bacon hog club for the purpose of breeding and raising bacon type swine. The club would operate in conjunction with the Elgin Hog Breeders' Association.

Priest is Fined For Intimidating Members of Sect

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) — Rev. Georges Beland, Roman Catholic pastor of the little lumbering village of Val Senneville, 10 miles northeast of this northwestern Quebec mining centre, Friday was fined $25 and costs for intimidating members of the Witnesses of Jehovah.

Magistrate Felix Allard announced the conviction and sentence—which carries a 15-day jail term if fine and costs are not paid—1 months after hearing the evidence.

Father Beland, husky, middle-aged former miner, was given 15 days to pay.

Max Danyleyko, 24-year-old Val d'Or minister of the sect who laid the charge, testified along with two other witnesses that father Beland told them they would "never get out of Val Senneville alive."

He had also used the word "kill" as the witnesses were "spreading the good news of the Kingdom of God" in the settlement May 22, 1952, feast of the Ascension.

Princess Pats' Colonel-in-Chief To See Ceremony

OTTAWA (CP)—Lady Patricia Ramsay, colonel-in-chief of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will attend the regiment's annual trooping of the color at Currie barracks, Calgary, in early September.

Attending the ceremony in company with Lady Ramsay will be five major-generals, all of whom served with the PPCLI, army headquarters announced Friday. They are Maj.-Gen.s G. R. Pearkes VC; A. E. Potts; F. F. Worthington; R. F. L. Keller and Chris Vokes.

With the exception of Maj.-Gen. Vokes, head of western command, Edmonton, all are retired from active duty with the army.

Maj.-Gen. Potts, a native of Kingston, commanded the 6th Canadian division for a time during the Second World War.

Police Decline Challenge to Take First Punch

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Four policemen Friday turned down an invitation to "take the first punch" during a controversy with striking truck drivers which occurred after police outwitted the strikers in assisting two trucks to leave the Chrysler Corporation of Canada plant.

Later police said a charge would be laid against the driver of a car which almost struck a motorcycle driven by constable John Brannagan.

Some 75 strikers, among the 1,500 members of two locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL-TLC), who are on strike over wages against trucking firms in Western Ontario, were called to the Chrysler plant after it was learned two trucks had arrived there to deliver four machines.

Block Gate

The picketers blocked the gate through which the trucks, owned by a small, non-union Hamilton firm, had entered the plant. Then some 19 police officers, six patrol cars and four motorcycles arrived at the plant.

Three police cars lined up to escort the trucks out through the gate. Angry strikers allowed the police cars through but insisted they would try to detain the trucks.

The trucks suddenly turned away from the gate and roared some 200 yards along the inside of the fence to escape through another open gateway.

St. Laurent Says Liberals Not Making Rash Promises At Reception Held in City

The Liberal party is not making a lot of rash promises in the current election campaign—the only promise they are making is to do the "best they can."

This was the simple statement of party policy made Friday afternoon by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to a mixed audience of about 1,000 children and adults at the C.N.R. recreation park during a public reception held for the Liberal party leader as he stopped off in Belleville during his tour of Eastern Ontario.

The Prime Minister and his party arrived in the city about mid-afternoon aboard a special train and was greeted at the station by F. S. Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings South. With the Prime Minister party was J. W. Pickersgill, Secretary of State.

Greeted by Officials

Other party officials meeting Mr. St. Laurent as he spoke in support of Mr. Follwell were Senator W. A. Fraser; Irwin McGaughey, president of the riding Liberal Association; Herbert McCabe, president of the Belleville Liberal Association and C. W. "Clute" Foster, Liberal candidate for the riding of Hastings-Frontenac. Mr. Foster expressed appreciation to Mr. St. Laurent for his address.

After stepping from the special train, Mr. St. Laurent was escorted to a waiting convertible and was driven to the recreation park where he was greeted by the cheers of the large crowd present to hear and see the Canadian prime minister. Mayor A. M. Haig offically welcomed the Prime Minister to the city.

Directing his remarks to the predominantly youthful audience, Mr. St. Laurent said he was pleased to be back in Belleville for the fourth time in the past four years.

He referred to his last visit to the city for the unveiling of the monument to the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell, only Belleville man ever to become prime finister of Canada.

This time, he said, his visit was not for a historical event but to speak in support of Liberal candidate Frank S. Follwell and the Liberal party.

"You know we have a great system of government in Canada," the Prime Minister went on. "It is a system whereby the people tehemselves choose the government they wish to serve them. The government is elected by a majority of voters who on August 10th will decide whether or not they want the Liberal party to continue in office for another four years."

Stresses Voting

He impressed on the youngsters present that voters have a great responsibility in getting out and casting their ballots on election day.

Mr. St. Laurent referred to Conservative claims that the Liberal leaders were "tired old men" but laughed it off by saying that he was still feeling fit after weeks of campaigning. Theaverage age of the so-called "tired old men" of the Liberal party was less than that of the Conservatives likely to be named to cabinet posts should they be elected, he said.

"But they have not won out yet," he laughed.

"The Liberal party is not out to make a host of rash promises," he said. "Our only promise is to do the best we can if the voters trust us enugh t elect us n August 10th."

Urging support of Frank Follwell on election day Mr. St. Laurent said voting for Mr. Follwell was the only way people of the riding of South Hastings culd assist in returning the Liberal government.

The Prime Minister went on to say that much of the time since he had become head of the government had been taken up by war or efforts to prevent war. Canada's defence program was aimed at making her strong as only as a strong nation could she resist aggression.

"It will be a great satisfaction to me if we can be successful in preventing another war," he assured.

Needs Good Leadership

Canada, he pointed out, was becoming a great nation and, with the right kind of leadership would have a great future. The population was growing both as result of natural increase and by immigration.

"Canada will continue to expand if it is headed by the government which will do the best job and not by the party which makes the most promises," he said.

The Prime Minister noted that the Liberal government wanted all Canadian people to have a fair share of the nation's wealth. That was the reason for old age pensions, for family allowances unemployment insurance and for floor prices for farmers and fishermen.

"If you don't want the Liberal government to continue in power don't vote for Frank S. Follwell on August 10 because Mr. Follwell elected will help to keep the Liberals in office," the Prime Minister concluded.

Introduced by Candidate

In the brief "whistle stop" appearance at Belleville there was only time for the Prime Minister to speak. He was introduced by Mr. Follwell, officially welcomed to the city by Mayor Haig and thanked by C. W. "Clute" Foster, candidate for Hastings-Frontenac. Then it was time to move on.

During the visit the hundreds of kiddies and oldsters present were given a brief lesson on the responsibilities of voting and a simple description of how the Canadian system of government works.

But the kiddies had something else by which to remember the visit of the Prime Minister. After the program of speech making free ice cream and soft drinks were handed out to the youngsters.

U.S. WILL

Flanders said pro-Communist or even neutral peoples could "get the impression that the Soviet is telling the truth and that we're trying to get out of an incident.

The U. S. case on the B-50 was established by the testimony of the sole confirmed survivor, Capt. John Ernest Roche, who was picked up by a U. S. destroyer after 22 hours in the sea.

No Provocation

Roche said in Tokyo early today the American plane was attacked "without provocation" by one or two Russian jets at a time when there was "no possible chance" that it was closer than 40 miles to Siberia.

As for the shooting down of the Russian type IL2 transport while the Korean war was still in progress, a state department spokesman said unequivocally "we will reject the protest." He said the responsibility will be placed on the Soviet government for causing the plane to fly through a Korean combat zone.

The U. S. Air Force said the plane was shot down 10 or 12 miles south of the Yalu river, boundary between Korean and Chinese Manchuria. The Russians said the attacking U. S. fighters invaded Chinese territory near the town of Huadian.

There was unconfirmed speculation at the time that the Soviet plane might have been carrying communist authorities on a mission connected with the armistice signed last Monday.

Hamilton Inlet on the coast of Labrador is slightly over 150 miles long with average breadth of 14 miles.

IN MEMORIAM

AWE. — In loving memory of my husband, George, who passed away August 1st, three years ago.
Time may heal the broken hearted,
Tears may make the wound less sore,
But it cannot fill the longing
For the loved one gone before.
Who shall say the grief is lessened,
Though the smiles may hide the tears
Memories keep the wound still open
Despite the passing of the years.

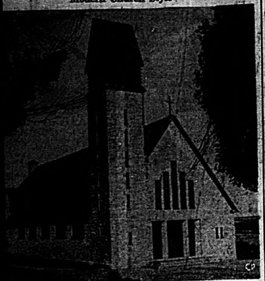
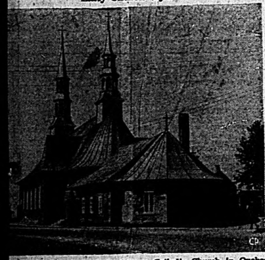
Modern Church Style



New individualistic designs in church architecture have ced early 17th and 18th century styles in Quebec province. This an Catholic Church at Boischatel, on the outskirts of Quebec uilt in 1937, is typical of the change. Its simple lines are rp contrast to the elaborate styles of earlier architecture. — Photo.)

Early Church Style



In the early days of the Roman Catholic Church in Quebec vince, church architecture followed along lines of designs popu- in the 17th and 18th century. Many, such as the parish structure t. Jean Port Joli, 30 miles below Quebec City, adhered to a com- ation of the Romanesque and Louis XIV styles, brought to Canada the Recollet Fathers, early missionaries. Now a more modern e of architecture is being followed. — (CP Photo.)

hurch Architecture Undergoes any Changes in Recent Years

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
anadian Press Staff Writer

UEBEC (CP)—In staid Quebec vince church architecture has ergone such changes in recent s that ancestral beliefs would shaken if faith rested with the be of temples.

w, individualistic designs have aced old designs, imported n Europe by early French lers. Canadian architects and adian materials have been used erect churches, the design of ch would probably have shocked builders of earlier places of ship.

he early settlers built their rches along lines of two designs ular in the 17th and 18th cen- . Now, no set pattern is fol-

uilders of the 17th and 18th cen- es designed churches built in form of a cross or in Recollet e.

he cruciform church, a creation provincial France, consists of ng nave, cut by a transept to e it a cross-like shape, and ends n apse or semi-circular dome. nave is covered by a pointed and the structure topped by a ple.

he Church of St. Pierre parish, the island of Orleans, dating k to 1716, is one of the most fect remaining examples of the nseptal style.

he Recollet design is a com- ation of Romanesque and Louis and is named after a re- ous order whose members were France's first missionaries, Recollet Fathers. This order founded in Spain in 1484 by rmed Franciscans.

man Decoration

haracteristic of the style is a are-like apse at the altar-end of the nave, decorated in the shape of a Roman arc of triumph. This mode of decorating the main altar with an arc-design was in vogue for many years.

The change in style has developed gradually and has been particularly noticeable in recent years.

With the coming of big industrial development in the province, new parishes have been opened and new churches erected. Impetus has been given to Canadian creative effort, stifled while the European church styles were in vogue.

A whole generation of artists has been trained and meticulously labors to discover new church designs, modern yet religious in character.

Quebec's sculptors, cabinet makers, painters, goldsmiths and stained glass artists take part in the decoration of contemporary churches as their ancestors did in the first days of the colony.

Use of Concrete

Use of concrete, instead of wood, field stone and mortar, has given Quebec's churches greater solidity while enabling architects to design churches with wide airy interiors.

Semi-darkness was a tradition in old churches. It has been replaced with lots of daylight filtered by pastel-shaded stained glass which shows up elaborate interior designs made with colored brick.

This new use of light produces a wide variety of color tones, replacing the severity of Quebec's old grey churches with a cheerful atmosphere.

Quebec's pioneers would feel strange to find themselves in churches not solely lit by the flickering flame of the sanctuary lamp and would look with amazement at patron saints sculptured in the modern manner.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. ROWELL

THE STRAIN

Come, ye faithful, raise the strain
Of triumphant gladness!
God hath bro't His Israel
Into joy from sadness,
Loosed from Pharaoh's bitter yoke
Jacob's sons and daughters,
Led them with unmoistened foot
Thru the Red Sea waters.

'Tis the spring of souls today;
Christ hath burst His prison,
From the frost and gloom of death
Light and life have risen.
All the winter of our sins,
Long and dark, is flying
From His light to whom we give Thanks and praise undying.

Now the queen of seasons, bright
With the day of splendor,
With the royal feasts of feasts,
Comes its joy to render;
Comes to glad Jerusalem,
Who, with true affection
Welcomes in unwearied strains
Jesus! resurrection!

"Hallelujah!" now we cry
To our King Immortal,
Who triumphant, burst the bars
Of the tomb's dark portal;
"Hallelujah!" yet again
To the Spirit raising.

"Come, Ye Faithful, Raise The Strain"

Some of our finest and most precious English hymn gems come to us through translations made by scholars from Latin and Greek texts.

"Come, Ye Faithful, Raise The Strain" is one of these. A favorite resurrection hymn, it was written in the Greek language twelve centuries ago by John of Damascus, a distinguished theologian and a writer who turned out so many fine hymns that he has been hailed as the outstanding poet of the Greek Church.

The hymn was not translated into English until Dr. John Mason Nealt, English clergyman and author, came along about the middle of the nineteenth century to do the job. Dr. Neals was graduated from Cambridge University in 1840 and was ordained to the ministry the following year. He is more famous for his hymn translations than for his original writings and we are indebted to him for our English versions of "Jerusalem The Golden", written by Bernard of Cluny, a twelfth century monk, the hymn, "Christian, Dost Thou See Them?", written in the eighth century by Andrew of Crete, and "The Day of Resurrection"", another Easter hymn by John of Damascus.

Family Empire Based On Salt, Oil and Pepper

On one lush Louisiana island, gracious living, supported by salt, peppers and petroleum, preserves an aristocratic way of life that has all but vanished from the South.

Avery island is home of world famous Tabasco sauce, site of the oldest and thickest vein of rock salt in the western hemisphere, location of several dozen producing oil wells and the year-round home of some 1,400 people, writes Carter Henderson in the Wall Street Journal.

The whole package is privately controlled by 40 members of the Avery and McIlhenny families who are related by marriage and have ruled the island for more than six generations.

This anachronistic spot lies about 15 miles from the Gulf of Mexico near the midpoint of Louisiana's southern coast. The island property consists of 2,500 acres of high land and between 50,000 and 60,000 acres of surrounding marshes and bayous.

Tabasco sauce, long the families main source of cash income, is made from spicy red peppers that grow abundantly here; they were brought to the island from southern Mexico in 1852.

Preparation of the tangy sauce begins when the fresh picked peppers are macerated, packed into oaken casks and covered with a thick layer of white salt.

These sealed casks age through three Summers. Then the peppers are blended with vinegar and filtered through fine mesh sieves to produce a smooth, pungent, brilliant red liquid. In 1952, sales of Tobasco sauce reached a record one and one-half million dollars.

Many of the families who work at making Tabasco have been on the island for more than 100 years. They live in neat houses across from the plant which they rent from the company for $2.50 a month.

A few years ago, the late M'sieu' Ned McIlhenny decided it was time for his nephew Walter to leave his engineering job in the north and come home to learn the Tabasco business.

The young engineer's eye was immediately caught by the plant hand operated elevator, which was pulled up and down its shaft by two old colored men. Walter McIlhenny sat down and designed an electrically driven elevator.

He presented the plan to Uncle Ned and was told to go ahead—provided he could find other jobs for Rex and Odain. Walter hunted high and low, but soon realized the job of elevator operator had a unique position in the social structure of the island's Negro community. No other jobs on the place would give these two men the same social rank. So the elevator remained hand operated until Rex and Odain were retired.

The unpaved road leading from the vine covered Tabasco plant to the salt mine is shaded by cypress trees. A passerby sees separate schools for the island's white and colored children, as well as the salt company's commissary.

The mine itself is reached by descending a pitch black shaft that goes down one-fifth of a mile into solid salt. At that depth the mine enlarges into an almost unbelievably vast series of silent, snow white rooms with ceilings as much as 100 feet high, supported by pillars of salt.

Avery island is one of three gigantic salt domes that dot the Louisiana coast. The salt deposit is so large—some say as big as a cube six miles on each side—that Mount Everest could be tucked in it with room to spare. The mine has been leased for the last 50 years to the International Salt Co., which last year took out 250,000 tons of 99 percent. pure salt.

Petroleum was discovered on Avery Island in 1942. Today there are 44 wells, producing between 8,500 and 9,00 barrels of oil a day. This brings in a monthly income of from $30,000 to $90,000.

Humble wants this oil, and while the Averys and McIlhennys don't mind the income, they do look upon the oil venture as a thing that "will pass away in 50 years or so". They don't want their ancestral home disfigured by oil equipment. Humble must keep its operations in spick and span order. After a well is capped, for example, the shubbery is replaced exactly as it was—and at Humble expense.

The fortune that peppers and salt brought to Avery island enabled M'sieu' McIlhenny to create Jungle Gardens, a much visited tourist sport where rare plants grow in abundance. Here are forests of 60 foot canes of Chinese timber bamboo, giant orange-colored daisies from the Mountains of the Moon in Africa, lotus and papyrus from the Upper Nile, and soap trees from India.

Bird City is a colorful adjunct to Jungle Gardens. Each Spring nearly 20,000 egret families are hatched and reared here.

Forty years ago egrets were practically extinct on the North American continent.

Those that fly up from their winter home in South America are now so numerous that islanders provide some 30 truckloads of twigs annually so the birds will have enough material for their nests.

Although people have been known to leave the island, they—like the snowy egrets—usually return. For an Avery island man has corners to his life. The families that are his neighbors were his great-grandfather's neighbors. The cypress shaded paths were enjoyed by generations of his family before him. His job was probably taught him by his father, who in turn learned it from his father.

And when he dies he will be buried in a quiet old cemetery, beside other members of his family who have passed their lives on Avery island.

Religious Survey Reveals Interesting Facts in Beliefs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—The average United States citizen believes in God, considers religion "very important," attends church at least twice a month and thinks he'll go to heaven when he dies.

These are among a few of the findings of probably the most comprehensive survey ever made of religious beliefs and practices in the U.S.

"It's the first time such a study has been made in the United States," said Father Paul Bussard, editor of the Catholic Digest. "On almost every subject covered, the facts had never been recorded before."

Most Believe in God

For the last eight months partial results of the survey, made by an independent research firm, have been appearing in the Digest with some findings still to be reported.

Here is the first consolidated summary of the main points so far determined about the faith and worship of adult Americans:

Almost all of them, 99 per cent, believe there is a God, although two per cent of these are not positive, but like to think God exists. Only one per cent flatly don't believe.

Among men, two per cent are atheists, but among women, the number of non-believers doesn't amount to even one-half per cent. College graduates included four per cent atheists.

Most people, 77 per cent, think the soul lives on after death. A slightly lesser majority, 72 per cent, believes there is a heaven where the good are eternally rewarded.

Hell Not so Frightening

However, only 58 per cent think there is a hell where the bad are everlastingly punished. Just a few, 12 per cent, see any possibility whatever of their going to hell.

The predominant conception of God, held by 79 per cent of adults, is a "loving Father who looks after us," while 17 per cent consider God "some kind of supernatural power you can't describe." The other four per cent either are undecided or don't believe.

Only 32 per cent of the people polled go to church each Sunday. Counting those, a total of 68 per cent go sometimes, most of them at least twice monthly, while 32 per cent never go at all.

Highest weekly attendance is in New England, 45 per cent, and the lowest, 22 per cent, on the Pacific Coast, where a big bloc of 50 per cent of the people never go to church.

Religion Important

However, 75 per cent of all adults consider religion "very important," 20 per cent say it's "fairly important," and only five per cent say it's "not very important."

Regard for religion isn't so high among college graduates, only 67 per cent count it "very important" or in big cities, 68 per cent. In rural areas, 84 per cent rate it tops.

As to what people should strive hardest to accomplish in this life, only a slim margin, 51 per cent, say preparing for an existence after death. Many 22 per cent, say attaining a comfortable life on earth is a principal duty, but 23 per cent say working for the present and the hereafter should get equal attention.

AN INTERNATIONAL EVENT HERE

An international sport meet will be held in Belleville on Monday.

No need to run for the storm cellar. This is not a track and field meet, a boxing match or a soccer game, liable to explode into an international incident.

Instead it will be a bowling tournament, the eleventh annual Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament, held under the auspices of the Belleville Bowling Club.

Bowlers are always good fellows, in defeat as well as in victory. They all seem to share something of the philosophical attitudes of Sir Francis Drake, who calmly finished his game of "bowles" while the Spanish Armada neared the shores of England.

The origin of the game is lost in antiquity. The Egyptians, Greeks and Romans played it. Later it was all the rage in England — and we use the word "rage" advisedly, for at that time it was associated with gambling, in dissolute places. The Scots adopted the game and perhaps they can claim a share of the credit for purifying the atmosphere in which it is played, as well as improving the rules. Today bowling is enjoyed in many climes, but nowhere is it the occasion for more congeniality than in Canada and nowhere in Canada are there better hosts than in Belleville. That is why some 600 people, of whom 264 will be active competitors, will throng into the city on Monday. May their stay be a pleasant one.

[illegible], A ROYAL ROAD TO RICHES

We are eagerly awaiting word as to the outcome of an action to be heard by the Superior Court of California.

If the learned judge delivers the right decision, you can be sure that another gold rush to California is going to develop, one which will make that by the 'forty-niners' look tame by comparison.

Also the price of California houses located next door to homes with garages painted brown is going to jump sky-high.

For out in California, you see, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Robinson are suing their neighbors for $75,000, maintaining that Mrs. Robinson's health has been impaired by "the offensive brown color" of their neighbors' garage.

If they win their suit, there are many interesting implications.

For instance, any young man contemplating marriage ought to require that his sweetheart take a few tests, to discover whether she is allergic to brown paint. An abnormally insensitive wife, quite obviously, would be a serious financial handicap.

On the other hand, a beautiful blonde who felt ill whenever she saw a house painted white ought to be literally worth her weight in gold.

If this business develops properly, some enterprising paint manufacturer is going to make a fortune. We doubt whether even the most astute scientist could produce a shade guaranteed not to make anybody feel the slightest touch of malaise, but there is no reason why a free public liability policy could not be offered with every quart of paint.

Once that method of marketing paint is generally accepted, we can all get rich quick, for everybody knows the way of a jury with an insurance company.

First reaction is that the world will be a wonderful place, if only that judge in the Superior Court of California makes the right decision. Then pessimism surges back. Alas, some lady of high principles and a strict moral code is certain to discover that the mere sight of red is pushing her to the brink of an early grave and lipstick will have to disappear from the faces of the feminine half of the nation.

It could get to be a very drab world.

SOME FASCINATING STATISTICS

We have before us a table of economic statistics which is truly fascinating.

For instance, in 1938 there were 4,022,000 persons employed in Canada and in 1952 5,222,000 people were working. The number of people working thus increased by little more than 25 per cent, yet the national income rose by over 300 per cent, from $4,018,000,000 in 1938 to $18,135,000,000 in 1952. Part of the increase, of course, was caused by inflation, or to put it another way by the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar. Nevertheless it is still obvious that there was a great increase in the productive power of the working force of the nation between 1938 and 1952.

Figures for farm income are also interesting. In 1938, when farm cash income was $653,000,000, net income was $371,000,000, or slightly more than half the cash income figure. But in 1952, when cash income had climbed to $2,778,000,000, net income was $1,950,000,000, or more than two-thirds of the cash income. Farmers were able to put a higher percentage of their cash returns into their pockets — or banks.

Perhaps the most significant figures are those dealing with personal savings and life insurance, the latter being a form of savings. In 1938 Canadians had personal savings of $160,000,000, but in 1952, with national income little more than four times the 1938 figure, savings had multiplied eight times, to $1,419,000,000. Evidently, not all Canadians are spendthrifts. Yet their life insurance investment does not seem to have kept pace. At $17,235,000,000 in 1952 it was less than three times the 1938 figure.

JUST FOLKS

A BABY'S ARRIVAL

One hour old—little girl or lad—
And wife and husband are mother and dad.
Four who were fathers and mothers bow, Exultantly shouting: "We're grandfolks now!"

Brothers and sisters that hour before
Will be uncles and aunts forevermore.
And the home of a couple henceforth will be
The dwelling place of a family.

With change of titles comes change of care.
Home's a different place when a baby's there.
Love will grow stronger with more to do
And life will have purpose and meaning, too.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The excessive rains and extended cool periods of the earlier season of this year have resulted in wonderful growth and exuberance in many kinds of plants that ordinarily play a very small part in the country and woodland scene. About ten years ago, I brought from a distant part of the province a couple of bushel baskets of a moss-like plant called sedum which in early July blooms with a bright yellow flower. These I planted in the crevices and ledges of the rocky terrain around my summer cottage. For the first three or four years, they appeared to be so near dead that I forgot about them. Then, for a couple of years, they sprang feebly to life, only to retreat again, for another couple of years, into a condition close to extinction. This year, with the wet and the cool, the sedum leaped to an abundance of life and vigor that clothed the whole area with daffodil yellow. And those who are expert in plant life tell me that from now on, the plant will flourish and spread as I have seen it in the parts of the country from which I brought it.

Most of us take it for granted that each year sees a routine growth of plant life, in which each and all shares alike in its appointed way. We derive this impression, I suppose, from the farm and the garden, where cultivation, artificial feeding and watering brings a moderately uniform crop every year. But in wild nature, this is never so. No two years are alike in their features of rainfall, sun, temperature. What is good for pines or might not be good for orchids at ture. What is good for pines or oaks all. A great element of chance enters into all wild growth, so that if, at precisely the right week of the year, the moisture, sunlight and temperature are perfect for one particular species of plant, that plant thrives enormously, gains strength to survive coming seasons not so propitious, casts abundant and highly fertile seed far and wide. It has its year. And maybe it will have to wait five or ten years for another such perfect conjunction of conditions. Yet so full of variety are the woods that there is something to profit by every season, however it turns out. This was a marvellous orchid year in many parts of Canda. We could see hundreds where, in average years, we might see dozens. Nature always favors something, whatever the climatic conditions. It rarely favors everything.

Vote-Catching Tricks

(By NINO LO BELLO in the American Mercury)

"My opponent, Mr. W. J. Packham, is a good, reliable, honest man and I highly recommend him for the post I am running for."

The voters who read that statement on election day, 1944, in Fairfield Idaho, agreed with it. And Probate Judge Ray G. Jones, a Republican who paid for the ad, lost his campaign for re-election.

Peculiar antics have come out of political campaigns. In America there are some 20,000 elective jobs, and as we exercise our in-alienable right to vote persons into these offices, at times the bid for our vote takes on loony aspects.

In Rochester, N.Y., another candidate, Arthur T. Baftmans, sought election as sheriff for just one purpose; He wanted to abolish the office he was running for. And in the same state, Joseph O'Neil campaigned vigorously against himself because he did not want to be tax collector of North Castle township. He won.

In 1888 the paramount issue in the northwest was whether a certain mountain peak be named Rainier or Tacoma. In some spots the citizens were pro-Rainier and in other pro-Tacoma. Politicians could not evade the issue.

Vice-presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson managed, however. With the help of the engineer of his special train, he arranged a hidden cord that would blow his engine's whistle and drown out part of his address.

During his talks on the beauty of the mountain, Stevenson had a stock closing: "This controversy must be settled and settled right by the national government. I pledge myself here and now that if elected I will not rest until the glorious mountain is properly named. There is only one name that is worthy of consideration, and that is . . ."

At this point the whistle would shriek and the train would chug out of the station.

A trick of a different type was used by Davy Crockett. The Alamo martyr got himself elected to congress in Tennessee by taking advantage of his opponent's wooden leg. Campaigning together Crockett and Adam (Peg Leg) Huntsman stopped overnight at the home of an influential farmer who was backing Huntsman.

After everybody had retired, Crockett arose quietly, picked up a chair and crept down the hallway to the room in which the farmer's daughter slept. Then he made an apparent effort to force her door. The girl awoke and screamed.

Crockett firmly held the chair and fled with one foot on the lower rung. This provided a thumping similar to a wooden leg. Back in his room, he plopped into bed and turned on his best snore. A few moments later the father rushed to Peg Leg's bed.

"Oh, no, you dont, the indignant farmer roared. "You can't fool me, I heard that peg leg of yours too plain." In spite of Huntsman's protestations of innocence, the farmer discontinued his support and was able to swing many active party workers to the Crockett fold.

Farther south in Mississippi, a clever piece of humor produced victory. In the best post-Civil-war period, Pvt. John Allen ran against Confederate Gen. Tucker, who had served two terms in congress. At one place, a stump where the two campaigners met, Gen. Tucker shrewdly closed his speech with the following:

"Seventeen years ago last night, my fellow citizens, after a hard fought battle on yonder hill, I bivouacked under yonder clump of trees. Those of you who remember, as I do, the times that tried men's souls will not forget your humble servant in the election."

Pvt. Allen beat the general at his own game. "My fellow citizens," he said. "what Gen. Tucker says is true about sleeping in yon clump of trees 17 years ago. I was on guard duty that night while he slept. Now then, fellow citizens, all of you who were generals and had privates stand guard while you slept, vote for Gen. Tucker. All of you who were privates and stood guard over generals while they slept vote for Pvt. John Allen."

Pvt. Allen was sent to the house of representatives.

True Knights Of Highways

(Hamilton Spectator)

Summer is the season when the true knights of the road, the motor-cyclists, make their appearance in great numbers and bring some of the elation of youth to the highways and, incidentally, startle members of the older generation to whom noise no longer has any drama.

Opinions may vary on motor-cycles, but at least every one must give them credit for bringing a touch of carnival to the highways. The machines are often decorated with studded pouches, polished badges and animal tail trophies, while the riders usually dress for the occasion with vizored caps and black or gaily coloured windbreakers.

We cannot express an opinion on the safety of this form of transportation compared to that of a car. We have been assured on good authority that we should be as safe on two wheels as on four-safer perhaps because we could dodge out of danger, much as a fly escapes the swat that hits the beetle.

There may be flaws in this reasoning, but we cannot challenge it since our experience of motor-cycling is slight and confined to a few war-time journeys made in "the exigencies of the sevice." On those occasions we sat upright and rode so slow that we could have knitted a pair of stockings, turned the heels and finished them off with adiamond pattern without endangering ourselves or any one else.

Although the memory of this sedate experience lingers we nevertheless have no doubt that motor-cycling can be an exhilarating experience with more thrills for young men than are offered by many other outdoor sports. Whether it is the sense of speed, or the spice of danger—which, lamentably, is not lacking in any form of highway travel today—that is the attraction, only they know. One thing is certain; when a man begins to show a preference for four wheels instead of two, he is no longer so young in heart. Whatever he may say, time has got him by the forelock.

Nubian Valet Ruled Farouk

(Newsweek Magazine)

Of all the unsavory characters who thronged the late court of ex-King Farouk, none had more power than Mohammed Hassan, the neat, ever-smiling Nubian valet, who put his majesty to bed each night and woke him again in the morning.

Egyptian officials knew Hassan as their "uncrowned King". The Nubian dealt directly with Cabinet Ministers over their private telephones. Not even a Premier could get Farouk's ear except through his valet. It was Hassan who read and wrote comments on top-secret documents before passing them on to the ruler. "When Hassan spoke we knew it was Farouk speaking," a former deputy-chief of the Cabinet testified.

The other day, a special graft court created by the new regime of Major-General Mohammed Naguib proclaimed Hassan "a symbol of the corruption of Farouk's reign." Though he denied any exercise of power and claimed he had been "only the King's typewriter," the court found him guilty of conniving to overthrow a Cabinet to clear the way for appointing his friend Kamel Kawish as attorney-general. The court deprived him of the right in public office for fifteen years.

For 37-year-old Hassan, it was the end of a fantastic career.. Before 1942 he had been a mere farrash (adult office boy) for a cotton trading firm in Alexandria. In that year he joined two brothers-in-law in the royal service at Abdin palace at $45 a month. By 1951 he had become Farouk's personal valet with the official post of private chamberlain and the imposing title of Bey, and a dominant influence in state affairs.

The ex-chamberlain now faced a far graver reversal of fortune: He was to stand trial for complicity in the murder of two enemies of the King, an army officer and a leader of the Molsem Brotherhood, allegedly committed by members of Farouk's Iron Guard.

Danger in a Tree

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE STEALTHY KILLER

Dr. Brady

Chronic carbon monoxide anoxia or slow carbon monoxide asphyxiation is an increasingly common cause of health disturbances which, being comparatively mild and insidious or of gradual development, go undiagnosed in most instances.

The condition occurs in persons habitually or frequently exposed to an atmosphere polluted with only a moderate amount of carbon monoxide. For instance, the truck driver or the ordinary automobile driver in closed cab or car travelling for hours in very cold weather; the policeman directing traffic at rush hour in the canyon; workers in office or factory close to chimney stack from which discharging gases may blow directly into open doors or windows when weather and wind happen to be just right; workers around pressing establishments where gas-heated pressing irons are used; occupants of rooms or cabins or motels heated with gas, oil, gasoline or other stoves or burners without stovepipe connection with chimney flue or the open air; housewives who spend much time in poorly ventilated kitchens equipped with gas ranges without either stovepipe connection to chimney flue or adequate co and exhaust fan, or at least fr cross ventilation whenever th gas is burning, that is, open do or window on two sides o chen so a constant draft or m ment of air may be assured.

It is only with reluctance tha mention some of the more fr quent symptoms of chronic mo oxide anoxia, and I assure y that it will be sheer waste postage writing to ask me wh you should do about any of the symptoms that may seem to your case — to save expense I tell you now: Consult a phy cian.

The outstanding symptom headache, dull in character, in t forehead or "sinus" region, som times associated with throbbi and sometimes with a sense pressure upon or across the fo head. Vertigo or dizziness is a other frequent complaint. The complaints sometimes make t Wiseacres think they have "hi blood pressure." Weakness a tremulousness in the legs a perhaps even a tendency to sta ger or make a misstep occasio ally. Conscientiously I omit me tion of nervous and mental ifestations, except to say in some cases of chronic carb monoxide anoxia the so-call parkinsonian syndrome has d veloped.

All of these symptoms dis pear spontaneously in a reaso able time after the cause is moved. Air is free. Breathe it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHURCHES

Nothing is more beautiful, in traveling through New England, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, then the churches that are planted all along the way. They dominate the countryside, the villages, and the cities. You see them from a distance and their very silence is an inspiration.

I am reminded of a quotation from Robert Louis Stevenson. He said: "I find I never weary of great churches. It is my favorite kind of mountain scenery. Mankind was never so happily inspired as when it made a cathedral; a thing as single and specious as a statue to the first glance, and yet on examination, as lively and interesting as a forest in detail"

I wouldn't like to live in a country, or anywhere, that didn't have churches. It wouldn't matter what the beliefs of those who worship in these churches, for they are all God fearing. Henry Ward Beech once said that no church could too beautiful. I agree with hi yet there is a fascination to small little churches that touch heart. The family, the school the church are the citadels of ocracy and freedom.

A beautiful church is a serm in itself! In our larger city ch ches the doors of most are o for anyone to pass in and worsh It is then that silent sermons heard in their most effective m ner. In there worshipers preach themselves. And they leave uplif and inspired in spirit. So much revealed to us in silence.

There is no other institution t can take the place of the chur and there never will be. A city churches is a safe and happy in which to live. People dism their cares and worries the ment they enter their cho church. And with a renewed f those cares and worries do not turn. A church is God's house.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

GETTING OURSELVES CLASSIFIED

A speaker recently told a delightful anecdote concerning Queen Elizabeth and her sister Margaret Rose.

When the queen and sister were little children, they wandered away from Balmoral Castle one day, and being confused as to how they should get back home again, they decided to inquire at the home of a tenant farmer. The good housewife invited them in to have a cup of tea. "And who", she inquired in a kindly fashion, "may you girls be?" "Oh," replied Princess Elizabeth, "we are not anybody at all, but our father is the king."

This incident reminds us very pointedly of the character of the Christian life. We Christian believers are nobody, but our Fathe the King. Humanism places gr value on the capacity of man work out his own destiny; the pel of Christ lays great stress o man's divine origin and nature, it also keeps him reminded he is a fallen creature. God m him one thing, and he has m himself something else. He is body. The thing which lifts him of the gloom and fills with hopeful self-possession is realization that in spite of his f ures, his sins, his mistakes, b nevertheless a member of a spir al family. He is the child of a g Father, and that Father is King.

We are nobody, said the li princesses, but our father is King.

Garden Notes

Props for Flower Arrangers

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A few flowers and a dash of imagination can produce attractive flower arrangements with a minimum of cost. When the garden fails to yield an abundance of blooms, make use of what you have, or buy a few blooms and supplement them with foliage. From your florist you can buy exotic leaves which can be used over and over again, in many cases. They can also be arranged in attractive pieces without flowers which will last for several weeks if you choose your material with an eye to durability.

You can buy Ti, draceana, aspidestra, croton leaves, huckleberry, diffenbachia, and some florists stock and magnolia leaves at different times through the year. to supplement these grow variegated ivies, vinca, anthuricumand caladiums, and coleus.

Watch Country Roadside

Look for attractive foliage plants along country roads. Sedges, milkweed, joepyeweed and many others have interesting leaf patterns forms and texture contrast can add interest also, Consider the smoothness of plantain to the wooly surface of mullen leaves.

Magnolia leaves can be used over and over again for months. Store them, and bring them out later as background for other leaves and different flowers. To preserve them they must be given the glycerine solution treatment, that is stand the stems at least two inches deep in a solution half water and half glycerine. Allow them to remain in the solution for three weeks, then take out the magnolia branches, they are ready for use.

Beech, maple and several other native tree branches can be treated in the same way. I have seen great jars filled with the treated beech leaves which were a soft gold, when one year old. They were still quite suitable for decoration, or arrangements.

Difficult To Handle

Caladium leaves while quite handsome and colorful are often difficult to handle. You may spray the back of these, or any thin leaf with lacquer. Laying the Caladium leaves flat in a large basin of water for several hours before they are arranged will also make them adaptable. You can buy potted daladiums from your florist and use them in the garden through the summer, or as house plants.

Make a collection of foliage plants in the shrub border, perennial plants and houseplants. Use the foliage of these plants to create your own flower pieces. Golden juniper, artisima, silver leaf dogwood are good shrubs. Many of the shrubs have berries which add much to an arrangement. Barberry and cottoneaster are two of these. Globe thistle, plume grass, and Japan rush are perenniel plants which look well in the bordor and also with the cut flowers indoors. Bronze canna leaves, sea grapes, hydranea, ribbon grass and myrtle are other suggestions.

During the winter months when plant material becomes scarce and expensive experiment with artificial leaves and real flowers, living leaves and artificial flowers. Small yellow cotton roses look real when combined with huckleberry foliage. Spikes of white heather look well with real, or artificial ivy and blue Siberian iris. Dried everlastings make interesting material to combine with some living material. Or, try a few white chrysanthemums with dry purple statice. The variety is endless and most interesting.

UNEMPLOYMENT CUT

LONDON (CP)—A recovery in production, particularly textiles, clothing and vehicles, helped cut unemployment in Britain by 155,000 in the first half of the year, Labor Minister Walter Monckton has announced. People on part-time jobs numbered 62,000 at the end of May as against 112,000 in February.

TAILORS BUSY

LONDON (CP)—West End tailors say overseas orders are equal to home demand for the first time since the Second World War. The National Federation of Merchant Tailors said Coronation visitors boosted the trade with "insistence on English cloth, English cut and English workmanship."

'Smoky' Finally Comes Through

TORONTO (CP)—Smokey Harvester, a big grey gelding owned by Dick Johnson and Pete Piquet of Oshwego, Ont., won his first race in two years Friday.

His record showed only two thirds in 11 races and he had drawn the outside position—a bad spot in harness racing where the first turn comes quickly on the half mile tracks. His odds were 50 to 1.

Accordingly, when the big grey came pounding down with his nose in front of Dulcie Dillon in the sixth race he registered the biggest single race payoff of the Thorncliffe Raceway season — a whopping $101.60 for a $2 straight ticket. Driven by Gordie Kitchen the horse paid $14.80 to place.

CENTENARY

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. L. Slingerland accompanied by the former's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, of Frankford left on Saturday morning for a two-week vacation at Kansas City. While they are away, Sandra is visiting with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Don Sharpe of Brighton and Deborah is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Hart.

A happy time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Edmondson last week, when relatives and friends gathered at their home to help them celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary.

MADOC

Kiwanis Carnival Well Attended

MADOC. — Fine weather resulted in a big crowd attending the Madoc Kiwanis annual street dance on Wednesday night. Financially, it was an outstanding success and the entire proceeds will be used for the club's welfare in the district.

Entertainment was provided by the Madoc Band and a two-hour stage show by the Garden Bros. of Toronto.

The Kiwanis president, Ken Holmes, introduced the entertainers and expressed the thanks of the club to those who were in attendance.

Games and refreshment booths were well patronized and the remainder of the evening spent in round and square dancing, music provided by Wiley's Orchestra.

The draw for the $100 cash prize was held at midnight and won by Mrs. J. C. Gauthier, of Hull, Que. Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier had been on their way to visit friends in Detroit in a borrowed car, when a few miles out of Madoc they had a breakdown, necessitating an expensive repair, which would have almost depleted their funds.

Mr. Gauthier just returned two weeks ago from Germany having served in the Canadian Occupational Forces.

Lady Luck was with Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier and they will continue their holiday trip to Detroit.

NOTICE of TRAGIC IMPORTANCE

To The Electors of Hastings South:

At this time of international tension and financial insecurity at home, far too many of our Home Owners have large mortgages . . . far too much unemployment, even right at election time. Hansard reveals a tragic disregard for the workers' and farmers' rights. Government schedules and Orders in Council are full of double interpretations or loop holes.

From all election speeches I hear and read, there seems to be little consideration for our Elders by way of Medical security. The present government claims we are not ready financially or socially for National Health, but we hear of money counted and appropriated by the "millions" no "BILLIONS" for all kinds of Give-away programs. Many electors of South Hastings can not forget the answer of the Hon. R. B. Bennett to the delegation of the Treckers. He said he had no money for employment for them.

From all I hear on the radio, or read in the papers, or hear from the speakers of this election campaign, I have little hope that the relationship of either of the old parties and the Central bank, have the will to feed the necessary currency expansion into the financial blood stream of our nation by way of employment to keep our purchasing power sufficient so that no foreclosures need happen.

We of the C.C.F. are crusaders for the common weal. That government of the people for the people shall not perish from the earth. That all things materially possible shall also be financially possible.

In this serious vein, I make no apologies that this space is not taken up with my picture. After serious consideration of your own interests, if you decide to vote C.C.F., you will have joined the crusaders of the common weal. Now with Tiny Tim I say "God Bless Us Every One."

Weddings

CADWELL—ORMOND

The parsonage of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty, but quiet wedding on Saturday, July 25, when the pastor, the Rev. R. A. Rowley, united in marriage, Marion Blanche Ormond, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Ormond, to Ivan Roy Cadwell, of Batawa, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norman Cadwell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, net and satin, fashioned in ballerina length with strapless, molded lace bodice, accentuated by a matching bolero with stand-up collar, and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The full skirt, in crinoline effect, was enhanced by a pleated net overskirt. Her embroidered, shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a braided satin headdress, and she carried a hand bouquet of white roses tied with pink lacelon ribbon.

Miss Carolyn Ormond, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, attractively attired in pale blue nylon net over taffeta, in ballerina length. She wore a matching floral headdress and carried a hand bouquet of pink roses and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Harvard Plewes, of Cressy, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, attended as best man.

At the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a profusion of summer flowers, in white baskets, white streamers, and white wedding bells, added to the loveliness of the occasion, the bride's mother received, gowned in delph blue lace over blue satin, with corsage of deep rose-colored Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy sheer over taffeta with corsage of American Beauty roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with a fillet hand-crocheted table cloth, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of flowers, the lower tier was misted with pale pink tulle upon which, at intervals, were scatterer little clusters of sweetpeas, while tall, white tapers in silver candelabra flanked either side.

For travelling by motor to Toronto, Niagara Falls and the United States, the bride chose a yellow ensemble with chartreuse and bronze accessories and corsage of chartreuse Shasta daisies.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Picton, Trenton and Colborne.

Mr. and Mrs. Cadwell will reside in Belleville.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a presentation of a beautiful woollen blanket and yellow linens, given by the office staff of the Stewart Warner Company, of which she was a member.

Bride-to-be Presented With Gifts

A shower was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Howes, R.R. 7, Belleville, on Saturday evening, July 25, for Miss Jean Ronan, of Toronto, whose marriage to Mr. Jack Gray, of Massassaga, will take place at Emmanuel College Chapel, Toronto, on Friday, August 7.

Most of the guests were cousins of the groom and after meeting his future bride, names were pinned on and recipes that each had brought were collected for the bride's book, after which Jean was presented with a corsage of spring flowers, a gift of the hostess.

The evening was spent in various bride's contests and the reading of an address by Mrs. A. Boate, all of which were climaxed by the presentation of a bouquet of balloons to the bride. In each was a slip of paper telling where each gift was hidden. After collecting and opening her gifts the bride graciously thanked the guests and the hostess.

Following a shower of confetti a delightful buffet luncheon was served in the colorfully decorated dining room by the hostess and her mother, with Mrs. Garfield Mayne pouring tea, served from a daintily lace-covered table.

A delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

NEIGHBORS' AID

About 40 members and visitors with their children, of the 2nd of Thurlow Neighbors' Aid, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. C. Howard, presided.

Several letters and expressions of thanks were given for cards, and flowers sent to those who were ill. Arrangements were made for the recent picnic at Point Anne Beach.

The following program arranged for by Mrs. O. Stratton was thoroughly enjoyed. Duet was given by Misses Ersala and Mary Milne accompanied by Miss Joan Milne at the piano; reading, Mrs. C. Clarke; guitar solo, Mrs. B. Portt; clipping, Mrs. O. Stratton; song, by Mable Craig and Betty Anne Portt, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. M. Mitchell.

Refreshments were served on the shady lawn with Mrs. Joe Milne, Mrs. C. Clarke, Mrs. O. Stratton, Mrs. Huff and the hostess, Mrs. J. Craig.

60 Girls Attend Y.W.C.T.U. Camp

Five Belleville girls were fortunate this summer in being able to attend the Y.W.C.T.U. Camp on Consecon Lake, from July 7 to 17th. They were Ann Blakely, Marilyn Brown, Betty Jane McLuskie, Sharon Campbell and Donna Brooks.

Sixty girls attended this camp, coming from Coe Hill, Bancroft, Picton and district, Belleville, Brockville, Toronto, Trenton, Kingston, Napanee and from other places in Ontario.

The leaders were Mrs. Beth McKay, Hamilton, supervisor; Miss Margaret Mitchell, Madawaska, handicraft teacher; Miss Edna Grant, Welland Hall, Toronto, temperance and Bible teacher; Mrs. C. German, Bloomfield, cook; Mrs. English, Trenton, camp mother; Mrs. E. Musclow, Belleville, Bible teacher; Mrs. Barbara Haynes, Corbyville, St. John Ambulance First Aid nurse, and Miss Judy Salsbury, Toronto, swimming instructor.

Helpful Subjects Taught

The girls were taught interesting and helpful subjects such as shell and leather handicrafts; Bible studies, and religious choruses and songs, St. John Ambulance first aid, and Holger Neillson method of artificial respiration, swimming, and last but not least, in fact the aim of the camp—temperance in smoking and drinking. Approximately three quarters of this girls' camp took the temperance pledge.

Miss Judy Salisbury, Toronto, and Miss Mary Marvin, Wellington, swam across Consecon Lake, which the camp considered a great achievement.

For the first, St. John Ambulance Nursing Division 150 of Belleville supplied a first aid tent and equipment and one of their medallion members as first aid nurse. Twenty cases were treated in camp including appendicitis, stomach 'flu, cuts, and sunburn.

This camp is sponsored by the W.C.T.U. groups in Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward Counties and is open to girls from 11 to 16 years of age.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

The Moira W.I. held its monthly meeting, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Milton Vanderwater with an attendance of 15 adults and ten children.

The president, Mrs. K. Thompson opened the meeting in the usual way.

Some business was discussed and many plans were made for the coming dinner, August 3, in aid of the cemetery. Many letters were read and many donations were handed in.

Presentation

The president presented a cup and saucer to Mrs. G. Foster, who has been a faithful worker in the W.I. and will be gone for a time. Mrs. Foster thanked them for the gift.

In the absence of the convener, Mrs. A. Mumby, the president took over the program: a reading by Mrs. Blake Ketcheson; a solo by Barbara Holbert "Jesus Loves Even Me"; a reading by Mrs. Don McInroy, "What It Takes in Child Training"; a reading by Bessie Holbert, "How Milk is Essential in Preparing a Meal"; a reading by Mrs. G. Thompson, "City Cousins."

The president gave a talk on home canning and house plants.

After the meeting was brought to a close, refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Ken S. Thompson's.

Assistant Minister

Rev. Miriam E. Collins, B.A., who comes as assistant minister to Bridge Street United Church. Miss Collins will be formally introduced at the morning service Sunday morning by Rev. D. SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Nothing is as annoying in a strange town or city as not being able to find your way about. Many places have few street signs. The numbering of stores and houses is, in most cases, poorly handled . . . A friend of ours is in the construction business which takes the family from one city or town to another across the continent. One of the biggest difficulties in almost any new town, he says, is trying to find your way. There are few places where street signs and house numbers are distinguishable.

One of the strangest house numbering systems he has seen is in a small U.S. city where the streets are all numbered upward from one, beginning at the outside limits and coming in toward the centre of town. What will happen to houses built on the outskirts later is something that's not been figured out yet.

Three Ways

At a bridge party this week we played with a woman who wore "tri-focals.' It seems the opticians have now produced a lens with three sights — long distance at the top, short distance in the middle and close up at the bottom.

People used to find it a bit difficult to get accustomed to the bifocals. Spectacles are now more complicated than ever.

Toys

For children in summer, the new all rubber sand pails are sturdy and safe. They come in attractive multi-colored patterns and cost under a dollar.

We have not seen any rubber shovels, but presume these must be available too. The rubber sand pails make fine gifts for young children.

Shirt Book

Something practical in plastic, is a transparent book with leaves to hold four men's shirts or women's blouses. It is ideal as a safe place to preserve father's boiled shirt, white vest and tie too. And the book like holder is convenient for packing in a suitcase.

Uncle Frontenac says it's always the way — when he doesn't need any new tires, they are way down in price.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's Tired of Catering to Her Emotionally Immature Husband

"I understand why my husband is the way he is," writes "A Very Unhappy Wife," as she signs herself "but sometimes I get tired of catering to him because he had a poor childhood."

With this point of view, I am in hearty agreement. For I never have been able to comprehend the attitude of those who lie back on the wounding experiences of the past and allow themselves to relax into the role to which they believe such a past entitles them, instead of putting it all behind them and creating a happy present.

In every department of life except one, people automatically discard the things of childhood and adolescence as they grow older and adjust themselves to the circumstances of maturity. That one exception is in their thinking, and here adults by the thousand hang desperately on the attitudes and viewpoints they should have abandoned along with everthing else, and so fail to make the intellectual and emotional adjustments that turn them into normally mature men and women.

One such is evidently the husband of the "Very Unhappy Wife."

Of this childhood, she writes: "His parents were divorced when he was young and he had a tough life. People say that all his family are very hard people to understand and get along with. It seems to me, though that we have been married long enough for him to realize that life isn't as bad as he was brought up to believe it was." And then she goes on to make her remark about being "tired of catering to him because he had a poor childhood."

Up until recently, this husband took out his anger and resentment against his early unhappiness by being "very mean" to his wife, finding fault with everything she said or did. Now his urge to make up to himself for what he missed as a child has led him to seek pleasures outside his home.

Childish Behavior

"He goes out and stays for hours and I have no idea where he goes," his wife says. "When I object, he says he won't do it any more, but even as I write this letter, I don't know where he is."

She herself very rarely goes out without her husband because "he doesn't approve of it. If I even go to a movie with a lady friend, he sits around and pouts for days afterward, so it is much more pleasant for me if I stay home."

This marriage is eight years old. The wife and mother is only 24, which means that she must have been married at 16. How old the husband is, she does not say, but one would assume that he was probably not very much older than the wife at the time they were married. However many years he may have lived, his emotional age was apparently frozen very early.

That being the case, what is this young wife to do?

She works hard all day long to keep her children and house neat and clean, she says, and to have good meals ready for her husband when he comes home. Moreover:

"We have made a good life for our children and they seem to be very well adjusted and happy, and our home is very calm and smooth-running. I don't want our children to be brought up in a madhouse of arguing and fighting, so if I am angry I usually say nothing, especially if the children are nearby. Sometimes I wonder though, if, as the children get older, they will sense that I don't love their father any more, and be more hurt than if I left him now, while I am still young enough to make a life for us away from him. I have lost all love for him, and find it very hard to let him kiss me any more. I never nag or find fault with him. It's just that I no longer love him, and it seems as though it has been years since I have been happy and at ease. Still, I don't want to leave him if it would have a bad effect upon the children, because I would live through anything rather than harm their happiness or feeling of security."

Desperate Situation

Here is the almost hopelessly desperate situation of a woman who seems to be mature beyond her years, yet who must put up with a husband still living in his emotional childhood. The only thing that might help is to try and shock him out of it.

So what I think this wife might do is to tell her husband that she cannot go on living as they are now; that his treatment of her has destroyed her love and respect for him, and she does not care to face indefinitely the prospect of a future that will be no happier than the past. She then might tell him that she will give him one year to find out whether or not it really means anything to him to have a home and a family. If it does, then he will make it evident by showing his wife and children the thoughtfulness, consideration and affection a normal father feels, in which case they can make a real home together. If, on the other hand, he prefers to spend his time with his outside companions to the exclusion of his family, then there is no point in their remaining with him.

Having made this quite clear, she should then, for this one year period, go on as before, keeping the home and children properly, making things as comfortable for her husband as possible when he is there, and refraining from quarrels and arguments. During this year, she can be turning over in her mind possible plans for making an independent life for herself and the children if that should prove advisable.

Such a definite statement of purpose, and quiet holding to it, might be the shock that would bring her husband out of his state of arrested development and start him growing into a real man. If it does not, then I am afraid nothing will.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

Attention:

On July 4 I replied to Mrs. Edith S. who wanted camp quantity recipes. Another kind reader has sent me a letter to forward to her. Would Mrs. Edith S. please send me her address so that I may forward it?

Question:

Would you please send me the camp menu recipes you mentioned to serve 50 or 60? My daughter is cooking at a camp and I think she would appreciate these. —Muriel G.

Answer:

Gladly. I mailed recipe for quantity rice pudding.

Tapioca Cream (For 50)

Scald 18 cups whole milk in top of double boiler. Add 1 1-4 cups quick-cooking tapioca mixed with 1 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon salt. Cook, covered until tapioca is transparent. Beat five egg yolks and combine them with another 1 cup sugar, and stir this into first mixture. Cook 8 minutes. Fold in 5 stiffly beaten egg whites and remove from heat. When slightly cool add 2 tablespoons vanilla. Serve this warm garnished with whatever fresh fruit is in season in your area.

Macaroni and Cheese (For 50)

Cook 5 lbs. broken macaroni in 2 gallons water containing 1-4 cup salt until tender. Drain. Add 5 quarts white sauce (thin) made by heating 4 3-4 quarts milk until scalding and stirring into it a paste made of 1 1-2 cups flour and 1 1-2 cups melted margarine, until thick. Add also 2 lbs. (or more if desired) of cut up processed or grated cheddar cheese. Pour this into baking pans, cover with 1 quart soft breadcrumbs into which you have stirred 1-2 cup melted fat. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes.

Peach Layer Cake

(May be cut to serve 50 or 60)

Thirteen cups canned sliced or fresh peaches, 4 cups granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 quart cream for whipping. Combine peaches, sugar (use more if fresh peaches are used), lemon juice and let them stand until thoroughly chilled in refrigerator. Just before serving beat cream until stiff, fold in peach mixture and use as filling and topping for 8 average-sized 2-layer cakes. Use less cream if plainer filling is desired.

Salmon Salad (Serves 50)

Eight 1 lb cans good quality salmon (or tuna), 16 cups finely chopped celery, 2 cups cooked salad dressing, 1-4 cup very finely chopped green onion and tops. 1-2 cup heavy cream, 2 cups mayonnaise, lettuce, tomatoes, parsley. Flake fish which has been skinned and boned and drained. Add to it the celery. Whip the cream and add it to the cooked dressing and the mayonnaise and fold this into the first mixture. Mix lightly with the onion. Serve in lettuce lined bowls and garnish with tomato wedges and parsley sprigs.

Pumpkin (8 9-inch pies) Pies

Thirteen cups mashed or canned pumpkin, 16 cups milk, 16 eggs, yolks and white separated, 5 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon each ginger and salt. Mix pumpkin with milk and beaten yolks. Combine with sugar mixed with spices and salt. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into 8 pastry-lined 9-inch pans. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

Barbecued Corned Beef

Slice cooked or canned corned beef into 50 slices—that is allow 10 slices to each pound and use 5 lbs. Cream 1 cup butter and while creaming add 1 cup catsup mixed with 1 cup chili sauce, 1 cup prepared mustard, 1-2 cup Worcestershire sauce and 1-4 teaspoon cayenne. Brush meat slices generously with this mixture. Put in baking pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes.

Note: To serve 10 reduce this recipe by making only 1-5 of it. It is a delicious way to served canned corned beef for family meals.

Gingersnaps (120 cookies)

One cup each molasses, shortening, sugar, 1 teaspoon each soda and cinnamon, and salt, 2 teaspoons ginger, 4 cups stirred but not sifted flour. Heat molasses, shortening and sugar together until shortening is just melted. Cool. Add soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons water. Sift together the cinnamon, ginger, salt and half of the flour. Stir this into the first mixture, then add remaining flour gradually to make a dough stiff enough to roll. Chill. Roll on lightly floured board until very thin. Cut out with floured cutter and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

I hope these recipes help your daughter. All I have room for.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

A Housewarming Needn't Wait Until "Everything's Finished"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our new house is to be finished the last of this month, and we are to move into it soon thereafter.

Most of the furnishings we have ready, but some items will "have to wait." However, we'd like to plan to give a housewarming either the last of September or the first week in October. Would this be proper, or is there some definite rule about how soon this kind of party may be given after the family moves in?

New-Home Hostess

There's no rule about how soon a housewarming is to be given, or may be given. Yesterday it was the very definite rule that everything—all furniture and furnishings should be finished and in order before the welcome to our home. Housewarming was given. But today "rules" about suc occasions are more friendly, flexible and practical. And why not? Few budgets today can meet "paying in full" for all the furnishings of a new house at a given date. So have fun giving your Housewarming as soon as you consider your house more or less ready-to-show. For your Housewarming date I am particularly enthusiastic about the time you have in mind—the last of September or the first week in October, for practically everyone has then returned from vacations, and your party can start the season with a joyous welcoming of your relatives and friends!

Week-End Visitor Gives A Tip And A "Thank You" To the Part-Time Maid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are "young married" (married last June), and we've received three invitations to spend week-ends in August and September at the homes of young friends of ours in the suburbs near here. We know that two of the couples have part-time maids over the week-ends — "local help" —and we think the other couple may have a similiar arrangement. What about our tipping, Mrs. Beeckman? Should we tip, or is tipping only for full-time maids? Or would it be better to take a present for the part-time maid? If we should tip, should we leave the tip in our room, perhaps on the dresser?

Marie Y.

You should give the part-time maid a tip. This is important, and it can be given with a friendly grace. Since apparently you haven't visited these friends before, a tip to the maid is better than a present, since you couldn't know what would be appropriate. Don't just leave your tip in your room. This is awkward, too impersonal. Find a convenient moment when your hostess and other guests aren't around, and then hand it to the maid, so that you will have the delightful opportunity to accompany your tip with a gracious "Thank you, Anna for your kindness to us."

Signing Vacation Postcards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I send picture post-cards to relatives and friends while we are on our vacation, which is the correct way to sign them—Margaret and Joe or Joe and Margaret?

Readers

Whoever signs the cards writes his or her name last. That's the natural Way-of-Courtesy!

AT THE BELLE—June Allyson, voted the most popular actress on the screen, has one of her most challenging dramatic roles in M.G.M.'s "The Girl in White". The new picture unfolds the true life love drama of a woman doctor, and the doctors in her life. Arthur Kennedy and Gary Merrill are co-starred in the picture showing today for the last times at the Belle Theatre. A funny Tom & Jerry Cartoon are added attractions.

Women's Institute

CHATTERTON W.I.

The August meeting of Chatterton Women's Institute was held recently at the home of Mrs. Cecil Ross with 14 members in attendance. The president, Mrs. Snider, presided and conducted the business portion.

The guest speaker, Mr. Frank Follwell, M.P., addressed the assembly on "The Crown and The Queen and the Story of the Flag", which was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Harry Reid, program convener, spoke on the motto, and Mrs. Ed. Emerson gave "Current Events."

Fashion Flashes

Busy with fittings and shopping is a record crop of autumn brides, with September their big month. A beauty of a wedding dress is of ivory satin with hand-clipped Chantilly lace forming the brief bodice and long sleeves, the lace re-embroidered with pearls. A net fill-in finishes at the throat with a tiny necklace of pearls. The trained skirt has panel inserts at sides.

Color is the major interest in new hats of the casual type to be shown for early fall. Salmon-colored velour makes a brimmed casual with an interesting trim of brown alligator leaves forming a crown band.

Just a smidgin of fur marks many of the new fall fashions. Mink tabs lend interest to suit collars, bands of ermine top bridal gowns, and a skirt not only has a leopard belt but leopard flaps for the pockets.

JAM AT CIRCUS

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — A circus procession including 16 elephants caused chaos in this Sussex resort town. Such crowds flocked to see it that there was a two-mile traffic jam, seven fainting cases and 19 lost children.

Legends About Churches

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Legends are growing up around some of Quebec's 17th and 18th century churches.

Typical, is one told by a former Quebec premier, P.J.O. Chauveau, in his book "Souvenirs et Legendes," published in 1877.

The ghost of a Lotbiniere county parish priest returned every night at midnight for 100 years to celebrate a mass he had neglected to celebrate during his lifetime.

One night, the sacristan saw the apparition. Terrified, he reported the affair to his parish priest who informed his bishop. Returning from Quebec where he had called on the bishop the parish priest begged the sacristan to be in the church at midnight to assist the ghost in celebrating the mass.

Assists Ghost

That night, the sacristan locked himself in the church. On the stroke of midnight, he saw the ghostly priest approaching the altar in liturgical robes.

The trembling sacristan knelt beside the phantom priest and pronounced the responses to the mass. On completion of the ceremony, he walked to the sacristy followed by the priest. The ghost removed the mass vestments, bowed in gratitude, and vanished forever.

Another legend is connected with the construction of St. Laurent parish church on the Island of Orleans, near Quebec.

The men working on the church, so goes the legend, complained that the task of transporting stones was too arduous.

Strength of Four

The builder promised the men a black horse of such strength that it could drag the load of four horses.

The following day the builder showed up, leading the most beautiful horse ever seen on the island. He told the workers to work him mercilessly but not to remove the bridle.

A youth was placed in charge of the animal and work proceeded at a fast pace until the animal became thirsty. The youth removed the bridle to enable the horse to drink and it leaped into a creek where it became transformed into an eel and swam away.

The legend goes on to say that the church was completed but for the placing of one stone. The church was demolished in 1864.

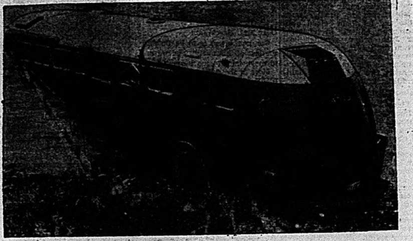
Twenty Lives Lost In Worst Bus Accident In Ontario History

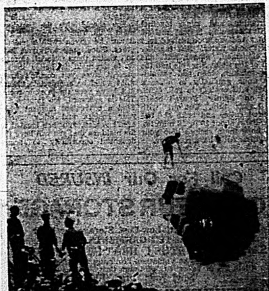
A grim record was set for Ontario in the disaster near Morrisburg, where 20 persons drowned when a bus carrying travellers from Toronto to Montreal crashed into a truck and plunged into the Cornwall canal. It was the worst bus accident in the province's history. These survivors, 12 of the 15, crawled out of the bus after it plunged down a 45-foot embankment and swam to safety. Some who could not swim went down with the vehicle.

A body is taken ashore after the bus was hauled away. Several were outside the bus, some pinned underneath as it toppled over in the water.

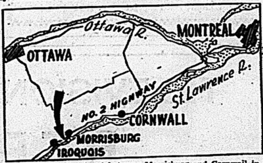


A few hours after the fatal plunge, the bus was hauled out of the Cornwall canal, still holding the bodies of those who were unable to break through the windows before the vehicle sank.

Six hours after the crash, police and firemen had diving equipment in operation to raise the bus and remove the bodies. The bus was towed directly to a funeral parlor with its human remains still aboard. — Central Press Canadian Photos.



The bus was totally submerged. It was hauled out of the canal by cable after divers had fastened it to the bus.



The disaster occurred between Morrisburg and Cornwall in the early hours of the morning while most of the passengers were asleep. The truck which the bus struck was also hurled into the water. Both drivers escaped.

Bantam Baseball

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Schwab's bantam baseballers showed their early season form as they downed the squad from Picton 12-3 at Pine Street School on Friday evening.

The Schwab nine took a 3-2 lead in the second frame and added more runs each inning as all the players except one contributed to the 12 hit attack on Gourley, the Picton hurler. He gave up 12 runs off 12 hits while fanning seven and allowing five walks. His team mates gave him little support as they made eleven errors afield.

Jackie Elliott toiled on the mound for Schwab's, allowing three runs, all of which were unearned. The Picton batsmen could only manage five hits in the seven inning fixture as Elliott struck out five and walked three.

Norm Rushlow of Schwab's led all batters with a triple and a single. Robert Raymond, Frank Chick and John Foster each had a brace of singles for the winners. Kennedy, Hawker, Hearnes, Lunner and Gourley each claimed a single for Picton.

This was the last scheduled game for Schwab's before hitting the playdown trail. They won seven at the first of the year, tied one and then lost three straight before winning over Picton to complete the 12 regulation games.

KNOW RUSSIAN

Only two such incidents during the last 12 months have been made public.

Planes Over Japan

Last November, two F84 jet fighters, on patrol at 15,000 feet over eastern Hokkaido, Japan, encountered an LA11—a Soviet-made, propeller-driven fighter — bearing Russian markings. The U. S. Air Force planes closed in and flew alongside the Russian aircraft until it crossed the international boundary and headed for home.

Last Feb. 17, two Russian planes of the same type were discovered by U. S. Air Force interceptors above eastern Hokkaido. The Soviet planes made a firing pass. The two F84s returned the fire, with one of them hitting and apparently damaging one of the LA11s. Neither American plane was hit. The February incident was at least three miles inside the international boundary separating Japan from the Russian-held Kurile Islands, where the Red Air Force reportedly maintains big bases for fighters and long range bombers.

This contrasts with the Russian attack two days ago on the B-50 which the U. S. contends was 40 miles beyond Soviet territory and far out over international water.

In the spring of 1952 vapor trails were sighted above the Aleutian Island chain which extends outward from the Alaskan mainland. There was no actual sighting of Russian aircraft nor radar pickup. But it caused an alert of U. S. air defences throughout Alaska and the northern United States.

Scotty Rankin Hangs Up Shoes

KITCHENER (CP) — Robert S. (Scotty) Rankine, a distance runner who represented Canada at both the Olympic and British Empire games, says he's hanging up his racing shoes but his age has nothing to do with it.

Now deputy sheriff of Waterloo county and father of three, the 44-year-old Rankine says he is using all his spare time to build a home at Preston.

Rankine won his first race in 1931 and his last in 1952. He was with the Canadian Olympic team at Los Angeles in 1932 and at Berlin in 1936, and entered the British Empire Games in London in 1934 and Sydney, Australia, in 1938.

He holds the official Canadian 10-mile record of 53 minutes 23 seconds.

St. Kitts Whip Hamilton 11-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athetics continued their winning ways in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior Circuit Friday night with an 11-7 decision over Hamilton Tigers. At the same time, Orillia Terriers clipped Fergus Thistles 16-13.

In losing their games, Fergus and Hamilton remained tied for the fourth and final playoff position in the league. St. Catharines held on to its comfortable league lead.

Al Frick led St. Catharines to victory with three goals while Norm Corcoran and Derry Davies came up with a pair each. Jack Bionda was best for Hamilton with two.

Jim McNulty and Stew Scott led Orillia with four goals each. Ken Croft came up with three while Frank Facto and Leo Teatro each garnered a pair. J. J. Hill was the best for Fergus with four.

Sport in Brief

MANGRUM TAKES LEAD

CHICAGO (AP)—Dapper Lloyd Mangrum dropped an 18-foot birdie putt on the 17th green Friday that paid off for a second-round 68 and shot him into a one-stroke lead with 137 at the end of 36 holes in the $25,000 All-American golf tournament.

Mangrum, who is 39 today, pinned his 33-35—68 to an opening 69 to snip seven strokes off par at Tam o'Shanter, a course he represents on the tournament circuit.

Grouped on his heels at 138 were Jimmie Clark, 32-year-old ex-marine from Laguna Beach, Calif., with a 69 Friday; the 1953 Canadian Open champion, Dave Douglas, Newark, Del., with 67; Ed Furgol, withered-armed pro from Clayton, Mo., who forfeited a stroke to par after being trapped on No. 16; and Porky Oliver, who fired a sparkling 65.

Ol' "Pork Chops" hit all of Tam's greens but the 18th where he had to chip dead to salvage par 4. His best shot was sticking a No. 4 iron three feet from the cup on the 215-yard 16th for a deuce.

Henry Martell of Edmonton scored a second-round 73, and this coupled with his earlier 75 gave him a 148 total, far down the field.

On the heels of the leaders were such veterans as Lawson Little of Pebble Beach, Calif., who hooked a 69 to his first round of 70, and 120-pound Bob Toski, North Hampton, Mass., who welded a 34-32—66 to his 73.

Little Betty Hicks of Culver City, Calif., the 1941 women's U.S. champion, continued to set the pace in the A-American Women's Open with a sparkling second round of 37-36—73 for a halfway tally of 149, three under par.

The Windward Islands in the British West Indies lie in the path of the cooling northeast trade winds.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The long holiday. What could be better than doing a spot of "blackmakin'" in the family cottage nesting on the shore of a tree-fringed lake. Or drifting lazily in the boat hoping a two-ton muskie will grab your bait, or not caring whether it does. Or jest plain snoozin' in the "hay" thumbing your nose at the alarm clock, and listening to "Junior" get ready for the swimming pool.

But not for us. This department will be shuttling between the two Gold Cup events, one in Picton where the speedboat hellions will vie for gold and glory and Belleville where it is expected some three hundred lawn bowlers will battle for handsome prizes and awards.

More than one hundred entries have been received for the Prince Edward Yacht Club Gold Cup regatta being held at Picton on Civic holiday. Premier of the Canadian Boating Federation-sanctioned regattas, the Picton one has been held since 1937 and numerous world and Canadian records have been established, broken and re-established on Picton Bay.

Harold Wilson, with Miss Canada IV, set two North American marks here. At last year's regatta, two Toronto drivers George Carnegie and Jack Tieche established Canadian records, and will be back in an attempt to gain further honors next Monday.

Art Hatch of Hamilton, winner of the Prince Edward Yacht Club Gold Cup in the 225 cubic inch class last year, plans to attempt to defend the trophy. Entries have also been received from Kenmore, N.Y., Brockville, Ottawa, Smiths Falls, Wexford, Rideau Ferry, Montreal, Lachine, Que., Waterdown, Syracuse, Gananoque.

Toronto drivers who will compete here include Bill Porter, Dr. Eric Toye, Jack Tieche, Paul Brayfield, Jack Williamson, David Norton, Jim Greenhalgh.

In addition to classes for all types of hydroplanes, calling for speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour, there will be mile trials, in which several craft will seek to establish records for the measured races from the high banks which form a natural amphitheatre.

Snap Out Of It

The CNR Diesels had better get on their toes or the next thing they'll know they'll be on the outside looking in. The Frankford team handed them a fancy 17-3 shellacking last night to grab a one-game lead in the semi-finals series and all they need is another win to earn the right to clash with the Ox Pointers from Point Anne in a series to decide which will represent the city and league in the OASA intermediate "A". playdowns.

The Diesels didn't show their regular "fire" last night and they looked sloppy at times especially in the field. But you can't win 'em all. As was said they'll need to hike their britches if they want to pull this series out of the fire.

Tonight the much-argued-about third game between the Point Anne power plant and Glen Roy juniors takes place at the Point while Bryson Read's baseball younkers take on the Prince Edward Combines in a league clash at CNR Park. There was much ado about nothing about the time of the third. Point Anne-Glens game and a lot of silly yakking on the part of representatives of both teams didn't help the situation any.

On paper and on the record the Ox Pointers should take the series but the Glens are a spirited crew of youngsters who never say "uncle" until aften ten has been counted over them.

That's it, and have a happy holiday. If you're driving stay on the right side of the road. As that radio bloke says "The other side is the suicide."

Dempsey Reason for 'Long Count' According to Tunney's 'Adviser'

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 25 years ago today, at a luncheon for the late Bill Muldoon, Gene Tunney retired from the ring as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world.

Unlike Joe Louis, Jim Jeffries and the others who could not leave well enough alone, the scholarly Tunney never again drew on a glove in competition. Opinion still is divided on his place among the champions of the past. Unfortunately, he is remembered best because of his famous "long count" incident in his second fight with Jack Dempsey at Chicago in 1927.

Jimmy Bronson was talking about those days in his little office on Broadway. Bronson was "chief adviser" for Tunney, working the corner in his two fights with Dempsey and the night he gave Tom Heeney a brutal beating in his last fight.

Had Something

"Tunney had something up here, no fighter ever had," said Bronson, pointing to his head. "He was a perfect judge of his own condition, both physically and mentally. He was a surgeon in the ring, a master at making the other guy fight the way he wanted him to."

Like everybody else, Bronson too talked about the "long count", in Chicago the night they first used the neutral corner rule.

"Gene got hit with a sucker right," he said. "Dempsey couldn't knock your hat off with a right. But as Gene pulled away he walked right into a left hook. Dempsey hit him five more before he went down.

"Barry (referee Dave Barry) started to count and Dempsey went to his own corner, right behind Tunney. He wouldn't go to the neutral corner. When he did, Barry started the count again. It really was 18 seconds not 14. When Tunney got up he started to back pedal. He went past the corner faster going backward than Dempsey was going straight ahead. Dempsey finally caught him and Tunney threw everything he had in one right that made Dempsey grab. After that it was a breeze.

"When Tunney came back to the corner I asked him 'what night is it?' He said 'Jim, don't be ridiculous. I'm all right and you know it.'

"There wasn't too much turmoil that night but the next day they started to whoop it up. Rickard (promoter Tex Rickard) doctored the pictures to make it look as though Tunney never could have got up. And they started the ballyhoo for a third match. Everybody wanted it but it never came off.

"Tunney was up in Speculator (N.Y.) getting ready for Heeney the next summer. He was staying out on a little island. One day he told me, 'Jim, when you get through work, come over to the island I want to talk with you.' When I got over there, he said 'this is my last fight. I don't want you to tell a soul. Keep talking about who I'm going to fight next. But this is the last. Rickard just called me up and told me that Dempsey, under no condition, ever would fight me again.'

"There really was nobody on the fistic horizon. And, anyhow, he was in love and had made a lot of money. You know, he was the only champion smart enough to quit before he really hit his peak."

Tunney, who picked up $990,000 for the Dempsey fight at Chicago and $525,000 for his swan song with Heeney, now is chairman of the board of several companies.

British Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—Bob Berry, 27, Lancasshire left-arm slow bowler, Friday took all 10 Worcestershire second-inning wickets, first time the feat has been accomplished in first-class English cricket since 1949.

Berry gave up only 102 runs in the process, but the Worcestershire total reached 18. Lancashire won the match by a slim 18 runs.

Middlesex Friday returned to the top of the county championship table with an 82-run win over Hamshire. Middlesex had declared at 48 for three in the second innings, leaving Hampshire to get 197 to win, but Hampshire was all out for 114.

Middlesex now has 134 points from 21 matches. In second place is Sussex, with 124 points from 19 games.

Final scores:

Surrey 209 for eight declared, Australian Tourists 327 for nine. Match abandoned, no play Friday, rain.

Yorkshire 50 for four declared and 226 for three declared, Kent 263 and 161. Yorkshire won by 152 runs.

Leicestershire 267 and 232 for nine declared, Warwickshire 163 and five for no wicket. Match abandoned, drawn, rain.

Northamptonshire 330 for one declared, Sussex 300 for six. Match abandoned, no decision, no play Friday, rain.

Lancashire 265 and 262 for eight declared, Worcestershire 191 and 318. Lancashire won by 18 runs. Gloucestershire 301 and 141, Nottinghamshire 186 and 259 for three. Nottinghamshire won by seven wickets.

Bronx Bombers Blast Browns As Senators Whip Chisox 2-0; 'Oisken' Hurls Dodgers to Win

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Paul Richards still hopes to have pennant aspirations when he hits New York next week-end, he better set up a base-hit ration system for his "feast or famine" Chicago White Sox.

Thursday the second-place Sox broke out with their biggest barrage of the year—21 safeties that producedd 17 runs at Boston. But Friday night at Washington the Sox managed only three hits off Bob Porterfield and lost 2-0.

The loss cost them a full game in the flag chase since New York Yankees smothered St. Louis as expected, 11-5. Chicago now trails by 5½ games.

In Washington, the league's two most prolific shutout pitchers faced each other. Virgil (Fire) Trucks, winner of eight straight since joining Chicago in mid-June, had pitched five scoreless games. So had Porterfield.

The Senators made certain in the first inning that they weren't the ones who were going to get whitewashed. Jackie Jensen drove in one run with a double and scored the second on Jim Busby's single. Porterfield at one point retired 15 in order.

Seven Unearned

Seven of New York's runs against St. Louis were unearned as the bumbling Brownies committed four errors. Yogi Berra drove in three runs with a triple.

Cleveland whipped Philadelphia Athletics, 12-6. Wally Westlake hammered five straight hits including a home run.

Ralph Branca, the pitcher no club in the National League could use, won is second game for Detroit Tigers, beating Boston 5-3. The loss dropped the fourth-place Red Sox 10½ games behind New York.

Brooklyn finally broke its west-of-the-Mississippi jinx with a 2-1 squeaker over the Cardinals in St. Louis. It was the Dodgers' first triumph in six tries in the Cards' home park this season. Carl Erskine posted his sixth victory of the month, striking out 11 men.

By winning, the Dodgers ran their National League lead to eight games over Milwaukee Braves, who bowed 5-1 to Robin Roberts in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader with Philadelphia Phillies. The second game, a scoreless pitching duel between Bob Miller and Max Surkont, was halted in the top of the 11th inning because of rain.

TI-CATS SIGN GREGUS

HAMILTON (CP)—Bill Gregus, outstanding halfback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1952 Big Four football play, signed Friday with the Ti-Cats for the 1953 season. It has been previously rumored that Gregus would play with Chicago Bears of the U.S. National Football League this season.

TO PILOT OSHAWA TEAM

OSHAWA (CP) — A National Hockey League veteran will pilot this year's entry of Oshawa Truckmen in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B circuit. Manager Wren Blair announced Friday the signing of Ernie Dickens, a Winnipeg native who made his NHL debut with Toronto Maple Leafs in 1941. He was traded to Chicago Black Hawks in 1947 after a three-year stint in the army.

Panthers Claw Brantford 5-4; Take Over Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the last week or so Kitchener Panthers have been playing tag with first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League race. Their brief stays at the top of the league were always crowded as first one then another club tied them for honors.

However, Friday night the panthers took over first place all by themselves, even though it came in a 12-inning squeaker and produced a slender half-game margin. The magic formula was a 5-4 decision over Brantford Red Sox.

Brantford joined Waterloo Tigers in second place in bowing to Kitchener as the Tigers dropped a 7-5 game to the lowly St. Thomas Elgins. Oshawa Merchants drubbed Guelph Maple Leafs 13-3 in the night's only other game.

Harry Psutka started Kitchener's winning run on its way with a single in the bottom of the 12th. He was sacrificed to second by Hugh McGillvray and came home on Mel Duncan's double to the right-field fence.

Dick Welker was the hero of the Panther stand, scoring two runs to tie the league record with 59 for the season. He also set a base stealing mark with his 32nd snatch.

St. Thomas and Waterloo seesawed through six innings of play, a three-run outburst in the seventh by Elgins breaking a 4-4 tie and giving them a lead which they never relinquished

Wally Beggs started for St. Thomas and gave way to Ron Sommers in the fifth with Sommers getting credit for the win. He and Tommy White alternated in the closing frame between the mound and first base.

For Waterloo Hank Biasatti and George Yorke worked between first and the hill in the closing two innings. Yorke got nicked for the loss after relieving Roly Larouche in the fifth after starter Gord Ariff went to the showers two outs previous.

Eddie Drapcho hurled a six-hitter for Oshawa in the win over Guelph Maple Leafs. The win gave the Merchants a firm grip on sixth place.

The Leafs committed eight errors to lose the game on the field. They carried a 3-2 lead into the sixth, but then faded as Oshawa scored four times and added a pair each in the seventh and eighth.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

'Weakened' New York Yankees Call 4 Players From Minor Farm Clubs

NEW YORK (AP)—The deadline for the majors' new minor league option recall rule passed at midnight Friday with six clubs dipping into their farm systems during the final hours for additional strength.

The rule forbids a major league club to recall from the minors after midnight July 1 any player out on option. It does not, however, prevent a major league club from purchasing a minor league player at any time.

New York Yakees, leading the American League by 5½ games, got under the wire by a few hours with the biggest deal. They called up four players, including one of the top pitchers in the class-A Eastern League.

Recalled on option were Bill Miller, left-handed pitcher from Kansas City in the American Association and shortstop Jim Brideweser from Syracuse of the International League.

The world champions also purchased Gus Triandos, 225-pound catcher-first baseman, from their Birmingham farm in the Southern Association and southpaw pitcher Steve Kraly from Binghamton in the Eastern circuit. Kraly has compiled an 18-2 record with seven shutouts.

To make room for Miller and Brideweser, both of whom had been up with the Yanks, the New York club asked for waivers on catcher Ralph Houk and veteran pitcher Ray Scarborough. Since both Triandos and Kraly are returned servicemen they can be carried as extra men over the 25-player limit.

Twenty-four hours earlier St. Louis Cardinals brought up outfielder Harry Elliott from their Houston farm in the Texas League and recalled pitcher Willard Schmidt from Columbus in the American Association to handle relief work.

Chicago White Sox sought to strengthen their pennant hopes by recalling Clifford (Connie) Johnson a pitcher with a 6-5 record for Charleston in the American Association, and outfielder-first baseman Bob Boyd from Toroonto of International League. Johnson was scheduled to make his first appearance against Washington today.

During the last couple of weeks, Brooklyn Dodgers brought back outfielder Dick Williams from Montreal, catcher Dick Teed from Mobile and pitcher Glenn Mickens from Fort Worth.

Boston Red Sox quickly put their latest acquisition, pitcher Frank Sullivan, into action. Just up from Albany he hurled two innings Friday night against the Tigers and gave up two hits.

Pompeyo Davalillo, farmed out after one day of spring training, was recalled from Charlotte by Washington Senators. He's due to take over the shortstop spot.

Sports Roundup

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Minor league managers can sleep soundly tonight, assured of no more big league raids on their budding stars, if they still have any stars.

Up to midnight Friday night the big boys were busy with the July harvest, getting ready for the pennant drives ahead. Some of the player moves were hard to take by minor-leaguers who also are fighting for a pennant.

The Yankees brought up Gus Triandos, the leading hitter of the Southern Association, from Birmingham. From Binghampton, N.Y., they grabbed Steve Kraly, an 18-2 pitcher who just helped grab the lead in the Eastern League race

In the National League, Brooklyn brought in Dick Williams and Dick Teed and the Cards recalled pitcher Willard Schmidt.

All this and more activity is because of the new rule, adopted last winter at Phoenix, Ariz., providing that all players optioned to the minors, or by one minor league to another, cannot be recalled after midnight, July 31.

There are, however, a couple of gimmicks in the rule. In case of dire emergency, a broken leg, say, by a star player, an optioned played could be recalled.

In recent years there has been an increasing tendency to call up these optioned men in the heat of the pennant race in August and September. Managers put the pressure on the front office for help and, eventually, get it.

Minneapolis, particularly, was all excited about some raids by the New York Giants. The Willie Mays case in 1951 often is cited but it would not have been subject to the new rule for it was a purchase and not a recall. The Henry Thompson incident, also in 1951, created quite a stir in Minneapolis. Hank was sent down on option from the Giants and then brought back in August to make him eligible for the World Series.

It will be interesting to see what happens when an "emergency" arises. The club must convince commissioner Ford Frick that there is a real need for the recall.

Toronto Paddlers Hold Lead in Canoe Regatta

OTTAWA (CP)—Paddlers of the Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club carried a slim lead today into the second and final day of the 53rd annual Canadian Canoe Association championship regatta on the Rideau river.

The club went out in front Friday as one of their paddlers placed first in one race and second in another for seven points. Two points back, battling for third spot with one win each, were three clubs—Toronto Island Canoe Club, Lachine, Que., and Sudbury. The Manitoba Paddling Association from Winnipeg, with two seconds, was next with four points.

Hoisting the Sailing and Canoe Club into top spot was Lloyd Rice, 25-year-old Toronto textile cutter, who retained one championship and lost one in two of the four opening day 10,000-metre events.

Seventeen races are scheduled for today with the team compiling the most points carting away the association burgee, emblematic of team supremacy. Last year, Rice sparked the Toronto Sailing Club to their first championship in 9 years.

As a 20-mile-an-hour northeast wind cut across the usually quiet waters of Mooney's Bay, Rice retained his championship in the 10,000-metre double blade single, but was upset in the 10,000-metre single blade single by Don Stringer, 20-year-old husky from the Sudbury Canoe Club.

Rice stroked across the finish line in the double blade event a quarter of a mile ahead of Bill Brigden of Winnipeg with a time of 54:0.8. Pat Way of Ottawa Rideau placed third.

The Toronto youth looked tired in the single blade event as he came home three-eighths of a mile behind Stringer, who stroked home in 62 minutes, 31 seconds. The battle between the two for the championship goes back three years. In 1951 Stringer copped the honors with Rice placing a close second but last year Rice came home ahead of Stringer. Norm Lane of Ottawa Rideau was third behind Rice.

Les Melia and Bob Smith of Lachine racing club won the championship in the 10,000-metre double blade tandem with a time of 47:18.8. They spurted after being pressed hard by Winnipeg's Lorne Smith and Bill Brigden most of the way. The Winnipeg entry was second.

Top honors in the other long distance event, the 10,000-metre single blade tandem, were carted away by Bill Stevenson and Tom Hodgson of Toronto Island Canoe Club.

Cleveland Browns Seek Injunction

OTTAWA (CP) — Cleveland Browns through their lawyer here asked Friday for an Ontario Supreme Court injunction to restrain John Kissell, 250-pound lineman, from playing football with Ottawa Rough Riders.

W. G. Burke-Robertson, lawyer representing the club, said the writ of summons seeking the injunction was issued Friday.

Kissell allegedly signed contracts with both the Browns and the Ottawa Football Club.

Jim McCaffery, president of the Ottawa club, said: "We'll fight to the limit to retain Kissell. He wants to play here and he'll play here unless the courts rule otherwise. The club will protect Kissell in every way."

Samuel Berger, QC, Ottawa club legal representative, said: "We have Kissell under contract and we intend to do our utmost within legal means to keep him here."

Sterling Newell, Jr., lawyer and acting secretary of the Browns said: "Kissell is our property. We renewed our option within the appointed time and he signed the contract. We'll go to court to see that Kissell honors the contract."

Kissell said: "Spent all day at the beach. Gee, that sun is great."

PITCHER BACK IN LINEUP

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Martin, general manager of the Syracuse Chiefs International League baseball club, said Friday that pitcher Marvin Williams had been taken off the suspended list and returned to the lineup. Martin announced Williams' suspension Thursday, saying the southpaw left the club in Rochester after being charged with a 6-3 loss to the Red Wingr Tuesday.

'Timmy, Johnny Were Sweethearts' They 'Done Wrong' by Our Nanjo

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The bones of Fin McCool rattled gratefully in their dusty bin somewhere in the peat bogs o' Erin. Sure and didn't St. Patrick praise his soul, nod approvingly from the Irish Valhalla last evenin' as two of the "dirthiest" spalpeens on record bit the dust in Memorial Arena.

Shure and twas that broth of a bhoy, Timmy Beohagen the bonniest laddybuck that ever bussed a colleen, lookin' or t'otherwise aided and abetted by the handsome Donny Johnathan as noble a flake as efer came out of the Utah salt shaker, that treated a pair of "easslin' snakes' as much the same way as dod the honorable St. Pat back in the balmy days when the leprechauns were doin' a spot o' housecleaning on the Ould Sod.

In fact it was the powerful heels of Donny Jonny, who necer "came lately" that almost changed the map of Hindustan on the swarthy puss of one Nanjo Singh. The hobo from the Himalayas probably won't be able to chew his currt and rice for a few days after the "coup-de-grace" was handed out by the flyin heels of Jonathan.

Donny left the floor in as smashing a drop-kick as these wrestle-weary orts have seen. He caught the Nanjo square on the banjo in mid-air. His jaw snapped like a six-weeks-old pretzel and for a moment he looked down what he thought was his chest and saw his heels.

Timmy, me bhoy was in his glory when he was pastin, the bejabers out of the Ornery H'Austrylian. Fred Atkins who is not averse to tearing off and ear, gouging out an eye, and sending them home for souvenirs. Both Atkins and Nanjo are as popular with the faithful as the well-known striped kitty at the equally well-known garden party, and their defeat in two straight falls met with roars of approval from the pewsters.

Timmy and Johnny were sweethearts as far as the faithful was concerned but they "done wrong" by our "Nell" Stkins especially when Timmy put the famous Irish sleeper on the 'ated Haustryllan.

But the canny kinkum doo from the land of the wallaby and the kangaroo is nobody's fool, in fact if it weren't for his villainous methods he would be rated as one of the best rasslers "in the racket".

Didn't Mean a Thing

But that didn't mean a thing to one Timotheus, he of the clan Geohagen. True Timmy took a lot of punishment especilly when the estimable "Bunny" Dunlop, a refereeing showman in his own right, discussed the price of pork in Pakistan with Nanjo, in a far corner.

Then suddenly the first fall was over. Timmy, bejapers clamped the sleeper on and the birdies twittered all over under and around the ring for the villains.

But the Salt and the Shamrock were not satisfied with single honors. They remembered what happened a week ago and were not going to be caught napping again, forced or otherwise. So they switched their antics to the Nanjo and the be-turbaned Hindu from Hackensack in the Himalayas finally took it 'on the button" and the night's fun was over.

The flying smashing heels of Don Johnny caught the Hindu square in the molars and Nanjo won't Eingh for a few days, and you can lay to that.

He mumbled something about 'that truck didn't' have its lights on" as palsy-walsy Atkins worked over his playmate.

Brydson, Gray Stage Marathon In Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Gord Brydson of Toronto Mississaugua and Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro staged a 26-hole marathon Friday in the quarter-final round of the Millar tournament at the suburban Islington golf club before Brydson earned the right to enter today's semi-final round of the professionals' and assistants' tournament

Both played it close through the first 18 and were two under par on the next seven when Brydson dropped a 15-foot putt for a birdie-three. Gray missed a four-footer to close out the match, the longest in Millar history.

The previous record was set in 1949 when Gray beat Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield after seven extra holes.

Norm Smith of Toronto York Downs and Merv Costello of Renfrew surprised the experts by surviving Friday's play and entering today's round against Brydson and veteran Willie Lamb of Toronto Lambton.

Smith edged Duke Adams of Brampton two and one, then came from behind a three-hole deficit to defeat Lloyd Tucker, Kitchener Rockway, on the 18th.

Costello shunted aside Jack Windsor of Oakville two-up in his morning round and then clipped defending champion Al Balding on the 18th to eliminate the Oakville expert.

The 50-year-old Lamb bested Clair Chinery of Hamilton Chedoke one-up in the morning and then put away Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield two and one.

Frankford Whips CNR Diesels 17-8; Take Game Lead

Kicking the ball around for at least six errors the CNR Diesels came up with a lackadalsical display of softball at the CNR Park last night and ran out of fuel as the Frankford Merchants pasted them with a well-deserved 17-8 win.

The village crew now hold a 2-1 edge on the semi-finals series the winner of which will meet Point Anne for the right to go in the OASA intermediate "A" playdowns.

The Diesels just didn't have it last night and the Rankin crew threw it at them lock, stock and barrel.

They scored a single in the first innings, came up with three in the second, two in the third, one —in the sixth and blasted four runners across the plate in the seventh. To top it off they pounced on all the pitching ability the railroad crew had and rubbed the salt into the wound with a mere half-dozen runs in their half of the ninth.

Diesels got off to a good start with a pair of runs in the first frame and whittled away at Curtis offerings over the rest of the route. They grabbed lones in the second, sixth, seventh and eighth and managed to push over a brace of tallies in the third. Their fielding was not of the best and the six errors didn't help the cause any.

Al. Adams started for the railroad crew and lasted until the ninth when four hits including a home run by Rankin, a walk and a pair of errors sent six Frankies bustin' over the plate. Jack Wardhaugh was sent in as a relief, but he was just another chucker.

Curtis lasted until the ninth for the winners when Bill Rankin was rushed into the breach when the Diesels showed some signs of life. But it was too little and too late and that was that.

Corbett was the hero of the piece from a Diesel batting standpoint, the big first baseman bashing out two doubles and two singles for five. D. Sword hit a homer and a single with Whiting and R. Empey smashing out doubles.

Cook had a near-perfect day at the plate for Frankford driving out a triple and four singles for six. Curtis slashed out a homer and a single while out a homer and a single while Rankin also came through with a home run, triple and a double. Gilmour helped with a three-bagger.

The score:

Frankford	132 001 406—17	13 1
Diesels	212 001 101— 8	12 6

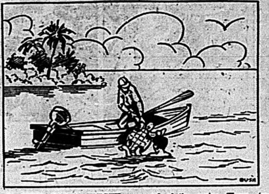
Pursuit of The Delectable Turtle



By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(noted sportsman)

Aboard the Cruiser Eustanne, out of Nassau, Bahama Islands—You won't believe this. I wouldn't either if I hadn't seen it with these own two eyes. So now you are forewarned unless you fancy the incredible, I'd advise you not to.

Don McCarthy of the Nassau Development Board and I are investigating the bonefish possibilities in some of the "out islands" of the Bahamas. With Capt. Milton Pearce, owner of the Eustanne, actings as skipper, guide, chef and general factotum, we are spending our days cruising in waters which, so far as we know, have not been fished before by "sport fishermen."

Today we were searching the northeastern shore of Mores Island when we spied a large patch of muddy water, evidently caused by a school of feeding bonefish. Cautiously, so as not to alarm the feeding school, we made our way out through the surf to take our position upwind from the "mud," this to facilitate casting.

Rough Side

The outboard motor was running slowly and the skiff bounced its way out against the waves when suddenly Milton let out a yell that would wake the dead and turned the motor on full force. Away we went, out through the heavy seas, the skiff crashing into the oncoming rollers with jolts that placed a sore strain on the vertebrae of my spine. I thought Milton had lost his mind.

When I could regain my balance, I looked back at Milton. There he stood in the stern, one hand tending the motor and the other pointing past me, over the prow. He was shouting, "Keep your eye on him! Keep your eye on him! "He seemed quite excited.

Turning, I followed the line of Milton's pointing finger and spied a small green turtle, fleeing for his life. He showed brownish-green against the sandy bottom, so I rose, seized the boat painter, and with my free hand, pointed out the zig-zag course of our quarry.

In the other skiff were the mate of the Eustanne and a member of the photographic staff of the Nassau Development Board who had been sent along to make a pictorial record of the cruise. These two joined in the chase.

As I say, the turtle was a small one—about in the twenty-pound class—and he managed to lose himself in a patch of grassy sea bottom. By that time the entire party was soaking wet from crashing through the rollers at top speed.

I turned and looked accusingly at Milton. "What's the idea? I inquired, not too pleasantly, I'm afraid. "Why get everybody soaked, chasing a thing that can swim twenty-five miles an hour?"

Wonderful Food

"The idea? We catch him to eat. Green turtle. Wonderful food."

"How do you go about catching a thing like that in deep water?"

"Run him down til he's tired, dive in and catch him. Easy; I show you. Let's go look for a big one."

Where you find one green turtle, I soon learned, you are quite apt to find more. It took us about five minutes to locate another one, this one quite large. Bonefishing forgotten for the moment, we gave chase.

From my place in the prow of the faster skiff, it became my job to be the lookout. Again I clung to the boat painter and marked the course of the speeding turtle with my free hand. That was indeed a wild ride through the heavy seas.

For the first hundred yeards or so the turtle had very much the best of it. However, he was large and easy to see through the clear water, so we kept after him. Gradually he used up his oxygen supply and began to tire. When, of necessity, he surfaced for air, somebody would throw an oar at him.

At last, exhausted, he settled to the bottom. As the smaller skiff approached, I saw that Basil, the photographer, was frantically stripping off his clothes. When the skiff was over the turtle, over the side went Basil.

I could watch the whole performance, as the weather was sunny and the water quite clear. Basil circled, approached the turtle from the rear, and then seized him by the sides of his shell.

70 Pound Turtle

After a struggle which lasted perhaps a minute, up came Basil with a green turtle weighing about seventy pounds. Not without some difficulty, he and the mate rolled the big beast over the side of the skiff where he lay on his back, flippers waving forlornly.

Casually the mate shoved him into the stern, making sure that the sharp beak was under the rear seat where it could do no damage to unwary bare toes. Then we went back to our "mudding" school for bonefish.

Milton expressed his disapproval concerning the way Basil had grabbed the turtle. The proper way, he said, is to seize the "collar" and the rear end of the shell. That way it is easy.

The natives at Mores Island were much impressed. There are no outboard motors on the island and the inhabitants depend on sails and oars for their motive power. Green turtles are much too fast to be overtaken by such craft. Basil, who had "dive de turtle" was pointed out as the hero of the day and was followed about by an admiring group of small boys.

Tomorrow night, Milton tells me, we shall have turtle steak for dinner. Also, he assures me, this delicacy is well worth the ducking that we took during the chase. Well—we live and learn.

Kitchener Club Takes Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—The George S. Lyon Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the Ontario team golf championship, will return to Kitchener for the fourth time in six years, but this time to the Westmount Country Club.

The Westmounters captured the trophy in Friday's scorching play at Toronto St. George's for the first time. The three other Kitchener wins have always been by the Rockway representatives.

Westmount came through by 10 strokes over London Hunt, 299 to 309, the third successive year that the Londoners have finished runners-up.

The Westmount quartet which disposed of 25 other clubs was made up of Gerry Kesselring and Gordon Ball, each with a 73, Grant Shirk, 76, and Don Heller, 77. It was the only team to have all four members in the select 70 circle.

Kitchener Rockway was third with Humber Valley fourth. Scarboro came next with St. George's and Brantford trailing.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, AUGUST 2, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — New and valuable friendships, travel by water, home and family interests top honored. Unexpected but pleasant happenings for business, personal interests.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — For you who must work, do it cheerfully and say a few prayers while at work. May be odd day in part but you can make it beneficial.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fine Mercury rays. Gains plus pleasure in good reading, study, improving any wholesome undertaking in which you are engaged. Unexpected gains favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Should be a gainful day with church and charity, also social interests, foremost. Essential activities and work sponsored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Happy outlook for general activities, especially those that will aid good causes, spread cheer and hope to the lonely and oppressed.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—While new and unusual ideas are sponsored, worthy matters generally can move ahead. Mercury's position warns against pushing to fatigue. Rest, relaxation vital.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Pleasant though quiet in your sector. Mostly up to you and your responsibilities. Be happier, attend church first. Rest awhile when you can.

October 24 to November 22 (Sorpio)—The only "don'ts" indicated are recklessness, overdoing, reminding yourself of past worries, and lack of faith. Right yourself 'round!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Big factors now are serenity and faith in God's goodness and in His reward for worthy endeavor. Think before you speak or act.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some leftovers that need attention? Some minor items that are important to the whole but are often forgotten? Get after them! Don't dally!

January 22 to February 20 (Pisces)—Should be neater work done, careful thinking and more regard for the religious services that promote true happiness. Fine day for you to check facts, errors.

YOU BORN TODAY: Have many diversified talents, and strong inclination to strive to the top. Can go it alone where necessary in attaining goals. More power to your initiative and generous attitude. Magnetic force and sympathy high in this Sign, so you could follow a field of endeavor allowing these right leeway. Pray daily, of course. Birthdate of: Westbrook Pegler, noted columnist; John Tyndall, great Eng. scientist.

HOTEL MAN DIES

VICTORIA (CP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Fred Fall, 67, well-known hotel man who died at his home here Tuesday.

Mr. Fall managed hotels in Montreal, Brockville, St. Catharines, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon. Survivors include a brother, Harry, of Brockville.

HITS LATE BREAKFASTS

ISLE OF ELY, England (CP)—Late breakfasts for school children are dangerous, parents war warned by Lt.-Col. J. C. Rivett-Carnac, chief constable for this Cambridgeshire district. Because children have to hurry to school, he said, they may risk death on the roads.

MONSTER STURGEON

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Northern Manitoba had a monster of its own—a monster sturgeon. An Indian from Pukatawagan caught the sturgeon in the Churchill river. It weighed 225 pounds, and the head alone was said to have weighed 30 pounds.

HARVEST

The harvest fields are freighted
With sheaves of golden grain,
The wagons, heavy laden,
Go creaking down the lane,
While harvesters are singing
A glad and joyous strain.

The trees in apple orchards
With fruit are bending low,
The hollyhocks are blooming,
The summer sun's a-glow
Oh! Praise Him for the blessings
A loving hand bestows.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON. — Some days ago when driving in the country, I was surprised to see that "the fields were already white to the harvest," so brief had seemed our early summer. Then, in the Bible of a dear friend, the late Mrs. Edward McFaul, I found the above poem, clipped from The Toronto Star, bringing again the thought of harvest. And Sunday being rainy, instead of attending church, I turned to the radio, and heard a church service from Rochester. The sermon entitled "What Are You Waiting For?" was taken from the text "Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest". The preacher dwelt on the delays of life—the farmer meaning to enjoy leisure in later life, the mother hoping to counsel her children when she had less work to do, and the business man thinking of helping the community when he had retired. But most of all, he stressed the evil of delay in living a life of Christian service. As he spoke I thought of a poem I had written some years ago during a busy life. The poem in part follows:

SOMETIME

Sometime we think we'll stop the toil
And ceaseless grind of every day,
And then have time to be more kind
To friends we meet on life's rough way.

And then we think we'll journey on
More leisurely than we do now,
That we may help to bear the load
Beneath whose weight a friend may bow.

Sometime we think, we'll rest a space
In shady nook on life's highway
And hand a cup of water cold
To thirsty travellers, day by day.

Sometimes we think as days go by
We'll call to cheer a friend that's ill,
With flowers or fruit, with book or song,
The weary hours with joy to fill.

Sometime! of life we have no lease,
Today is ours, today alone,
To share each other's burdens here
And weep with those that moan.

For those whom now we fain would help
Tomorrow may have crossed the bar,
And earthly word of song or cheer
Can never reach that shore afar.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benham, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Leona Whyte spent the week-end in town guest of Mrs. Anderson and Miss M. Blakely.

Mr. and Mrs .W. Luffman and Mr. and Mrs. G. Channel spent a day recently in the huckleberry hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hubbs, of Cedar Springs, and Mrs. Estelle Chisholm, of Stirling, have returned home after spending several week's holidays here.

Mr. Norman Foster has purchased the home of Mrs. Daniels, Main Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas and family, of Ottawa, will spend the week-end in Wellington, guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Root, Consecon, have returned home after spending several weeks' holiday in England.

Woman's Association

The July meeting of the W.A., was held in the pleasant Sunday School room on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Harold Nash in charge, and Mrs. Earl Marvin, pianist. Mrs. Ida McFaul read the minutes of last meeting and the roll call, and Mrs. C. H. Greer gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Barton Cronk spoke of the plans for re-decorating the church.

Mrs. Frank Harris then took charge of the program and called on Mrs. Freeman, who gave an account of the recent church vacation school, concluding with the hymn "Unto the Hills".

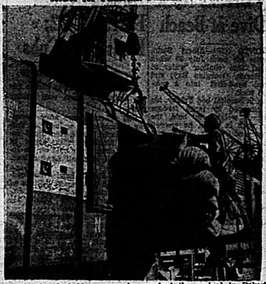
Mrs. W. Crawford, of Lathan, New York, who has a summer home here, was then introduced by Mrs. Harris, and delighted all with her wonderful display of buttons which were in view on the tables before her. Her interesting talk was heard with attention, and all joined in thanking her for the novel display. At the close, a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed. Guests attended from Bloomfield, Glenora and Toronto.

Mrs. (Dr.) Garratt, of Yonkers, N.Y., is the summer guest of Mrs. Effie Phillips.

Mrs. Patton, Mrs. Robson and sister of Toronto, are summer guests here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton spent a few days in Peterborough, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cochrane.

Relief for Pakistan Famine Victims



Colorful dockside ceremonies marked the arrival in Pakistan of the first shipload of wheat sent by the United States to stave off famine in that country. The first ship to arrive was the Anchorage Victory which brought 9,800 tons of grain for unloading at Karachi. The ceremonies, in which more than 2,000 persons participated, marked the beginning of a total shipment of 700,000 tons of the grain to Pakistan. — Central Press Canadian.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

FAR SIGHTED

Imagine being able to spot a mouse in the meadow grass from a height of two hundred feet! red tailed hawks can. Eagles have been reported to have seen dead fish floating on the water nearly two miles distant, and vultures locate carrion from miles away, though it is a well known fact that birds have little sense of smell.

The eyesight of all members of birdland is infinitely better than ours, and nature has provided something quite extraordinary in the way of eyesight for birds that find their food while soaring at great heights. A special device in the eye does the trick. Each eye, placed on the side of the head and therefore working independently, has more powerful vision than our two, which both face front and focus on one object. These birds can see to the right and to the left at the same moment.

Again nature has arranged that eyes are in the best position possible for each kind of bird. Woodcocks' eyes are high in their heads, because these ground birds must look upwards for enemies. Soaring birds' eyes are low, because they are looking for food on the ground as they circle high in the sky. They also have something special to aid them when the sun is overly bright. It reminds us of dark glasses used by drivers, for this is a third eyelid that is just a thin membrane through which they can see although it keeps out the glare.

The red-tail belongs to class of hawks known as "buteos", all built pretty much on the same pattern: broad wings and widely expanded tails. They spiral upwards with wide open wings and tails, and from high in the heavens take a long view of a large expanse of country. From this height the red-tail sights its prey, and with half closed wings rapidly descends, to pounce upon the unfortunate victim before the danger is realized. Its favorite food is some rodent, but it also captures snakes, lizards, frogs, and even insects. Only diseased or crippled birds are taken.

The bulky, stick nests of red-tails are generally found in the tallest trees at the edge of the forest, and are often lined with shredded inner bark. These birds are artistically inclined. They frequently decorate their nests, which are used year after year by the same householder, with green foliage that is changed from time to time for fresh leaves.

Shows His Color

Nicholas Ploumbidis, 52, leader of the communist underground organization in Greece who is being tried with nine other members of the communist party's central committee in Athens, coyly holds up two carnations, one red and one white during recess in his trial. Later he put the red carnation in his lapel. Ploumbidis had been mugging for photographers and chatting with newsmen but cagily refused to answer all

Northern Alberta Has Record Rains

EDMONTON (CP)—"Sunny Alberta," beset by floods in the south in June, now is reeling from record rains in the north.

The downpour, which at times reached cloudburst proportions, dumped nearly three inches of rain on Edmonton Friday night in a little more than four hours.

Driven by winds that at times reached 52 miles an hour, the rains flooded basements, stalled automobiles, cut off light service and disrupted communications.

The weather office could not say whether the 36 inches that fell since Thursday night was a record.

Water three feet deep sloshed around in the basement of the administration building at the Edmonton airport, cutting off power to the weather office on the second floor.

Canadian fur imports during the 1951-52 season included 33,821 China and Japanese mink pelts worth $106,000.

About two-thirds of the marble quarried in Canada is produced in Ontario, the rest in Quebec and British Columbia.

RCAF Pilot Escapes Using Ejection Seat

Pilot Officer G. W. Hunter, 30, of Hamilton, bailed out of his CF-100 jet fighter before the aircraft crashed and burned near North Bay, Ont. The pilot was able to clear the aircraft by the use of his ejector seat. The jet crashed near McQuaby Lake, 25 miles southwest of North Bay. F.O. Hunter is married and has a son, Ian, five. — Central Press Canadian.

Believe 'Canada' Is Indian Word Meaning Village

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian board on geographical names said Friday it believes the word "Canada" comes from an Indian word meaning "village."

The board said Jacques Cartier's report on his second voyage in 1535 included a list of Iroquois words among which was "Canada" meaning a village, collection of tents or encampment. The Iroquois were one of the principal Indian tribes.

The board, comprising officials of the mines and technical surveys department, gave two other possible explanations for the origin of the name but said it thinks them less likely than the Cartier explanation.

Early Spanish explorers who cruised along North American shores are said to have described them by the phrase "aca nada," meaning "nothing here." Also, it is thought, the word "Canada" which means strait in 15th century Portuguese, may have been applied to these shores by explorers of that country who sighted them.

The board said it is inclined to reject these two explanations because there is no written evidence to support them.

Stirling Airman Given Promotion

OTTAWA — Flight Lieutenant Desmond F. Jackman, of Stirling, Ont., and Hamilton, has been promoted to the rank of Squadron Leader, Air Force headquarters announced today.

Stationed at Air Force headquarters since May, 1951, he enlisted in the RCAF in January, 1941. He received his air observers badge and his commission in September, 1942.

S/L Jackman served overseas with No. 428 Squadron from October, 1942, to August, 1945, winning the Distinguished Flying Cross in September, 1944. On his return from overseas he was transferred to RCAF Trenton, Ont. He successfully completed a radio officers course at Clinton during 1948, then was transferred to Summerside, P.E.I., and RCAF Rockcliffe, Ont.

Squadron Leader Jackman was born in Ottawa and educated in Hamilton and Stirling, Ont.

SEVEN-YEAR TERM

TORONTO (CP)—Grant Morgan 20, of Toronto was sentenced Friday to seven years in penitentiary for his part in the June 25 armed robbery of a central Toronto jewellery store. Jan Houska of Toronto was sentenced July 24 to seven years for his part in the robbery. The robbery netted the pair $2,079 in diamond rings and $260 in cash.

Boy Breaks Neck In Dive at Beach

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Stein, 15, broke his neck July 26 when he dived into shallow water at Balm Beach, Georgian Bay, and rammed head-first into a submerged rock.

Lying in hospital bed Friday, his head clamped by large forceps and heavy weights to hold the broken neck in place, he warned children and adults alike that diving into strange waters doesn't pay.

"Guess I was in too much of a hurry," he said. "I knew there was a rock somewhere, but I dived in anyway. It'll be a long time before I do that again."

Royals Dehorn Buffalo 14-2; Birds Peck Cubs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The charging Buffalo Bisons ran up against a stone wall Friday night.

Full of confidence after sweeping a three-game series from Toronto Maple Leafs, the Herd invaded Montreal with hopes of strengthening their hold on the International Baseball League leadership.

But the Royals handed the leaders one of their worst lickings of the current campaign—a 14-2 setback—to advance to within 1½ games of first place.

Pennant-hopeful Rochester Red Wings bounced back into the victory column at the expense of the tail-end Cubs. The Birds whipped the cellar-dwellers 10-4 at Springfield, and now are only 2½ games behind Buffalo.

The Wings used a 14-hit attack against three hurlers. Niles Jordan relieved by Jack Crimian in the eighth, received credit for the victory.

In the only other scheduled game Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Orioles 3-1 at Baltimore as Art Hartley limited the home club to seven scattered hits. The victory moved the Chiefs into a tie for fifth place with idle Toronto.

Getting back to Montreal, the Royals had four big innings. They scored three times in each of three innings and four in another frame.

Hamp Coleman went the distance for Montreal, allowing the Herd only seven scattered hits. Frank Lary, first of five Buffalo moundsmen, suffered his eighth loss against 10 victories.

DISPLAY SUBWAY CARS

TORONTO (CP) — Passenger coaches for Toronto's new subway line went on display Friday. Built in England, the floors are of rubber laid on cork, with a steel frame. More than 100 coaches, each 57 feet long and with 62 seats, have been ordered by the Toronto Transportation Commission at a total cost of about $8,000,000.

BIG BIRTHDAY PARTY

BARRIE (CP) — Thousands of visitors poured into this Lake Simcoe town Friday night in preparation for today's opening of a gala centennial celebration. Highlights of the week-long affair will include a band festival, fireworks, a regatta, a field day, a soapbox derby, farm exhibits, square dance and contest, parades and mass picnics. pike pole he had lost.

Key to Galt

At Galt, Ont., Prime Minister St. Laurent received this giant-sized key to the city. Speaking to 800 Galt residents, he defended his government's attitude to trade with the sterling bloc of nations. He said progress was being made to make dollars and pounds interchangeable, but it was mainly a British exchange control device and had to be handled by Britain. — Central Press Canadian.

To Get $44,000 Tornado Relief

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Six municipalities in Western Ontario will receive cheques, totalling more than $44,000 when the London tornado relief fund is officially closed Aug. 15.

The money will be distributed on a percentage basis to five counties and the city of Sarnia to help city dwellers and farmers hard-hit by the May 21 twister that ripped across Western Ontario.

Thirteen representatives to a co-ordinating committee Friday night unanimously voted to include Huron county in the benefit program. Originally, only the counties of Oxford, Perth, Lambton, Middlesex and the city of Sarnia were to share contributions.

Prisoner Exchange In Korea to Begin Wednesday Morn

Communists Will Hand Over 12,763 Captives, 400 a Day

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Four hundred Allied war prisoners come home to freedom in a few hours, opening the happiest postscript to the Korean war—"Operation Big Switch."

The big trade of Allied war prisoners for Red begins Wednesday at 9 a.m. (8 p.m. EDT today).

The Reds are handing over 12,763 captives—3,313 Americans, 8,186 South Koreans, 822 Britons, 14 Canadians and 328 from eight other Allied countries. Four hundred will be freed daily, 100 each hour for four hours.

Some spent almost all 37 months of the Korean war in bleak prison camps in North Korea.

They'll return to freedom at this neutral centre where Allies and Reds met for two years and finally wrote an armistice July 27—the ticket to freedom for the PoWs.

The Allies are giving the Reds 74,000 prisoners—69,000 North Koreans and 5,000 Chinese—at the rate of 2,400 able bodies and 360 sick and wounded daily.

Red Cross On Hand

On the eve of the great exchange, Red Cross representatives from both sides crossed the line at Panmunjom to begin inspection of prisoner camps and to comfort homebound captives.

Thirty Allied members went north, the first time in more than three years that any Allied representative has gone into North Korea without fighting.

Thirty Reds came south under protection of UN military police, grinning like schoolkids at their first ride in helicopters.

The Reds said the first group of 100 men to be freed would be sick and wounded—35 Americans, 50 South Koreans, eight Turks, two Filipinos, one Briton, one Australian, one Canadian, one Belgian and one South African.

An hour later, at 10 a.m., they'll hand back 50 South Koreans, 25 Britons, 10 Filipinos, seven French, seven Colombians, and one Greek.

The 11 a.m. group will include 35 Americans, 15 Turks and 50 sick and wounded South Koreans.

At noon, 100 South Koreans will be released.

Prepare Reception

Allied troops hurried through last-minute preparations to care for the freed captives.

From Panmunjom, the American prisoners will be sped by truck to Freedom Village, near Munsan. There they'll get medical care, showers, mail, food, press interviews for those who are willing and just about everything else the army can think of before sailing for home.

British and Canadian prisoners will go to nearby Britannia Camp and then will be flown to Japan and home. South Koreans will go to Liberty Village.

Some of the sick and wounded Americans may be flown to Japan and on to the United States for treatment.

Communist correspondents said the first Allied captives arrived by train Monday night at Kaesong, the advance Red truce headquarters six miles northwest of here.

2000 At Kaesong

A Red Cross spokesman estimated there must be 2,000 PoWs in Kaesong or en route from Red camps far to the north.

The UN Red Cross representatives sent 52,000 pounds of food and other personal gear into North Korea for Allied prisoners and the Communists sent 25 truckloads south. Long lines of Red and Allied trucks entered Panmunjom.

The Red Cross spokesman said the Communists asked that 100 cases of Red Cross supplies be dropped off at the Kaesong camp. Each case has supplies for 20 men.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Cool air that has covered Ontario for the past few days is now moving out of the province. A disturbance that has centred over Minnesota on this morning's weather map is causing warm humid air to move up from the the United States preceded by showers and thundershowers. Very warm and humid weather will cover southwestern Ontario tonight but fresher air moving down from Western Canada will bring lower humidities again by Wednesday afternoon or evening. No major temperature changes are indicated for central and northern regions of the province.

Order Inquest Into Deaths Of 20 Persons

MORRISBURG (CP)—An Ontario provincial police inspector said Monday an inquest will be held Friday into the deaths of 20 persons who perished last Friday when a Toronto-to-Montreal express bus hit a stalled truck on the highway and plunged into the Williamsburg canal near here.

Inspector Robert H. Wannell of the OPP's criminal investigation board said the inquest will open on schedule regardless of whether the two drivers involved in the accident are well enough to attend.

Both Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston, driver of the Colonial Coach Lines bus, and Max Roodman of Toronto, driver of the light truck, are recovering in hospital at Cornwall.

Inspector Wannell said the drivers still are not sufficiently recovered to be questioned.

He said he has been asked to make a full report on the accident to Attorney-General Dana Porter.

Chinese Student Given Degree By Princess

LEEDS, England (CP) — Loud applause greeted Miss Wai Har Lau, 25-year-old Leeds University student from Singapore, when she received her bachelor of arts honors degree from the hands of the Princess Royal, who is chancellor of the University.

Princess Mary, the Countess of Harewood, leaned forward to whisper congratulations as she shook the hand of the crippled student. The girl had spent nearly three years in two Leeds hospitals, encased in plaster. All during her illness she continued her studies.

Because she could not sit up to write, she passed her preliminary examinations by dictating her answers to tutors at her bedside. Fellow-students had visited the hospitals to read their notes to her. But later on, she was well enough to return to the university to take her final examination.

A happy re-union followed the degree-awarding ceremony at town hall, when Miss Wai Har Lau was congratulated by other members of her family—21-year-old Miss Wai Chen Lac from King's College, Newcastle; Miss Wai Song Lau, a music student in Manchester, and Yu Dong Lau, 18-year-old student in Leeds Technical College.

Miss Wai Har Lau will return to Singapore as a teacher, but first will spend a year in London. She said "I owe my life and everything that has happened to me to the people of Leeds who have done so much for me."

FIRE GUTS APT. HOUSE

COBOURG (CP)—A $0,000 fire Monday night in an apartment house at Braemar Lodge on No. 2 Highway just east of here left 22 persons homeless. The building, containing four apartments, was destroyed. It was owned by Charles Boucher.

Search for Spanish Treasure Hidden Since 1541 Made by Archeologist

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—United States archeologist, Henry Whitehead, of Chicago, is making a one-man expedition to search for Spanish treasure hidden in Northern Guatemala since 1541.

Before leaving Guatemala City, Whitehead stated that his ultimate destination was near the Piedras Negras Mayan ruins in a virtually unexplored section of the state of Peten, near the border of Mexico. The area consists largely of thick jungle hiding the remains of the late Mayan empire.

The archeologist, after several months study of ancient documents in Guatemala's San Carlos University, said he had detailed information about the treasure and estimated its value at "several million dollars in gold and silver."

This followed several years' study of old Spanish maps and historical documents in Mexico City.

Whitehead said considerable treasure destined for Spain from Mexico was packed by mule from Mexico City to Guatemala where it was regularly placed on Spanish ships at the Guatemalan Pacific port of Iztpa, south of the present port of San Jose.

The Mexico-Guatemala trail led through the area near the Piedras Negras, he said, and that route was abandoned by the Spanish conquerors because of continual attacks by Indians.

Whitehead said he was confident he knew the location of the treasure taken from one of the pack trains by the Indians and placed in hiding in one of their temples.

PRICE INDEX UP BY HALF A POINT IN MONTH OF JUNE

Food, Clothing, Rents All Show Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose half a point in June to 15.4 from 114.9 under the impact of a seasonal increase in food costs and higher prices for clothing, rents and other commodities.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the rise in the prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, largely reflected seasonal increases in the price of eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Price increases for these goods drove the food sub-index up to 112.7 from 111.4.

The old cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose 1.2 points to 186 from 184.8 in May.

Also contributing to the increase in the consumer price index were higher prices for cured pork products, fractionally higher prices for flour and bread and increases in a number of centres in the price of coal, gas and household help.

The clothing sub-index rose to 110.3 from 110.1 due to higher prices of knitting yarns overalls and work shirts. The sub-index for household operations jumped to 117 from 116.6.

The index for other commodities and services rose slightly to 15.2 from 115.1 due to higher prices for newspaper subscriptions and drugs. These ouweighed a slight drop in the cost of personal care items.

The shelter index increased to 123.9 from 123.6 following advances in the rent and home-ownership sub-groups.

During May pork prices reversed their trend of the previous month, dropping slightly. Beef prices were unchanged.

The 14.9 figure for May prices was a reversal of a continuous downward trend that started six months ago.

The June index was 2.8 points below the record high of 118.2 in December, 1951.

State Funeral Held for Taft At Washington

CINCINNATI (AP)—The body of Senator Robert A. Taft was flown to his home town of Cincinnati Monday.

Accompanying the body here were Lloyd and Robert Taft, Jr., sons of the Republican leader, and their wives, and Jack Martin, the senator's executive secretary.

Earlier Monday in Washington, Taft received a last full measure of homage from U.S. leaders at a state funeral beneath the Capitol dome.

A Congress in which the Ohioan became almost a one-man institution paused in its adjournment rush and gathered with President Eisenhower, high dignitaries of government, the Taft family and friends for solemn memorial rites in the vast rotunda.

Prayers, a single warm tribute, the national anthem—that was all. Yet in this simple service, Taft was honored as only 12 of his countrymen have been before him.

After it was over, the unopened bronze casket was carried slowly down the massive front steps of the capitol to the plaza where hundreds of ordinary folk were assembled. It was then taken to the National Airport.

Political Leaders Heading Into Last Week of Campaign

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent foregoes the election campaign today to pitch into a stack of government business in the capital, giving George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, a chance to make up that lost July 16.

That was the day Mr. Drew was fog-bound at Sydney, N.S., and had to pass up his projected Newfoundland visit. He lost a full day's campaigning.

Mr. Drew launches a second invasion of Quebec province today with speeches at Montreal. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell winds up his week-long British Columbia tour with a meeting at Vancouver.

Mr. Drew spent Monday campaigning in his home riding of Carleton, mostly rural but which also takes in a slice of Ottawa. He promised that a Progressive Conservative government would undertake greater development of Canada's natural resources. More Canadian raw materials would be processed in this country rather than shipped to foreign countries, especially the United States.

"One of the decisions to be made Aug. 10 (election day) is whether you want a national policy to develop our resources, or to have them exported to the United States to build up that country."

Canada's unique combination of natural resources and power to develop them called for a national policy, declaring these resources "will be used in the first place for the advantages of Canadians themselves and for the employment of young Canadians."

"If we process them here in cases where it is economically sound, Canada in 50 years will have a population of from 60,000,000 to 70,000,000," Mr. Drew predicted.

Returns to Ottawa

Mr. St. Laurent polished off a two-day tour of Quebec's eastern townships with a rally Monday night at St. Johns. He returns to Ottawa today for a final cabinet meeting before Monday's voting and resumes his electioneering at the capital Wednesday night.

The prime minister, replying to Progressive Conservative arguments that Canada's personal income taxes are too high, said tax rates are lower in this country than in the U.S. or Britain.

A single person earning $2,000 a year was taxed $269 in the U.S. and $332 in Britain. The Canadian tax was $180. A single person earning $4,000 annually paid a tax of $696 in the U.S., $1,032 in Britain and $505 in Canada.

The rate for married persons with two children was slightly higher in Canada than in the U.S., Mr. St. Laurent said, but when family allowances were considered, the Canadian rate was the lowest of the three nations.

"For example, a married man with two children, earning $4,000 a year, paid $320 in Canada, $371 in the U.S., and $704 in Britain. But in Canada the average family with two children received between $150 and $170 a year in family allowance payments."

At Victoria, Mr. Coldwell said Canada's wealth is sufficient to support a high standard of social security.

Payments would merely involve a redistribution of wealth—the taxing of those who can afford it to give to those who need it. "In other words, the sharing of one another's burdens."

Would Increase Pensions

The Liberals had given Canada only a "piece-meal and inadequate" system of social security and what had been given had been forced by CCF pressure and public opinion.

Mr. Coldwell said a CCF government would increase old-age and blind pensions to bring them in line with the cost-of-living. The means test would be abolished, making the old-age pension available to all at 65. Pensions would be provided for the disabled.

Holiday Week-End Accidents Claim 25 Lives in Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty-five persons died in mishaps during the Civic Holiday week-end in Ontario.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 13 drowned, 10 died in traffic accidents, one was burned to death and one was killed in a harness-racing mishap.

A middle-aged couple and their fishing companion were drowned in the Mississagi river, 60 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, when their small outboard motor boat was sucked into Shining Rapids and capsized. The victims were Leonard Nicholson and his wife and Clayton Brock, 37, all of Thessalon.

Conrad Veseau, 18, of Cochrane and Cecil Fowler, 33, a native of new Brunswick, employed by the Ontario Hydro at its Island Falls power plant, 40 miles north of Cochrane, were drowned Monday while fishing below the power dam. Their small boat got caught in the tail race and sank.

Other Drownings

Other Ontario drownings: W. V. McPhail of Toronto fell out of a row-boat while fishing in Maple Lake near Parry Sound; Martin Holmes, 17, of South Porcupine failed to surface after starting in an underwater swimming race at Mary Lake near Huntsville; Owen Roberts, 18, of Toronto disappeared while swimming with friends in Lake Simcoe; seven-year-old Russell Burns fell into Meaford harbor and was drowned while playing with a toy boat he had received as a birthday present three days before; Caroline Cartier, 8, of Plymouth, Mich., was drowned in Lake Erie surf near Kingsville; Bill Garragh, 29, of Kingston went under while swimming from the shore to a dredge in the Bay of Quinte; Allan Sinclair, 23, of Toronto failed to surface after diving in for a swim at Lake Simcoe, and Peter Durand, 4, of Stratford fell into the water at Gorrie Dam near Wingham while his father fished nearby.

Traffic Deaths

Traffic accidents were: Godby Marion, 22, of Brantford, died in a Brantford hospital a few hours after his car struck a transport near there; Newton Watson, 48, of Kleinburg, killed in a two-car collision near Ramore in the Timmins area; Edward Fuss, 17, of Toronto, killed when his motorcycle struck a car head-on near London; Joan Crawford, 15, of Foleyet died in Walkerton hospital after running into the side of a car outside a farm; Carlotta Paul, 30, of Pawtucket, R. I., a Toronto night-club singer, killed when the car in which she was riding was hit broadside by a transport on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Oakville; James Lester Brown, 15, of Port Burwell, killed when his motorcycle hit a farm horse; Bertrum Hannusch, 33, of Waterloo, killed when his light truck rolled into a ditch near Kitchener; Roy Border of Owen Sound, died from injuries suffered when his car went into a ditch near Chatsworth; Grace Manion, 7, and her five-year-old sister Helen, of Kitchener, killed near Cornwall when their father's car overturned on the highway.

Harry W. Field, 71, noted Ontario harness racer, was killed when his three-year-old pacer trampled him at the Stratford Turf Club's Civic Holiday races.

Four-year-old Nancy Ida Rose was burned to death at Peterborough when her father's two-storey garage burned down.

Queen Mother Marks Her 53rd Birthday Tuesday

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen Mother, 53, today, is spending her birthday in the way she likes best—quietly at home.

She returned to London Monday from Sandringham with Princess Margaret for a private family celebration at Clarence House, her London residence.

The Queen also returned to London last night, from Windsor.

There will be a private luncheon party, and an important part of the birthday is the opening of messages of congratulations from all parts of the Commonwealth.

Pilot Saves Lives of 38 By Belly-Landing

PARIS (CP) — A French pilot belly-landed his disabled Air France Constellation on a beach in southwest Turkey Monday, saving the lives of 38 of the 42 persons aboard.

The pilot, Capt. Raymond Terry, sent out an SOS early in the day, failed and that he was about to make a crash landing near the tiny island of Kasterllorizon, off southern Turkey.

Instead, he nursed the huge plane toward Fethiye, on the Gulf of Makri, to the northwest, and nosed it toward the beach. He landed in the water close enough to shore for the momentum to carry it onto the beach.

DULLES ARRIVES IN KOREA CAPITAL TO MEET RHEE

Plane 13 Hours Late After Stormy Flight

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP) — United States State Secretary Dulles arrived here tonight to confer with President Syngman Rhee on post-armistice American-Korean relations.

Dulles' plane, carrying Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, and several of the secretary's top aides, landed at 10:06 p. m. (9:06 a. m. EDT)—13 hours late after a flight across the stormy North Pacific.

By flying to Korea, Dulles fulfilled a pledge he made prior to the signing of the Korean truce — that a high-ranking American diplomat would visit the fiery South Korean president if Rhee agreed not to obstruct an armistice.

..FAR EAST xx 4th para dl

Far East Air Forces said in Tokyo a second big transport carrying U.S. Army Secretary Robert Stevens was accompanying Dulles flight.

Anxious Moments

There were anxious moments between 9 a.m., Dulles' original scheduled arrival time at Seoul, and an air force announcement nearly 2½ hours later that the secretary's plane had not left Shemya until 9:47 a.m.—12 hours late.

Presumably the delay was caused by stormy weather over the Aleutian route which the planes took from McHord air force base, Wash., although there was no official explanation.

Dulles is scheduled to confer five days with Rhee, unhappy partner in the Korean truce.

Before his departure, Dulles called the talks "a preliminary exchange of views with the government of the Republic of Korea" prior to the post-armistice political conference.

He will discuss with the 78-year-old president a U.S.-Korean treaty to strengthen the war-torn country against the possibility of future Communst attack, and the American plan to make Korea a "show window of the free world" by using troops for rehabilitation.

The White House stressed Monday that combat troops would not be used for construction work. A presidential secretary said that instead technical training and equipment will be used to speed reconstruction of South Korea.

Banners on Seoul streets gave some hint of what Rhee wants to tell Dulles. The major points stressed included:

1. Unification of North and South Korea under the Republic of Korea.
2. Withdrawal of Chinese Communist troops from North Korea.
3. Early conclusion of a neutral security pact between the United States and the Republic of Korea.

Thousands Attend

DUTTON, Ont. (CP)—Thousands attended the Highland Games here Monday, finding the grounds by following the lilting, dancing skirl of the bagpipes.

Peggy Ann Bowder of Merritton won the Highland fling for those 16 and under. In their 10-and-under class, Sharon Mitchelmore of St. Catharines was first.

Sharon also was winner of the sword dance for competitors 10 and under.

Tissue Examined to Determine Site of Cancer That Killed Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tissue taken after death is being examined to determine the primary site of the spreading cancer that killed Senator Robert A. Taft.

This was disclosed today with the revelation of the first complete medical history of the case as known to date.

The information was given to a reporter by one of the doctors completely familiar with the case. He asked that his name not be used, but he said the details were released with the permission of the Taft family.

1. "First proof" that the senator was suffering from a malignancy was established at the Holmes hospital in Cincinnati during the week of May 27.

2. Taft knew about the malignancy from the time of the Cincinnati diagnosis and during "complex and exhaustive tests" both before and after that diagnosis was "a swell patient who went right down the line following recommendations, without any complaint at all."

3. Almost from the start of his medical observation in late April, he received frequent blood transfusions—twice a week—even while he was up and about his Senate duties.

4. Early in June, confirmatory tests were made at New York hospital during a two-day stay that has never been made public up to now.

Taft, upon the advice of his Washington and Cincinnati doctors, entered the hospital under the assumed name of "Howard A. Roberts, Jr." The reason for this, according to the Washington doctor who revealed the story, was "protection to him in the event that we might be wrong" about the cancer diagnosis.

5. Later, he underwent trial treatments with some "new experimental agents" and was told that "they were purely experimental and that if there was any indication that they might be effective he should regard himself as a 'guinea pig.'"

They showed no apparent effect, however, against the particular type of cancer that was then evident.

6,000 Berlin Reds Fail in 3 Attacks On Food Stations

West Berlin Police Beat Off Raids by Invading Reds

BERLIN (CP)—West Berlin police, wielding clubs and water guns, today smashed three attacks by more than 6,000 East Berlin Communists trying to storm American free food stations.

Dozens of heads were cracked in street battles as reinforced squads drove the Red toughh back across the border after they had thrust into the American Sectors.

About 150 Communists were arrested.

The Communists sent their storm troopers to attack the food stations after police threats and confiscations had failed to keep tens of thousands of East Berlin hungry from swarming across the border to receive the American gifts.

West Berlin police said they expected more attacks. They reinforced their guards around all the stations near the Soviet sector border.

Mobile water guns were moved up to strategic sectors.

The three battles each lasted about half an hour until police reinforcements routed the invaders.

Gave Them Beating

Two thrusts were made into the neighboring American sector boroughs of Kreusberg and Neukoelin, and here the battling was fiercest.

"We gave them a good beating," said a West Berlin policeman.

The French sector clash was in the tough industrial borough of Wedding, scene of many previous clashes between the Reds and West Berlin anti-Communists.

More trouble was expected at Wedding, where police spotted other Communist gangs gathering near the border.

Some women were in the Communist columns which made the first attack at Wedding shortly before noon. Western police arrested seven women demonstrators.

Although one of the American sector clashes occurred in the yard of a school being used as a food station, the relief program proceeded undisturbed under reinforced police guard.

Come In Throngs

Hungry East Berlin relief seekers came over in such throngs that it was expected yesterday's distributation of 150,000 parcels would be topped today. These two days have been devoted entirely to serving East Berliners.

Tomorrow will be the turn of people from the Russian occupation zone to be served again. But most of these 18,000,000 East Germans are barred from coming by Saturday night. The blockade appears to be holding tight despite reported strikes and protest demonstrations.

Angry women Communists shouted "We don't want American food" and flung themselves against police, hair and skirts flying. One policeman stumbled and fell as he tried to break up a group of 60 demonstrators.

The Communists hurled themselves on top of him. Seven other policemen ran to the scene with batons swinging and freed the pinned-down policeman.

Legion President Critical of Liquor Board

SUDBURY (CP)—T. A. M. Hulse president of the Canadian Legion's Ontario command, said Monday that the Ontario Liquor Control board is discriminating against legion branches.

In his address to 600 delegates at the opening of the annual provincial command convention, he said the legion is the only organization in Canada limited to two banquet permits a year.

He asked the federal government to take action to insure permanence of Remembrance Day observances Nov. 11 and urged legion members to vote in the Aug. 10 federal election.

The convention heard reports that membership in Ontario has reached the highest point in history. R. K. Brunton of Sudbury, treasurer, said it appeared the command would have a substantial surplus for the year.

Other resolutions:

That children should be protected from getting elementary education from subversive teachers;

That a standing committee for veterans' affairs be set up in each session of the federal Parliament;

That parcel postage rates on items addressed to soldiers in Korea be reduced by 50 per cent.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar opened the convention.

"It is the most important task of statesmen today to see that the Germany of tomorrow lines up with the western powers, and not with Communist Russia," Gen. Crerar said.

Pope Defines Functions of Parish in Letter

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope, defining the functions of the parish in a letter published Monday in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, said that by its stability the parish was the support of the social edifice.

"The parish is the church with its roots in the soil of everyland, with its permanent institutions and its wealth of experience," he wroe.

The letter, which was in English, was addressed to James Cardinal McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto, and Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, on the occasion of Canada's Catholic "Social Week."

"Around the church spire, generations succeed each other uninterruptedly," the Pope said.

"The families which have sealed their union before the altar never cease to find there the principle of their cohesion and strength, while in the Catholic school their children receive an education which perpetuates, with supernatural faith, the ancestral values of the Canadian family."

Fine Weather Makes Holiday Source of Enjoyment for Many Brilliant August sunshine poured down on a holiday-bent citizenry over the "long-week-end" as thousands made the exodus from the city to seek their favorite recreation.

An estimated ten thousand lined the tree-fringed shores of the Prince Edward Yacht Club course in Picton at the annual Gold Cup Regatta on Monday afternoon.

Bowlers from all parts of Ontario and some from Quebec, 264 all told, converged on the city to take part in the 11th. annual Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament at the Belleville Bowling Club.

Long, unbroken lines of motor vehicles lined the main highways from Friday night until Sunday as holiday seekers sought the outdoors.

But each to his own. A number from here attended the Canoe Regatta held at Gananoque. The ubiquitous Isaak Waltons, swarmed about lakes, rivers, and creeks in quest of the elusive bass and muskie.

Resorts of the district were fully quoted, albeit the majority of people left for home early Monday evening as cool breezes tempered the warmth left by a blazing afternoon sun.

Parks Crowded

Lakeside parks at Tweed, Wellington, the Outlet and the Sandbanks were the scene of many family and organization picnics.

Camp and cottage in all parts of the district were occupied.

The waterfront was a hive of activity Monday morning as those who sought the fresh breezes of the Bay of Quinte readied their craft for the day's fun. A number of yachts and power-craft went to Picton, some over the week-end.

The bay bridge was lined with anglers all day Sunday and Monday.

Roadside tables were in steady use as picnickers sought shade to eat the afternoon and evening basket meals.

A few accidents, one of them serious, occurred in the city and immediate vicinity.

While the main traffic was confined to the inter-city arteries, it was fairly heavy on roads leading to northern sections of the district as holiday-makers sought the cool breezes of the lakes and streams of that section. Algonquin Park proved a popular spot.

Some turned the holiday into a profit making venture with not a few from the city visiting the "Huckleberry Hills" along Highway No. 7 to pick the succulent fruit.

Dr. S. Eagleson, Madoc, Dies; Had Long Illness

Country doctor in the Madoc district for more than half a century and formerly active in the public life of the community, Dr. Samuel Eagleson, of Madoc village, died in Belleville General Hospital Sunday, following a two years' illness. He was 82.

A lifelong resident of the Madoc community where he served his 54 years as a country doctor, he was born at Queensboro and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Eagleson.

Dr. Eagleson's career took him back and forth across 1,500 miles of Eastern Ontario, to farm homes, villages and lonely bush camps. In the horse and buggy days he often drove all night through all kinds of weather to administer to an ailing patient. With the advent of the automobile he was one of the first in the district to learn to drive. But instead of shortening his working hours, the faster means of transportation meant only that he served more patients.

During his medical practice he delivered 1,156 babies and never lost a mother in childbirth.

Devised Own Treatment

Years before the discovery of penicillin Dr. Eagleson devised his own treatment for pneumonia and in ten years never lost a pneumonia patient. In the finest tradition of the rural doctor he was physician, surgeon, confidant and friend. He doctored them all, delivered babies, operated at all hours, and slept between calls.

He turned his back on city life, preferring the life of the country doctor, but continued through reading and study to keep up with the fast-moving development of medical science. He said he considered penicillin one of the greatest boons ever conferred on suffering humanity.

Aside from his medical practice Dr. Eagleson took an active interest in the affairs of the community and was chairman of the high school board for 25 years. For 40 years he was health officer for Huntingdon township and held similar posts for Madoc township and village for short terms.

He was county coroner and Canadian National Railways doctor for 40 years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was also a member of Madoc Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 48.

Four years ago the people who knew him best gathered to do him honor on the occasion of his 50th. anniversary as a country doctor. On that occasion just before his retirement, he was surrounded by hundreds of men, women and children that he had served both as family physician and as friend.

He is survived by his wife, the former Kathleen McCoy; one daughter, Mrs. O. R. Shields, of Detroit, and Mrs. Donna Black, of Belleville. There are two grandchildren.

Obituary

SHARON Y. McCORMACK

The funeral of Sharon Yvonne McCormack was held from her late residence, R.R. 6, Belleville, on Saturday afternoon. Canon J. B. Creeggan conducted the service at the home and also in Belleville Cemetery.

MRS. FREDERICK KING

RAWDON — A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Frederick King, formerly Annie Melissa Green, in Wellman's United Church on Friday afternoon, July 31st.

Due to the absence of Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, pastor of Rawdon circuit, who is on holiday, the service was conducted by Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, Carmel circuit. He gave a special message for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Watson contributed a vocal selection.

The bearers were: Messrs Wilfred Sine, Edward Preston, Carman Nix, Victor Taylor, Everett Maybee and Walter Scott.

Interment was made in Wellman's Cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET E. WRIGHT

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Ethel Wright was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by the Rev. W. R. Merrick, who also said the last prayers at the cemetery at White Lake. There was a large attendance and the beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The bearers were: Earl Morgan, Hubert Gay, Joseph Hollinger, Albert Reid, Seymour Hamilton, W. E. Tummon.

MISS MARJORIE ROBERTS

The funeral of Miss Marjorie Roberts was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home this Tuesday afternoon with interment in Belleville cemetery.

The late Miss Roberts, 49 Crestview Ave., died at the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. She was born in Surrey, England, 52 years ago, being the daughter of Mrs. Susan Roberts and the late Frederick Roberts. She had resided in Belleville for the past four years and previously in Toronto. Miss Roberts was blind and was a member of the White Cane Club of this city.

Surviving are two sisters: Mrs. Edith Cook and Miss Joan Roberts, of Toronto, and four brothers, Wilfred, of this city, and George, Norman and Gerald, of Toronto.

SAMUEL LUTHER COLDEN

Ill for some time, Samuel Luther Colden, 21 Reid Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday afternoon. He was born at Newburgh, 65 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Colden and had resided most of his life in this community, where he was well known and highly respected.

He was a member of Tabernacle United Church and fraternally was identified with Benjamin Lodge, L.O.L., No. 274.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ethel May Rigby; three sons, Thomas, Arthur and John of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Niels (Hannah) Jensen, and Mrs. G. (Elizabeth) Benns, also of Belleville; one brother, William G. Colden and one sister, Mrs. Lee Norris, all of this city, and six grandchildren.

Resting at Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MINA WELBOURN
(4th. Concession of Sidney Township)

Mrs. Mina Welbourn, of the 4th. Concession of Sidney Township, near Frankford, died at the Belcrest Nursing Home in Belleville on Monday, she was in her 72nd. year.

Born in Sidney township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Besonday, she had been a resident of the area all her life.

Predeceased by her husband, William Welbourn, she is survived by her two daughters, Mrs. J. A. (Helen) Sickle, of Frankford, and Mrs. Frank (Sadie) Loney, of the 4th. concession of Sidney township; two sons, Wilmot, at home, and Jack of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. Sadie Martin, of Calgary, Alberta, and four grandchildren.

A member of Frankford United Church, she was also a member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Resting at her residence; a funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. CHARLOTT MAY DOXTATOR

Following an illness of six months, Mrs. Charlott May Doxtator died at her residence, Hillcrest, Sunday. She had resided in this community practically all her life.

Surviving are her husband, Joseph Doxtator three daughters, Mrs. Fred Silsbury, of Belleville; Mrs. C. E. Bowers, of Hillcrest; Mrs. Fred Carter, of this city; two sons, William Doxtator, of Point Anne; Joseph R. Doxtator, of Carrying Place, and one brother and sister, residing at Shannonville. 16 grandchildren and five great grandchildren also survive.

Resting at Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

FREDERICK ANGUS ARMSTRONG KINGSTON
(Stirling)

Following an illness of two months, Frederick Angus Armstrong Kingston, Stirling, died in the Kingston General Hospital on Sunday. He was a retired farmer, having farmed at West Huntingdon for many years but had resided in Stirling for the past 21 years, where he was well known and highly respected.

He was born in Rawdon township 78 years ago, being the son of the late Robert Kingston and Jane Anne Patterson. He was a member of Marsh Hill United Church, and fraternally was identified with L.O.L. No. 110, Stirling.

Surviving are his wife, the former Emma M. Burkitt; three daughters, Mrs. Wilfred (Vera) Johnson, of Belleville; Miss Aleita Kingston at home; Mrs. Wilbur (Helena) Shorey, Frankford; one son, Leslie, at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Christie, of Stirling; Mrs. Florence Simmons, of Toronto, also six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

POLICE BLOTTER

Motorcyclists, who were said to be using Highland Avenue as a speedway ran afoul of the law over the week-end as city police charged several out-of-town cyclists with exceeding the speed limit.

Two minor break-ins, one at Wilson's Automotive, Harriett Street, and the other at Halloran's Garage on Cannifton Road, were reported to police. A small amount of cash was taken at the Harriett Street break-in.

Provincial police spotted an abandoned car in a field near Jones' Creek, west of the city and investigation revealed it had been taken from Webb Motors on Station Street.

Joseph Mandell, Toronto, was west-bound through the city when he made a belated right hand turn off Bridge Street south onto Front Street. As he did so he lost control of his auto and it sideswiped two parked autos. Total damage to the three cars amounted to close to $400, police said.

Accidents Kept To Minumum Over Holiday

Despite the fact that an almost continual stream of cars passed through the city from Friday afternoon until Monday night, no highway accidents resulting in serious personal injury were reported for the Belleville area over the holiday week-end.

Most serious of the accidents reported occurred on the Belleville-Trenton highway late Sunday afternoon, when a car driven by Bernard LaMoore, Moira Street, was in collision with an American car driven by William Christie of Dayton, Ohio. The entire right side of the American car was damaged, while the Belleville car went out of control into the ditch and rolled over before coming to rest.

The occupants of both cars were taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

A second accident involving a farm tractor owned by Edmund Walsh, of Shannonville, and two tourists' autos occurred near Marysville. Considerable property damages resulted but no serious personal injury was reported.

Recover Body Of Kingston Man From Quinte Bay

PICTON — The body of Bill Garrah, 29, of Kingston, who was drowned in the Bay of Quinte early Saturday morning, was recovered Sunday morning shortly before noon. Grappling hooks supplied by the Ontario Provincial Police were used to locate the body, which was recovered by two members of a barge crew, and Jack LeHeup. The body was sent to Kingston where funeral and interment were planned.

Garrah was an oiler with the Canada Dredge and Dock Co., which is operating dredges in the bay opposite the shipping point of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. His father, Joseph Garrah, is chief engineer for the dredge company.

No one witnessed the tragedy, which was disclosed early Saturday morning when the young man's clothes were found on the shore. He had been in town and had taken a taxi to the point on the High Shore road, east of Picton. He had climbed down a ladder down the steep cliff and walked along the shore a few hundred feet. It is believed he followed the practice of employees who often swam the 100 feet out to the barge on which they lived. There was a small boat on the shore for this purpose but it had not been used.

Local Provincial police supplied a boat and grappling equipment and this was used throughout Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Milk Delivered By Truck After Babe Ran Away

CAMPBELLFORD. — Babe, a Campbellford milk horse, livened things up along her milk route on Thursday morning, when she took off on a short-lived tour of the town at a speed, that would have made some of the finer bred trotters sit up and take notice.

A bee is blamed for Babe's sudden flight. It apparently stung her right on Canrobert Street, while the driver, Charles Shaw, stepped out of the wagon to deposit a couple of quarts of milk on a nearby verandah.

Babe dashed off down Canrobent Street, and turned the corner onto Inkerman Street. She continued on until she got the wagon tangled up with a bridge over a small creek. It was at the bridge that Mr. Shaw finally caught up with his steed. He had galloped in hot pursuit but was unable to coax the horse to stop.

Babe surveyed the scattered milk cases and broken bottles at the scene and allowed herself to be led quietly down to her stall at the dairy. Mr. Shaw continued on his route with a truck.

Regents Blank Port Hope 7-0

Bryson Reid's Regent Juniors journeyed to Port Hope yesterday for an exhibition game with the junior team from that town and the local boys walked off with the verdict, 7-0.

The Carson - coached crew pounded out eleven base hits, (eight of which were for extra bases), while claiming the decision. Doug Hull led the Regents at the plate with a pair of doubles plus a triple. Pat Gilmour had a single, a double and a triple, while John Batchelor teed off against Port Hope pitching for a pair of two-base hits. Other Belleville hitters were Carr with a double, and Strachan and Stevens who each hit a one-base blow.

Meanwhile the Port Hope team was held to just four scattered hits off the combined hurling efforts of four Regent pitchers, namely Bill Strachan, Bill Drummond, Bill Green and John Mowatt.

A return game will be played in the near future but as yet no date has been decided upon.

BUY ARMY BUILDINGS

BROCKVILLE (CP)—The town of Brockville recently purchased the fire hall and engineers' workshop at the old Officer Training Centre on the northern outskirts of the community. The fire hall will be remodelled and used as an auxiliary station while the work shop is to house corporation machinery and trucks.

20-Pound Lunge Hooked by U.S. Tourist in Bay

It doesn't take Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Westphall of Buffalo, N.Y., very long to strike pay dirt when they come to Canada for a spot of fishing in the Bay of Quinte.

Regular vacation time guests at Twelve O'Clock Point Lodge near Trenton for the past 12 years, the American visitors arrived Saturday morning and after unpacking decided to go fishing.

So they got out their fishing gear, took a boat and half an hour later had hooked their fish. It took nearly an hour to land him but the big muskie was 40 inches in length and weighed 20 pounds. The fish won a $3 prize given by the lodge management for the first muskie of the season caught by guests.

Mr. Westphall has caught other big muskies in the bay, the biggest being in 1948, when he landed a 40-pounder.

TRADE THE SOCRED WAY

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta has made a suggestion which intrigues us.

It is easy to find foreign markets for Canada's surplus produce, he says. All that need be done is to extend credit to less-fortunate countries, allow them to buy Canada's surplus.

Nobody would suffer, says Premier Manning, if the credit were never repaid.

Now if Premier Manning had suggested that Canada should give of her plenty to the starving and poverty-stricken countries of the earth, we should not have been disposed to quarrel with him.

Such a gift would, as he says, cause no suffering to anybody.

But to make such a gift through the extension of credit puts the matter in a slightly different light.

In the first place, credit is generally extended to those people, organizations, corporations or nations which may reasonably be supposed to possess the ability to repay. To extend credit in this fashion would immediately eliminate the most needy recipients from the list of those nations to whom Canadian surplus produce would be given.

Secondly, we do not trust Premier Manning to put exactly the same interpretation as we do upon the statement that "nobody would suffer if this credit were never repaid." We are afraid that Premier Manning means that it would not matter to Canada, that a Social Credit Government would be completely indifferent, if credits were not repaid.

If a rich merchant makes a gift to a customer he does not suffer. If he extends credit and this credit is not repaid, he still does not "suffer" in one meaning of the word. But still this non-repayment of credit does matter. What is true of an individual merchant is true of a nation. If Canada found markets for its goods by extending credit to nations which never repaid this credit, Canada would be giving its goods away. There is no harm in that, as long as we know that we are making a gift, not a sale. But Premier Manning did not use the word gift. He did not say that Canada should give away its surplus produce, but that it should extend credit, which need not be repaid, so that countries could buy Canadian produce.

There is an important difference.

SIGNIFICANCE OF KOREA

Australia, that large and sparsely settled land mass so temptingly closed to Asia's teeming millions, has a new cause for worry.

Sir Sydney Rowell, chief of the Australian General Staff, stated in a national broadcast that the rise of Communist China as a great military power was a sobering lesson of the Korean war.

This poses problems for all powers with interests in the Far East and Southeast Asia, he said.

But Sir Sydney was probably wondering privately what this power may mean to Australia in particular.

Committed to a policy of exclusion of Asiatics, Australia for years kept a wary eye on the Japanese. The end of the military power of that nation allowed the Aussies to breathe easier. But, in less than a decade, a new "Yellow Terror" is emerging.

Under existing conditions, as long as the Chinese are ruled by a Communist Government, the Australians can rest assured that they will receive all the support required to maintain their present policies.

But eventually Australia and other sparsely settled countries may well find themselves unable to resist growing pressure. By peaceful means, if not by war, the colored races will gain more living room, unless their rate of increase is checked. It has been frequently pointed out that a higher standard of living appears to be almost inevitably accompanied by a falling birth rate — which may be seen by many as just another additional reason why the highly developed nations of the world should do all in their power to assist those lands held in the grip of poverty.

AN UNSIGHTLY MESS

The sins of some Belleville residents are starting to show.

The Moira River, south of Bridge Street, is an unsightly mess.

The results of careless, thoughtless actions, perhaps weeks ago, are now all too plainly evident.

This is not the sort of thing which can be prevented by passing another law, or enforcing an existing one.

What is needed is for the offending persons to take a little pride in their city. The waters of a deep river may cover a multitude of sins — but when these waters recede old misdeeds are laid bare, none the prettier for having been buried from sight for some weeks.

It is too late, now, to avoid a disgusting scene this summer. But next year, let's do better. Let's throw the trash some place else but in the Moira.

If the members of the public works committee would take a walk through some of the back streets in town they would, by the time they had taken a few falls on the old sidewalks, see the necessity of putting down, without delay, some granolithic walks. The council could not afford a public bath because sidewalks needed repairing, but the walks in question are not being looked after with any unseemly haste. The worst critics of our City Fathers must admit that they do not rush into such matters without due deliberation.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A nice way to spend a quiet though startled evening these summer nights is to get a pencil and a large piece of paper and go to work to figure how many ancestors you had, say, in the year 1509, when Henry VIIII was king.

Allowing 25 years for a generation, and starting with yourself, you begin with your two parents. Each of these had two; so you had four grandparents. Give each grandparent two parents, and you had eight great-grandparents. If you knew any of these you are lucky. If you know much about them, even, you are unusual.

However keep on. Doubling every twenty-five years, you find that you had 16 great-great grandparents. And by the time you get back to the year 1300, when Napoleon was in the headlines, you had 64 ancestors, directly concerned, though it was the last thing in the world they had in mind, in producing you. Sixty-four persons, in couples, two by two, blithely going about their lives in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany and elsewhere, worrying about Napoleon, none of them, almost for a certainty, acquainted with any of the other couples who were all equally essential to your being here today. You couldn't have done with one less.

century, as you double and redouble each twenty-five years across the 1700's, that your hair starts to prickle. Why, in the year 1725, when General James Wolfe was still a boy, you had 512 ancestors, 256 married couples scattered all over creation, and all busy on your behalf.

However, it was 1509 and King Henry VIII we have in mind. And by the time you get back that far, you discover you had 260,000 ancestors — 130,000 men and 130,000 women, involved in the business that produced, as its end product, you.

In fact, a good part of Henry VIII's subjects were your ancestors, according to the figures. The number reduces if cousins or other relatives did much marrying, which of course is likely. But if you keep on to the time of William the Conqueror, or King Alfred, you come to the conclusion that we are all related to one another. Because we had more ancestors than there was population.

Bagpipes Get Too Old

(Edinburgh Scotsman)

In the byways of cities and in the Highland villages, weatherbeaten old knights of the open road — usually called tinkers—may sometimes be heard playing the bagpipes in a manner that suggests that the piper is past his best, if he ever had a best. One blames the piper, never his pipes. Yet perhaps this is sometimes wrong. Bagpipes, it seems, have their prime. There comes a time when they are qualfied for retirement.

This is thought that does not normally occur to the non-expert in piping, but it is evidently a recognized fact among the experts for the editor of the regimental magazine of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders has been asked the queston: "What is the life of a set of bagpipes?" He himself, without claiming it as a record, has stated that a set of pipes owned by the Canadian Argylls outlasted seven pipe-majors, and were "retired" and placed in a cabinet in the officers' mess after 49 years' sevice. Putting it in round figures, let us say that they alternately stirred the blood and brought wistful tears to the eyes of exiled Scots for a half-a-century before beng honorably laid aside.

It is true that 50 years is a short life compared for example, to that of a violin. A Stradivarius, at 250 years old or thereabouts, is considered to be even healthier than it was when new. But the anatomy of a violin is very different from the anatomy of a set of bagpipes, and it is the anatomy that counts in musical instruments, just as in the animal kingdom. Tortoises like fiddles (with constant replacement of strings in the case of the latter's are built to live, given favorable considerations and reasonable treatment, into a second or third century. Human beings and bagpipes are of more delicate constitution.

There are people, of course, who would have all bagpipes forcibly retired long before they reach the age of 50, indeed, there are extremists who would kill them off in youth, if they could. But these extremists have probably been made to suffer the music of a pipe band indeed, in a confined space. They have not heard the Great Music, the Piobaireacnd, played on a morning in Skye, or an evening in the Western Highlands, by one solitary piper, marrying his music, as it were, to the mist-capped hills and the heather. It is then that the baypipe comes into its own.

But no matter what the music or the surroundings may be, it seems that they cannot give immortality to the pipes upon which the music is played. The bag inevitably ages. Moreofer, there is a question of economics in this. Which is to survive — the bagpipes or the maker of bagpipes? Obviously not both. If a set of bagpipes could be handed down from generation to generation, and if no set ever perished, the world in course of time would be over-populated with pipes and the makers of pipes would be forced out of business. Let us, therefore, bow to the wisdom of a Providence which decrees that no bagpipe can live forever. The question still remains: What is the limit? ¼

Surely Waiters Not to Blame?

(Montreal Gazette)

The CNR has announced that experiments with plastic dishes in its dining-cars have been disappointing; it is returning to the use of crockery on all runs. Almost as an afterthought, the railway also declared that replacement of crockery and linen costs as much as $200,000 a year.

This last statement will prove a considerable shock to those who dine on trains. It is understandable, of course that the table linen takes a considerable beating. As the train roars around curves and over rough stretches of right-of-way, the hungry diner's knife may carve the tablecloth more often than it does the steak, while his fork punches holes in it to port of the plate.

Yes, the wear and tear on the linen is quite understandable. But it is hard to believe that there is any breakage of crockery. Waiters in stable, stationary restaurants are more beginners compared to the average railway-diner attendant. While the seated guest tries vainly to guide a mere fork to his mouth, the diner waiter sways delicately through the car like a Pavlova under huge trays of food.

His arms and legs are poetry in motion as hs muscles ripple to the sway and speed of the train. He is a paragon of self-adjusting movement who never spills a drop. It is unthinkable that he should ever drop crockery.

No, it cannot be. There must be some mistake. Perhaps it is the diners who cause the damage, chopping bits off plates, biting chunks out of cups. The waiters cannot be guilty.

Kings Feared Minstrels

(By Sidney Harrison in John O'London's Weekly)

Did King David ever become a patron of music? As one who had dodged Saul's javelin he ought to have been an understanding employer of minstrels. Yet kings sometimes fear minstrelsy, for things may be sung that are forbidden to be said.

A commoner may sing "God Save the King." Yes, but which king is he asking God to save? Do you know that when our national anthem was first composed the words were sometimes sung as 'God Save Brave George the King' to make it clear to God not to save James the king or Bonnie Prince Charles?

The fact is that in the long story of monarchs and their minstrels there has been a good deal of javelin throwing—not all of it a one way traffic. Some minstrels, of course, were happy enough.

Beethoven always insisted on his status as an independent artist dispensng dedications as a favor, but he did for a while live on an income that aristocratic friends clubbed together to give him. From his early days he was the republican artist well received in the house of the nobility. He was republican when he wrote the Napoleon symphony and equally republican when he renamed it Eroica on hearing that Napoleon had become an emperor.

From any Austrian point of view he was still republican when he transferred his admiration from France to England, since English kings were under the thumb of a government that was responsible to a parliament that was elected (at any rate in theory) by the people. He was still a democrat when he set out to "show the English what a blessing they have in "God Save the King" by writing variations on the tune. But when he produced his "Wellington's Victory" at the congress of Vienna he was delighted to see so many crowned heads in the audinece.

Why did the kings and aristocrats accord so much honor to this stubborn man who declared that there were plenty of princes but only one Beethoven?

It would seem that until composers met their match in Hitler and Stalin, they could get away with murder providing the music were good enough. Verdi challenged the Austrians again and again before his cause triumphed in a free and united Italy, but he never suffered anything worse than having to amend a detail in this libretto and a name in that title.

Mussgorsky depicted a tyrant going mad with remorse and left the last word with the people, but Boris didn't prevent him from dying in his bed, in czarist Russia.

As for Wagner, who at one time was a political exile fleeing from Germany on a false passport, he became so much a king's favorite as to provoke a serious constitutional crisis in Bavaria. The enormity of his behavior can be realized if one imagines for a moment—and with profound apologies to our distinguished contemporaries — if one imagines Mr. Benjamin Britten advising the queen to dismiss Sir Winston Churchill on the grounds that the opera is starved by the treasury.

'Panic Switch' Quiets Rows

(Milwaukee Journal)

Out in San Diego, at the Convair factory, two production engineers have been concerned with the problem of people who shout and lose their tempers in conferences and business discussions.

They think they've got the problem licked. With true inventive genius, they have developed the Convair Panis Switch. It's an electrical device that is turned on the moment a conference or conversation threatens to substitute noise for logic. In a moderate fracas the contraption flashes combinations of red, green, blue and yellow lights. If the fracas grows, the switch is set for emergency, and the lights blink, bells ring and a fancy antenna over the set quivers in fear.

If that doesn't halt the trouble, the switch is thrown to "riot" position — and a horn joins the machine's other frenzies. So far, say the inventors, it's been a complete success. They report n Manage magazine that the "riot" action of the machine never fails to reduce hysterical shouts to frustrated murmers.

Here's something the world has been waiting for. Its uses are endless. It belongs in every home, in every Washington office—and, most of all, at the center of every international conference table.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE STEALTHY KILLER

BEFORE YOU GO ON A DIET

Dr. Brady

Three weeks before vacation time a million young women, most of whom shouldn't do it, announce their firm determination to go on a diet right after this week-end gorge. Precisely what diet, no matter — time to face that question come Monday morning.

Blue Monday, by golly, nine hundred ninety-nine thousand of them, undecided as to which diet to follow, put off for a day or two, the revision of their regular regimen, but the rest of them start the day with little or no breakfast.

Now that's no way to trifle with nutrition, vite, health, good looks and happiness. Slender or stout, no growing child, youth or adult can build or retain these characteristics of vite unless he or she begins the day with a substantial breakfast.

As I have said before, there ought to be a law, or anyway, an American tradition, that the breakfast of every man, woman and child, particularly every growing child—children continue to grow up to the time they cut their wisdom teeth, third molars, at the age of 22 to 25 years —include at least an egg cooked as preferred or raw if one wishes, or two rashers of bacon, or a slice of ham, or a link of sausage, or fresh or salt pork, or fish, or fowl, or cheese. Such food of animal origin is the best source of nitrogenous (protein) material for building, growth and repair of wear and tear, because, unlike the proteins in vegetables such as beans, peas, potatoes, peanuts and nuts, the proteins in meat, fish, eggs and milk are biologically complete, which means they contain all of the amino-acids which are required for good nutrition.

This is the first lesson one who contemplates reducing must learn: One who is fat is not well nourished and one who is well-nourished is not fat. Excessive consumption of refined white sugar and refined white flour accounts for the increasing prevalence of obesity in America, for sugar and flour and the many things made of them yield more calories to the teaspoonful or the ounce or pound than other foods, except pure fat or oil.

Bear in mind, we are talking about fat folks. Children who play as hard as healthy children should can profitably consume far more sugar and flour, cookies, cake, ice cream, candy or sugar water (you know, pop of various colors and flavors) than adults, in ratio to body weight, because the youngsters use up their calories in muscular activity whereas the grownups, who generally avoid exercise, just store the surplus fuel in liver and other parts of the body as glycogen (animal sugar) or fat. Lest the important part of the foregoing statement escape attention, let me emphasize that it applies to children who play hard every day, and not to children whe devote their play time to radio, television, movies or looking on while professionals play.

The only advice I can give persons under eighteen who want to reduce is: Consult your physician.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EMERGENCY — HELP

Few of us ever realize how dependent we are upon others. In an emergency our first thought is to call on someone else for help. It may be a friend, neighbor, police, or an unknown, such as when an accident occurs on the road with our car. When there is trouble or a dire emergency people are as one.

Last year in Chicago alone there were 536,000 emergency calls received by telephone operators. These calls, curiously, were a most varied sort. They were for doctors, police, firemen, information on a disappeared person, what to do for some immediate illness, calls from baby sitters, alarmed at strange noises or possible threats, sudden heart attacks, and an endless number of other calls for help.

We live in a world of fears. We never know when an emergency and a call for help may come our way. Many a life could have been saved from drowning if fear hadn't taken command. Emergencies call for courage, level heads and resourceful minds.

As well as we are able we should train ourselves, and will ourselves, to expect emergencies, and, before calling for outside help, master the emergncy ourslves. It is well, however, that there are agencies and organizations that are always ready to serve those who call upon them. Our neighbors, friends, policemen, firemen, and telephone operators are at their posts. They are for us — let us never forget to be for them!

That good Samaritan who helped that unfortunate by the roadside to his own beast, and offered and gave help, didn't do so because he had to but because he wanted to. That is the spirit in which we should always be glad to render service.

Strength for the Day

EASY WAYS

Advertisers have found that there are three words which above all others attract sales when inserted into an advertisement. These three words are "easy", "quick" and "cheap."

This is a fair indication of the mood of human beings in general. Probably, the greatest desire in the world is the desire for comfort. The thing most people want above everything else in life is to be let alone. An overwhelming majority of people, if polled on the subject, would undoubtedly choose leisure, satisfactory income, and good health as the things most to be desired.

We cannot blame people too much in taking this attitude, because there is much drudgery in the world and decades of continuous exposure to it gets one into a state of pathetic lassitude. But just as in nature the species which can take the hardest trials continue to survive, so in human life those who rise above the difficulties and have ambitions above and beyond comfort are the true path-makers for the race.

Great discoveries are never made by those who want things easy, quick and cheap. Neither are great victories won by such people. Martyrs who can take burning at the stake set the race ahead by generations.

Blood Donors Clinic in Operation

Replacing the previous system of accepting blood donors at all hours, regular weekly blood donor clinics are now being held at Belleville General Hospital. A doctor and nurse are in attendance at each clinic held Tuesday evenings and everything possible is done for the comfort of the donor. Above the clinic is shown in operation.

Belleville Hospital Inaugurates Weekly Blood Donors Clinic Tuesday at 6 P.M.

The scene is the emergency room of a modern hospital following a serious traffic accident.

The ambulance has arrived at the hospital, the injured persons have been losing blood for varying lengths of time and are in state of shock due to loss of blood. Death may come soon if nothing is done.

But the doctor in attendance orders blood for transfusion from the hospital blood blank, a technician checks the blood group of the patients, matches a sample of the patient's blood against that from a bottle of the proper group and in a matter of minutes life-giving blood is flowing into the patient.

Frequent Occurrence

Such is an emergency that frequently happens at Belleville General Hospital and an emergency for which the hospital as a public institution serving the health needs of the people must always be ready.

"A well stocked blood bank from which to take care of emergency blood transfusions is one of the first requirements of a modern hospital," according to Kenneth Box, administrator for the Belleville hospital.

"Blood transfusions are one of the most important life-saving operations of medicine. Untold numbers of deaths are prevented annually by blood transfusion."

The importance of having a well stocked blood bank is indicated by the fact that a single twelve month period at the Belleville hospital sees about 1200 blood transfusions given. In most cases, blood transfusion means the difference between life and death for the patient.

Comes From Volunteers

But despite their tremendous importance, hospital blood banks are operated on a purely co-operative basis and the only source of blood replacement for the hospital blood bank is from voluntary donors, usually friends or relatives of hospital patients who have had transfusions.

"In order to get blood from a blood bank, you first must have blood in the bank," Mr. Box points out. "It all adds up to the fact that depletion without replenishment would soon cause a blood bank to cease to function."

Previously blood donors at Belleville hospital were accepted any time, usually at the convenience of the donor.

But this in many instances meant long waits for the donor while technicians were notified and the proper equipment was readied.

Weekly Blood

Now, this has all been changed and a regular weekly blood donor clinic will be held at the hospital every Tuesday at 6:00 p.m. Under this arrangement donors will have better assurance of being taken care of without undue waiting. It will also provide improved facilities for a resting period where such is indicated after a blood donation has been given.

The comfort of the blood donor, both before and after taking of blood, is a most important consideration in the arrangements for dealing with donors. The donor will, as before, be served with soft drinks or tea, and chocolate bars.

Mr. Box stressed that giving a pint of blood is neither harmful or unpleasant for a person in normal health. A staff of three—the person in charge of the blood bank, a doctor and a nurse, will be present at the weekly blood donor clinics at the hospital.

Weddings

KAY—KIRKEY

A pretty wedding ceremony took place at 95 Station Street, Belleville, on Saturday afternoon, August 1st, when Miss Norma Jean Kirkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kirkey, Harold, Ontario, became the bride of Frederick William Kay, of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Kay, of Cooksville, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Everson.

The bride wore a dress of white nylon with matching hat and gloves and a corsage of sweet peas.

Her sister as bridesmaid, Mrs. Myrtle Emma Dowdell, of Toronto, wore a dress of pale blue nylon with white hat and gloves and a corsage of sweetpeas.

Mr. Roderick Phenney, Aulac, New Brunswick, was best man.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a motor trip through Eastern Ontario and upon their return will reside in Oshawa, Ontario.

LATTONE—WHALEN

The altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was decorated with pink and white gladioli Saturday, July 18, at 10:00 a.m., for the marriage of Theresa Geraldine Whalen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Whalen, of Stoco, to Earl Philip Lattone, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lattone, Stoco. The Rev. J. J. Buckley officiated.

Miss M. Flurey provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloists, Messrs. Gene and Leo Mulrooney, of Stoco.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of white net over taffeta accented by a redingote of French lace, buttoned down the front, and having a "V" shaped neckline with standup collar, and long sleeves with deep turned-back cuffs; the skirt coming to a slight train. She wore a three-quarter length veil of lace-edged tulle illusion held by a matching seed pearl-encrusted headdress, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, tied by lacelon ribbon and satin streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Miss Fidelis Whalen, of Stoco, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in yellow net over taffeta with Chantilly lace bolero accentuated by matching lace at the waistline. Her headdress was a small coronet of tiny yellow flowers. She wore matching net gloves, and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli tied with yellow lacelon ribbon.

Mrs. Joe Langevin, of Plainfield, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Murphy, of Lindsay, were attired alike in gowns similar to that of the maid of honor, the former in mauve and the latter in green. Their headdresses were floral bands of matching tiny flowers. They carried hand bouquets of gladioli in harmonizing shades.

Little Miss Maureen Whalen, of Toronto, niece of the bride, was sweet and demure in her frock of lime green taffeta, and tiny, matching, floral headdress. She carried a basket of carnations.

Mr. Gerald Whalen, of Belleville, twin brother of the bride, was groomsman, while the ushers were Joe Langevin, of Plainfield, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Walter Whalen, of Stoco, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, dinner was served at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road to 64 guests. The bride's table was appropriately adorned with pink and white streamers and summer flowers. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, formed the central attraction.

The bride's mother received, wearing navy blue sheer with navy and white accessories, and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was also attired in navy sheer with navy accessories and corsage of red Bettertime roses.

Later, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, following which, the young couple left for their wedding trip amid showers of good wishes and confetti. The bride travelled in a navy dress of nylon marquisette with white collar, and navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Guests were present from Welland, Toronto, Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa, Foxboro, Cannifton, Corbyville, Picton, Stoco, Ajax, North Bay, Detroit and Paris, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Lattone will reside in Plainfield.

Fashion Flashes

ALL DRESSED UP — even more than formerly — are the new sweaters, especially those designed for late afternoon and evening use. A white boucle sweater with a decollete neckline and black sequin hearts scattered all over. Another has a detachable collar of turquoise and pearl beads, while a third has a detachable collar of hand-embroidered coral beads.

ADDING to the versatility of wool jersey is a new line of handsome jersey prints, made up into dresses and separates. Heather wool jersey with an all-over star print in shocking pink makes up into a slim dress with tulip neckline, back blousing and soft shoulder folds that ease into the bodice.

IN STORE for autumn brides are beautiful wedding gowns on softened classical lines. For instance, a silk taffeta in white or blush is beautifully designed with appliqued lace garlanding hipline and bustline. The deep but narrow neckline has a fill-in of softly tucked chiffon and lace to make a queenly stand-up collar.

JUST IN TIME to smarten up the evening wardrobe comes a beautiful stole of pink nylon tulle, the fabric in double layers with violet tinted flowers and buds placed between the layers for a three-dimensional effect. A concentration of flowers marks the outer frame.

Husband, Wife Serve Hospital As Technicians

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Newcomers from England, Ronald G. McClorry and his wife are both experienced laboratory technicians. And in their present position at the Cornwall General Hospital they work side by side. They've been doing that in England for some time.

Both were born in South Shields, in the northern county of Durham, and had similar careers. Mr. McClorry is the "better half" right now, having passed finakl examinations as an associate of the Institute of Medical Laboratory Technology. His wife, at present a junior technician, plans to write her finals in 1954.

MET IN SCHOOL

They went to school together in England, and after graduation took up laboratoryt echniques which required five or six years of intensive study.

They'll be right at home in the Cornwall hospital. In the laboratory there they will be directed by Dr. W. J. Shannon, who came from England last February. Another English newcomer, Betty White, also is working in the hospital.

The young couple were married in South Shields just before coming to Canakda, arriving in July.

About the only thing they're concerned about here is the heat in their new homeland. "I guess if my husband can stand it I can stand it," said Mrh. McClorry. Her husband echoed the sentiment—"If my wife can stand it, I can stand it."

INDEPENDENT PC OUT

OTTAWA (CP) — Formal withdrawal of G. Ovila Gagnon, independent Progressive Conservative who was running in the Quebec constituency of Argenteuil-Deux-Montagnes, was announced Sunday by Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer. Mr. Gagnon's withdrawal leaves a Liberal and a Progressive Conservative contesting the seat in the Aug. 10 general election.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Thinks Slapping the "Other Woman" Would Make Her Feel Better

Sadly enough, stories about unfaithful husbands are the commonest thing in the world. Moreover, only rarely is there any angle to any individual story that is different from all the others.

A rather new slant on a wife's reaction to such a situation, however, comes to me from a woman who wonders if any betrayed wife but herself ever felt the urge to do bodily harm to the "other woman."

There were several "other women" involved in this particular case and, says the wife: "Every time I see one of them on the street, I can hardly pass by without walking up to her and slapping her right in the face, and I think I would feel better if I did it. I would like to hear from other women who have had unfaithful husbands and have them tell how they got by without doing something awful to the women."

This urge to injure the women with whom her husband has had affairs is only half this wife's problem. The other half is, alas, practically routine. It is her hopeless feeling that she will never again be able to trust her husband.

"I have been married 14 years," she writes, "and up until four years ago I was a happy, trusting wife. Then I suddenly found out that my husband had never been true to me since our marriage. He denied it, but he lied so much trying to get out of it that he finally told on himself.

"The shock was so terrible that I can't seem to get it off my mind one second, even though he seems sorry and I don't think he is running around any more right now. I guess you will say to forget about it, but I keep thinking that any time I may find out that he is still the same man and doing the some things, because I don't trust him any more or believe one thing he says. Every time he comes in the house, I want to say something about it, and I am always wondering if he is with a woman, even when he is at work."

Concluding, she says:

"My doctor knows there is something that worries me, but I just can't tell him what it is. He thinks I have a Number One husband."

Terrific Tension

This distracted wife is probably quite right when she says that she thinks she would feel better if she did slap one of these women. But it's not likely that she fully understands the reason why. Doubtless she believes she would simply be giving these women what they deserve, and that the feeling of satisfaction she would get from doing so would do her good. Actually, the relief she would feel from committing an act of violence upon the women who have so deeply wronged her would come from the release of the terrific tension that has built up inside her because of long-suppressed anger, hurt and bitterness.

Definitely and urgently she needs to have this tension and emotional pressure relieved, but there are better way of relieving it than by making a public scene. Almost certainly, the same release could be brought about by pouring out the whole story to a sympathetic listener, and this is what I strongly advise her to do.

She says her doctor is quite aware that something is preying on her mind; and he is the natural one to hear her story. What has probably kept her this long from telling him is nothing but pride. He believes, she says, that her husband is a fine man, and of course she would find it hard to go through the humiliation of revealing the sordid facts that prove him to be something entirely different.

I think, however, that the beneficial effect on her nerves and emotions which talking about her trouble will bring is far more important than protecting her pride. Anything she says to her doctor will be held confidential and, in addition to the relief she will feel from pouring out her anguish, he will be able either to give her helpful ad vice himself, or to direct her to someone else who can.

This is the obvious step for a woman in her nervously wrought-up condition to take, and she should do it without delay. Already she has waited too long.

Give Your Youngsters Working Privileges

By Mary Moore

Have I your permission to relax from cooking for a few minutes to air some of my views on child-raising?

I know a mother who says that another mother of her acquaintance expects too much of her 5-year-old son. I maintain that the first mother does not expect enough of her 5-year-old son, and that a little extra should be expected of children so that they level off at "normal."

A word or two on encouraging your children to rise to occasions might be welcome, especially to overworked mothers.

I maintain that a child of five years is perfectly capable of making his own beds (straight, too) and drying the dishes (more below about that), carrying out garbage, running errands for things upstairs and in other rooms, bringing chairs to the table (not dragging them) clearing off the table, dressing and undressing himself, getting out his clean clothes, hanging up his pyjamas and putting his soiled clothes in the wash. Of course they should tie their own laces and in winter put on their snowsuits and galoshes and hang these up or place them where they belong.

I think anything less than this is cheating — cheating them of the privilege to learn habits of work early in life. It is just not fair to teach them to expect to play all of their lives.

I have a friend whom I sometimes refer to in this column. Margie was born with some kind of innate tact that instils eagerness to help into her brood. She has twins — a girl and a boy of 16 years, and two girls of 11 and 9. When they were wee and we had been invited to their home for dinner I heard Margie say "Remember, if you don't clean up your plates you can't help with the dishes. That would make the spoons and forks fly, for whoever cleaned up his plate first was allowed to wash.

Wee Kathryn, when she was 4, being the youngest had the privilege of washing and drying the breakfast dishes, because at that time the other children were at school.

To this day Margie uses similar tactics to keep them in line. They are taking a motor trip across Canada and back through the States, and Ann and David (the 16-year-old twins) are being told that they may help with the driving if they obey all the rules of driving at home. Those youngsters would no more cross a solid white line on a grade or a curve or press the accelerator about 50 m.p.h., than they would fly, for they know it means being consigned to the back seat.

Be fair to your young ones. If you are not fair now think of their dismay when they reach the high grades in school and their teachers expect them to work at their studies. If they haven't been work-disciplined their confusion results in poor grades and sometimes that awful yearning to quit school.

Few children take to work naturally. They are born selfish and wilful but in the world that you and I live in today everyone has to work.

Teach them to love it and honor it and to do their utmost to work well.

I know dishes are going to be broken, but does that mean you can't train them to wash them more carefully and reduce the breakage rate?

I know it takes much longer for them to do them than it would you, and that during the process your nerves are frayed, but does that mean you have the right to deny them dish-washing training?

There are a rare few children who will coax you to be allowed to help. For goodness' sake let them help if they want to.

More flies are attracted by honey than by vinegar. It is my confirmed belief that praise —laid on with a trowel — and love — piled up and overflowing—will persuade any child to be good and orderly and cheerful.

I suppose this story on Pete proves how perverse the little imps can be. When he was very little he was the most rebellious child I have ever met. He said "no" to everything, usually accompanied by screams.

This "no" attitude puzzled me greatly and I used the phychiatrists' isolation technique when he became unberable. "Go to your room," said I.

When he was seven he tried to slap me. I fixed him with a baleful stare. He turned his brown eyes up to me and asked: "Mum why don't you get mad?" I said "I love you, dear." "Well Madeline's mother gets mad. "no you want me to get mad?" "Yes, I want to tell Madeline you were so mad you spanked me."

He's nineteen now and the sweetest music that could be played on a mother's ears he sang in my presence. Marianne and one of her nursing friends were discussing a mental health clinic that they had attended that day, where problem children were examined. They all wondered how they'd ever train their own children in the future. Pete said "I think you just have to be firm and consistent like Mum. We always knew she loved us."

ROSLIN

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colden, Barbara and Douglas are spending holidays in Quebec City, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson and daughter, of Toronto, spent holidays last week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O'Rorke, in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chisholm and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bailey have returned home after a trip through the western provinces and the United States.

Dr. John Shellabier, of Vancouver, and Mr. Ernest Coulter, of Port Hope, spent a couple of days last week with relatives and friends around the village.

Dr. and Mrs. Shellabier are spending a month with his sister, Mrs. E. Coulter and Mr. Coulter, of Port Hope.

Miss Rita Slingerland of Picton, is spending holidays with her parents.

Garden Party

A successful garden party was held last Friday evening on the spacious rectory lawns under the auspices of St. Paul's Church, Roslin.

During the evening an entertaining program was presented, including vocal and musical numbers and tap dancing with the following artists taking part: Mr. Webster, Mr. J. Wilson, the Broadworth sisters, Miss Barbara Thrasher, Miss Deanna Mansfield, Miss Linda Dawson, Misses Margaret and Barbara Bates and Miss Hazel Slingerland.

The newly appointed rector, Rev. T. B. Purvis, was chairman for the evening, welcoming the visitors present.

"I'd like to say this to all Canadians..."

UNDER a Liberal government, Canadians have added every year to the national strength and national unity of Canada;

We have had the greatest expansion of social welfare in our history;

We have increased our employment, our production and our national income every year;

We have had the greatest expansion of our primary and secondary industries — truly an industrial revolution;

Because of the outstanding contribution of the members of our Navy, Army and Air Force, we have been able to do our full share to prevent and to stop Communist aggression;

We have reduced the national debt every year, and, in the last two years, reaped the reward in lower tax rates.

Do we want all that to be continued?

Do you really think it's time for a change?

For a change to a Parliament of regional groups — a handful of Social Crediters from the Far West, a few Socialists from the Prairies, a few more Conservatives from Ontario or the Maritimes and some so-called Independents from Quebec?

In such a Parliament without the leadership and responsibility of a united national party, how could the government help being weak and insecure?

Do we want a weak and divided government to deal with the formidable problems of the next few years? I ask you, IS it really time for a change?

We believe most Canadians want a government which encourages enterprise, promotes trade and fosters the exploration and development of our resources; and you know it as well as we do, that requires balanced budgets, paying off debts in prosperous times and a tax structure which, while fair to all, is adequate to meet these demands.

Royals Draw Away From Pack In International

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The league-leading Montreal Royals drew away from the pack in the International Baseball League Monday as they edged Baltimore Orioles 6-5 at Montreal.

Second-place Buffalo Bisons split a doubleheader with Rochester Red Wings, winning the opener 3-0 at Buffalo, but dropping the nightcap 5-4.

Ottawa Athletics rapped Syracuse Chiefs 14-13 and 3-0 in the Canadian capital, while Toronto Maple Leafs swept the third doubleheader of the night from Springfield Cubs, taking both games 6-1.

In the Toronto contests Lew Morton slammed a home run and three doubles for six runs. He also came up with three outs and an assist in the field. Right-hander Don Johnson and southpaw Lou Sleater showed near-perfect control for Toronto. Each allowed only a single walk.

Ottawa won a fantastic first game in the 10th inning of a scheduled seven-frame contest, scoring six runs with nobody out after Syracuse had teed off on two pitchers to push across five in the top half.

The six runs came on this combination: A walk, two singles, another walk to force in a run, a single, leaving men on first and third with three runs already in. At that point, Jack Littrell bunted in front of the plate. Catcher Dick Kinsman, trying to start a double play at second, threw the ball into centrefield, allowing Littrell to score behind two other runners.

Bob Trice, Ottawa righthander, won his 15th game against seven losses in the nine-inning nightcap, scattering six hits.

At Buffalo, Don Richmond clouted his 10th homer for the Red Wings in the nightcap and scored three runs, after Frank Lary's one-hitter stymied the Wings 3-0 in the opener.

At Montreal the Royals seized victory in the ninth inning as Roy Hartsfield smashed a triple to centrefield with two out to score Dick Whitman who had walked, and Ken Wood, who had singled.

US Ladies Take Wightman Cup

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—The United States clinched its 17th straight Wightman Cup women's tennis victory over Great Britain Monday when Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, defeated Mrs. Jean Quartier Rinkel 6-2, 6-4. This was the fourth American triumph in the seven-match series and made the final three matches a mere formality.

The Americans won the first four matches without loss of a set.

It was the United States' 25th cup conquest against only four defeats since the international series was started in 1923.

Maureen Connolly, holder of the U.S., Australian and Wimbledon championships, registered a 6-1, 6-1 victory over left-handed Helen Fletcher.

Regents Whip Picton 7-4

Bryson Reid's Regent Juniors downed the Prince Edward Combines at the CNR Recreation Field Saturday evening.

The Regents went into a one run lead in the first inning and were not bested for the rest of the game. Hall led off with a single. Fox struck out and Strachan got on on an error. Hall stole third and then stole home for the first run. Stephens doubled to score Strachan from second. They got another in the second when Wallbridge walked. He went to third on Hall's second single. He came home on a passed ball. They added their fourth run in the third when Woolons got a life on an error to the second baseman. He stole second and went to third when Stephens grounded out to the pitcher. He scored when Drummond singled. They got a trio in the fourth on three singles and two errors. Bohan started off with a single. He went to third when the first baseman made an error on Dikun's grounded. Dikuns stole second and Darrah hit a single to score Bohan. When the throw came to the plate, the catcher dropped it, allowing Dikun to score. Strachan singled to score Darah.

The Combines took a one run lead in their half of the first inning, but, as aforementioned, the Regents overcame this in the bottom of the first.

Ostrander started with a single. He went to third on a single by Zimmerman and came across on a third hit by Lockyer.

They got another in the fourth on two walks, a fielder's choice, and a hit. They got their final two in the fifth on two walks and a hit.

Drummond started for the winners and in four and two thirds innings struck out three and walked six. "Red" Carson came in to pitch to the last man and got him on strikes.

"Cuffer" Noakes went all the way on the hill for the Combines. He got four via the strikeout route and passed but one.

Hall led the winners in the wood department, getting a brace of singles. Stephens doubled while Strachan, Drummond, Bohan and Darah collected singlies apiece.

Zimmerman led the losers at the plate with a pair of singles. Ostrander singled as did Chris and Dave Lockyer.

ANDERSON TO OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP)—Chuck Anderson hefty Negro centre who has been released by Montreal Alouettes of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, will play with Ottawa Rough Riders this season, officials here announced this week-end.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Lincoln county cricket eleven won the Ontario county championship Monday by defeating Peterborough county in the provincial final by 221 runs to 86. The Lincoln eleven, which won its fourth Ontario crown since the trophy was put into competition in 1933, was composed of members of St. Catharines and West St. Catharines clubs.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ocean Mist set a Canadian record for the 1 3-16 miles Saturday in capturing the $5,000-added British Columbia Premier's championship at Vancouver's Lansdowne Park. Owned by Jim Seabeck of Tacoma and Phil Carstens of Spokane, Ocean Mist finished a length ahead of Abdullah with Scottish Song third.

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—A Canadian speedboat record was set here Saturday in speed trials conducted by officials of the Canadian Boating Federation when Jim Hutchison sent his 135-hydroplane class Teaser III over the measured mile at 9 miles an hour. Hutchison set the previous mark of 8.825 MPH at Seattle last year.

Cannifton Trims Read 9-5 in First Playoff

Playing on their home diamond the Cannifton team drew first blood in the semi-finals of the South Hastings Baseball League last night by the score of 9 to 5 over Read.

Philips, of Cannifton, held the Read team in check with 14 strikeouts and was never in danger, except in the sixth, when Read threatened with three on bases by he weathered the storm.

Cannifton scored six in the second to give them a commanding lead, adding two more in the sixth, and getting one in the first inning.

Read scored two in the third, one in the fifth and two in the seventh. Marner for Cannifton, realized a ball player's dream by hitting a home run with the bases loaded. Singles by Harder, Warner, Sheffield, Moore and Petrie aided their cause.

Pitt started on the mound for Read but after hitting three men in the second, retired in favor of Bern Brennan, who had seven strikeouts.

Errors by the Read infield hurt their cause also.

The line-up:

Cannifton — Harder, Warner, Sheffield, Moore, Stolliker, Petrie, Matthews, Cole, Phillips, Dafoe.

Read — Bern Brennan, Ray Shannon, G. Brennan, J. Hanley, H. Shannan, F. Shannon, J. MacAvoy, C. Brenn, Pitt, Walsh, K. Brennan, Meagher.

Umpires: Plate, Lum Carson; bases, Dolan.

Next game of the semi-finals on August 4 at Plainfield with Latta playing Shannonville.

FRANKFORD

CNR Diesels Bow To Frankford By 12-2 Score

FRANKFORD (Special) — Pounding out sixteen hits off the shoots of Al Adams, Frankford Merchants handed the CNR Diesels a 12-2 defeat in the first game of the best-of-three OASA elimination semi-finals here last night.

Adams went the route for the Diesels, walking two and striking out the same number.

Bill Rankin hurled one of his best games, holding the Diesel batters to five hits. He whiffed two and walked one.

Frankford went out in front in the first inning sending three runs across the plate. They repeated the dose in the second and third frames. Diesels got both their runs in the top of the second and from then in it was duck-eggs.

The village crew added singles in the fourth and fifth innings and chucked in another for good measure in the seventh.

Murphy, Frankford catcher, broke the Diesel hearts in the first chucker when he blasted out a home run with two mates aboard.

The village sluggers worked in doubles with Cook leading the hit parade with three singles. Curtis banged out a pair of triples with Red Culkin good for a pair of doubles. Rankin aided his own cause with a double and single with Cosgrove and Armstrong donating a pair of singles each. Gilmour claimed a two-bagger.

Whiting was the big gun for the losers, slamming out a triple and a single. Young, who relieved Alfie Rowbotham behind the plate in the eighth inning, Corbett and Al Adams accounted for the remaining hits, all singles.

The score:

Diesels ..	020 000 000—	2	5	3
Frankford	333 110 10x—	12	16	1

Adams and Rowbotham, Young (8); Rankin and Murphy.

Electrics Edge Bobcats 9-8

Herbie Henn's Northern Electrics edged the Bobcats by 9-8 score at the Alemite Field last night but it was closer than your next breath.

The game was the first of a best-of-seven series to decide the city's OASA intermediate "A" representatives. The second game is scheduled for the Alemite Field Wednesday night.

The "Clucker" had to use three hurlers, and his final choice, McCurdy, proved the hero of the piece as far as the Electrics were concerned. The Bobcats, thanks to a homer by Nolan and a triple by Reid shoved over three runs in the eighth to make the score 9-8. Henn threw in McCurdy and the tall hurler struck out the first two men to face him and after walking the third forced the fourth to fly out.

Holmes started for the Nebhites and lasted to the sixth, giving up five runs off eight hits. Bob Bunton went in and was touched for four hits for three runs. Then came McCurdy.

Baldwin, Bobcats' starting pitcher, didn't get past the first inning. Two errors and three walks and he was through after giving up two runs and Reid took over, going the rest of the way. He was nicked for 11 hits, good for seven tallies.

Northerns added three more in the second and one in the third. They pushed over three more in the seventh off two hits, and they needed them.

Bobcats scored a brace in the second and two more in the fifth off four consecutive hits. They added a single in the sixth off Donovan's fluky home run and poured over three in the eighth when Nolan banged out a three-run homer.

"Moe" Rollins led the Cats at the plate with three singles. Nolan had a homer and double. Reid hit a triple and single. Burley and Gord Donovan's fielding was a feature of the game.

The score:

Bobcats ..	020 021 030—	8	12	3
Northern ..	231 000 030—	9	11	4

Holmes, Bunton (6), McCurdy (9), James and Bone. Baldwin, Reid (1), and Nolan.

GOOD HOLIDAY!

Brilliant sunshine streamed down on a holiday-bent city and district populace over the "long week-end", a distinct departure from the rain-soaked Civic Holiday of a year ago.

Speed-boat conscious crowds dotted the natural amphitheatre that is the Prince Edward Yacht course in Picton, with craft of all designs and classes forming a beautiful nautical background to the spray-kicking speedsters that thrilled the thousands and broke world records.

Here in the city the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club enjoyed one of the best Corbin Gold Cup Tournaments in years as 264 keglers from all parts of the province quested for the main trophies and other handsome prizes. Lightning-fast greens, the velvety sheen of the grass, the colorful "beach" umbrellas, and the variegated dress of the bowlers made a perfect holiday picture.

Tournament chairman Cliff Argue and his hard-working committee saw to it that their guests lacked for nothing. Play was keenly contested and over-all the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club can tuck another "notable achievement" feather in a cap that is already well laden with similar mythical symbols.

Kingston and Brockville rinks won the handsome Corbin Gold Trophy and the Calvert Challenge Trophy, two of the outstanding bowling baubles in the country. Mr. L. E. McLean, of the Corbin Lork, and Larry Murphy, of the Calvert Distillery, did the honors to these bowling "men of distinction."

LOOK WHO'S COMING!

Now that Nanjo the Banjo is Singhing in some other part of the wrestling universe, his pal, Ferocious Freddy Atkins, as about as tough a guy as ever insulted a referee, will be on his own, for this week at least. The Hard Rock takes on the beauteous Frenchman, Robert Duranton, in the semi-finals of a parade of hate in Memorial Arena next Friday.

But look who's here in the main attraction. None other than "Heiman the Goiman," the villainous Hans Schmidt, the Herrendous Hun from Yanover, whose tactics on his first appearance here a few weeks ago gave him an all-time low in the hearts of the faithful. Herr Schmidt, who refused to be "conked" into submission by Bobo Brazil, meets the popular Don Jonathan in the main bout, and it remains to be seen if the jaw of the Terrible Teuton can withstand the bull-dozing flying kicks of the Pride of the Salt Lake Flats.

However, Schmidt desipte his rough and tough tactics, is one of the best wrestlers to show his wares in some time and it should be a good show when he matches his bone-crushing offensive against the speed and agility of Jonathan.

BASEBALL!

Bryson Reid's Regent baseballers took the measure of the Prince Edward Combines 7-4 here Saturday night in the last scheduled game of the season. The younkers have one postponed affair left with the RCAF Flyers before they go into the league playdowns. Nobody seems to know the correct standing of the league but the Regents kids are not too far off the pace, if not in the top slot.

There was a bit of humor, if it call be called that, especially as far as the juniors were concerned on Saturday night. Bill Drummond, the kid's hurler from Marmora and district, had breezed through the game when he weakened in the last inning and the visitors poked over a couple of runs. Two were out and the "Ole Cuffer" Noakes strode to the plate with a huge war-club in his hand and fire in his eye. "Red" Carson, Regent coach, saw what was up and inserted himself into the pastime in a pitching capacity. It was short and sweet. "Red" tossed over three fast ones and the "Cuff" went down swinging. Lotsa fun between two cagy veterans.

SOFTBALL!

Point Anne's potent power asserted itself in their finals battle with the Glen Roy junior champions Saturday night when the Ox Pointers shoved them into defeat with a 17-4 shellacking. In fact it wasn't so good all round for the city squads. Frankford handed the CNR Diesels a 12-2 drubbing on the village diamond last night. Herby Henn's Northern Electrics eked out a 9-8 win over the Two-Bob Bobcats in a thriller at Alemite Field. The teams clash again Wednesday night in the second game of their four-of-seven OASA intermediate "A" elimination series. Third game Friday. Tonight the Glen Roy juniors and Point Anne meet at the CNR Field in the fourth game of their city finals series. The Ox Pointers hold a 2-1 game edge.

'Volo Van' Takes Trotting Gold

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Rowe drove his father's Volo Van, a five-year-old brown mare, to victory Saturday in the $1,200 Ontario trot at Thorncliffe Raceway's harness meet. The J. C. Cameron entry, Mimzy Song and Gracious Hano respectively.

In a special feature, 16-year-old Margaret Campbell paced her father's outstanding Argyel Grattan to a Canadian record for lady drivers. The time of 2.08 was four seconds better than the previous mark established two years ago at Thorncliffe.

Jack Mehlenbacher, the National Hockey League referee who leads all drivers at Thorncliffe, captured the Thorncliffe trot and pace Handicap Monday with his six-year-old Vanduzen. Although handicapped with the outside position, Vanduzen won the mile event in 2.08 flat, 1 2-5 seconds off the track record held by M. C. Rose.

Trailermen Tie St. Kitts for Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Trailermen moved into a tie with St. Catharines Athletics for top spot in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior circuit Monday night when they came up with a 14-7 victory over Orillia Terriers.

At Hamilton, the Tigers bowed 12-5 to the up-and-coming Fergus Thistles who climbed into undisputed possession of fourth place with their victory.

Ross Powless was top man for Peterborough with three goals while Russ Slater, Bob Thorpe, Louis Nickle and Don Ashby counted a pair each. Don McPhail led the Terriers with two markers.

J. J. Hill came up with four goals for Fergus in the game at Hamilton while Don Campbell clicked for three.

Phil Castoff Blanks Brewers And Blasts in Winning Run; Yankees Retain 5-Game Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

This might be an appropriate time to wonder what Steve O'Neill thinks now of that roundabout winter trade that sent Russ Meyer from Philadelphia to Brooklyn by way of the Braves.

The Phillies' manager at the time pooh-poohed the idea that Brooklyn had traded itself into the pennant. But with the season two-thirds gone, the temperamental righthander's 1-4 record would look mighty good on the Phils' pitching roster, which seems to consist almost solely of Robin Roberts.

You can bet your bottom dollar the Braves wince every time they remember they engineered the deal.

Meyer threw his second straight shutout at the Braves Monday night in Milwaukee, winning 1-0 in seven rain-soaked innings. He's beaten them four times this season against one setback. The victory moved the Dodgers 8½ games ahead of second-place Milwaukee in the National League pennant race.

Was Fast Deal

Philadelphia, in a fast and involved deal gave the Braves Meyer in exchange for first baseman Earl Torgeson and cash and then shipped the pitcher to Brooklyn for infielders Jim Pendleton and Rocky Bridges. Bridges was swapped immediately to Cincinnati as part-payment for first baseman Joe Adcock.

eyer not only pitched a shutout Monday night, he also batted in the winning run with a single in the seventh inning.

Brooklyn has beaten Milwaukee 11 out of 15 games so far, includng all six played in Milwaukee.

At Washington Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox gave up two hits in a 1-0 triumph over Johnny Schmitz and the Senators. At Cincinnati Joe Nuxhall of the Redlegs limited Pittsburgh to five hits in winning 5-0.

In other major league action St. Louis Cardinals whipped Philadelphia 8-3 and climbed within half a game of the third-place Phils and New York Yankees smothered St. Louis Browns 11-3.

Pierce's shutout was the fourth straight scoreless game in the Washington-Chicago series, which the two clubs split.

Nuxhall was given a two-run lead in the first inning and a comfortable margin in the fourth when Andy Seminick homered with one aboard.

The Cardinals routed Jim Konstanty with four runs in the first and added three more in the second inning. Red Schoendienst scored two runs with a triple and two singles. Wilmer Mizell coasted with a scoreless three-hitter until the ninth when the Phils rallied with a two-run pinch hit homer by Connie Ryan.

The Yankees maintained their five-game margin in the American League by battering St. Louis pitching for 18 hits. Whitey Ford won his 12th game against four defeats.

Fain Faces $50,000 Suit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $50,000 damage suit against Ferris Fain, brought by a man who said Chicago White Sox first baseman struck him and caused him to lose six teeth, is pending here.

The suit was filed in federal district court Monday, but Fain, who himself has a gashed forehead, bruised left hand and scratched cheek, left Washington before papers were served on him. He did not play in Monday night's game with Washington.

The plaintiff is James Judge, 28, an employee of the Soldiers' Home here.

He said the altercation took place late Sunday at a nearby Maryland inn.

James C. Toomey, counsel representing Judge, said the disagreement began when Judge tried to cut in and dance with a woman acquaintance of his, then dancing with Fain.

Later, Toomey said, Fain dared Judge to ask her for a dance "if you've got the guts."

He did so, returned to his table when she refused, and then was struck in the jaw, the lawyer contended.

Heavy Week-End Sees Panthers Back on Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The marathon Senior Intercounty Baseball circuit squeezed 10 games into a busy Civic Holiday week-end, Kitchener Panthers coming out on top of the heap when the dust had cleared.

Panthers clicked twice in three starts to take over undisputed possession of first place from Brantford and Waterloo as the Red Sox dropped two of three outings and the Tigers bowed in their only appearance. The cellar-dwelling St. Thomas Elgins compiled the best record of the week-end with two victories in as many starts.

Chuck Fedoris was the outstanding individual performer in Intercounty play, hurling a 13-inning one-hitter for Kitchener Monday night as the Panthers edged Guelph Maple Leafs 1-0. Earlier in the day, Panthers downed Waterloo Tigers 7-5, but dropped an 8-4 decision to Brantford Saturday.

London Majors defeated Guelph 2(3-0) Monday afternoon and clipped Brantford 4-2 Monday night after bowing 4-3 to St. Thomas Saturday. The Elgins nipped Oshawa Merchants 6-4 Monday for their perfect record.

The Merchants bounced back Monday night with a 9-2 decision against Galt Terriers for their second victory of the week-end, the other coming Saturday in a 6-1 effort over Guelph. Galt made it an even week-end split Monday by crushing Brantford 7-1.

In handcuffing Guelph over 13 innings, Fedoris allowed only two men to reach first as he faced 40 Maple Leaf batters. One drew a walk and the other—Eudie Napier—punched out the lone single and then got nipped at second as he tried to stretch it into a double.

Lloyd Mangrum Wins Rich Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum, a jaunty 39-year-old grandpappy, pocketed the $3,420 top prize at Tam o'Shanter Monday by winning the All American golf crown with a pressure-jammed last round of 67.

His 72-hole total of 275 was 13 strokes under par(36-36—72) for the 6,915-yard layout.

Mangrum, the Tam's tournament circuit representative, thus started what he hopes will be another grand slam at the club.

In 1948, he captured both the All American and following "World Championship" meets, a combined effort worth $25,000. The Tam o'Shanter $90,000 "World" tournament starts Thursday with the winner receiving $25,000.

Monday's victory came with a closing nine-hole score of 32 that was climaxed by sinking a 23-foot chip from the back fringe of the 18th hole for a birdie 3. The triumph put Mangrum ahead of Ben Hogan for the season's money-winto $18,786.

Mangrum's final 35-32—67 gave him a three-stroke margin over Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., and defending champion Sam Snead.

Henry Martell of Edmonton shot a fourth-round 73 to end up with 289. His scores for the four rounds were 75-73-68-73.

The All American Women's Open was won for the third time by Patty Berg. She posted a closing 76 for a 308 tally, four over women's regulation, to beat out Louise Suggs by one stroke. Mish Suggs finished with a 78. Miss Berg's award was $1,000 while Miss Suggs received $600.

Babe Zaharias, trying a comeback after a cancer operation April 17, placed 15th and finished out of the money. She shot a final 84 for 329.

Kesselring Takes Kawartha Title

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener Monday won the 13th annual Kawartha invitation golf tournament with a record 54-hole score of 207 against Nick Weslock's 215.

Kesselring successfully defended his 1952 title with superb play during the three-day affair. Trailing Jim Neal of Toronto Glendale in opening play Saturday, when he fired a 72, the Kitchener Westmount star came through with a record 67 Sunday and a 68 Monday for his third championship.

Weslock, of Windsor Essex, had rounds of 71, 72, 72.

Moe Norman, Kitchener Rockway, was third with 72-72-74—218.

Gordy Brydson Millar Winner

TORONTO (CP)—Gordie Brydson, 49-year-old Toronto Mississauga professional, won the Millar professional-assistant's match play golf tournament Saturday with a one up victory over Willie Lamb, Lambton's venerable campaigner who was Millar king in 1930.

Brydson, Millar winner in 1937 when he beat Montreal's Stan Horne, took the lead three times in the final and each time the 50-year-old Lamb tied it up. Brydson finally made his fourth advantage, gained with a 10-foot putt for a birdie three on the 16th hole. They halved the last two holes.

It was a tremendous 300-yard drive that set up the match-winner on the 16th. Lamb was well back of him and with his second, Brydson laid his ball 10 feet from the cup. Lamb was 25 feet away and almost got it down for a birdie but Brydson's putt was dead on and that decided the title.

Kingston Rink Wins New Corbin Gold Trophy; World Records At Picton

Brilliant Weather Features 11th Annual Rinks Tourney; Calvert Trophy to Brockville

(By C. D. T.)

The Corbin Gold Cup trophy tournament has passed into history and Dick Edney of Kingston, with Frank Kinnear, William Duncan Jr., his father, William Duncan, won it for the first time in competition.

Ten years ago Mr. L. E. McLean, representing the Corbin Lock Company in this city, presented a gold cup for competition. Feeling that the cup had outlived its usefulness, the same gentleman presented another cup for the 11th annual tournament held at the local greens over the holiday and a Kington rink came up the winner with a maximum score. The names of the rinks that have won the trophy in former years are still preserved on the new trophy.

The energetic committee that headed this tournament with Cliff Argue as general chairman, have reason to be proud of the day's achievement. The weather was ideal, the greens were in excellent condition and the women's section of the club, headed by Mrs. Gordon Vince as president, supplied the inner man in grand style. The play during the day was watched by an especially large gallery as many of the wives and friends accompanied the bowlers to the city and these were augmented by a large number from the city. They all followed the play enthusiastically and tried to root their favorite rink home. In a tournament of this kind, with rinks from all over the province, it is quite a feat to win three games and only eight of the sixty-four that started play early on Monday accomplished that objective.

Was Well Organized

Cliff Argue handled the draw in an excellent manner. There were no delays between games and all were on their way home before the midnight hour approached. The bowlers were welcomed to the city by Ald. G. B. Hyde, president of the club, and thanked for their co-operation at the end of play. Mr. Argue handled the disposition of the prizes and Larry Murphy, of Calvert Distillery, and George McDonald of Corby's Distillery, presented the prizes donated by their firms.

The Edney rink, besides winning the beautiful trophy presented by the Corbin Lock Co., were awarded four chests of silver in the Tudor pattern. The second winner, C. S. Dodds, Len Hill, W. A. Campbell and James Johnson, of Brockville, was presented with the Calvert trophy along with four sets of silver service trays, silver water jugs and cut glass highball glasses. The third prize, the Belleville Hotelkeepers' Association trophy, was won by Percy Graham, Gordon Watkin, G. B. Hyde and Austin Watkin, and were presented with the trophy plus four silver service trays equipped with relish dishes. The fourth prize, the Peller trophy, was won by W. A. Hoskins, G. T. Taylor, E. W. Wiggins and Morris Booth, of Cobourg, along with four silver ice tubs.

The fifth prize sponsored by the Corby Distillery consisting of four silver meat platters were won by Garn Dobbs, Ernie Vanner, Cyril McBride and Fred Harper also of the local club. This win was most gratifying to the skip, Mr. Harper, as he was also celebrating his birthday. The sixth prize consisting of four silver baking dishes and pyrex fillers, sponsored by the Belleville Lock Company was won by Len Howe, P. Biss, H. Cane and J. Eastwood of Toronto, while the seventh prize, four sets of fashion jewellery, sponsored by the Avon Jewellery Ltd., was won by Gordon McMillan, John Morrison, E. Carswell and S. McMillan of Oshawa. The eighth and last three-game winner was D. Fraser, J. McDonald, L. C. Dalgleish and B. Selling of Cornwall and they were presented with certificates for four pairs of trousers, sponsored by the Tip Top Tailors, Ltd.

Kingston Repeats

The first two-games high winner was K. Leishman, B. Minton, P. Timlin and H. Nevell of Kingston and they were presented with four Kenwood blankets, sponsored by the Stephens-Adamson Company and the Mead Johnson Company. Second in this section, A. Lynas, P. Perron, K. Shaman and T. Gaines of Toronto were given four leather utility kits sponsored by the G. T. Lanning Company. Four windbreakers, sponsored by the Deacon Shirt Company were won by W. J. Dennison, Lloyd Smith, E. T. Dennison and James Smith, G. Wiskins, F. Dennison, G. Johnson and H. Swaffield of Kingston won the four deluxe porch chairs and tables donated by the McFarland Woodenware Company.

Four travel clocks with thermometers, donated by Col. P. H. Wills and the Belleville coal merchants were won by Jack Fitzgerald, Wilbur Fox, Mark Vanner and "Davey" Davison of the local club. This prize was for the first one-game high. Four bakelite thermos water jugs donated by the Bakelite Company were won by Fred Stoates of Ottawa and his rink while William Finlay, Roy Brown, W. Fuller and H. Ormshaw of Trenton won four "Anson" sets of cuff links and tie clips donated by the American Optical Company. Four mayonnaise bowls with filler and spoon donated by the Bata Shoe Company and the J. and J. Cash Company were won by W. A. Fulton and his Chesterville rink.

Congratulations are in order to the Belleville Bowling Club for their well conducted tournament.

Stanky Gets Long Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky of St. Louis Cardinals Monday was given a contract extension running through 1956.

Stanky, 35, also is to have a bigger voice in a long-range Cardinal rebuilding program and a free hand to experiment with young players for the remainder of this season.

The contract, longest ever granted a Cardinal manager, was reported to call for the same salary Stanky has been receiving, about $40,000 a year.

Around the Kitty

Perfect weather greeted the 264 bowlers who came to the eleventh Corbin gold cup tournament. There was not a cloud in the sky and with a gentle wind conditions were ideal. The lawns about the greens were especially inviting and the rows of chairs were constantly filled. A number of large umbrellas were put up and the committee was thanked by the women.

Chairman Cliff Argue, who has run this tourney since its inception, assisted by his co-chairman Howard Hanton were the two busiest men on the grounds but as usual the draws were run off with precision. The preliminary work of a tournament of this size is tremendous but with a hard working committee this tourney runs like clockwork.

No tournament would be worthwhile without good greens and greens are the result of hard work by the greenskeeper, Jack Smith, the genial man around the greens has worked long hours and hard to put them in shape and every bowler spoken to expressed his appreciation of the fine lawn. The greens were lightning fast and the bowling was exceptionally keen. The greens chairman, L. E. McLean, whose firm donated the primary trophy spent many hours with the greenskeeper and he looked rather happy when he heard the appreciation of the bowlers. Garn Dobbs, the assistant greens chairman, was also a busy man.

The 'Spider' competition was won by Andy Hosie, of Cornwall and a goodly sum was realized for the veterans in hospital. This money is used to buy equipment for hospitals where bowling greens are available.

The opening ceremonies were in charge of Chairman 'Cliff'. He presented Ald. G.B. Hyde, president of the club, who welcomed the bowlers to the city. He especially extended the privileges of the club to those women, who accompanied their husbands and friends. W. E. Connor, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, thanked the club for the wonderful support given the Crippled Children's Fund and other activities of the association. He praised the club for the fine tournament that is annually provided and wished for the organization continued success.

The tournament would never be a success without the assistance of the women's section, under the presidency of Mrs. Gordon Vince and her energetic committee and women provided a most excellent dinner, sandwiches, pie and coffee. At the outer booth, cigarets, soft drink and chocolate bars were provided and all day both the dining room and the snack bar were scenes of activities. Thanks ladies for a wonderful job.

There were seven rinks from the local club entered, including the rink from the Corbin Lock which was composed of Orlo Smith, Gordon Edwards, Howard Hanton and L. E. McLean. In the first draw Al Black, C. B. McGuire, A. R. Symons and J. B. Black were defeated by Timmin, of Kingston 24-12. Garn Dodds, W. E. Vanner, C. H. McBride and Fred Harper won over Cable of Kingston, 21-6. Percy Graham, Gordon Watkin, G. B. Hyde and Austin Watkin won over McPhaul of Cornwall 18-10. Jack Fitzgerald, Wilbur Fox, Mark Vanner and 'Davey' Davison won 19-8 over Porter of Verdun. The Corbin rink won 19-6 over Hargreaves of Iroquois, while Cleo Colling, 'Skit' Vandervoort, James Hannah and Wilfred Price won over Harrison of Kingston, 18-12. Claude D. Tice, Ray Grant, Doug Row and A. E. Wonnacott lost in the last end to Morris Booth of Cobourg, 15-14.

In the second draw, Austin Watkin and his rink won over Hood of Ottawa, 18-8, with Davison being defeated by Kean of Westmount 14-9. Black defeated Cable of Kingston 12-11, while Harper trimmed Timmin of Kingston 13-9. McLean lost in the last end to McMillan of Oshawa, Wonnacott was defeated by Fulton of Chesterville, 18-8 and Price went down to Smart, of Kingston 13-8.

In the third draw Watkin defeated Ashman of Ottawa 17-13, Davison lost to Swaffield, of Kingston 14-13 on an extra end, Joseph Black defeated Cross of Perth 20-6 and Harper won from Roy of Ottawa, after a tough struggle 17-14. McLean downed Jones of Peterborough 19-13, while Wonnacott defeated Connor of Madoc 22-12 and Price was winner over Elliott of Stirling 15-14.

Four Records Go by Board In Thrilling Speedboat Meet; Bern Daoust Wins Gold Cup

Roaring along at a speed of 103.175 miles per hour, Bernard Daoust of Lachine, Quebec, set a new Canadian record for the .266 cubic inch class at the Prince Edward Yacht Club Gold Cup Regatta held in Picton yesterday.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 gasped, thrilled and chilled as the wave-splitting "Canada Maid III" with Daoust at the helm ripped over the course to win the coveted Gold Cup crossing the finish line first in both heats. His average speed for the ten miles was close to 75 miles per hour.

Daoust's world record was over three miles per hour better than the old one established by Bill Braden of Waterdown, Ont., in 1951.

Set Two Marks

In the Canadian one-design class, George Carnegie, Toronto, set a world record for the measured mile covering the mile both ways at an average speed of 47.217 miles per hour. This was almost two miles per hour faster than the former mark set by Harry Stone, Toronto, at a speed of 45.8 m.p.h.

Carnegie also sped over the course for a new world record at an average speed of 46.668 m.p.h. over a five mile course.

Ripping along at 73.7 miles per hour, George Reynolds of Brockville drove his "What's Left" over the miles for the fastest time for 135-Canadian hydroplanes in Eastern Canada waters. Chasing him to the wire was Bill Belfrie, Gananoque, driving his "Static."

The Schenley Gold Helmet awarded annually to the driver attaining the most points in the .2255 cubic inch class, was won by Jack Langmuir, Brockville, driving "Costa Phobia" owned by Art Hatch of Hamilton. "My Sin" driven by Henry Vogel, Webster, N.Y., was second.

Hatch, who won the Gold Cup in the 1952 regatta, was forced to withdraw from driving after one heat. He was said to be suffering from exhaustion.

John Palmer, Wellington, Ont., took all the honors in the "B" Class outboards and the Bay of Quinte Free-for-All. Palmer drove his speedster across the finish line ahead of good fields in both races.

The results:

48 cu. inch hydroplane — 1, Sleep Stealer (Roy Taber, Detroit); 2, Leapin' Leprechun (Bob Patterson, Toronto); 3, Agitator (Duke Selle, Grand Island, N.Y.). Time — 6:46.

SHANTZ SIDELINED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Southpaw Bobby Shantz, the American League's most valuable player last year, has been sidelined indefinitely by manager Jimmy Dykes of Philadelphia Athletics. Dykes said he wouldn't use Shantz again "until I'm quite sure his arm and shoulder are all right." Bobby was forced to leave Sunday's first game against Cleveland Indians when his arm stiffened in the cold and rainy weather.

Pt. Anne Dunks Glen Roys 17-4

Point Anne Cementmen swamped the Glen Roy Juniors 17-4 in the third game of their best of five series for the City District Softball League title at the Ox Point Saturday evening, to give the "Stone Crushers" a one-game lead. The fourth game is slated for the CNR Recreation Field tonight.

The Ox Pointers went into a one-run lead in the first. The Glens tied it in the top of the second and then Point Anne went into the lead in their half of the second with a four-run splurge, which later proved was all that they needed to win the game. They put the game in the bag in the third with two more and made no mistake to any one that they were the bosses for the rest of the game. They got another in the fifth, four in the sixth, two in the seventh and three in the eighth.

The Juniors' other runs came with one in the fourth and two in the seventh.

Bob Hunter went all the way on the hill for Ox Pointers getting four on strikes and walking only one. Bob Green sweated the route for the Juniors getting five on strikes and passing four.

Brannigan and Buchanan led the winners at the plate with Brannigan pounding the ball for a homer and two singles. Buchanan slugged the ball for a triple and two singles. Bob Strachan and John Green shared the second spot honors at the plate, both with a brace of singles. From reports John Green hit a ball that had Don "Turk" Barclay backed up into the trees at the end of the left field line. Doug Hull rode the ball for a four-bagger, while Mulholland and Gilmour doubled and Elliott singled.

Goyer led the losers at the plate, putting the wood to the ball for a triple and a single while Peter Green touch the ball for two singles. Batchelor blew the ball for a triple, while Belnap, Carr, Bob Green, Soule and Whalen each connected on Hunter's slants for singles.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A defending bidder has no business making his partner do all the guessing. With enough for a double, he should not bid a suit. Double shows a stronger hand than does a simple overcall.

A simple overcall is a non-jump defensive bid in a suit. It is a bid that shows at least five tricks. Among these tricks may be as few as two high cards of which only one may be a sure trick.

A double shows a hand that is as good as an opening bid of one. This means at least five tricks. Among these tricks must be at least four high cards of which at least two are sure tricks.

A deal we will talk about is shown here:

NORTH
♠K 9 3
♥Q 7 3
♦A 4
♣A K Q 4 3

WEST
♠10 7 2
♥9 8 4
♦10 7 5
♣9 8 5

EAST

♥A K J 10
♦K Q J 9
♣10 7 2

SOUTH

As dealer in south you pass. Your left hand opponent in the east will also pass, of course. Your partner in the north starts the ball rolling with an opening bid of one club.

The hand that east holds is as good as an opening bid of one. He has five tricks, four high cards, three sure tricks; enough in each department expected in a double or opening one bid.

North has already started with an opening bid. So, it is too late for east to start with an opening. Any bid he now makes would be a defensive bid. So, what should he do?

An east bid of one in either suit would be a simple overcall. This would promise five tricks or more. But it would deny having as many as four high cards with two sures.

Defender can show a hand that is stronger than a simple overcall. It would be foolish of him not to show how much stronger. Because the responses from his partner will depend on it.

Therefore, double, is what east should say, here. It may not be important in this case. But partner is entitled to the information. One never knows when it may come in handy.

POLITICAL

Speaking from Quebec over the CBC's French network, J. Edgar Bouchard, president of the Quebec Social Credit League, said his party welcomed the Korea truce because it knew how to deal with the resulting economic difficulties.

He said both the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives had avoided the question of what the end of fighting in Korea would mean to the Canadian economy. Both hoped the "little war would have continued a while longer or that another would occur so that the economic consequence would not cause them too much embarrassment."

In a recorded address over Montreal radio station CFCF, Finance Minister Abbott said the Liberal government has always opposed centralization and Progressive Conservative charges to the contrary are unfounded. "We have abandoned many fields of taxes to the benefit of many Canadians and to the benefit of provincial governments."

Kennedy on Stump

At Elmira, Ont., Hon. T. L. Kennedy, one-time Conservative premier of Ontario, said the Progressive Conservatives if elected would restore Canada's foreign markets.

At Galt, Ont., E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said that during the last 10 years Canadians have been over-taxed $200,000,000. Recent tax reductions had been few and unimportant.

At Amherst, N.S., Dr. William G. Blair, Progressive Conservative member of the last Commons for Lanark, said the Maritimes need more electric power to attract new industry and a Progressive Conservative government would help them get it. He said the Liberals might have called the election in August "to get ahead of a recession in farm prices."

Some Canadians voted Monday, though the campaign still has a week to run.

About 105,000 servicemen and women in Canada, Europe and the Far East are eligible to cast ballots and many of them did just that Monday. Their votes, to be taken all week, won't be counted until Aug. 17.

Meanwhile, the political leaders, after a comparatively restful weekend, launched their final—and perhaps most telling—vote-seeking drives.

At Nanaimo Saturday night Mr. Coldwell said benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act are "far too low" and bear no relationship to contributions.

The maximum of $24 a week was "entirely inadequate" for a family trying to meet today's high costs. There was no reason for such low benefits when the insurance fund had assets of about $850,000,000. He said the Liberal government's "refusal" to remedy the "many inadequacies" of the act revealed its "unprogressive record" in labor matters.

A CCF government would provide a much improved system of unemployment insurance, including higher benefits as well as coverage in case of sickness.

Completes Swing

Mr. Drew completed a week-long swing through Ontario Saturday with nine speeches and visits to 12 communities. He hitch-hiked 40 miles to Kincardine with a farmer in a pre-war model car when his own automobile had a flat.

At Owen Sound, where he wound up his 16-hour working day, Mr. Drew accused the Liberal government of "dictatorship" and said: "Never since Charles I lost his head more than 300 years ago has there been a more callous defiance of Parliament."

Mr. Drew referred to an order-in-council passed under the government's emergency powers legislation which bars Canadian ships from trading with Red China. The order was passed in April while Parliament was in session.

He said the government no longer subscribes to Liberal principles and has abandoned the basic Liberal tenet of Parliament's supremacy.

Disputes Claim

At Arthur, Mr. Drew disputed Mr. St. Laurent's claim that the Opposition Leader knew it had been denied there were horses on the payroll at Camp Petawawa and yet kept repeating it. "Horses were on the payroll and he (the prime minister) knows it because he said so himself."

Mr. St. Laurent spent a quiet Saturday at his birthplace, Compton, Que., and took up the political cudgels again Sunday night at Sherbrooke, Que.

He said before an audience o' 3,300 that while there were some "sinners" in the armed forces, the incidence of crime among the military was far less than that of a city of 200,000—the number of servicemen, 105,000, plus their families.

The prime minister said that even with the crimes uncovered in the armed forces and extra purchases of such things as teapots, forks and neckties, only a few thousand dollars could be involved. But the Progressive Conservatives were promising to cut defence expenditures by $250,000,000 a year. This could not be done without reducing Canada's commitments under the North Atlantic alliance.

The prime minister also spoke over the CBC's French network and said the government through development of the country's natural resources has contributed largely to the present high standard of living and to the enviable position Canada holds among the nations.

AT THE CAPITOL— Red-Haired Piper Laurie climbs the stardom ladder playing opposite Tony Curtis in Universal - International's Technicolor "The Prince Who Was A Thief" showing today and Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Winchester 73" starring James Stewart. Matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE—This talented trio of stars, Patricia Medina, Fernando Lamas and Arlene Dahl, are starred in Paramount's first three dimension Technicolor production "Sangaree", which is now thrilling audiences at the Belle Theatre, continuing until Thursday. The romantic adventure based on Frank G. Slaughter's best-selling novel of the same title. While in 3-Dimension, it would still be a great motion picture in any dimension.

AT THE CAPITOL — Blonde Shelley Winters is the lone feminine cast member of Universal-International's new western, "Winchester 73", which also headlines James Stewart, Dan Duryea and Stephen McNally. On the same program in Technicolor "Prince Who Was a Thief". Both hits now showing at the Capitol Today and Wednesday.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS

TORONTO (CP)—Lt.-Col. A. G. Poupore, 58, a veteran of the First and Second World Wars, died Sunday. A native of Nelson, B.C., he came here to attend the University of Toronto, but left school to join the 75th battalion, in which he eventually became a major and second-in-command. In the last war he served as an ordnance director with the 3rd and 4th divisions overseas.

... This is the 3-D picture that was worth waiting for! Among three-dimensional pictures "Sangaree" stands alone as the achievement of a studio that unhurriedly devoted the massed talents and skills of all its personnel, determined to create the very finest. And while "Sangaree" would be a triumph in any dimension, to bring alive this true motion picture in 3-D required much more time, money and talent. Based on the lusty best-seller by Frank Slaughter, "Sangaree" has stars that are famous, action that thrills, romance that excites, backgrounds that amaze—all breath-takingly real in color by Technicolor. And now the best in 3-D is here! See "Sangaree" —and you'll agree!

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine vibrations for many and varied interests and activities. Now it is up to you to do the right thing with all helpful influences. Whole day can be productive, pleasant.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Start the day with faith and great hope for good results from your healthy endeavors. No need to strain or worry, but be reasonably consistent and have some system. Good fun in order.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Some simple hurdles indicated; you should be able to get usual tasks done quickly and without too much extra effort; and perhaps take on added responsibilities. Fine day for work, study, play, rest.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Domestic interests and more directly personal affairs have the quicker green light today. Pace your activities to get full use of favorable aspects. Higher level thoughts will attain most.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Pitch in with all the vim and intelligence you have this fine Zodiacal day. Hold self poised, ready to make necessary changes if needed. Employer, employee should work together for solid achievement.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Work quickly where you should. But do realize the importance of each circumstance. Diversify your interests for a brighter and better life.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—The new isn't always best.

stant improvement, so look ahead with those who are moving ahead.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Grand star influences. All worthy activities are in fine favor and you can achieve most of what you wish if it is honorable and does not offend God's laws. Recreation, health measures rate.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—No need to fret or worry this fine day; aim to keep everything normal. Whatever your advantages or drawbacks, have faith in God and in a good future. Today has many blessings.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Stimulating, generous aspects, on the whole. If sensibly wise and not worrying, you can have a satisfying time once affairs are in good order. Essential matters should prosper. Don't forget God.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Wonderful outlook even for the hazardous and unpleasant tasks. Home and family interests, everyday duties are under friendly rays. Have faith!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—An even, smooth schedule suggested and favored. But care is stressed in water sports, dealing in and —using beverages, all liquids. A productive and pleasant period ahead with your wise co-operation.

YOU BORN TODAY: Build now for the future, add to your assets by being sensibly careful of earnings, income generally. Today favors all worthwhile activities and balance of month is encouraging. You have tremendous ability and

NOTED GOLF FEAT

OTTAWA (CP)—Thoms J. McMahon, who in 1927 rolled a golf ball from Rochester, N.Y., to Canada's Parliament Buildings, died Sunday at Rochester, it was learned here. He was 84. A native of Cannamore, Ont., Tom McMahon performed his feat to raise money for sixk and needy vaudeville players, though not a performer himself. It took him three weeks.

Foreign Legion Service Brings Sentence of Death

BERLIN (AP)—A Russian zone Communist court has sentenced a young West German to death because he fought against the Reds in Indo-China as a member of the French Foreign Legion, West Berlin's anti-Communist League of Free Jurists reported today.

This organization, which has good underground connections in the Russian zone, said Hans Hastreiter, 25, was condemned "for espionage and using weapons against a peace-loving people." Sentence was passed by a woman judge after a secret trial in the district court at Cottbus.

His espionage, the Free Jurists said, is supposed to have consisted iences in Indo-China.

PLAN SHRINE

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines have agreed to fly stones from holy places in 100 countries to build a Roman Catholic shrine at Idlewild airport. Plans for the shrine and a chapel at Idlewild, one of the world's largest and busiest air fields, were revealed Monday.

Dr. G. I. Christie, Former Head Of OAC, Dies

GUELPH (CP)—Dr. G. I. Christie, 72, president emeritus of the Ontario Agricultural College, died in hospital Monday.

He served a 19-year term as president of OAC, largest agricultural college in the Commonwealth. He was appointed in 1928 and retired owing to ill health in 1947.

In his period of office, longest of any of the OAC's seven presidents, the college saw a marked increase in extension programs designed to bring the benefits of research to farmers in a practical form.

The farmland area of the college was increased and many new buildings erected, among them a new administration building and students' residence, an additional residence for the students at Macdonald Institute and a new horticulture building.

Born in Winchester in 1881, George Irving Christie was graduated from the OAC in 1902 and from Iowa State College in 1903. He served on the staff of the Iowa college for two years, then accepted positions on the staff of Purdue University in Indiana for four years. In 1909 he was appointed superintendent of agricultural extension at Purdue and in 1920 director of the Agricultural experiment station at the University, a post he held until 1928.

A the close of the First World War, he was appointed assistant to the United States secretary of agriculture and served as assistant secretary in 1918 and 1919. He left Purdue in 1928 to accept the presidency of OAC.

Youth Charged With Slaying Of Storekeeper

QUEBEC (CP)—Tracy Boudreau 17-year-old laborer, was charged Monday with the brutal slaying of Edgar Audet, co-operative store manager at New Richmond, Que., July 23.

A spokesman for the Quebec attorney-general's department said Boudreau now is in provincial police cells in Quebec City.

Boudreau will be taken to New Carlisle for arraignment, the spokesman said.

Audet, a 45-year-old storekeeper, was beaten to death in his store July 2 by two men who then forced his young son to give them $30 from the cash box.

Boudreau was taken into custody in New Richmond Sunday.

FRANKFORD

United Church 3-M Y.A. Club Holds Picnic

FRANKFORD — The "Three M" Young Adult Club of Frankford held its annual picnic on Sunday last at Presqu'ile Point this year and members attending spent the afternoon swimming and playing ball.

After the supper was finished, the elements took over, and rain forced the club members to return to the Rose Lowery hall for the remainder of the evening. There, hymns started the program, followed by the call to worship, which was led by Mr. Sid Martin, then Claude Moran read from the Scriptures, and Eugene Lohnes introduced Rev. Donald Badger, who gave a short and interesting talk.

Mr. Fred Wood spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Maher and family in Rednersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brownell, of Rochester, N.Y., are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. G. Vandervoort.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kidd spent a few days in Montreal during their holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Finnigan and sons, Rickey and Mark, are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Finnigan.

F/O Kenneth Anderson, of the RCAF, is now stationed at Trenton after spending the last few years in the west.

Harold Rogers, Jr., spent a few days last week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Palmer on the birth of a baby daughter, on Sunday, July 26, at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Sorry to report Miss Grace Pierson has entered Trenton hospital for an operation. Best wishes for a speedy convalescence.

Mr. Malcolm King is recovering from a recent operation in Belleville General Hospital. His friends wish him a short stay.

Mr. Mac Ferguson, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Bannan, of St. Catharines, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Foster of Oshawa, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andrews.

Mrs. H. Nole and Bill, of Rochester, N.Y., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Bashaw.

Master Donald Kellar and sisters Lois and Shirley, spent last week with their grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Dunning, in Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ahlin and son, Jimmy, of Willoughby, O., spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Goodwin and Barry, and Miss Joan Revoy spent Sunday with Mrs. G. Lowery in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Weese were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weese, of Rednersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stumphf and son Ricky, of Mentor, O., spent last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paige, Montreal, are spending the week with relatives in Frankford.

Mrs. G. Vandervoort has returned from Belleville General Hospital and her many friends wish her a rapid recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kellar, Mrs. Charles Kellar and daughter, Laura, spent Saturday evening with Rev. and Mrs. Dunning in Napanee.

Mrs. Charles Bashaw, of Detroit, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. George Chard.

Miss Connie Elliott spent last week with her aunt, Mrs. A. Townsend in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Frost and son Bill, spent a few days recently with friends and relatives in Mentor, Ohio.

Rev. and Mrs. Don McNeill and family have returned home to Tillson, Manitoba, after spending a month's vacation with Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Pierce.

Mrs. O. Mitts, of Belleville, is spending this week with her sister, Miss Mildred Hubble.

A record 6,605,000 new out-patients during the year was recorded by Britain's national health service in 1952.

2ND THURLOW

Bride, Bridegroom Honored by Friends

2nd. THURLOW — About 60 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. A. Dent gathered at their home on Friday night in honor of their son, Mr. Lawrence and his bride (nee Betty Mastin).

The bride and groom were given seats of honor and an appropriate address read by Mr. Donald Jackson, in which the good wishes of all for a happy married life were expressed.

After unwrapping of the many lovely and useful gifts, Lawrence and Betty made suitable replies. All sang for "They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The younger folks gathered outside and gave them a rousing charivari and at a later date all will be entertained at the home of Mr. Donald Jackson.

Britain in 1953 used seven times as many farm tractors as in 1938.

Three Canadians Visiting New York Beaten, Robbed

NEW YORK (AP)—Three Canadians who came to New York Sunday for a holiday, were beaten and robbed as they slept in their automobile in Brooklyn early today.

The three young men, who were taken to Coney Island Hospital, were Thomas Kellet, 21, of R. R. 1, Whitby, Ont., robbed of $80 and a wrist watch valued at $80; H. Johnston, 18, of Ajax, Ont., robbed of $32 and James Brown, 24, of Whitby, Ont., robbed of $30.

They told police they visited Coney Island last night, and then drove to the Sheepshead Bay district, where they went to sleep in their parked car.

Early this morning, they said, four or five men grabbed and beat Kellet, who was in the front seat; and then beat Johnston and Brown. They took all the money the three men had, then drove away in their car.

A policeman found the car about two miles away.

Congress Session Leaves Untouched Many Key Issues

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the stroke of midnight, the Republican-controlled United States 83rd Congress wrote finis to a mixed record of action and lethargy in helping President Eisenhower fulfil his campaign pledges.

But members left behind for their second session beginning Jan. 6—or a possible special meeting this fall—an imposing list of key measures which will make or break their record.

Many of the hottest potatoes, including some of the president's recommendations, were simply left in the bin. Others, on the advice of the president, were handed to study commissions for closer scrutiny.

This first session, of the first Congress in two decades to be Republican-controlled while a Republican was in the White House, made a firm start toward edging away from the Democratic party's New Deal and Fair Deal philosophies.

But even Republicans conceded it was only a start, and much of it at that achieved only with Democratic aid.

Eisenhower will give his own estimate of this session's achievements in a radio broadcast Thursday.

Monday night he sent letters of "warm thanks and appreciation" to the House of Representatives and Senate.

There was no hint in the letters of any chagrin over his biggest legislative misfire: a plea to boost the statutory debt limit.

With the debt now $272,500,000,000 and more borrowing predicted, Eisenhower's fiscal leaders had been insistent that the statutory debt limit be raised from $275,000,000,000 to $290,000,000,000.

A special session in October or November was obviously in prospect. But Eisenhower said in his letters to the members of Congress: "I look forward to seeing all of you again in January."

In the closing hours Congress pushed through final agreement on a $53,500,000,000 program to finance the spending of the government and the armed services in the year which started July 1.

The bill was trimmed, but not enough to balance the budget.

The outlook is that despite the cuts there will be a 'whopping $5,800,000,000 deficit at the close of the fiscal year.

The money bills also included $6,500,000,000 for military and economic aid to friendly nations, plus another $200,000,000 for South Korean rehabilitation. The Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act, a vehicle for the trade-not-aid theory, was extended to next June 12.

400 War Captives Released in Korea; One Is a Canadian

Cpl. J. Pelletier of Chatham Among Prisoners Exchanged

PANMUNJOM (CP)—Four hundred happy Allied war captives, including Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., rode Russian trucks down the dirt road from North Korea to freedom today.

The massive, five-week Korean war prisoner exchange was on—12,763 United Nations troops, including 14 Canadians, for 74,000 Reds.

The Communists said 392 more prisoners will be liberated Thursday (8 p.m. EDT Wednesday). No Canadians were listed.

Pelletier was the first Canadian to be released under the armistice agreement. The 26-year-old corporal was listed as missing in action last May 7 and believed a prisoner of war. A member of the 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, he was captured after a patrol May 2, just two weeks after he reached the front line.

Wife Is Thrilled

In Chatham, his wife said she was thrilled by the news of his release. It was the first definite word she had received that he was a PoW.

"I hope he gets back as soon as possible to me and our two little girls," she said.

Pelletier and 70 Americans came out of the bleak Communist prison camps with laughs and heartfelt thanksgiving to be homeward bound.

For them and 329 other former Allied captives the Korean war had finally ended, nine days after firing stopped at the front July 27.

Says Prisoners Sentenced

However, the joy was blurred by a grim report from the first American officer released.

Maj John Daujat of Richmond, Calif., said the Reds had sentenced some U.S. officer captives to long prison terms only two days ago for "instigating against peace."

That was seven days after the armistice.

Daujat was swept into the homeward processing before he could elaborate. In Washington, defence and state department spokesmen declined comment.

The Allied troops released also included 250 South Koreans, 26 Britons, 23 Turks, 12 Filipinos, seven Colombians, seven French and one each from Greece, Australia, Belgium and South Africa.

The allies sent back 2,760 Chinese and North Koreans.

Seventy more Americans—42 of them sick and wounded—will be included with 250 Koreans and 72 other Allied personnel in the second day's exchange.

Reds Rip Uniforms

The Reds who went north in the first day's exchange at the last-minute ripped their new American-provided uniforms, snarled and cursed U.S. officers and flashed anger. The display obviously was aimed at propaganda for the Red newspaper men and photographers who stood nearby.

In contrast, Allied troops shouted "Glad to be here!"

Some South Koreans broke down and wept. Some didn't even know there was a truce. They had left their northern prison camps not knowing what awaited them.

One tearful South Korean repatriate bit a fingertip and traced in blood:

"The Communists never defeated us."

Americans Happy

Most of the Americans were simply, quietly happy. One returning prisoner threw his Chinese blue clothing sharply to the ground, another laughed, some waved.

And mingled with the brightness was a touch of tenderness as waiting hands picked up stretchers of sick and wounded who came from their prison camps on their backs.

The American prisoners were sped to Freedom Village, 12 miles south of Panmunjom, for showers, food, medical treatment and the first processing for their trip home.

The Britons and Pelletier were taken to Camp Britannia and the South Koreans to Camp Liberty, both near Freedom Village.

Newspaper men at Freedom Village noted these men did not relate the tales of torture, death and maiming told by returning Allied prisoners released in the sick and wounded exchange last April.

Soft-Pedal Stories

Associated Press Tokyo bureau chief Robert Eunson said it was clear the men had been told somewhere in their army processing to soft-pedal the stories.

The Americans will be taken from Freedom Village to Inchon, a port on Korea's west coast, where they will board transports for home after a few days of final processing. The Canadians and Britons will be sent to Japan for processing before beginning their journey home.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Substantial rainfall occurred in southern and central regions of Ontario Tuesday in the path of a storm centre that intensified as it moved rapidly eastward across the province. Reports indicate over an inch and three quarters. Skies are clearing gradually throughout the province in comparatively cool air that is moving down from the Hudson Bay region. Fine weather is expected to continue over most of Ontario Thursday. A disturbance approaching from the west will bring increasing cloudiness to western sections of the province during the day. Widely scattered thundershowers are likely to spread into southwestern counties Thursday evening.

Eisenhower Sees 'Ominous' Threat In Southeast Aisa

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—President Eisenhower said Tuesday that the advance of communism in Southeast Asia—particularly Iran—has created a "very ominous" threat to American security.

Speaking informally at the annual governors' conference here, he pointed toward a possible change in national policy which might give Asia immediate—if not lasting—priority over Europe in the American defence system.

Applauding the decision of Congress to put $400,000,000 of foreign aid into the defence of Indo-China, the President told the governors forcefully that this is no "give-away" program.

"We are voting for the cheapest way that can prevent the occurrence of something that would be of a most terrible significance to the United States of America."

He spelled this out as the possible loss to the Communists of all Southeast Asia, including India and Pakistan, and the denial to the free world of the tin, tungsten and other products it needs there.

Farmer and Wife Are Shot to Death In London Home

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two persons were shot to death at their farm home on the 13th concession, London township, today. Police found the bodies of Lorne Hayden and his wife in the front room of the two-storey house when they answered an anonymous call that shots were heard coming from the home about 9:30 a. m.

Both had been shot with a .32 calibre rifle. Police said apparently Hayden had shot his wife and then committed suicide. The woman had been shot in the stomach and head.

Liberated American Soldier Tells Of Death March to Yalu River

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP)—An American who survived the terrible Bataan death march in the Philippines and an agonizing mid-winter death march as a prisoner of the Communists in Korea came back to liberty today.

He is Cpl. John L. Dixon, 32, of San Jose, Calif.

As a Red captive, Dixon was forced to march with 50 others from Seoul to the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria—about 200 miles. He was captured Dec. 31, 1950.

"We marched for more than a month to reach a prison camp at the Yalu," Dixon said. "Some men died. North Koreans who guarded us on the march threatened to kill any one who dropped out of the line of march, so we helped or carried our buddies who had frost bitten feet or who otherwise were unable to walk.

"They fed us cracked corn and millet. We were half starved and half frozen the whole trip. Many's the night we spent in open cowsheds with temperatures far below freezing. I would spend a lot of every night jumping up and down to keep my feet and hands from freezing. Lice were eating us up.

"But I got through that one just like I got through the Bataan death march. Looking back on both experiences, I think the Bataan march was worse."

FIVE SURVIVORS OF WRECKED PLANE SIGHTED ON SEA

23 Jump Into Ocean As Craft Catches Fire

LONDON (AP) — Search craft have reported sighting five survivors from a United States Air Force RB-36 reconnaissance bomber which plummeted in flames into the Atlantic today.

Twenty-three men jumped into the Atlantic from the downed plane.

A search plane repored sighting five survivors bobbing on a raft. Four of the men stood up and waved. The fifth man was lying on the raft. The survivors were first spotted on the high seas 420 miles west of Prestwick, Scotland.

The rescue plane tried to establish radio contact with the raft, which is equipped with a small transmitter.

The merchant ship Uruguay also radioed it had reached the scene.

Crew Bails Out

The crew members bailed out of the blazing RB36 at 2,400 feet. It was not determined whether all jumped or whether a few stayed with the huge plane and tried to ditch it in the waves.

As soon as the wreckage was spotted the searching plane dropped a boat and radioed other aircraft in the area. A second SB-29 appeared and also dropped a boat.

The twenty-one American and British aircraft engaged in the search halted their rectangular flying patterns and began flying in wide circles around the wreckage. This was done to determine if any men had drifted away from the area of the wreckage.

At least three ships were reported to be within a 150-mile radius of the area.

Communists Tried To Create Rifts Between Allies

MUNSAN (AP)—The first British officer liberated today from Communist captivity said the Reds tried to create rifts between British and Americans in a prison camp near the Yalu river—but it didn't work.

"The Chinese would insunate to the British they were better than the Americans and they would insinuate to the Americans they were better than the British," said Lieut. Anthony Perrins of the Royal Northumberland Fusiliers.

"These were crude attempts to get us to agree with them. Needless to say, one didn't," he added.

The lieutenant related:

Prisoners in his camp passively resisted the Chinese guards throughout their captivity.

Allied captives refused to use postcards inscribed with Communist slogans and peace doves. The night of the armistice, the Chine provided beer and extra rations for a party which was not held because "the Chinese wanted to celebrate. Consequently, we would not."

FATAL MISTAKE

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The Laur family held their 11th annual reunion here recently. More than 70 members from Ontario and Michigan turned up and presented prizes to the oldest and youngest visitors.

Taxes and Trade Continue Main Themes of Opposition

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Taxes and trade continue to be two of the main ipposition themes in the election campaign.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had more words on taxes at Montreal Tuesday night while CCF leader M. J. Coldwell was talking about trade at Vancouver.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, returned to the national campaign with a recorded radio broadcast from Edmonton. He has been touring his own riding of Peace River for the last month.

Prime Minister St. Laurent took Tuesday off to attend to government business, but re-ascends the platform again tonight at Ottawa.

Tax Cut Easy

Mr. Drew contended the Liberal government "at any time since the war" could have given the income tax relief promised by the Progressive Conservatives.

Instead of admitting the reductions could have been made, he said, the Liberals had tried to create the impression that the $500,000,000-a-year tax cut pledge by the Progressive Conservatives was only an election promise which couldn't be carried out except by shaving family allowances and other social security payments.

Mr. Drew also said promotion of J. W. Pickersgill from clerk of the Privy Council to state secretary showed that taxpayers had been "paying the political manager of the Liberal government."

A Progressive Conservative government would ensure "there are no political baits held out to senior civil servants if they do a political job for the government."

He said Mr. Pickersgill had been carrying on political activities while clerk of the Privy Council—a civil service job. The "most serious aspect" of his promotion to cabinet rank was that "it demonstrates that for several years you and other Canadian taxpayers have been paying the political manager of the Liberal government."

Sees Security Jeopardized

Mr. Coldwell argued that the government has jeopardized Canada's economic security by "hanging onto temporary, short-term and unstable American markets."

This has been done instead of restoring pre-war markets in such countries as Britain.

The CCF leader said that last year Canada's foreign trade was the second highest in the world on a per capita basis. Therefore any substantial reduction in exports would bring on an immediate depression.

The government had been concentrating Canada's trade in the United States, which produced so many of the things Canada produced, and which had often demonstrated that it would accept surpluses only on a short-term basis to fill gaps in its own production.

A CCF government would stimulate trade with the sterling area by accepting sterling as part payment for Canadian produce, placing more foreign orders for governmental supplies in sterling countries, lowering tariffs and dumping duties, postponing further repayment on the Canadian loan to Britain for three years so Britain might use the dollars to buy Canadian primary products, and arranging long-term commodity agreements for specified imports and exports, with credit arrangements if necessary.

Mr. Coldwell speaks tonight at Edmonton while Mr. Drew will be at Quebec and nearby Ste. Germaine.

Apathy Is Seen

Mr. Low said Canadians aren't interested in the election because the campaign talk by the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives has been featured by trivialities.

"There is frustration and apathy everywhere, and that is not good in serious times like these. I find amongst the people an uneasiness, a sort of foreboding about the future because it is perfectly clear to them that after 86 years of old-party rule in Canada, the same old problems of heavy debt and interest burdens, increasing taxation rates, insecurity, war and preparation for war still plague us."

Mr. Low said the prime minister had declared he didn't understand Social Credit, but had labelled it as "peculiar and dangerous." But hundreds of thousands of Canadians understood the party's principles and resented Mr. St. Laurent's ridicule, especially when he had not attempted to explain his accusation.

If the quantity of money in use was geared to the flow of wanted goods and services, the Social Credit leader said, there would be a permanently stable dollar and neither the inflation nor deflation which Canadians had suffered since 1914. Ever since Social Credit had been first expounded, its enemies had never once faced up to the central fact of the party's monetary policy.

Dulles and Rhee Soon Agree On Agenda for Their Talks

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP) — United States State Secretary Dulles today delivered an oral message from President Eisenhower to President Syngman Rhee and reached quick agreement with the South Korean leader on the ground they will cover in vital post-armistice talks.

Emerging from a one-hour and 50-minute visit with Rhee, Dulles told newspaper men the session "went very well. . . . We had a good preliminary talk and agreed on topics to be discussed."

Agree On Agenda

Dulles did not disclose the nature of the message he brought from Eisenhower. But he told reporters he and Rhee agreed to discuss these points at their four-day conference which may determine if the Korean truce becomes lasting peace:

1. The Korean political conference which, by terms of the armistice, must be held by late October and, presumably, the joint U. S.-Korean stand which will be taken there.

2. A mutual security pact between the United States and South Korea which may be drafted during Dulles' visit.

3. American economic aid to South Korea, $200,000,000 of which was approved by Congress last week.

Dulles said he would call on Rhee daily until Saturday. The next meeting was set for Thursday.

Meantime, members of his party will meet with South Korean government officials to work out details of the policy issues.

Tours Front

Dulles this afternoon flew north of the 38th parallel, the pre-war boundary of North and South Korea, on a tour of the armistice-stilled front.

During his talks with Rhee, Dulles will negotiate key provisions of the projected mutual security pact which would pledge the United States to come to the aid of South Korea in the event of new attacks by the Communiss.

Such a pact could be concluded by Dulles here, but it would have to be ratified by the U. S. Senate.

Dulles also will seek agreement with Rhee on common objectives to be sought at the forthcoming political conference—notably unification of North and South Korea.

Dulles and top members of his mission toured the former fighting front by light plane and helicopter.

Their first stop took them to Freedom Village at Munsan where they met American prisoners released only a few hours earlier by the Communists.

Trapper Dies In Cabin Fire

RESTOULE, Ont. (CP)—Thomas McKee, 94, a pioneer who lived alone in his cottage near here, 20 miles southwest of North Bay, died in his flaming home today. It is believed he was trapped when flames gutted his cabin on the shore of Restoule lake.

Tourists near the elderly man's home were awakened early today by the crackling flames. Without equipment they stood by helplessly while the log cabin that Mr. Mckee built was gutted.

Mr. McKee, a retired trapper lived in the Restoule area for 87 years.

Origin of the fire was not known but it is believed to have started after Mr. McKee lit a fire during the chilly night.

TENNIS RAINED OUT

TORONTO (CP)—Opening play of the Ontario junior lawn tennis championships was rained out Tuesday at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club here. They were rescheduled for today. Among centres represented are Ottawa, Welland, Belleville, Cornwall and Kitchener. Top-seeded junior men's singles player is Pierre Lambert from Quebec City.

RED BLOCKADE, TERROR TRIALS REDUCE RUSH

Hundreds Still Seek Free Food From U.S.

BERLIN (AP)—The Communist hunger blockade and a rash of terror trials today severely reduced the rush of East Germans and East Berliners to receive free American food parcels in West Berlin.

Despite police threats and rain, hundreds of persons from Soviet-occupied East Berlin still came over for aid as the give away swung into its 10th day and toward the 1,500,000-parcel mark.

But the 18,000,000 Germans of the Russian occupation zone were barred from the free food by a virtually air-tight blockade on rail travel to Berlin, imposed last weekend. Protest demonstrations against the travel ban were put down by German Communist police.

The Communist government added terror with a series of drumhead trials to punish people who had come to Berlin to fetch the "American Judas parcels" last week. Communist papers printed long "blacklists" of East German reliefers, sometimes with pictures, denouncing them as "traitors and provocatuers."

The Communist press was stonily silent about the U. S. offer to release $1,400,000 of frozen East German funds in American banks if it is used only to buy food for the Soviet zone.

But the central committee of the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party indirectly answered the offer with more threats to East Germans to stay away from the American food stations.

The committee said:

"Those who take American food will die of it."

The West Berlin press hailed the American funds proposal as a shrewd diplomatic stroke which will increase the Communists' embarrassment over the "food war". The Reds are now on a spot where they will either have to admit the poverty of their occupation zone by buying American food or impose new inhumanity on their hungry people by rejecting the offer.

And if they buy American food it will be an admission that Russia is not making the shipments—for pay—which it promised several weeks ago when it rejected President Eisenhower's $15,000,000 gift.

Malenkov Opens Fifth Session Supreme Soviet

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW. (Reuters) — Prime Minister Malenkov, flanked by six of Russia's top leaders, today attended the opening of the fifth session of the Supreme Soviet—Russia's parliament.

He watched 600 deputies packing the squat wooden benches of the Kremlin Grand Palace agree to a two-point agenda for discussion at the extraordinary session, the second this year.

Deputies will confirm the state budget for 1953, crowded off the agenda at the Supreme Soviet meeting last March after Stalin's death, and the report on the 1951-52 budget.

Shaking Too Much to Light Cigaret Bus Driver Tells of Plunge Into Canal

CORNWALL (CP)—Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston, driver of the Colonial Coach Lines bus that plunged into the St. Lawrence river last Friday with a loss of 20 lives, today told how the accident happened.

From his bed in Cornwall General Hospital, he told reporters in a whisper: "It was somewhere around 4 a. m.

"Traffic was still comparatively light. It was still dark and there were lots of stars. It was a nice night.

"I met a westbound car just before the accident. I snapped my lights down as I came around a curve. Then I threw my lights up.

"There was something in the road right in front of me.

"I didn't know just what it was, although I knew it was a vehicle of some kind. It appeared to be angling across in front of me.

"I hit the brakes and at the same time, pulled to the centre of the road to try to miss it. I hoped the bus would stay on the road, but I didn't think I had room to go by.

"Then we hit. The bus went out of control. We started going down a bank into the water. I had been talking to a fellow in the front seat just before.

"I don't know what else happened. I don't remember. I don't know how I got out. I don't remember getting to shore. I can't remember."

Mr. Chesebrough, father of two children who has been a driver for Colonial Coach Lines for four years, told his story with much prompting from reporters. He chain-smoked cigarets which his wife kept lighting for him. He was shaking too much to light a match.

He said he didn't remember telling the passengers to be calm, although some of the passengers heard him say so as the bus entered the water.

He said he had no recollection of having forced open the front door, but once again passengers credited him with providing the escape route.

Russians Ready For Big 4 Talks On German Pact

Differ With West on What Should be Discussed

LONDON (AP)—Britain said officially today Russia's reply to the Western proposal for Big Four talks leaves the way open for a conference of foreign ministers.

A foreign office spokesman cautiously welcomed the Soviet reply.

The spokesman added that Russia's suggestion for a much wider conference than the one proposed by Britain, the United States and France, will require new discussion among the three Western powers.

Expected To Consult

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain, the United States and France are expected to consult promptly on Russia's acceptance of their bid for a Big Four meeting on German unification this fall.

Soviet objections to joint action among the Western powers, as set forth in a note released by Moscow Tuesday night, were regarded here as mainly propaganda.

They did not appear to make the slightest difference in the thinking of Western diplomats, who were due to go ahead with proposals fairly soon for a date and place for the Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Wary of Later Policy

The three Western governments seemed certain, however, to take a long and careful look at Soviet suggestions for including Red China in a possible conference later on decreasing world tension generally.

First, the Western powers usually have insisted that tensions can best be removed by solving specific problems such as the unification of Germany.

Secondly, all three Western governments are keenly sensitive to Kremlin efforts to exploit the differences in their approach to Communist China, which Britain recognizes and the United States and France do not.

See Further Negotiatons

The Moscow note was due for careful study here, U.S. officials said. Initial reaction was that the Russians appeared to have accepted the meeting proposal in a manner which made further negotiations desirable.

Decisions on a formal reply may await the return of State Secretary Dulles, now conferring in Korea with President Syngman Rhee.

Western officials are determined that political freedom throughout Germany be an essential step in the process of setting up an all-German government and that such a government must be created before a peace treaty can be signed. Their argument has been that a treaty drafted by the big powers in the absence of a representative German regime would be a dictated treaty, rather than a negotiated one.

Some authorities considered that the Soviet note left the way open for proceeding along this line, since in referring to discussion of the German problem, it mentioned first the establishment of German unity and second the conclusion of a peace treaty.

Essentially, there are only three possible solutions to the problem of Germany:

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it is ready for a Big Four meeting on Germany but differed with the West on what should be discussed.

In identical notes to Britain, the United States and France the Russians also renewed their long-standing proposal for a Big-Five parley — including Communist China—on other problems threatening world peace.

The three western ministers, after their Washington meeting, had proposed July 15 that Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia meet with them to discuss an Austrian independence treaty and, for Germany, "the organization of free elections and the establishment of a free all-German government."

Proposals in Reply

The Soviet reply, delivered Tuesday to the three western embassies, counter-proposed that the foreign ministers discuss:

1. "Measures to decrease tension in international relations."

2. "The German problem including the problem of re-establishment of German unity and the conclusion of a peace treaty."

The Russians said they had voiced their attitude on Austria in a note July 30 to the Western powers, in which they asked the West to drop the "short form" treaty it has proposed and return to negotiations on the detailed draft long under discussion by deputy foreign ministers.

"It goes without saying that a possible successful solution of the German problem could also help a solution of the Austrian question," the latest note said.

Note Understudy

(In Washington, state department officials said the Soviet note was under study. These officials said they welcomed the Russian acceptance but that some of the conditions laid down by the Russians might be unacceptable to the West.)

Proposing a separate and wider conference of foreign ministers to seek a lessening of international tension, the Russian note said Asia also should be discussed and "the participation of the Chinese People's Republic is essential."

The note assailed "measures being taken for the militarization of Western Germany," but said despite these "considerations," the Soviet government "attaches great importance to a joint examination of the German problem and hopes such a discussion will make it possible to examine thoroughly the problems concerned with the re-establishment of German unity which together with settlement of the problem of a peace treaty with Germany will help to consolidate peace in Europe"

WINS RIFLE SHOOT

MONTREAL (CP)—Officer Cadet E. L. Warner, a young Sherbrooke marksman who represented Canada this year at Bisley, England, and the previous year at the Olympics, Tuesday won the Molson match in the Province of Quebec Rifle Association shot at Mount St. Bruno ranges. He scored 99 points of a possible 100 at the 800- and 1,000-yard ranges.

CHURCHILL SEES QUEEN

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill called on the Queen at Windsor Castle Sunday night for the first time since he left London on doctor's orders to rest. The visit strengthened belief the 78-year-old British leader may soon be well enough to resume full duties.

OVERHEATED PIPES CAUSE OF RUN

City firemen were called to Turnbull street this morning to the residence of Dan Trotter where overheated stove pipes were reported giving trouble. Outside of smoke in the rooms no damage was reported.

REQUEST FOR PAPER RECEIVED FROM ALASKA

Proof that city residents move around considerably was substantiated Wednesday when a letter was received from a former Belleville man now located in Fairbanks, Alaska. The letter which had an American dollar bill enclosed, requested copies of The Ontario Intelligencer be sent to his new home in the Yukon. It was signed by F. C. Bleecker and bore the letterhead, 'Bleecker's Flower Shop, Box 1444, Fairbanks, Alaska.'

New Grandstand Will be Usable For Exhibition

Although the structure may not be fully completed the new grandstand at the Exhibition Park will be sufficiently completed to be usable during Belleville Fair which is scheduled to start on Aug. 17.

This was assured today by Watson and Weigand, architects for the grandstand structure now under construction by the St. Lawrence Contracting Company.

"It will keep us going, but we fully expect the seating section will be usable by the time the fair opens," Mr. Weigand stated. "The construction is coming along about on schedule."

The new grandstand will have a seating capacity of about 2500, plus standing room at the back and when completed will have a partial roof. Beneath the seats will be accommodation for junior farmer and other events to be staged in connection with the fair.

EDWARD MANLEY TURNER
(Toronto)

Taken suddenly ill while visiting in the city, Edward Manley Turner, of 485 Sherbourne St., Toronto, died in Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday. He was in his 55th. year.

A former resident of this city, Mr. Turner was born in Belleville and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Turner. He had lived in Toronto for the past five years.

A flagman with the Canadian National Railways, Mr. Turner had worked out of Belleville as brakeman and conductor for 30 years. He was a member of the United Church and of the Elks Lodge in Toronto. A veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors.

He is survived by his wife, the former Beatrice Vanslyke, and two daughters, Mrs. Evie (Madeline) Jones, of Smithfield, and Mrs. John (Margaret) Jones, of Belleville. There are three sisters, Mrs. Sadie Levo, of Saratoga, N.Y.; Mrs. Manley Lovelace, Belleville, and Mrs. Jean Leonard, of White Rock, B.C., and two brothers, John Turner, of White Rock, B.C., and Franklin J. Turner.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Inch and Half Of Rain Poured On City, District

Whatever the weatherman's faults, you cannot blame inconsistency to him after yesterday's rainy caper.

Probably figuring he had 'done right by our Nell' over Civic Holiday, when he came up with perfect weather, he sent down a steady downpour of rain that soaked the earth with one and one-half inches of water.

That was the official downfall, according to the city water purification plant, from noon to midnight.

The rain started to fall gently yesterday mid-morning and continued practically all afternoon and evening. There was no deluge at any time, just a steady fall that sent the citizenry scurrying for raincoats and umbrellas.

Downtown workers sent home hurried calls for the family cars with the result that the main intersections were cluttered with traffic jams, especially around 5 o'clock.

The rainfall apparently was general over a large area. Radio reports from Rochester, N.Y. and New York City stated that approximately one and one-half inches of rain had fallen during the day.

$500 in Cash, Cheques Stolen At Frankford

FRANKFORD (Special)—Thieves forced their way into the Frankford Hardware Store some time Monday night and got away with $500 in cash and cheques. Entry to the premises was gained by forcing a rear door, it was reported.

Two neighbors, Harry Rodgers and Herb Rankin heard a car start from the vicinity of the hardware store about 1.30 Tuesday morning and it is thought possible this was the time when the store was entered. Owner of the store, George Roberts is away on holidays and the store is being operated by his son. Village Constable Ed McGeachie is investigating.

U.S. Good-Will Air Tourists Halt at Trenton Due to Storm

Heavy black, low-hanging clouds on Tuesday morning forced five light aircraft to land at the Trenton RCAF station. The five planes carried a total of 13 aerial ambassadors of good will from the United States, part of a tour of what was, in the beginning, 60 planes.

On the return journey of a flight which has taken them from Portland, Oregon to the west of Canada, across the North country and on to Yarmouth, N.S., where pilots and crew all enjoyed three days of fishing in the Maritime province, the planes and pilots were headed for Grand Rapids, Mich., and a public reception when the bad weather caught up with them Tuesday.

When the tour began on July 25 at Portland, Ore., 50 aircraft took off into the dawn, later to be joined by three more planes in more Northern States and seven Canadian pilots and aircraft. The tour, which is the 11th of its kind this year was sponsored by the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association, aided by the RCAF and the Dominion government. The pilots are all business and professional men who own and fly their own planes.

Tour Split Up

After leaving Yarmouth, N. S., on Sunday, the tour split up, with some of the pilots heading home and others flying to various parts of this country and the United States, so the flyers could visit relatives and friends The remainder of the six flights of 10 aircraft each continued on across the country, headed for the reception at Grand Rapids, which was scheduled for Tuesday night at 5:00 p.m.

But, the weather interrupted the flight and the planes dropped down out of the skies at nearest airports.

The 13 people who spent the night in the Hotel Quinte here in the city included a state senator of Oregon, Senator Angus Gibson, 69. Others were: Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Adams, of Lakeview, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest LaBeck, of Clatskanie, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Daryll LaBeck, of Astoria, Ore.; A. J. (Tony) Dwyer, of Portland, Ore.; Frank Womack manager of the Portland Chamber of Commerce; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jones, of Astoria, Ore., and Bart Woodyard, of Portland, Ore.

Royally Received

All, members of the Columbia Aviation Flying Club of Portland, the air-minded business men and their wives, (some of whom are pilots themselves), have nothing but praise for the manner in which the tour has been received across the country. Mr. Womack told reporters, "Royalty couldn't have been better treated. There have been public receptions in each of our scheduled stops. We have met the premier and many other government officials."

The pilots were particularly impressed with their reception at Ottawa and with Mayor Charlotte Whitton. They thought very highly of her and said she had attended to their needs in an outstanding manner. Ottawa also gave them a civic reception.

More praise was forthcoming for Canadian airports. The pilots felt these were some of the finest they had seen.

Senator Angus Gibson, whose age is 69, is not the oldest pilot on the tour. Another member of the flying business men, not in the city yesterday, is 70. Senator Gibson is a man, a little below medium height with a pleasant, friendly nature and a noticeable Scottish burr. He was born in Scotland, but came to Canada when he was 20 years of age. During the First World War he went overseas with the 28th Battalion from Moose Jaw, Sask., and after the war, emigrated to the United States.

During the interview on Tuesday, the rest of the party good-naturedly joked with the politician about the kiss he had received from Miss Canada in Ottawa.

By 10.00 a.m. Wednesday, the clouds had lifted sufficiently to allow the five little aeroplanes and their friendly passengers to take off on the last leg of their homeward journey. They estimate they will keep their schedule and be home in Portland by Aug. 7. Before they left the city, Don Kingdon, secretary-manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, contacted the visitors and offered any assistance from the Belleville Chamber. He extended an official welcome.

The pilots planned to touch-down at Toronto to clear customs and then fly across to Detroit. They will land at other points in the United States before arriving in Portland.

Movie of Georgia In 3 Dimensions Showing at Belle

"Sangaree", Paramount's latest three-dimensional movie to be shown in the city had its preview Sunday afternoon at the Belle Theatre. Starring Arlene Dahl, Fernando Lamas and Patricia Medina, the movie might better be called "The Wiles of Nancy Darby."

It had its setting at the end of the war between Britain and the States in the long-since established colony of Georgia. The story revolves around the lives of two families and the last will of General Darby who passes to an early reward in the opening scenes.

Fernando Lamas is cast as the son of a Spanish bond slave, freed by his master, General Victor Darby. The benevolent General Darby, not content with simply freeing slaves, picked young Morralles (Lamas) to be educated and converted to a gentleman. General Darby saw to it that Carlos Morralles was sent to the finest medical schools in Europe along with his own son, Roy, (Tom Drake).

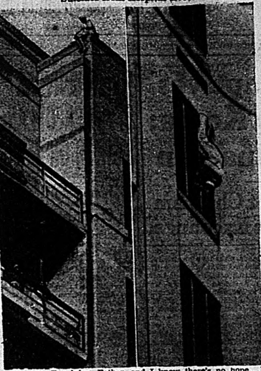
The General had, through the years, built himself a large company from the produce of his two plantations in Georgia. What he grew is not made clear. His son, Roy, having expressed the desire to have nothing to do with managing the Darby Company upon the death of his father, and the father not wishing to leave the company in the hands of his daughter, Nancy, prevailed upon his adopted son, Carlos, to sign an agreement giving him control of the stock.

From that point on, we have a tangled web of plot woven about the dominating dispositions of Dr. Morrallees and Nancy Darby. From this set of circumstances evolves a court case in which Nancy endeavors to have her father's will set aside on the grounds the General was insane at the time he made the testament.

Numerous problems arise to face the young doctor as he attempts to manage the company in its best interests. He faces not only the threat of losing the company through law and pirates, but also through the scheming connivances of Dr. Roy Darby's wife, Martha, and the black cloud of a threatened Bubonic plague.

"Sangaree", is a film of several themes and plots of varied dispositions. It becomes a little intricate at times and a little confused. Bordering on the design of a historical novel, it is nevertheless, entertaining. The three dimensional effect is, of course, excellent. The projectionist seems to have eliminated the blurring completely. Other technical qualities, such as color, add to the film's merits.—(J.B.)

Suicides from Hospital Roof



"I know I'm dying, Father, and I know there's no hope. I'm just hurrying it along a little." A tuberculosis patient, whose condition had taken a turn for the worse, spoke those words to a priest. About 15 minutes later, Herman Robles, 30, of Bronx, N.Y., rose to his feet and plunged to his death. Robles was admitted to the 10-storey Triboro Hospital in Jamaica about three months ago. Above, Robles' body, in mid-air, plummets to the ground. His jump ended a 45-minute drama in which a priest pleaded with him not to take his life. Convinced that his illness was incurable and that he faced nothing but months of lingering pain, Robles rejected all pleas that he change his mind. His body missed a police net below. He was killed instantly. — Central Press Canadian.

Most Merchants Accepting U.S. Money at Par

Belleville merchants and other business people are not entirely of one mind in the matter of discounting American money when it is tendered in payment for goods or services by U.S. tourists.

A check with stores revealed that almost without exception American funds were accepted at par, although in some instances it was reported that anything over $10 was discounted.

"We are still accepting American funds at par," was, however, almost the standard answer received to the query.

The same was true with gasoline stations, who said acceptance of United States funds at par made the tourists feel happier and "it was a whole lot less trouble than bothering with figuring out the small discount."

Practice was divided at hotels, however, with some accepting American money at par value, while others discounted at one and a half or two per cent. One hotel proprietor, whose establishment did not discount American funds, said he "thought it was good business."

Restaurants were also reported to be accepting American funds without discount.

Despite the fact that more cars from outside Ontario seem to be passing through, the tourist volume this year was about normal. One business man felt that the influx of tourists was greater this year but that they were not spending quite as freely.

The republic of India annually grows about 4,800,000 tons of various types of oil seeds.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesia will support moves to have Communist China seated in United Nations, Foreign Minister Dr. Sunarjo announced Tuesday. It was his first official statement since he took over office Saturday in Indonesia's new Radical-Nationalist government.

Spirited Bidding For Colored Cheese Offered

For the first time since the Federal Government announced its end price of 30c for cheese held on Oct. 31 by the Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, colored cheese sold for more than 28c on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Tuesday night.

With the exception of one factory all colored cheese sold to the trade for 28 3-16c as result of spirited bidding on the part of buyers. The one remaining factory accepted 28⅛c.

A big percentage of the white cheese offered sold to the trade for 27¾c although 17 factories apparently were holding out for 28c and directed that their cheese go to the marketing board. Two factories held their cheese for boarding at a later date.

Cheese boarded included 2847 white, 2091 colored and 418 specials.

The following factories were represented:

Tax Collector Paints Picture Of Caution in Giving Report

Trenton — (Special) — Tax collector R. G. Alan Weaver painted a picture of caution comparing tax arrears and collection figures of this year with those of last.

In a statement for the month of July to council last night Mr. Weaver noted there was an increase of $2h1.67 in arrears against the same period in 1952. He also brought to the attention of the town fathers that cash tax collections show a decrease of $1,276.25 in the current account. The collector reported: "It will be noted that there is a slight decrease in amount of cash payments on current taxes. This item is not dangerous yet due to the increased purchase of prepayment certificates. Up until now both items were greater than in 1952. As long as the sum of both remains larger, there is no great cause for anxiety, but if the sum of the two slips too low, we have cause to be on guard."

Council discussed another vote for ratepayers on the badly needed sewage disposal plant. Councillor Eben James pointed out that the public should be properly informed well ahead of the plebiscite, so that the vote be given every chance to be a success. When the ratepayers failed to approve the sanitation system earlier this year the general opinion was that the lack of interest shown was due to poor public relations. Mr. James thinks that the voter should be told how council intends collecting payment for the cost of building the proposed new plant and necessary lines running into it. Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry was instructed to have an expert analyze the situation and prepare a report for a future meeting.

Take No Action

Council washed their hands of a complaint by a local merchant that police had stopped him from selling milk and bread on Sunday. He asked for permission to sell these articles because other merchants were still allowed the privilege.

Councillor Cliff Gunter felt that the matter was one for the local law enforcement department.

There is a chance that a new bus station will be a reality instead of a dream for the people who ride the buses.

Council explained that businessman Douglas Kinney hopes to acquire the franchise from the Colonial Bus people and erect a modern station on his property facing Division and Balsam Sts. Mayor R. E. Whitley reported that the town planning board is agreeable to the location. At the present time the Colonial franchise is held and operated by Norman Rickett.

Council wants to help the Recreation Commission acquire land on North Charles St. for a children's playground. There is a feeling, however, that the land should be under the jurisdiction of the Commission and not the Parks Board. Town solicitor Ramsay Park is investigating the possibility of the commission owning land.

Clerk Larry was given authority to hire a replacement for Mrs. Eleanor Orr, who is leaving the town office staff at end of this month. The starting salary in compliance with wages in the area begins at $1,600 a year.

Will Halt Dumping

A letter from A. H. Martin, of Dominion Tar and Chemical, assured council that the company had taken all immediate steps to prevent the least amount of creosote dumping into the river. This year there has been more than the usual complaining about oil substance marking up pleasure boats visiting the harbor.

Council granted authority for the Kiwanis Club and Air Cadets to hold tag days, the former September 19 and the latter October 3.

A suggestion that Trenton be incorporated as a city by Edgar Mould, was discussed with council deciding that the advantages at the present time were not too apparent.

A deputation from Dickson Drive asked to have a sidewalk built in front of their homes under the Local Improvement Act.

A request from the Trenton Public Utilities concerns the removal of a garage on town property on Ford St. The building is owned by the Trenton Dairies Co. The Commission complains that the garage covers a part of a water line difficult to service because of the building covering the property. The town clerk is exploring the possibility that the main can be reached without the removal of the building and that the land can be leased to the dairy company.

Traffic Tie-Up Due to Bridge Being Open

TRENTON. (Special.)—One of the worst traffic tie-ups involving through traffic resulted yesterday afternoon when long lines of motor vehicles created a jam extending two miles either side of the government swing span. Boat traffic passing down the Trent Valley system added to the confusion during the peak of the rush hour.

Workers returning from the air station were delayed 40 minutes while impatient drivers blared horns as the pile up continued to grow. The bridge tender was called on three times to open the highway span for the pleasure yachtsmen.

Outboard Boat Found

A U.S. camper on the south shore of the bay, found a Peterborough outboard motor boat washed up on his shore early this morning. He reported the matter to the police, who are endeavoring to locate the owner. There was a long length of clothesline attached to the bow of the boat, which is believed to have been set adrift by the storm last night.

Some Cellars Flooded

The heavy rain storm was responsible for a deluge of water pouring down Trenton streets last night. Some cellars were flooded needing the attention of the works department.

CAMPBELLFORD

John H. James Speaker at Liberal Garden Party

CAMPBELLFORD — John H. James, Liberal candidate for Durham county, was guest speaker at a garden party held at the home of W. A. Hogle, of Campbellford, on Wednesday evening. The garden party under the auspices of the Ladies' Liberal Association of Campbellford, attracted an estimated 800 people.

Strings of lights illuminated the grounds, and seats were placed conveniently around the large area.

Mrs. P. H. MacMillan, president of the ladies' organization, convened the program, which consisted of vocal solos by Art Dollack, accordion solos by Gerald Taylor and a cornet solo by Ernie Archer.

Best for the People

Dr. Fred G. Robertson, Liberal candidate for Northumberland, spoke briefly. He told of his personal interest in obtaining the best for his people. He stated that although the new industry (Flight Equipment Ltd.) was small at the present time, there were possibilities for expansion as time goes on.

Dr. Robertson introduced John James, who spoke highly of Dr. Robertson. Mr. James urged the people to put forth every effort to see that he was elected on August 10. He stated "that if, as the opposition says, the Liberal government is so terrible, why is it that we have such things as unemployment insurance and why is employment as high as it has ever been in history?"

Best in World

The Canadian dollar, he said, is now the best in the world. The standard of living in Canada is high, and industries are coming to Canada because they are optimistic of the future. He said farmers now are more prosperous than any farmers in the world.

Mr. James said "that a million and one-half dollars were spent annually in Durham County for old age pensions and for family allowances alone."

Mayor Jack Burnett, of Cobourg, spoke briefly urging the people to give their full support to Dr. Robertson.

Mrs. P. H. MacMillan thanked Mr. Hogle for the use of his home, and he, in turn, thanked all who had helped to make the garden party a success.

During the evening refreshments were sold at the booths, and, at the conclusion, the guests were served a luncheon in the dining room of Mr. Hogle's home.

Why should we put up with C. D. Howe's 'Dictatorship' for another 4 years?

ONTARIO FARMERS LOSE A FRIEND

The death of Dr. George Irving Christie will be widely mourned.

Few men enjoy, as he did, the opportunity to do so much for so many.

During the nineteen years in which he served as the president of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph he enhanced the prestige of that institution, not only amongst the farmers of the province, which it was primarily designed to serve, but also amongst urban residents.

The two decades in which he directed the activities of the O. A. C. were particularly difficult ones for the farmers of this province, and indeed of the nation and most of the world.

First came the depression, with falling prices and rapidly diminishing farm income. It was the fashion, in those days, to declare that the farmer was the most fortunate man in the country, for he was sure of three square meals a day. That was true for those farmers who were free of debt, but for farmers with a mortgage it was a nightmare period during which the best efforts to stave off financial disaster were all too often ineffectual.

There seemed little need, in those days, for the primary message of the agricultural college, the increase of production through the application of the latest methods discovered by science.

But during the second decade of Dr. Christie's leadership at the O. A. C. the problem confronting the farmers of the province was radically changed.

They were being urged, implored, begged and almost ordered to produce more and more, with less and less help. Those war years put a great strain on the individual farmer, but that strain would have been much greater had it not been for the ready help which they received from the O. A. C.

The two decades in which Dr. Christie headed the O. A. C. saw a major change in the attitude of the urban resident toward the farmer. Not always was it almost universally recognized, as it is today, that successful farming demands not only brawn but brains of more than average calibre. It would be erroneous to suggest that Dr. Christie and his co-workers at the O.A.C. were mainly responsible for this change in attitude — but it would be wrong, too, to assume that because this change in attitude was widespread and not confined to one province in Canada, or indeed to our country alone, that the O. A. C. did not play a part in molding public opinion in this fashion.

One of the features of Dr. Christie's term of office was the manner in which the college increased its extension programs, designed to bring the benefits of research to farmers in a practical form. In this effort, of course, the O. A. C. worked in close co-operation with the provincial and federal departments of agriculture.

Not so self-evident, but probably almost as important, was the tendency of O. A. C. graduates to accept positions other than in agriculture itself. Many of our best teachers studied at the O. A. C. before attending the Ontario College of Education. Other O. A. C. graduates were hired by industries concerned primarily with the marketing or processing of agricultural produce. This has tended to enhance that understanding between city and country which is so desirable for the continued harmonious growth of our province.

NEW MARKETS FOR FASHION EXPERTS

Women workers in industry have been "discovered" —not by industrial tycoons, who have been aware for several years of their contributions in a variety of fields, but by the fashion industry.

Hunting around for new worlds to conquer, and apparently discovering that the market for house dresses and tailored suits was getting a little slack, the fashion experts have suddenly awakened to the fact that there are several million customers whom they have been ignoring.

These customers probably were not aware of the fact that they had been neglected. If they felt any need for a special style for their working hours, they labored under the delusion that this requirement was adequately met by a man's shirt and jeans, plus, of course, the inevitable hairnet.

All that has now been changed. Tina Leser of New York heard about these forsaken sisters and brought out a dazzling display of apparel designed especially for their benefit. Jackets and snood caps, in matching and contrasting colors; specially styled slacks and coveralls; even one lone dress — all these await the factory working girl's approval.

Girls being girls, the industrial front appears in for a session of dressing for the occasion. Women industrial workers, it is pointed out, are well paid, in many cases better paid than their sister white collar workers. They will thus have the cash to cut a dashing figure, at lathe or loom.

The thought occurs, however, that most of these women are probably already spending a considerable portion of their weekly pay cheques on clothes. If their working togs start costing them plenty—and we suspect that they will once the fashion experts really get rolling with exclusive models — then a crisis will come. The factory gal will have to decide whether she should buy that pair of complexion khaki-gabardine slacks and a matching jacket, black T shirt and black cap, or whether her dollars should be expended for that little blue chiffon number with the striking off-the-shoulder effect. It will be a difficult decision—and being a woman she may be able to discover an alternative. Why not a strike for a ten-per-cent boost in take-home pay? And who cares if the price of the fishing reels she is assembling goes up seventy-five cents?

DANDELION

The dandelion is a weed
Designed profusely self to seed,
But were it difficult to grow
We'd buy it and plant it, row by row.

Its blossoms, were they few to see,
Considered beautiful would be,
But since they lie so thick about
We pass them by or dig them out.

The dandelion, undesired,
By children only is admired.
They love the flower of gleaming gold,
Which shows how wrong can be the old.

"The Good Old Days" — They used to complain about street lighting years ago and here is an intertsting item in this connection from our file copy at this season away back in 1873: "The men who light the town gas burning lamps should have known that, although the moon was due to shed a good light last night and would have done so had not clouds prevented its brilliance reaching the town, that it was their duty to light the street lamps. They failed to do so and people had to grope their way home through the darkness as best they could. We submit that the gas company should instruct their employees to light the lamps on nights when the moon ought to give the necessary light but is prevented in doing so by the clouds."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Who is the most dangerous character to have among your personal acquaintances? The gossip? The liar? The busybody? The nagger?

My vote goes to that individual, who may be a man or a woman, who says:

"I think So-and-So is an awful stinker, don't you?"

And you, rather than become involved in vain argument, nod and say, yes, I suppose so.

Whereupon, he or she can hardly wait to rush away and spread the news that you think So-and So is an awful stinker.

The type who are guilty of this little deviltry are almost always the sort of eager, overwhelming people whom it is both tiresome and unprofitable to argue with. Their conversation consists of strong, assertive opinions, uttered without much reference to what the topic consisted of a moment before. They are clothed, accounted and armed with prejudices both large and small. If you know them well, you have long ago ceased trying to cope with their prejudices. You have formed the habit of adopting a deprecatory tone, nodding and saying I suppose so, or no doubt you are quite right. The price you thus pay for your own peace and quiet is sometimes a costly one. For your evasive nod is converted by them into a declaration as forceful and assertive as their own way of thinking and speaking. One such person in a circle of family or friends, or in a business office or factory, can spread more misunderstanding and ill will than all the gossips, liars, busybodies and naggers put together. For everybody knows who is a gossip, or a liar or a busbody or nagger, and their assertions are salted to taste. But the "I think, don't you" - er is not so easily detected, and it may take years to discover them, so artful is their method.

One time, in the first war, a captain said to me: "I think our Colonel is a complete fat-head, don't you?"

"Well, uh . . ." I replied, being only a lieutenant.

And the captain went forthwith to the Colonel and told him I thought he was a fat-head. By ill chance, however, the Colonel had been in the next cubicle to us in the hut. So the captain was sent home to England; and it was astonishing how the morale of the regiment improved in less than one week.

No Minor Event

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A final compilation of casualties in East Germany during the recent demonstrations shows 587 lives were lost, including 141 executed, and 1,870 others were wounded. The figures in themselves offer proof that the uprising was no minor event.

Secret of Success

(Montreal Gazette)

It is always interesting when a man who had been successful himself offers a hint to others. In a recent issue of the magazine Saturday Night, is an interview with Mr. W. A. Mather, the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. When asked for his own "recipe for success," he answered in these words: "If any young fellow asked me, I would tell him to concentrate on learning everything in connection with his work, so that his superiors come to him when they want anything done."

And a good recipe it is. Yet it is surprising how hard it is to find young people who are willing to make the effort. So far from putting themselves in a position in which their superiors will ultimately come to them when they want something done, they are more likely to keep coming to their superiors.

Perhaps it is wrong to take the view that this trend is altogether new. There is human nature in it, with the old tendencies towards the easy, indifferent way. Many an employer today will recognize the truth in the words written half a century ago by one of the great London editors, Sir William Robertson Nicoll.

This is the way he put it. You are sitting in your office with six clerks within call. Summon any one, and make the request: "Please look in the encyclopedia, and make a brief memorandum for me concerning the life of Correggio."

Will the clerk quietly say, "Yes sir," and go and do the task? Certainly not. He will look at you uneasily, and ask one or more of the following questions: "Who was he? Which encyclopedia? Where is the encyclopedia? Was I hired for that? Do you mean Bismarck? Why should not Charlie do it? Is he dead? Is there any hurry? Shan't I bring you the book and let you look it up for yourself?"

He will go off at last, and get another clerk to help him, and then come back and report that there is no such man mentioned in the encyclopedia. It will turn out that he has looked for Correggio under the letter "K."

And Sir William Robertson Nicoll added: "Yes, that is the true picture of the average type of man as I have found him."

Perhaps it is a little wonder that employers soon take notice of the worker who is capable of taking charge of a matter, once something is entrusted to him. The next stage comes when the employer is able to say: "I need a short memorandum on Correggio. I haven't any idea where you might find the information. But would you see what you can do?" And if the young person turns up with the memorandum in quick time, he is beginning to prove he's worth having around.

There is the same, unending need in all manner of human affairs—the need for the person who can take charge and get it done. It found its classic expression in the excellent little pamphlet, "A Message to Garcia."

It told a story of the Spanish-American War. The President of the United States needed to communicate with Garcia, the leader of the insurgents. Garcia was somewhere in the mountain fastnesses of Cuba. Nobody knew where. No mail or telegraph message could possibly reach him. Yet he had to be found.

Someone said to President McKinley: "There's a fellow by the name of Rowan. He will find Garcia for you, if anyone can."

Rowan was sent for. He took the letter. He started at once. He landed by night on the coast of Cuba from an open boat, disappeared into the jungle, and in three weeks came out on the other side. He had crossed a hostile country on foot and delivered the message.

When President McKinley gave his message into Rowan's hands he would not have had much hope of its ever getting there if Rowan had begun asking: "Who is this man Garcia? How will I recognize him? Where is he? How do I get there? Which boat do I take? Can you get reservations for me? Whom do I see first when I get to Cuba?

Perhaps it was always hard to find the young person who will really take on a job and get it done. But it does seem to be getting harder.

It requires a lot of extra effort to learn enough about any job, so that your superiors will come to you, knowing that you can do it. And that kind of effort is likely to get rather badly entangled with the determination only to work so many days a week, and only so many hours a day, and to allow nothing to interfere with the "coffee break," and all the other privileges that limit initiative.

But for those who are willing to make the effort there is abundant demand. They'll do more than deserve success. The chances are they'll get it. For they will have fulfilled the first condition of success: they will have made themselves indispensable to their employers.

Advertises Books to Burn

(Christian Science Monitor)

A year ago certain youthful wags in the United States were forming "Pogo for President" clubs. Now the publishers of Walt Kelly's "Uncle Pogo So-So Stories" in a prominent and delightfully insouciant advertisement invite readers to buy that gay book for "quick and pretty" burning:

Come all ye good people
Put book to flambeau
Wtih a snap & crackle
And yo ho de ho heau.

We find this a particularly piquant postscript to the sound and fury of a controversy now ended by action of the man who defeated Pogo for President. It is a happy reminder that so long as Americans have not lost their sense of humor, their ability to laugh the overbearing and preposterous out of court, they are in small danger of losing their basic liberties.

You Wake Up Worn Out

(Walter Davenport in Collier's)

That indefatigable researcher, Ray Schneider, emerges from his laboratory in St. Paul, Minnesota, to announce that you move in your sleep an average of every 15 minutes. Thus, if you weigh 150 you move 600 pounds each-sleeping hour. So, if you sleep eight hours you heave 4,800 pounds every night. And you're wondering why you wake up all worn out.

Jail Is Ideal Vacation Spot

(Hamilton Spectator)

There is something to be said for the idea of the Toronto man who arranged to have his jail sentence postponed until the first week of his vacation. As a holiday resort, a jail has two distinct advantages: It is inexpensive, and you know what you're getting.

The Torontonian is likely to return home from his seven-day rest without any of those petty, nagging, low-level disillusionments which are so often the aftermath of a holiday in the woods or the hills or at the beach.

Not for him the memory of the irritation of the screened porch which did not quite exclude the bugs; of the diet with the heavy emphasis on boloney; of the plague of snakes; of the private bathroom (extra charge) which persistently offered nothing but cold water; of the broken bottles in the sand; of the flat tire; of the one gas station in 100 miles of lonely road—and it closed for the week-end.

Not for him the horrible moment, four days before you planned to return home, when you examine the wallet and find it alarmingly slimmer than you had calculated. Not for him the car-sick child. Not for him, the people in the cabin next door who make uproar until 2 a.m.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

ACHIEVING THE IMPOSSIBLE

At commencement time I heard a minister in public prayer implore the Almighty to give the graduating students high ideals but to keep their ideals within bounds.

This impressed me as being one of the poorest petitions that a leader among his fellows could make to the Almighty. This minister was expressing the hope that young people would not run off at a tangent, and in that hope, of course, everybody joins with him. But to say that young people, or anyone else, should put a limit to their ideals is like sending a soldier into battle with one arm tied behind his back.

The Bible encourages people to try the impossible. They may not achieve it, but very often they do. And even if they do not, they gain immense power through trying. The twelve men Jesus chose to go forth and establish his kingdom in the world were inept, uneducated, awkward, faltering, and often lacking in courage. Yet he put on these men what appeared to be an impossible task.

St. Uaul did not establish Christian churches in centers where it seemed they had a chance to survive, but in cities so wicked that it seemed the light of the Christian gospel would be extinguished there almost immediately. Yet these churches persisted.

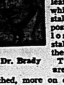
The word to young and old is "Never put any limit on your ideals. The impossible is possible if we have faith."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

VACATION PERILS IVY POISONING

Recognize poison ivy, whether it grows as vine, low shrub or shrub three feet high or higher, thus: The leaves are on long, stout stems, each leaf having three leaflets, two of which are short-stalked and opposite, the third long - stalked stalked between the other two. The leaflets are irregularly notched, more on one side than on the other. Their lower surfaces look velvety but are actually covered with fine hairs.



Dr. Brady

Distinguish Virginia creeper, often mistaken for poison ivy, by the fact that it has five leaflets instead of three.

In early summer poison ivy, poison oak or poison sumac has small yellowish green flowers which, later in the season, become green fruits or berries, and these become waxy globules in the late autumn.

Some individuals seem remarkably susceptible and some seem practically immune to ivy poisoning. This susceptibility or immunity may vary from time to time in the individual. As a boy on Chapel Street in Canandaigua I walked through poison ivy barefoot many times with impunity. Perhaps such frequent slight contact kept me immune. Then I grew older, put on shoes and socks and long pants and was not again in contact with poison ivy for twenty years or more. Then, on arriving for a vacation stay in a lakeside cabin, I mowed the overgrown grass in swimming trunks, failed to notice trailing ivy vines round about and, boy, oh boy, that was half a lifetime ago but, if you notice the psychopathic tendencies of the conductor of this column, you will have a good idea of the intensity of itching that characterized the acute blister stage of the skin inflammation (dermatitis) and persisted for six months afterward. Up to that time I had considered myself a connoisseur of itching, having personally investigated all of the popular varieties — caterpillar in shirt, bedbug bites, scabies, orthoform dermatitis, woollen underwear with brambles in it (the kind we were sewn up in for the winter, remember?) but the itch that accompanied and followed ivy poisoning made all these other itches seem trivial.

In the pamphlet on Ivy Poisoning—ask for it, sign your request (clipping will not suffice) and inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope — I describe three methods of immunizing treatment. Here I shall mention only ivy toxin, which physicians administer by hypodermic injection for immediate relief of ivy poisoning (from two or three daily doses) or for prolonged relief of such itching as I suffered for months after the lakeside incident.

If you know you may come into contact with poison ivy prepare for it by first smearing exposed skin with any grease, salve or cold cream, or with lather allowed to dry on. And as soon after exposure as possible wash the skin with soap and water — using many fresh washings in a few minutes; or mop the exposed skin with pledgets of cotton moistened with benzine, gasoline or cleaning fluid or lighter fluid, throwing the used pledget away dressing for ivy poisoning is a compress soaked with soapy water (laundry soap). Or use a tablespoon of baking soda (bicarbonate of soda) in a pint of water, to keep the dressing constantly wet.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HOPE IS ALWAYS ALIVE

There is a chapter in a recent book by Van Wyck Brooks, called "The Writer in America", that is one of the most inspiring I have read in a long time. That chapter is called "A Prophet of Our Day" and is a tribute to that fine and inspiring man and writer, Lewis Mumford.

Pessimists and defeatists should read this chapter and meditate upon it. Better still, it would be well to read some of the many great books by this writer, such as his "The Condition of Man," "Conduct of Life" or his "Faith for Living." Said Mumford: "The true answer to a meaningless existence is to conceive a pattern of life that possesses meaning and purpose."

Van Wyck Brooks says of Mumford: "He is possessed by a vital sense of the impetus that flows through nature and man, insurgent, forever expectant and forward-moving, and in terms of our moment he carried on, like no one else living in America today, the tradition of Emerson, Whitman and William James."

Even so great and devout a man as Albert Schweitzer says: "Faith in the spiritual progress of men has already become almost impossible for us. We must force ourselves to it, we must will it with the courage of desperation." Mumford suggests a "new set of habits" and a "fresh scale of values."

What a time Lewis Mumford would have had in a talk with Henry D. Thoreau! Both prophets of hope and constructive spiritual values. Mumford looks to "a nation of neighbors and families" to "displace the economy of paper profits, paper joys and paper wealth." I hope that this fine book by Brooks will have a wide reading, for a brief notice like this is only suggestive of its inspirational and intellectual value.

Without the will and an abiding faith, what a dark and meaningless future would be ours! Thanks be to God that hope is always alive! It is the iron substance of a better future.

Letter to the Editor

Thinks Flood Control Dam Unnecessary

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Please allow brief space for a comment on this dam subject the city council is so ready and willing to spend the citizens' taxes on.

Large space could be used to say all that comes to mind about it.

Suffice it to say that we all know that ever since Lazier's dam broke away we've had no flood.

Without doubt there is a good reason why, and easy to explain.

Sufficient water flows all winter to keep ice from forming on the river bottom near the mouth thus causing the start of past sorry experiences. So why build a new dam at tremendous expense just to get more headaches.

"Taxpayer."

Alliance Tabernacle Holds S.S. Picnic at Crystal Beach

Crystal Beach, on Moira Lake, was in ideal place for the Civic Holiday picnic of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, when over 100 children, members and friends enjoyed an exceptionally happy time in swimming in the crystal waters of the lake, with games, contests, and races.

Following the pre-noon swim, a a sumptuous dinner was spread upon long tables beneath the shade of the trees bordering the lake shore, where all did ample justice to the many viands prepared and shared, to the extent that additional servings of luscious ice cream were sadly refused.

Beginning on schedule at 1:45 the program, directed by Mrs. Mary Baragar, assisted by the program committee, got under way with the following activities:

Races

Dash races: beginners, (boys and girls, ages 3, 4, 5, 6—Dennis Barragar, Rose Marie Blakley, and Georgina Whitaker, heading the assembly of little ones; primary girls, 7-9—Patricia Blakley, Carol Brown, and Sandra Wiley; primary boys—Wayne Christopher, Billie Irwin and Eric Strain Jr.; junior girls, 10-12—Shirley Blakley; Wilma Coddrington and Catherine Millard; junior boys: 10-12—Paul Brown, Billie Wickett and David Benn; young ladies—Barbara Wickett, Margaret Perkins and Eleanor Baragar; young men's: John Harder, Paul Delaney and Russel Perkins; three-legged race—Paul Delaney and Keith Cole; John Harder and Ross Robinson; Russel Perkins and Bob [illegible]; junior three-legged race—Wilma Coddrington and Shirley Blakley; Billie Irwin and Paul Brown; Billie Wiley and David Benn; wheelbarrow race—Donna Allen and Patricia Blakley; S. Wiley and Eric Strain, Jr.; Heather Hawley and Carol Brown; lobster race—Eileen Rodgers, Eric Strain, Jr, and Murray Dixon.

Additional Events

Additional events included the men's sewing contest, which afforded many a laugh as they endeavored to sew a frill on a yellow tissue paper dolly, with the result that the pastor, the Rev. Eric Strain outstripped his competitors by several laps. One, especially, had difficulty in getting a knot to stay, but he persevered, and finally was among the "also rans". The final score was: The Rev. Eric Strain, Gordon Brown and Ross Robinson.

The shoe scramble race resulted in the following holding the three winning places—John Harder and May Dinsmore; Grant Blakley and Eleanor Baragar; Audrey Brown and Bob Brown.

The balloon race, ladies—Joan Rollins, Lois Wright and Margaret Perkins.

The soda biscuit race, though dry, was pungent with laughter by the onlookers as the contestants endeavored to mastigate the biscuit and whistle at the conclusion. Cheeks were puffed out and mouths puckered, but—no sound, however, at last John Harder, who had difficulty in knotting sewing thread, managed a weak whistle, followed by Russel Perkins, and finally by Ross Robinson.

Nail Contest

Not to be out done by the ladies, the men provided a nail-driving contest for the ladies. This was the urge for loud bursts of laughter by the sterner sex as the hammer blows oft fell by the wayside. But the winners were Mrs. Wiley, with seven blows; Miss Dinsmore with eight, and Miss Doris Hawley with ten.

After the beginners and junior races, these children were under the direction of Mrs. Whittaker, Mrs. Benn and Mrs. Paul Delaney and the boys and girls of the primary classes under the direction of Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Ward, and Mrs. Cauley.

After the beginners and primary boys' and girls' races, their teachers led them aside and demonstrated the use of the prizes obtained, both in story reading, and handwork with yarn and other activities, which kept the little tots out of danger during the grown-up events.

Supervised swimming was again enjoyed after the races for over an hour, and then came supper with ice cream again holding the spotlight. During the repast recording of Mr. Strain's former choir at St. John, N.B., was much appreciated.

A well contested ball game was held with the odds going to the home team.

As usual a peanut and kiss scramble made for much sudden calisthenics both on the part of the older picnickers as well as on the part of the younger.

Appreciative Thanks

Much appreciation goes to Mr. Wilbur Wright, Sunday School superintendent; to Mrs. M. Baragar and her sports committee for the splendid management of the events; to those in charge of the beginners and junior classes, Mrs. Whittaker, Mrs. Benn and Mrs. Paul Delaney to Mrs. C. Beattie, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Cauley who had charge of the boys and girls of the primary classes; to all who entered so willingly into the spirit of the day making it a time long to be remembered; with reverent thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for journeying mercies and safety to all.

Among those from a distance were: the Misses Beth and May Dinsmore of Thornbury, Ont.; Mr. Keith Cole of Kitchener; Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Henderson of Ottawa; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pett of London, Ont.

Seaway Project May be Launched Late in Month

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The gigantic St. Lawrence power development project will be launched by Canada this month, a New York state power official said Tuesday, providing New York receives its federal licence before mid-August.

John E. Burton, chairman of the New York state power authority, also said the state will be ready to join Canada early in 1954, or by next spring at the latest.

Burton noted in an interview that Canada has said it is ready to proceed on some phases of the project at once.

"But they can't until we're sure we have got a licence," he added.

The state authority was granted licence rights last month by the federal power commission to join with the Ontario hydro-electric power commission on developing the power potential of the St. Lawrence river. The project, as planned, would eventually tie in with the St. Lawrence seaway.

Mr. Burton said actual granting of the licence should become final Aug. 14.

A record total of 416,116 occupied hospital beds was reported by Britain's national health service for 1952.

(News of Interest to Hastings 4-H and Junior Farmer Clubs

by J. Allen Francis

The Hastings 4-H Grain and Grain Corn Clubs held a meeting on July 27th., in the form of a twilight crop tour. The tour was sponsored by the Hastings Soils and Crop Improvement Association and the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mr. D. Parks, of the Kemptville Agricultural School, commented on the test plots of oats, barley, grasses and legumes, soybeans and corn. The meeting concluded with a film on the development of hybrid corn.

4-H Tractor Club Meeting

The South Hastings 4-H Tractor and Maintenance Club held a meeting on July 27th., at the Agricultural Office, Stirling. Mr. Ralph Gregg, agricultural fieldman, was in charge of the meeting.

In the Tractor Maintenance Club, club members receive instructions on proper tractor maintenance and operation. Special consideration is given to safety, in the operation of power equipment on the farm.

The Achievement Day of the club will be held at Belleville Fair, August 19. At the Achievement Day the club members will drive a tractor and wagon in a tractor safe-driving competition. Each club member will answer questions on club work and will be scored in a tractor defects test. In the tractor defects test the club member examines a tractor that has several parts with faulty adjustment. The club member must detect these faults and give the proper adjustment.

Mohawk 4-H Calf Club Meeting.

On July 28th., the Mohawk 4-H Calf Club held a meeting at the farm of club leader, Gerald Brant, Deseronto. At the meeting club members judged a class of Holstein cows and held a discussion period on the club manual.

Madoc 4-H Calf Club Meeting

The Madoc 4-H Calf Club held a meeting at the farm of Mr. Percy Broadworth, Madoc, on Thursday, July 30th. Betty Ketcheson, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting. Club members judged and gave reasons on two classes of Holsteins. Club leader, Ross Moorcroft, assisted in judging instructions. The meeting concluded with a discussion on Dairy Husbandry.

PICTON

Many Accidents Occured Without Serious Injury

PICTON — Police of town and county report a busy week-end but most accidents were without serious injury to any of the car occupants.

A car driven by Herman Kleinsteuber, R.R. 1, Picton, left the West Lake road, and crashed over a built-up area into a marshy creek with several feet of water. The accident occurred on a corner and Mr. Kleinsteuber told police he was blinded by lights of another car.

A car driven by Lyle Carroll, R.R. 1, Picton, hit a cement bridge on the Scoharie road. Frame of the vehicle was sprung by the impact. Carroll told police he was blinded by dust .

Cars driven by Jack Hicks and Willard Greatrix, of Bloomfield, collided on Picton - Belleville Highway 14. Hicks' car caught a corner of the Greatrix car, which was hurled on the grass and stopped with the wheels in the air. Occupants were badly shaken up.

A telephone pole was smashed off when a car driven by George Green went out of control near Bloomfield.

Cars driven by C. Prawell, of Buffalo, and William Hezzen, R.R. 7, Belleville, collided in Bloomfield, where Highway 33 leaves Highway 14 for Wellington. Prawell was making a left-hand turn at the time. Both cars were badly damaged.

Gunner L. J. Blanco, of Picton, was uninjured when his car overturned on the East Lake road. It ended on the top with wheels in the air.

Theft of tools valued at $100 from a county grader at Rednersville was reported yesterday to Provincial Police.

In spite of the holiday only one case of driving while impaired and one case of drunkenness were reported by local police.

Queen, Children Reach Scotland On Usual Holiday

BALLAGER, Scotland (AP)—The Queen and her children arrived today for their regular summer vacation at nearby Balmoral Castle.

The Duke of Edinburgh is due to join his family later this week from Cowes, the English south coast resort where he is racing his two yachts

Just before the Royal train pulled into Ballager Station the Queen presented photographs of herself and the Duke to the train's head conductor, 65-year-old Lewis Henry Tyler. He is retiring after 47 years on Royal trains.

The first Queen Elizabeth was an expert performer on the bandora, an instrument resembling the guitar.

Many Freed POW Are Ill With TB Some May Die

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—The head of the hospital at Freedom Village reported today doctors found a high percentage of tuberculosis and other lung disease among returned UN prisoners of war and said, "I am not sure they will all recover."

But Col. Fred W. Seymour stressed that in the past "we have pulled some of them right out of the grave."

Seymour said over 30 men had "active pulmonary lesions" of the first 60 U. S. and other UN repatriates who entered the evacuation hospital today.

Seymour gave no breakdown on nationalities, but said the bulk was American.

They did not include any Commonwealth or South Korean repatriates, who were treated at other centres.

Seymour said: "The first group we received was at least as sick as any in Operation Little Switch," the exchange of disabled captives three months ago.

The doctor said "tuberculosis leads the list." Ober ailments included pleurisy.

Canadian Tells How 100 Chinese Capture Him

MUNSAN (AP) — Cpl. Joseph Pelleteir of Chatham, Ont., the first Canadian prisoner to be released under the Korean armistice, said today he was captured during a western front action last May when more than 100 Chinese came on top of his position.

"I was all alone at the time," the 26-year-old soldier said in an interview. "There were supposed to have been four South Koreans with me but I don't know what happened to them."

Pelletier has recovered from burp gun and grenade wounds suffered in both legs after he shot four Chinese who tried to capture him. "Three Chinese got hold of me and took me away," he said.

Weddings

PLEWS—BUDREAU

Roses, hydrangeas and varicolored gladioli formed an attractive setting in Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Ontario, on Saturday, July 18, at 9:30 a.m., when Gloria Rose Budreau, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Edward Richards, and the late Mr. Budreau, became the bride of Raymond Joseph Plews, of Marysville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Plews. The Rev. Father Donaghue officiated.

Miss Anne McAlpine, organist and soloist, rendered the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Edward Richards, the bride was charmingly attired in an original gown of white tulle and lace over satin fashioned with molded lace bodice having a Peter Pan collar with appliqued tulle insert, and long lily-pointed sleeves. The floor length skirt fell in graceful folds. The full length veil of tulle illusion was caught to a small crown of seed pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses with nylon tulle and sprays of mignonette.

Miss Mary McCauley, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of pale pink net over pale pink taffeta, fashioned with snugly fitted bodice and full, flowing skirt; the bodice having a portrait neckline and tiny sleeves edged with painted lace. The skirt was also edged with a matching painted lace band. She wore a matching hat and carried a nosegay of carnations and rosebuds with sprays of mignonette.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Florence Plews and Rachael Richards were gowned in net over taffeta with matching lace jackets, the former in yellow and the latter in green. Both wore matching head bands of rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley, and carried nosegays of carnations, rosebuds and mignonette sprays.

Mr. L. McGuinness, of Marysville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Frank McGuinness, of Marysville, and Leo Nash, also of Marysville, were ushers.

Following the reception which was held at Tobe's County Gardens, Rossmore, where the bride's mother, wearing mauve nylon and corsage of white carnations, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in white flowered nylon with white accessories and corsage of white carnations, received the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Plews left for Detroit and other western points, the bride wearing pale pink nylon with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Lonsdale, Point Anne, Trenton, Oshawa, Port Hope, Read, Kingston.

BURNS—ELLIOTT

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, August 1st, at 4:00 p.m., at Holloway Street United Church parsonage by the Reverend Sidney E. Larman, pastor of the church, when Getha Irene Elliott, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, of Belleville, became the bride of James L. Burns, of Madoc, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burns.

The bride was attractively attired in navy blue sheer with white accessories and corsage of red roses. She was attended by Mrs. Donald Parks, of Madoc, who wore grey sheer with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Donald Parks, of Madoc, attended the bridegroom.

Following the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Cecil Sinfield, of Belleville, the young couple left for a wedding trip to North Bay and Trout Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Burns will make their home in Madoc.

BLAIND—HOLOWAY

Gladioli adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, July 18, for the marriage of Elizabeth (Betty) Holoway, of Belleville, R.R. 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Holoway, to Robert (Bob) Blaind, of Belleville, son of the late Mr. Harry Blaind. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Brennan.

Miss Mary Flurey provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Helen Gaffney.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white satin and Chantilly lace, fashioned with Chantilly lace jacket and strapless fitted bodice. The full skirt was of ankle length. She wore matching lace gloves, a matching Juliet lace cap and fingertip tulle illusion veil, and carried a white prayer book crested with a mauve orchid, lily-of-the-valley, and white satin streamers.

Miss Agnes Blaind, of Belleville, was maid of honor, gowned in green, brocaded satin, with small jacket, tiny Juliet cap of matching satin, with small, circular veil of tulle and green net net gloves. She carried a nosegay of Golden Sceptre roses, mauve sweetpeas and yellow pom 'mums with silver streamers.

Mr. William Brooks, of Belleville, was groomsman, and Mr. Marcel Fontaine and Mr. Robert Ricketts, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the bride's home, which was profusely adorned with gladioli and dahlias for the occasion. The bride's mother, wearing a black and white ensemble with matching hat, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Hilda Blaind, who wore navy and white crepe with white accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to New York, and the New England States, the bride chose a white satin damask cotton ensemble with white and turquoise accessories and mauve orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Blaind are residing in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a dinner given by the girls of the Income Tax staff, (of which the bride was a member), and held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield. She was the recipient of a rose-colored wool blanket, a chenille bedspread. The office staff also presented the bride with a trilight floor lamp and crystal.

Evelyn Watson Weds Officer In Far Off Japan

Being a member of an ambassador's party is a good way for a young, single girl to see the world and it also pays off in the heart department.

Just ask Evelyn Watson, formerly of this city, who since going to Tokyo last December as private secretary to the Canadian ambassador to Japan, has met and married an RAF officer, is now in England and will go on to Germany where her husband has been posted following a tour of duty in Korea.

The former Belleville girl, who with two sisters, served in the CWAC in the last war, is now Mrs. Nigel Bayne, wife of Flt/Lt. Baynes of the Royal Air Force.

Evelyn spent Christmas 1952 aboard ship in mid-Pacific en route to Tokyo as private secretary to R. W. Mayhew, Canada's ambassador to Japan. Shortly after arrival she met the handsome young RAF officer husband-to-be, when he was in Tokyo on leave from the Korean war front. They fell in love and early in July were married at the Canadian embassy in Toyko. Evelyn's boss, Ambassador Mayhew, gave the bride away.

Back in Belleville, the bride's mother, Mrs. Floyd Watson, of Lingham St., said that it did not seem just right for her daughter to be married so far from home.

"But I got a letter from Mr. Mayhew assuring me that the wedding turned out just lovely," Mrs. Watson said, "so for Evelyn's sake I am happy."

Mrs. Watson said her daughter and her husband had gone directly to England where they are now holidaying. Flt. Lt. Bayne will return to duty soon and Evelyn will go to Germany with him.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The "Tired Business Man" and his wife

It would certainly be a fine thing if every husband could be broadminded enough to set himself the job of finding out what it's like to run a house and take care of children all day long.

I heard of one husband who did this, and it opened his eyes to what his wife had to put up with as nothing else could possibly have done.

One Saturday, he told her to take the day off and he would look after the three youngsters, feed, bathe, dress and otherwise take care of their needs. His idea, he later confessed, was to provide her with a practical demonstration of how really simple the whole thing was if she could just bring herself to be a little systematic about it.

Toward the end of the afternoon Mama came home to find Papa deep in exhausted sleep on the living room couch, with the three littles ones joyfully engaged in wrecking the kitchen. It took her till midnight to repair the damage and get everything in its customary smooth working order again. Ever since, Papa has seen to it that Mama had regular time off, and he has learned to be quite a help around the house.

It's all very well for a man to come home at night tired from his work in office, factory or where ever. But at least he has had the opportunity of seeing something besides the inside of the four walls of home, and has had the stimulation of meeting and talking with people outside them. To the wife who has spent the day washing, ironing, housecleaning, making beds, preparing meals and, at the same time, looking after a household of lively youngsters, and who has only an evening of the same ahead of her, it's pretty hard to take—especially when, if she happens to mention that she's tired, too, her husband replies: "Why should a woman be tired when she does nothing but stay home all day long?"

In such a situation, what wife could be blamed for feeling, as one of my correspondents reports she did when she heard these words, that "I could have hit my husband over the head with something!"

This particular woman's husband, like many another "tired business man," never wants to take her out in the evening, never wants to have company come in, never wants her to go out alone—the latter, no doubt, because if she did, he would have to take care of the children. But to add insult to injury, if he ever does feel like going out after his day's work, he wants to go alone and play poker with the boys. Small wonder this wife and mother feels misunderstood and abused.

The only solution I can see for such a problem is for the wife to go out and have some recreation whether her husband likes it or not. Let him get a baby sitter if he can't bear to be responsible for his own children occasionally. Certainly this woman must have friends of her own with whom she could spend an evening now and then to get a change of scene and thought. If she has been too tied down to keep up her friendships, then she should set about renewing them, and also make new friends by joining some club or other organization that has an interesting program of activity.

If her husband quarrels with her about her outside interests, she should try to keep her temper and refuse to argue about it. If she simply declines to be drawn into acrimonious discussion, he can't keep it up by himself very long. Naturally, it will require will power and patience to maintain good temper and calmness in the face of reproaches and nagging. But if she can manage to do so, and carry out her program quietly and consistently, it wouldn't be at all surprising if she found her husband gradually developing new respect for her as a woman of independent spirit and resourcefulness. And that might mean the dawn of a brand-new and more understanding relationship between them.

STOLEN PLANE CRASHES

CHICAGO (AP)—A small plane which police said was stolen crashed in a north side residential district Monday, critically injuring the pilot, Edmund W. Cross, 28. The plane plunged to a street two blocks from the pilot's home and near Wrigley Field, home of the Chicago Cubs National League baseball team.

Roast Leg of Yearling Lamb
Mint Sauce
Pan Roasted Small New Potatoes in Jackets
Shredded Young Green Beans
Cucumbers in Sour Cream
Fresh Blueberries
Lemon Cup Cakes
Coffee.

Directions:

The sole purpose of writing about this meal is to encourage you to ask your butcher for yearling lamb.

I am assured by our department of agriculture that there is plenty of yearling lamb available. All this required is a demand—from you and me.

I demanded—and as a result have a 10-lb. leg of yearling lamb in the oven roasting at this very minute. I can smell the lovely fragrance here at my desk as I type this.

The reason for the 10-lb. weight is because it is cut about 7 or 8 inches above the hip, so some of the part that would be known as Porterhouse if it were beef is included. I paid 39 cents per pound for it; $4.06 for the whole piece. That is inexpensive choice meat at today's meat prices. It is no fatter than spring lamb. Indeed it is not as fat as most cuts of beef.

Roast Leg of Yearling Lamb

Cut off the leg below the knee joint where the butcher has broken it. Roast it beside the meat or reserve it for making Scotch Broth later. Wipe the meat with a cold damp cloth, and sprinkle it generously all over with salt, pepper and flour. Put on rack in roasting pan, and roast in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 3 1-2 to 3 3-4 hours.

Serve lamb with mint sauce.

Mint Sauce

Chop washed and dried fresh mint leaves stripped from stem and chop as finely as possible on board. Heat 1-2 cup vinegar with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1-4 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper until simmering, then pour this over the chopped mint. Cover and let stand 1 hour.

Cucumbers in Sour Cream

Once you have tried this exotic dish you will want to put it into your permanent file, for it is an ideal way to serve cucumbers, and this is cucumber season. Pare strips of skin from a long cucumber—so that half of the skin is left on. Score this deeply with a fork, then slice cucumber thinly. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon finely minced chives or green onions to 1-3 cup sour cream. Mix well, then add 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Pour this over the sliced cucumber, and lift the slices so that cream touches all of them. Cover and chill 30 minutes before serving.

Lemon Cupcakes

One and one-half cups sifted cake flour, 1-4 teaspoon each soda and salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1-2 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sugar, 4 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 3-4 tablespoon lemon juice, 4 egg whites stiffly beaten. Sift flour and measure it then sift it with the salt and soda three times. Add the lemon rind to the butter or margarine and cream them until light, then gradually cream the sugar into them, and beat all until very light and fluffy. Add yolks which have been beaten until light, then lemon juice. Add flour, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in egg whites which have been beaten until stiff. Bake in buttered muffin tins or in unbuttered fluted paper cups. The fluted paper cups hold their shape better if placed in muffin tins to bake. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. When cold frost with Lemon Frosting made by creaming 3 tablespoons butter with 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Begin adding 3 cups sifted icing sugar, alternately with 2 tablespoons lemon juice mixed with 1 tablespoon water, until all of the sugar has been added. Cut this amount in half to frost the cupcakes for the recipe makes 18. This amount of frosting will cover tops and sides of a layer cake.

CUTS VISIT SHORT

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Sidney Holland, who is reported to be suffering from dysentery, cut short his visit to India today and flew directly to New Zealand. Holland, who arrived here two days ago on his way home from London, was to have lunched today with Prime Minister Nehru.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Send written thank-you notes—not printed "acknowledgment" cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you approve of using the printed (or sometimes even engraved) acknowledgment cards that are usually supplied by funeral directors—cards to be sent out by the family to acknowledge flowers, notes, and so forth?—Beatrice W.

No, I don't approve of these or any other impersonal cards. When I try my best to make a warmhearted and understanding gesture of sympathy; when I give most earnest attention to the choice of flowers that I hope will be just right to carry the message I pray they will carry, or when I put most devoted and careful thought into writing a note of sympathy, it's really not pleasant to receive a frigid, impersonal printed card of "acknowledgment" reading somewhat like this: "The family of ——acknowledges with gratitude your kind expression of sympathy." There is no warmth or real appreciation about this.

It doesn't take long to write the brief note of thanks a friend expects and welcomes—one or two sentences of sincere appreciation. And, naturally, no one expects that this note will be written promptly. But it should be personal, hand-written. And it may be written by a relative or friend of the one in mourning.

Incorrect: groom's parents' names on wedding invitations

I am to be married in the fall. Please tell me which is the correct way to have the wedding invitations engraved—with the names of the groom's parents or without them? I have seen it done both ways.—A. M. T.

There is a right way and a wrong way to handle every detail of the formal wedding invitation. The right way is to have the names of the bride's parents (or whoever is to issue the wedding invitations) on the first line, since they are the hosts—and not to include the names of the groom's parents! The wrong way is to include the names of the groom's parents! This is absolutely contrary to the tradition that governs the form of wedding invitations. (Please don't be persuaded by any engraver to include the names of the groom's parents. He either doesn't know or care what's what, or he's figuring on being paid for another line of engraving!)

That romantic hope chest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in a few months, and would like to start a hope chest. Who is supposed to give the hope chest? And are there any set rules about the requirements of a hope chest—what items, and how many of each?—N. E.

Very often the girl's family give her hope chest—sometimes even before she is engaged. Sometimes the girl's fiance gives her this romantic present. And many's the girl who buys her own hope chest. There's really no rule. And there's no rule either nowadays about the kind and number of the items to be collected for it. It depends, of course, on the budget for this equipment; on the type of home the couple are to have; the kind of life they are to lead and, most particularly, on the probable amount of storage-space.

Four Nominated For Presidency Canadian Legion

SUDBURY (CP) — Examples of what is needed in better interpreting and administrating veterans legislation already on the statute books keynoted an address given Tuesday to Ontario Legion members holding their 18th biennial convention here.

Dr. C. B. Lumsden, Canadian Legion Dominion command president, said there were two main items to be dealt with — pension legislation and war veterans allowance legislation.

He said the main need was for better "administration and interpretation of the legislation for the veterans of Canada."

Four men were nominated for the presidency. Elections will be held Thursday, final day of the gathering.

Major Harold Telley of Sault Ste. Marie, Ben Jacklin and McIntyre Hood of Oshawa and T. A. M. Hulse of Toronto were named to contest the position. Hulse is the present provincial president.

Leo Cunningham of St. Catherines was acclaimed as chairman of the command.

RAWDON

Many Students Successful in Recent Music Examinations

RAWDON. — This year for the first time, the Royal Conservatory of Music held examinations in Stirling. Previously the pupils journeyed to Belleville and on June 25, of this year it was a great convenience to the Stirling pupils to have the examinations in their home town.

Miss Verna Brown, Carmel, music teacher, had one pupil, Miss Dorothy Johnston, Stirling, R.R. 3, who passed Grade V piano examinations.

Mrs. Harold Elliott, A.R.C.T., R.M.T., of Bethel community, reports that all who tried examinations were successful:

Grade I — Michael Kelly, 1st class honors; Grade III—Noreen Brooks, honors; Grade V—Donalda Heath, honors; Carol Sine, honors; Barbara Hadley, honors; Grade VIII—Thomas R. Bridges.

Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T., Stirling, had 18 successful pupils as follows:

Singing

Grade IX—William Aylsworth, Madoc, honors; Grade VIII—Donna McColl, Wooler, 1st class honors; Grade VI—Marlene Carlisle, Stirling, pass; Grade IV—Ann Redcliffe, Wooler, honors; Grade II—Grace Heasman, Stirling, honors; Joanne Heasman, Stirling, honors; Grade I—Diane Anderson, Wooler, honors; Sandra Allan, Marysville, honors; Sylvia Allan, Marysville, pass.

Pianoforte

Grade VIII —Barbara Stickle, Frankford, pass; Grade VI—Donna McColl, Wooler, 1st class honors; Grade V—Grace Heasman, Stirling, 1st class honors; Grade IV—Ann Morrow, Wooler, pass; Grade III—Colleen Chase, Wooler, honors; Edmund Fleming, Wooler, pass; Heather, Rodgers, Stirling, pass; Grade II —Rose Ann Vandervoort, Stirling, honors; Shirley Chisholm, Ross' Corners, honors.

Miss Grace Pitman, A.T.C.L., Stirling, reports five successful pupils in pianoforte tests:

Grade I—Sharon Berry, Frankford; Grade II—Marilyn Finkle, Foxboro, R.R. 1; Grade VI—Barbara Woodbeck, Stirling; Grade VIII—Mary Moffatt, Marmora; Marlene Carlisle, Stirling.

The last three students have the theoretical requirements for their piano certificates in their grades.

This Con Was No Piker

Herman Meincke consoles his wife, Elfrieda, after both were sentenced to prison in Bonn, Germany, for swindling investors through a fantastic scheme to produce $165,000,000 worth of diamonds a year from carbon. The prosecution charged Meincke enticed investors to sink $232,000 in his scheme. He would slip diamond fragments into a test tube to convince them that his formula worked. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

OIL CAPITOL VICTOR

CHICAGO (AP) — Oil Capitol, Hasty House Farm's busy six-year-old grey, spurted on the stretch to beat Sub Fleet by one-half length in the $84,500 Arlington Handicap Saturday.

Oil Capitol was ridden by Con McCreary, in the 1 3-16 mile event. Brush Burn was third, 1¼ lengths behind Sub fleet.

Cyclone Leaves Trail of Damage At Sebringville

SEBRINGVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A cyclone which ripped through this little hamlet on Highway No. 8 late Tuesday left a trail of damage which may run into several thousands of dollars.

Roofs were lifted from buildings; small outbuildings were carried 50 yards; windows were smashed; hydro and telephone lines were knocked to the ground and pieces of trees and roofing sheet metal littered the area.

Residents of the settlement, five miles west of Stratford, who saw the miniature twister approaching across bushes and fields from the southwest, said the funnel-shaped formation was "bluish gray."

No one was injured.

Lucky to Escape

William Ische and his sons Clarence and Carl were lucky to escape without a scratch. They were working in their honey house when the roof was torn off, and part of one wall collapsed.

A beam from the Ische honey house was blown 50 yards and crashed through Glen Wildgust's house, tearing a hole in the roof.

Small garages were lifted and carried away like straws.

The tornado tore down trees in the apple orchard of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thornton and smashed into a garage and barn. A large soft maple tree was snapped in two and fell across the Thornton's sun porch, breaking windows and caving in part of the roof.

PICTON

Fair Officials Present Reports On Show Plans

PICTON.— Enthusiastic reports were presented by committee chairman at a meeting of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society, sponsors of the County Fair at Picton, August 22-26. Unusually fine co-operation from many sources, including county council, was reported. It was decided to meet again on August 14, when all committees will have carried out suggestions advanced.

Cattle chairman Tom May reported that George McLaughlin, of Elmcroft Farm, Oshawa, would be the judge and 125 entries are expected for the Black and White Show.

Willis Sills was named to see about improvements to grandstand seats.

Asked for an opinion on the suggestion that the cattle barn be rented as a sales arena, directors felt that such use would prevent exhibiting at fair time due to the possibility of spread of disease.

A committee composed of President Harold Spencer, Elmer Gerow, Reeve Carmen Scott and Warden Clinton Green was named to improve the race track by grading and an addition of loam.

F. L. Ward, Q.C., has consented to arrange a parade.

FRANKFORD

FRANKFORD. — Miss Doris Parry, of Oshawa, spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Selbourne Sharp, last week.

Mrs. W. Spencer is confined at Belleville General Hospital for treatment, after a bout with jaundice.

Mrs. Garnet McFarland entered Trenton Memorial Hospital, last Thursday. Everyone wishes her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Norman Parry, Mrs. William Parry and son, Bobby, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Sharp.

Mr. Malcolm King has returned home after a week in Belleville hospital, where he underwent an operation. His many friends wish him well.

Mr. Jack Parry, of Port Perry, was the supper guest of Mr. Selbourne Sharp, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chard are spending a few days in the Eastern United States.

Miss Linda Farmer, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Farmer is in Trenton Memorial Hospital to undergo treatment for anemia. Best wishes for a quick recovery are extended.

Collection of Rare Fossils Made by Two Sask. Scientists

REGINA (CP)—Two Saskatchewan scientists, A. E. Swanston and T. R. Walker of the Provincial Museum, returned here recently with a collection of rare fossils found in Hunter Quarry in the Cypress hills. Part of the area on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary escaped ice-age glaciers.

The men uncovered fossil bones and teeth buried in the sandy deposits of a mighty river of the oligocene period. The 100 specimens found show the great variety and abundance of animals in the country at that time.

Recovering the fossil bones from the deposit, 200 miles southwest of Regina, was a delicate operation. The fossils are likely to crumble when handled, so they are wrapped in tissue paper and swathed in strips of canvas dipped in plaster. This holds them together until they reach the museum.

A number is placed on each cast and they are catalogued. Some of the specimens weigh up to 300 pounds.

An impressive fossil recovered during the expedition was the skull of an adult titanothere which was as numerous in the area in the oligocene period as the buffalo when it roamed the prairies freely 100 years ago.

The titamothr compares in ize with the phant. It had columnar legs and stood eight feet tall. For protection, it had skin-covered, bony horns projecting from the snout. The small brain cavity indicates it was a stupid animal. The creature became extinct 27,000,000 years ago.

The staff of the Provincial Museum works in close conjunction with the National Museum in Ottawa for accurate identifications and comparison of fossil specimens.

Expeditions from the National Museum and the Royal Ontario Museum also have recently uncovered fossils in the area.

LOSES HALF FISH

OAKVILLE (CP)—Dick Murphy caught a 22-inch pike Sunday while fishing in Sixteen Mile creek here. In high spirits over his catch, Murphy strung his prize on a chain and lowered it in the water. An hour later he hauled it up to find it half gone. Game warden Dudley Hitchcox said one of the big snapping turtles which live in the creek probably had a good dinner.

Seaway Will Get 'High Priority' Before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leader William Knowland of California said shortly before the adjournment of Congress Monday night that legislation for U. S. participation with Canada in the St. Lawrence seaway project will have "a very high priority" at the next session.

He added that if Congress should return for a special session in the fall, "it might well be taken up then."

2ND THURLOW

Neighbors' Aid Enjoys Picnic

2nd. THURLOW — About 60 men, women and children of the Neighbors' Aid enjoyed a pot-luck dinner and picnic at Point Anne beach on Wednesday.

After partaking of the good things provided by the ladies, the following sports were enjoyed by old and young, and were in charge of the president, Mrs. C. Howard with several of the young married folk assisting:

Races: 3 to 5 years, Carolyn Mitchell, Keith Greatrix; 6 to 8 years, Douglas Vivian, Janie Thomson; 9 to 12 years, Jim Chumbley, Lionel Garrison; girls 15 to 16, Margaret Thompson, Barbara Howard.

Young men's race: Ronald Atkins; young women's race, Mrs. Emaline Greatrix, Mrs. Vera Mitchell.

Kicking the shoe farthest: Mrs. A. Mitchell and Mrs. D. Atkins.

Scrambled shoe race for the young married folk with their wives as partners: Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Atkins as winners.

Mr. W. Gray, Sr., received a gift for the oldest one present.

A ball game completed the afternoon's fun with Messrs. M. Mitchell and Robt. Atkins choosing sides; the latters' team winning.

The young children were given tickets for free ice cream and a peanut scramble completed the day's outing which was enjoyed by all.

MARMORA

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis and family are holidaying at their cottage on Deer River.

VOTE - LEE GRILLS
On August 10th

WE CAN . . . WE WILL!

Here's what you're voting for when you vote Progressive Conservative on August 10th. This 16-point program can and will be undertaken this fall by a Progressive Conservative Government.

What is the alternative to this 16-point program? The alternative is five more years of autocratic rule by a Government already too long in office — whose only answer to this positive program is "It can't be done!"

The Progressive Conservative Party is the only party with a positive policy pledging immediate action on tax reductions . . . elimination of waste and extravagance . . . lower municipal taxes . . . a housing program . . . national health insurance . . . farm prices related to production costs . . . recovery of lost markets . . . these and other matters of public concern are the real issues in this election. The voters of Canada know where this party stands!

1 We will reduce federal taxes by at least five hundred million dollars ($500,000,000) a year . . . without reducing any social security payments, or impairing the efficiency of our armed forces.

2 We will exempt municipal councils and school boards from Sales Tax and Excise Tax on all purchases of machinery, equipment, instruments and other goods and will provide for taxation of all federal government properties in municipalities.

3 We will immediately call a Dominion-Provincial Tax Conference to revise our whole system of taxation.

4 We will greatly reduce the cost of government by ending waste and extravagance, increasing efficiency, eliminating duplication and improving accounting methods. In particular, we will reorganize the Department of National Defence.

5 We will re-establish the true principles of the Confederation Pact set forth in the British North America Act; we will restore the Supremacy of Parliament and the Rule of Law.

6 We will set up a joint committee of the Senate and House of Commons for the purpose of reforming the Senate with particular reference to the method of appointment, tenure of office and its legislative functions.

7 We will introduce legislation to amend the Criminal Code which will make it an offence punishable by due process of law to engage in Communist or other subversive activities designed to destroy our democratic system.

8 We will take immediate steps to restore and expand world markets for agricultural and other primary products. Our program will include bold and constructive steps to break the Dollar-Pound Barrier and regain our vital British and Commonwealth Trade.

9 We will appoint a National Agricultural Board for the purpose of establishing fair floor prices related to farm production costs.

10 We will undertake an immediate review of all national labour legislation for the purpose of improving collective bargaining procedure, expediting conciliation of disputes, assuring fair employment practices, providing equal pdy for equal work, and generally increasing the basis of cooperation between labour, management and government.

11 We will introduce a housing program which will make it possible for people with small incomes to buy new homes by improving the terms and conditions under which houses can be built and purchased.

12 We will introduce a contributory health insurance program, in cooperation with the provinces, which will assure to every Canadian proper diagnostic, medical and surgical treatment.

13 We will take immediate steps to deal with the freight rate structure in Canada. We will respect all existing regional statutory rates and take every practical step to encourage the use of our own ports for Canadian export and import trade.

14 We will immediately review all legislation affecting the Civil Service, so that all except casual employees may become permanent members of the Civil Service, with assurance of security of employment, and promotion by merit to the highest offices within the service. Working hours, pay and advancement will be comparable with employment in industry and commerce.

15 We will, in co-operation with the provinces, establish a national policy under a system of free enterprise which will:
—proceed with a national development program including such projects as the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project, the Saskatchewan River Power and Irrigation Project, Hydro Electric Power Projects in the Maritimes and similar projects of national importance in other parts of Canada;
—promote the decentralization of industry so that opportunities for employment and advancement may be extended on the widest possible basis throughout the whole of Canada.

16 We believe that Canada has a vital role to play as a member of the Commonwealth and a friendly neighbour of the United States. We pledge our support to NATO and other organizations set up under the United Nations for the preservation of peace and the improvement of social and economic conditions throughout the world.

Inserted by the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GAME POSTPONED!

The second game of the Intermediate "AA" playoff series between Northern Electric and the Bobcats scheduled for the Alemite Field tonight has been postponed, it was announced by team managers late yesterday. The next game of the series will be played Friday night. Reason for postponement was that the Northern Electric ladies' softball team had a scheduled date with the No. 6 R.D. team tonight.

The sigh of relief that whoosed from the beak of the "Ole Clucker" Monday evening when his ace-in-the-hole M'sieu McCurdy retired the side in the ninth inning against the Two-Bob's fighting Bobcats nearly hurled three CNR locomotives off the tracks.

It didn't look too good for the Northern Electric cockerels when the clawing Cats pounded out three runs in the eighth to come within a single tally. But the "Ole Cluck's" strategy paid off, and the deceptive delivery of McCurdy baffled the Bobcat sluggers.

Bob Temple, incidentally, is sidelined with torn shoulder muscles as a result of a crash at the plate in a former game with the Electrics and is confining his softball calisthenics to coaching.

The teams go at it again Friday, since tonight's game, the second tilt of their four-of-seven series, has been postponed. The Cats are a dangerous team and can come up with runs when least expected. The Northerns have a one-game lead in the series but that could easily be nullified Friday if the Cat pitching holds up.

However, the Clucker and his cockerels figure they can repeat, so it all makes for a close struggle. The date of the third game of the series will be announced later.

BASEBALL

Summing it up this South Hastings Baseball League playoff series looks like a battle of the townships with Thurlow and Tyendinaga being represented. Cannifton and Latta carry the banners for the Thurlowites, while "Tyendinag's" honor is being upheld by Read and Shannonville. Cannifton has a one-game edge on Read, while at the time of writing the result of last night's game, if it was played, between Shannonville and Latta, was not ascertained. Tonight Cannifton visits Read and tomorrow night Latta will be guests of Shannonville. The semi-finals series is a best-of-three affair with the winners battling four-out-of-seven for the championship and trophy.

ALL-STAR SOFTBALL TEAM!

The managers of the seven teams in the Belleville District Softball League have completed their selections for the all-star squad which will meet Ace Holden and his Rockets, famous four-man softball squad at the CNR Recreation Park next Saturday. A panel has been selected to scrutineer the selections which will be made on the point system. Each manager was asked to elect three all star teams from the league and the players polling the greatest number of points will be on the starting lineup. The manager and coach selected will name their own substitutes, and they will be on their own as soon as the team is named.

Speaking of Ace Holden, the dark-skinned hurler is said to be some punkins in fastball circles. He is another King Feigner, according to the public relations bloke. After all, a pitcher who can strike out 561 batters in 219 innings or an average of 2.56 per inning can scarcely be classified as "wild."

Sportswriters in the United States claim Holden is on a par with Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe, Roy Campanella and other colored stars who have added lustre to the playing fields of the country.

ALL DONE?

The CNR Diesels can hang up their softball gear for another season at least as far as competitive play is concerned. They were eliminated from the OASA intermediate "A" semi-final playoffs Monday night by Frankford, and now the village squad trains its sights on the toughest assignment of the season, Point Anne. No announcement as to dates has been made as yet, but it is likely the series will be four-of-seven.

The Ox Pointers are in the throes of their city championship finals with the Glen Roy Juniors, but since the Intermediate "A" playdowns must declare a winner by August 15, there should be plenty of time to settle both issues.—Point Anne or Frankford will likely meet Kingston in the first playdowns round.

THE TERRIBLE TEUTON

Hans Schmidt tossed his blonde head when he heard he was matched with Don Jonathan in the main bout of the wrestling card in Memorial Arena this week. Schmitty, a lithe, well-proportioned "rassler", snarls a hymn of hate the minute he sets foot in the ring and he proceeds to go to work on the opposition with all the thoroughness of his alleged race. He is probably the most-hated television performer on the screen, not to mention "live" audiences the country over. But he is nobody's fool when it comes to bashing the foeman on his noggin, or trying to tear him piecemeal. Don Johnny should give him quite a battle and it should be a test of brute strength against speed and skill. Fred Atkins, the palsy-walsy from Haustraylia, is back again in a single act against Robert Duranton, the handsome boulevardier, while Al. Leipsic takes on Al Costello in the opener.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Vic Raschi, New York Yankees, set a major league record for pitchers by driving in seven runs—with two singles and a double—in the Yankees' 15-0 walkaway against Detroit.

Pitching: Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, gave up five hits and struck out seven in winning his 19th game 8-1 over St. Louis.

Phillies Star Deals Cards 8-1 Defeat for 19th Victory; Yankees Whip Senators 15-0

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Robin Roberts express is running on a schedule that could make the young pitcher for Philadelphia Phillies the major leagues' first 30-game winner in 19 seasons.

The strong-armed righthander has stepped up by almost two weeks his tremendous pace of last year when he won 28 and lost 7.

Roberts won his 19th game Tuesday night, a five-hit 8-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. He's lost seven. At this same point a year ago he had a 16-6 record.

Compared to his record at this time last year, Roberts has pitched 35 more innings and eight more complete games. He's struck out 36 more batters although he has walked 17 more. Thirty-nine more hits have been recorded against him, but his earned run average is lower—2.38 to 2.48.

The last 30-game winner was Dizzy Dean of St. Louis Cardinals back in 1934.

Control Good

A good fast-ball pitcher, Roberts had his control working to near perfection against the Cards Tuesday night. Back-to-back doubles by Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter produced a St. Louis run in the first inning, but from then on it was all Roberts. He struck out seven and walked two.

League-leading Brooklyn was made idle by rain in Milwaukee. Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 2-1 and Chicago Cubs defeated the stumbling New York Giants 5-3.

In the American League New York Yankees crushed Detroit 15-0. Chicago whipped Philadelphia 8-3. Cleveland defeated Washington 3-0 and Boston broke an eight-game losing streak, beating St. Louis 6-2.

The Yankees lead Chicago by five games and Cleveland by 7½.

Vic Raschi broke a major league batting record as he drove in seven of the New York runs against Detroit, an all-time high for pitchers. The previous best was six.

Greeted with the bases loaded in each of his first three trips to the plate, Raschi delivered two runners in the second inning with a single, three in the third with a double and two more in the fourth with another single. On his fourth trip, with nobody on base, he grounded out.

Garcia Wins 13th

Chuck Stobbs of the Senators held Cleveland to five hits, but the Indians managed to bunch three of these in the eighth inning to score all of their runs. Mike Garcia posted victory No. 13.

The White Sox, who had succumbed to the Athletics 10 times in 15 meetings, exploded for six runs in the fourth inning to salt away the contest. Virgil Trucks won his ninth game since joining Chicago with a four-hit performance.

Boston came from behind in the eighth to trim the Browns. Floyd Baker doubled with the bases loaded during the rally that gave Maury McDermott his 11th victory.

The Pirates' victory at Cincinnati ended a four-game winning streak for the Redlegs. Danny O'Connell tripled home the two Pittsburgh runs in the eighth against loser Jackie Collum.

Heavy Odds Against Golf Ace

ELMSFORD, N.Y. (AP) — The odds against a golfer getting a hole in one are 8,103 to 1, the New York World Telegram and Sun decided today.

The newspaper has been conducting an annual hole in one tournament for 20 years, and only 10 aces have been made. A total of 16,205 players have hit 81,205 shots.

The 10th ace was made Tuesday by James B. Lowery, New York advertising man.

Six Teams Will Form American Hockey League

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The American Hockey League Tuesday agreed to suspend franchises in St. Louis and Indianapolis and operate with six teams for the 1953-54 season.

Emory Jones, president of St. Louis Flyers, resigned as president of the league. John Sollenberger of Hershey Estates, Pa., was elected to succeed him.

The league directorate ended a three-day annual meeting here Tuesday night.

They decided to play a 70-game schedule between Oct. 10 and March 21. The schedule, originally drawn up to include St. Louis, will be redrafted, a league spokesman said.

Indianapolis did not operate last season, but the decision of St. Louis to suspend its team for one year apparently came as a surprise.

Cities represented will be Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Syracuse, N.Y., Provdence, R.I., and Hershey, Pa. The first four clubs in the league will qualify for a playoff series.

Dick Miller, president of the Indianapolis Coliseum Corp., said at Indianapolis he had tried to reach a working agreement with a National Hockey League club but failed because he could not give assurance that any arrangement would last more than a year. He said such assurance was impossible because of the lease situation at the Indianapolis Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Jones said the inability of Detroit Red Wings to supply the St. Louis club with players, the heavy expenses involved in travel and the failure of Indianapolis to resume action in the league brought about the suspension of the franchise in St. Louis.

Name 10-Man Ryder Cup Team

CHICAGO (AP) — A Ryder Cup golf team, including only four players from the previous squad, today was named to represent the United States against Britain in the 1953 competition at Wentworth, England, Oct. 2-3.

The 10 — man U.S. squad announced by the executive committee of the Professional Golfers' Association of America comprised:

Walter Burkemo and Jimmy Turnesa, automatically selected as winners of the 1953 and 1942 PGA championships; Sam Snead, Jack Burke Jr., Lloyd Mangrum, Ted Kroll, Cary Middlecoff, Ed Porky Oliver, Dave Douglas and Fred Haas Jr.

Killed in Crash

RAMORE, Ont. (CP)—Newton Watson, 48, of Kleinburg, was killed Saturday night in a two-car collision on the highway one mile east of here.

Mrs. George Hursley of Timmins, suffered cuts and bruises, broken ribs and a broken collarbone in the accident. Her husband, George Hursley, suffered cuts and bruises. Hospital officials described their condition as "good."

Police said Mr. Watson's car rammed a car driven by the Hursley's son, William, also of Timmins. The son was unhurt. The cars were demolished.

'Lip' Durocher Called Turn On Russ Meyer

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The only time we saw Leo Durocher really agitated last spring was when someone asked him what he thought of the winter deal through which Brooklyn had obtained pitcher Russ Meyer from the Phillies. The manager of the Giants exploded at close quarters.

"Since when," he demanded, "do you try to help the team you've get to beat? Anybody with any sense knows that pitching is what Charlie Dressen needs. The Phils don't think that guy Meyer is much of a pitcher, hey? I wish I had him right now."

Leo had a good deal more to say on the subject, but that was the gist of his remarks, which were widely circulated. As we do not recall that any other National League manager viewed the strange transaction with similar alarm at the time, it seems proper to credit him with having called the turn.

As of the moment Meyer, for all his eccentricities, is tied with Carl Erskine as the most winning pitcher on the Brooklyn staff, each with an 1-4 record. The pair are right up among the league leaders in winning percentage. Their recent efforts are largely responsible for the daylight the Dodgers have put between themselves and the second-place Milwaukee.

Meyer, after an indifferent start, has won his last four, two of them shutouts over Milwaukee. The last time he lost was July 11, when he bowed to a shutout delivered by rookie Alan Worthington of the Giants.

REMAIN IN MAJOR HOCKEY

NEW GLASGOW (CP) — The Maritime Hockey League will operate as a major series circuit again next winter, it was decided at a league meeting Saturday. All four clubs—Halifax, Sydney, Glace Bay and Charlottetown—voted in favor of major competition for the Alexander Cup, won last season by Halifax Atlantics.

Marlene Faces Field of 120 In Tournament

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—It's Marlene Stewart against the field when the Canadian ladies' close golf championship opens at the Sunningdale Golf Club here Thursday. The brilliant 19-year-old shotmaker from Fonthill, recently crowned British women's amateur champion, will be seeking her third straight Canadian close title. She was also open champion in 1951.

A field of 120 is expected to tee off Thursday for the 54-holes of medal play which will decide the close championship. Next week, at the London Hunt Club, the Canadian ladies' open amateur championship will be staged.

The interprovincial championships will be played as part of the Close tournament at Sunningdale. This title is decided on the scores of the four team members from each province over the first 36 holes. Ontario's team is defending champion.

Women's par of 76 has never been beaten over the 5,998-yard Sunningdale course.

Other top competitors in the Close are Mary Gay, Kitchener Westmount; Barbara Davies, Vancouver; Mrs. J. H. Todd, Victoria, Anne Sharpe, her Fonthill teammate, and Ada Mackenzie, Toronto.

Miss Stewart is not making any predictions about the Close.

She is "just going to golf" and hope for the victory.

"I don't know who the person is to beat. After all, there are 128 in the field and that's a lot of golfers," she said.

Wings Stampede Bisons 23-8 In Split Bill

(By The Canadian Press)

Rain played havoc with the International League schedule Tuesday night, washing out four of the six scheduled fixtures. But the evening's sole contest— a double-header—nearly gave a new team the number two spot in league standing.

The third-place Rochester Red Wings stampeded Buffalo Bisons 23-8 in the seven-inning opener at Buffalo, but the Herd overcame a four-run deficit to down the Red Wings 8-4 in the second game. A double loss would have given Rochester the edge over Buffalo in the standing.

The visitors crashed 27 hits in the opener, 15 batsmen parading to the plate in the sixth to score 11 runs. Outfielder Jack Crawford completed the inning on the mound and Charlie Kress blasted him for a grand-slam homer. Rochester added another five in the seventh frame to make sure of their victory.

It was Kress' second homer of the game; his 18th of the season.

In the nightcap John Weiss, making one of his infrequent mound starts, held the Wings scoreless in eight of nine innings to gain his fourth victory.

A doubleheader between Springfield and Toronto at Toronto, and single contests between Baltimore and Montreal at Montreal and Syracuse at Ottawa were all postponed because of rain.

Will Try For Double Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Marlene Stewart, 19-year-old Canadian who won the British women's amateur golf title earlier this year, will try for a double in the U.S. women's tournament at West Barrington, R.I., Aug. 24-29. Her entry for the U.S. meet was received Tuesday. Miss Stewart's home is in Fonthill, Ont.

The feminine double has been accomplished only twice, by Scottish-born Mrs. Dorothy Cambell Hurd in 1909 and Pamela Barton of England in 1936. No American has turned the trick although Mrs. George Didrikson Zaharias won the U.S. title in 1946 and the British title the following year. Louise Suggs of Atlanta won in this country in 1947 and in England in 1948.

MARMORA

Madoc Loses To Marmora 17-7

MARMORA.—Marmora Softball team on their own diamond easily defeated Madoc in the first game of the four out of seven series by 17-7, this being the Central Hastings finals. The attendance was the best seen at the Recreational Centre for a long time. McInroy and Hillian were the battery for the homesters.

Lessard and Hatch started for Madoc but the former was pulled for Heule in the 6th.

Score by innings:

Madoc	010 006 000—	7
Marmora	510 603 11x—	17

MOUNTAIN NOT SCALED

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The report last Thursday that four men had climbed Mt. Aconagua, highest peak in the Western hemisphere, for the first time in winter proved to be untrue. Rodolfo Benvenutti, head of the four-man team, Saturday said the report the expedition had climbed the 23,081-foot mountain was due to the "exaggerated optimism" of the Buenos Aires branch of the Andean Club. He said the expedition was defeated by strong winds and fatigue.

Targets Fading In Thick Fog Halts Rifle Shoot

By ARTHUR ROWSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Long Branch (CP) — Ontario Rifle Association competitions were interrupted late Tuesday when targets disappeared in a thick mist drifting across the rifle ranges from Lake Ontario.

Ten competitors were unable to shoot in the City of Toronto match, part of which had already been cancelled because of the weather, and a tie shoot was postponed until today.

Throughout the second day of the association's annual shoot, marksmen had to contend with a steady downpour of rain and varying visibility.

Shooting on the 500-yard range for the City of Toronto contest was cancelled by ORA officials and riflemen will be competing in the second part with 15 rounds on the 600-yard range. The 10 who couldn't shoot Tuesday will fire today.

The postponed tie shoot is for the Bankers Silver Medal. Six are entered, all of them top scorers with 99 points out of a possible 100.

Another tie shoot slated for today will be between Lt.-Col. D. T. Burke, radiologist at Sunnybrook Military Hospital, and Sgt. G. O. Boast for the rapid-fire Gibson Memorial Match honors. Boast, runner-up in the same event last year, and Burke, both of the 68th Highlanders, Toronto, marked up scores of 46 each after firing 10 rounds in 45 seconds at 300 yards.

The ORA Silver Medal in the President's Match tie shoot went to Lieut. W. V. Hall of Camp Borden who hit the bullseye four times in five shots, two more than Capt. J. G. Kirk of the 21st Anti-Tank Regiment, Listowel. In the match, they scored 49 out of a possible 50.

Scores of 48 were posted by Flt. Sgt. J. V. Martin, RCAF Camp Borden; F. H. Schrader, Buffalo, N.Y.; Wing Comdr. J. A. Gordon, RCAF Trenton; Cadet R. M. Crossan, Hamilton Westdale Collegiate; Capt. S. W. Graham, 48th Highlanders, Toronto; CSM N. J. McLeod, Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto; S. Sgt. G. B. Kay, Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, and CSM N. L. Beckett, RHLI.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

All kinds of false rumors clutter up the easy handling of the rules in bridge. Your hearsay that you must not count short card tricks in a suit your partner has bid. Don't you believe them.

You are south as dealer of these cards:

NORTH
♠K 9 3
♥Q 7 3
♦A 4
♣A K Q 4 3

WEST
♠10 7 2
♥9 8 4
♦10 7 5
♣J 9 8 5

EAST
♥A K J 10
♦K Q J 9
♣10 7 2

SOUTH
♠A Q J 6 4
♥6 5 2
♦8 6 3 2

The first round of bids go like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 C	Dbl

The opening bid by partner in the north promises at least five tricks, four high cards, two sure tricks, and a biddable club suit. Double by east shows as good as an opening one bid.

An opening one bidder expects two tricks in partner. With less than or no more than two tricks, partner passes. This is so whether or not an opponent intervenes with a bid or takeout double.

Your south hand contains four tricks. These are two high cards (ace and queen) and two short cards (both in clubs). Responder bids with more than two tricks if he has at least two highs among them.

Thus, not only do you have enough tricks for a suit response. You have a trick more than needed. True, your short tricks are in the suit your partner has bid. But let not that deter you.

Why not worry about the shorts in the suit partner has bid? With shorts there you will not have adequate support for his suit. Therefore, his suit will not be trumps. Shorts are what you ruff.

Follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. With a spade suit at least biddable, takeout first to one spade. It will also promise, your hand contains more than two tricks.

Too many players know too many things that are not so. So, don't believe half what you hear about bridge. And scrutinize carefully the other half.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The lady seemed just about ready to blow her blonde wig. She was that mad.

This was Janet Leigh. She was beautifully irate in a honey hairdo that made her look surprisingly like Betty Grable. The fake hair was for her role in Prince Valiant and she had to dye her own tresses the same color so they wouldn't show underneath.

But that wasn't what made her mad. It was some things that had been printed about her and her handsome hubby, Tony Curtis. Mean, unkind things. Like calling the Curtises publicity-mad exhibitionists who are never happy unless a camera lens is prying into their lives. When such comments appeared in a couple of magazines, Janet composed a scorching letter. "Then I had somebody correct the spelling and I sent it off," she declared. "Oh, I'm so mad!"

And well she might be. Last year she and Tony were the first husband and wife team to win the annual pat on the back from the Hollywood women's press club. They won the golden apples for being the most co-operative stars.

Now come the blasts that the Curtises are too co-operative. It's a bitter pill to Janet, who thought she was pleasing everybody.

She had some interesting comments on the fishbowl life of a movie star.

"Publicity is an important part of the business of being a movie performer," she observed. "Mind you, we don't think it's the most important part, as some critics claim we believe.

"Nothing, but nothing, is more important to us than our work. After all, that's the payoff, the reason for the movie business, what appears up there on the screen.

"Okay, so you can help sell personalities via publicity. But you have to give something, once you get the people inside the theatre. If they think you're a lousy performer, you're through, brother.

"Neither Tony nor I will allow anything to interfere with our work and that goes for publicity, too. If some publicity assignment comes up while I'm on a picture and I can do it without any trouble, okay, fine. But if it interferes with what I have to do in front of the cameras, I ask if it can't be postponed until after the end of the picture."

Janet said she even volunteers to come in after the end of the film at no charge to the company. Most other glamor girls would charge $1,000 a day to do publicity requests.

MARMORA

MARMORA — Within a week or so, a big construction program is to be started at Marmora mine of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the contract having been awarded the Canadian Turner Company Limited with head office in New York City.

The contract is for one year of operations in which the buildings to house crushing equipment, the smelter and other processing machinery will be erected.

Mr. Bill Bear will be the resident engineer in charge for the construction company and Mr. Francis Rothernel will be supervising engineer for the Bethlehem Mines Corporation.

As operations get in full swing from 75 to 100 men will be employed. The superintendent's office staff and key men will be brought in, but it is planned to employ a large number of local men as well.

In a number of cases, employees of the construction firm are planning to bring their families with them if living accommodation can be secured. But already the influx of new residents is creating a housing problem. Thus it is hoped that any residents who could provide small apartments or suitable rooms in the present situation will do so as a community service for which, too, there would be reasonable remuneration.

The erection of the new buildings is a further indication that within a year or so Marmora Mine will be in active production of iron ore.

The new lookout erected by Bethlehem Mines Corporation, just outside the fence and near the office, is receiving a good amount of patronage. It enables the interested public to watch a good deal of the operations as well as if they were on the property without hazard to anyone.

AT THE CAPITOL

All Technicolor Show
"Pony Express"

That there is nothing so durable as a six-shooter is soundly proven in Paramount's brand new Technicolor adventure drama, "Pony Express", opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre, for its first city showing. In this rousing film which recalls the mighty achievements of courageous Pony Express riders, like Wild Bill Hickok and Buffalo Bill Cody, the exact gun use so effectively by Buffalo Bill, is very much in evidence throughout the turbulent action. Charlton Heston, seen as the fabulous Indian fighter and scout Bill Cody, relies upon the trusty, old weapon to get him out of many a tight scrape during the course of the picture's rugged frontier encounters. Co-starred with Heston in this Nat Holt production are Forrest Tucker, Rhonda Fleming and Jan Sterling.

Added Feature

"Caribbean," Paramount's swashbuckling tale of plunder and piracy on the fabled Spanish Main, will open Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. Starring John Payne, Arlene Dahl and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and featuring a gala supporting cast, the film deals with the harrowing exploits of a salty soldier-of-fortune on a forbidden island stronghold. A Pine-Thomas production in color by Technicolor, "Caribbean" was directed by Edward Dudwig. A color cartoon completes the all Technicolor program.

ANT WINS PRIZE

RICHFIELD SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—There was a prize for the smallest entry in the children's pet show, so Ralph (Skippy) Wilkinson displayed an ant. He won.

AT THE BELLE—Arlene Dahl, the 3-D girl. Delicious, delightful and delovely, co-stars with Fernando Lamas and Patricia Medina in Paramount's first three dimension Technicolor production, "Sangaree," continuing today and Thursday. The beautiful Miss Dahl portrays a belle of the old South in the rousing tale of adventure and romance set against Savannah Georgia.

SAVES HER SON

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—A gallant mother defied injury and death when she leaped into a 53-foot well to save her 19-month-old son who had fallen in it Tuesday. Mrs. Thelma Eshleman jumped down the well into four feet of water to rescue her son, Teddy. They were pulled out by firemen and policemen.

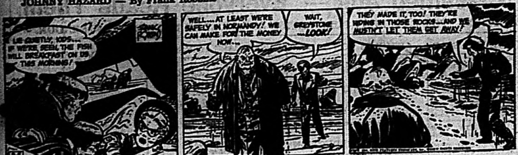
JOHNNY HAZARD — By Frank Robbins



LIE QUIETLY, KIDS... IF WE'RE SEEN, THE FISH WILL BREAKFAST ON US THIS MORNING!
WELL... AT LEAST WE'RE SAFELY IN NORMANDY! WE CAN MAKE FOR THE MONEY NOW...
WAIT, GREYSTONE ...LOOK!
THEY MADE IT, TOO! THEY'RE HIDING IN THOSE ROCKS...AND WE MUSTN'T LET THEM GET AWAY!

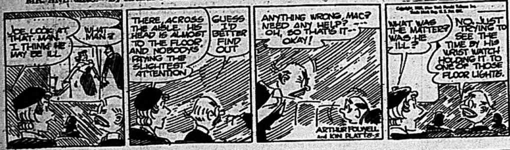
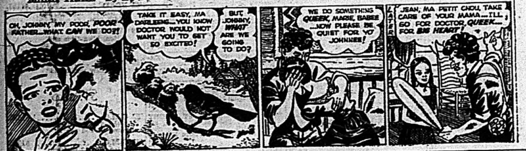
MR. AND MRS.—By Arthur Folwell - Kin Platt



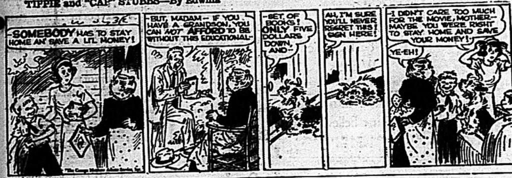
JOE, LOOK AT THAT MAN. I THINK HE MAY BE ILL
WHAT MAN?
THERE, ACROSS THE AISLE. HIS HEAD IS ALMOST TO THE FLOOR AND NOBODY'S PAYING THE SLIGHTEST ATTENTION
GUESS I'D BETTER FIND OUT
ANYTHING WRONG, MAC? NEED ANY HELP? --- OH, SO THAT'S IT-- OKAY!
WHAT WAS THE MATTER? WAS HE ILL?
NO. JUST TRYING TO SEE THE TIME BY HIS WRIST WATCH HOLDING IT TO ONE OF THOSE FLOOR LIGHTS.
ARTHUR FOLWELL and KIN PLATT 8-5

MARK TRAIL—By Ed Dodd



OH, JOHNNY, MY POOR, POOR FATHER...WHAT CAN WE DO?!
TAKE IT EASY, MA DARLEENG... YOU KNOW DOCTOR WOULD NOT WANT YOU TO GET SO EXCITED!
BUT, JOHNNY, WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO?
WE DO SOMETHING QUEEK, MARIE, BABEE ...NOW PLEASE BE QUIET FOR YO' JOHNNEE!
LATER
JEAN, MA PETIT CHOU, TAKE CARE OF YOUR MAMA... I'LL GO FOR DOCTOR, QUEEK... FOR BIG HEART!

TIPPIE and "CAP" STUBBS—By Edwina



SOMEBODY HAS TO STAY HOME AN' SAVE A LI'L MONEY!
BUT, MADAM— IF YOU HAVE A GRANDSON, YOU CAN NOT AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT THIS EDUCATIONAL—SET OF BOOKS! ONLY FIVE DOLLARS DOWN, AND—AH, I'M SURE YOU'LL NEVER REGRET THIS! SIGN HERE!
I DIDN'T CARE TOO MUCH FOR THE MOVIE, MOTHER— MAYBE YOU WERE RIGHT TO STAY HOME AND SAVE YOUR MONEY!
YE-EH!

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia is suffering the worst outbreak of typhoid fever since 1943, and imported dessicated coconut is the chief suspect. In the last month 42 confirmed cases and 10 suspected cases have been reported. One person has died.

HAS BEST OATS

St. THOMAS (CP)—Philip B. Denniss of nearby Sparta, the 1952 Elgin county corn husking champion, had the highest scoring field of oats in the 1953 high yield contests, sponsored by the Elgin Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

B-47 Jet Bomber Sets New Record In Long Flight

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. Air Force B-47 jet bomber flew here non-stop from England on Tuesday in nine hours 53 minutes.

Its average speed for the 4,450-mile flight — the longest known jet hop on record in distance between points of takeoff and landing—was 454 statute miles an hour.

The six-jet Boeing, world's fastest known bomber, hopped off filled its fuel tanks off the southern tip of Ireland, by refuelling from a Boeing KO-97 tanker airplane.

The 85-ton plane left an airbase near Fairford, England, 80 miles west of London, at 6 a.m. EDT. It put down at MacDill Air Force base here at 3.53 p.m. EDT.

American Financier, P. Farquhar, Is Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Percival Farquhar, 88, internationally-known financier, died Tuesday.

Farquhar, a native of York, Pa., was best known for his development of railroads in Latin American countries.

In 1904-1905 Farquhar and associates took over the Rio de Janeiro Tramways, Light and Power Company. They also purchased gas and telephone properties and did other development work in Brazil including exploitation of iron mines.

Second Liberal Is Acclaimed In Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—A third Quebec candidate has withdrawn from the general election, assuring acclamations for two Liberals.

The acclamations are the first in a federal general election since 1930 when there also were two. They leave 896 candidates in the race.

Newest withdrawal was that of Jacques Trempe, nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate for St. Hyacinthe-Bagot in the August 10 election. His retirement gave an acclamation to Joseph Fontaine, Liberal member of the last Commons, who was declared elected.

Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, announced Mr. Trempe's withdrawal here.

The other acclamation went to Lionel Bertrand in Terrebonne, also a Liberal member of the last House. His single opponent, Progressive Conservative Philippe Beauchamp, left the running last Wednesday.

The remaining withdrawal was that of G. Ovila Gagnon, independent Progressive Conservative in Argenteuil-Deux-Montagnes. He removed himself on Sunday.

Two contestants remain in this riding: Philippe Valois, former Liberal member, and L. W. Armstrong, Progressive Conservative.

Prince Charles Wanted to See Railway Engine

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles insisted on taking his mother, the Queen, the whole length of the platform to see a gleaming green railway engine before they left London Tuesday night for a two-month holiday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

The four-year-old prince, accompanied by the silk-hatted station manager, conducted his mother and sister, Princess Anne, 2, to the front of the train.

The driver and fireman of the royal train were presented to the young prince, who chatted with them enthusiastically.

New Ambassador To US Welcomed By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower welcomed Canada's new ambassador Monday by pledging "all needed assistance" in maintaining and strengthening close Canadian-American ties.

In accepting the credentials of Canada's new envoy, Arnold D. P. Heeney, the President noted relations between the United States and Canada have "historically been close and friendly."

Ambassador Heeney, 51-year-old former external affairs undersecretary, said Canadian-American membership in the North Atlantic pact "is a striking example of our co-operation in the cause of peace."

In his remarks at the White House, Heeney said "but even the closest of friendships can flourish only by continuing effort to keep them in sound repair."

This remark was believed by some observers to reflect Canada's growing concern at the increasing number of restrictions being applied to Canadian exports to the United States.

In his reply, President Eisenhower made no reference to Heeney's remark. He noted, however:

"Our bilateral problems have been settled on a basis of common understanding and mutual trust with full respect for each other's sovereign status."

Heeney succeeds Hume Wrong who has returned to Ottawa to become undersecretary of state.

BODIES RECOVERED

SARNIA (CP)—The body of seven-year-old Frank James, one of two Indian children drowned in the St. Clair river July 28 when a wooden punt upset, was found Sunday about a half mile north of Port Lambton on the Canadian side. Double funeral services were held Sunday on the Sarnia Indian reserve for the boy and Lorna Rogers, his 10-year-old playmate. Lorna's body was discovered Saturday by some fishermen near Algonac, Mich.

A Family Affair

Rifle shooting is a family affair for the Spencers of Ottawa, taking part in the 72nd annual meeting of the Ontario Rifle Association at Toronto's suburban Long Branch. T. M. Spencer is a member of Canada's Bisley team. His wife, Mrs. Spencer, (extreme right), daughter Pat, 19, (extreme left), and son C. D. Spencer, also are competing. Terry, 6, is kept busy cheering them. — (CP Photo.)

RCMP Constable Tells of Life In Narcotic Ring

VANCOUVER (CP)—A boyish-faced RCMP constable Tuesday told of his life as an undercover agent working to crack the narcotics traffic here.

For the first time, the RCMP gave permission for reporters to interview 23-year-old Gerald Howe, who posed as a drug addict to trap "pushers" in the cafes and taverns of Vancouver's skid road.

For two months constable Howe lived a precarious life in the underworld. Then, on April 15, a total of 31 persons were rounded up. In subsequent trials 21 were convicted, and there are eight cases pending. Two were acquitted and one case was appealed. Sentences ranged up to five years.

Constable Howe was posted from a detachment in the B.C. interior to work on the narcotics job, and started playing his part after only four days' briefing by veteran narcotics officers.

Shadowed by two plainclothes men, he made his first "contact" with a dope addict in a tavern, and through this addict met a girl who introduced him to a dope seller.

"His name was Mah Fon Shee," said Howe. "He directed the girl to a spot some distance away where he had his drug cache.

"The girl's introduction must must have meant a lot to Mah Fon Shee. I went up to him in a cafe the next day and said:

"'Have you got?'

"He said 'yeah' and I got my cap for $5."

Thus, 24 hours after he's met his first "pusher," and eight days after he'd been dropped into the underworld, the constable had the evidence for his first case.

Former Kitchener Man Being Held On Murder Count

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz says he has a confession which discloses a fatal beating four years ago and explains the disappearance of the suspected slayer.

Held today in the prison ward of General Hospital is Gordon Emerson Weber, 40, an accountant formerly of Pittsburgh and Kitchener, Ont. He is booked on suspicion of murder.

Biscailuz said Weber has admitted fatally beating his father-in-law, Rudolph Maier, 69 of Los Angeles, in a Milwaukee railway station in 1949. Weber was arrested here last Thursday when he came back to the Maier home, where his wife, Muriel Weber, has been staying.

Sgt. Norman Hamilton of the sheriff's office said Weber gave him this account:

In 1949 Maier was released from a sanatorium where he had been a mental patient for six years. Weber took him east, hoping to find a permanent home for him and thus to relieve the family of responsibility for Maier's care.

Become Belligerent

Maier wanted to visit his boyhood city, Milwaukee. As they neared the city he became abusive. Weber gave him a sedative but Maier was belligerent and they came to blows in a washroom of the Milwaukee station. Weber struck him. Maier fell, striking his head.

Weber got him to a doctor, but Maier died afterward, and Weber cremated the body on a dump at Hartland, a Milwaukee suburb. He covered the remains with stones and ashes, then disappeared. For a time he worked in Pittsburgh.

To Donate Butter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. agriculture department Tuesday made available 50,000,000 pounds of surplus butter to private welfare agencies assisting needy persons abroad.

The butter, acquired under a price support program, will be available only to private welfare organizations listed with the mutual security administration. It must be donated without cost to needy persons abroad with the identification that it is a donation from the United States.

Fire Destroys Business Block At Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Fire in a downtown business block Tuesday night destroyed a clothing store and damaged a furniture store next door. Loss was estimated at upwards of $100,000.

The blaze, which broke out shortly after 6 p.m. in the three-year-old brick and cement block building, raged through Bond's clothing store and through the neighboring premises occupied by the Adams furniture store.

The block is on Princess St., this eastern Ontario city's main thoroughfare, near Division St. in the downtown business section.

The furniture company occupied both its own store and the second floor of the Bond section. Its premises over the Bond store were destroyed, along with all the furniture stored there. Damage to the furniture company's main quarters was mainly from smoke and water, officials said.

Soon Controlled

A spokesman for the Adams firm estimated his company's loss at $100,000. No estimate of the Bond's loss was available but firemen said it would probably depend on how badly the block itself is damaged.

Firefighters battled the outbreak for an hour and a quarter. Firemen George Bridget and Ted Nicholson were overcome by smoke and fumes but were revived on the spot. Fireman Reg Saunders, struck on the head by a falling fragment of a built-up canopy, was taken to hospital.

Officials believe the fire started in the canopy at the front of the Bond store.

Angry Farmers Kill Red Soldiers On Chinese Isle

HONG KONG (AP)—The pro-Nationalist newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao said today angry farmers killed or wounded more than 100 Communist soldiers last week in an uprising over an order to plant rubber trees in rice fields on Hainan, Red China's largest island off Indo-China.

The newspaper, quoting underground sources, said the Reds arrested more than 50 farmers and executed some in quelling the uprising at Mencheong, 40 miles southeast of Hoihow.

South Koreans Released by Reds In Pitiful Shape

Britons, Turks Healthy; U.S. POW Tell of Torture

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists gave back 392 Allied war prisoners today. Two already are dead and others were gaunt and haggard, but many returned to freedom laughing and shouting.

Seventy Americans came out of Red prisons. Forty-two of them were sick or wounded.

The Communists said they would send back 400 more Allied captives Friday in the third day of the Korean armistice prisoner exchange. Eighty-one will be Americans, bringing the total for three days to 221.

Two Koreans Die

One South Korean died in a Communist ambulance en route to Panmunjom today. Another died shortly after.

Still other RoK soldiers were reported at the edge of death. They looked pitiful.

Some Americans appeared in good shape and the 25 Britons and 25 Turks all appeared healthy.

U.S. soldiers told of torture in North Korean stockades, of hunger and beatings and buddies who died.

Many of the diehard Red prisoners sent north broke in a frenzied demonstration as they left UN hands.

They howled, screamed, ripped their clothing and went back to communism nearly naked.

Two failed in an escape attempt. One Red smashed an American ambulance driver in the nose.

They threw boots, clothing and other gear at UN personnel. One U.S. officer was hit in the mouth with a boot and suffered a split lip.

U.N. Protests

The UN command protested sharply. A UN officer said later the Communists told him "they would take measures to see that incidents do not happen again."

The outbursts obviously were set up for waiting Red photographers and correspondents.

One American ambulance driver said they had orders not to make any moves against the rebellious Reds. He said they were told to grin and bear it.

Some of the South Koreans angrily tore off their clothing and shouted at Red personnel, but did not attack them. One South Korean spat at a nearby commnist officer.

A pain-racked South Korean summed up the RoK feelings as he muttered a curse at the Communists.

In general, the Americans appeared to be somewhere between the good health of the British and the ragged condition of the RoKs.

Probe Demanded

This aftermath of war already has raised galling questions:

Why had the Reds held back these sick and wounded men from the disabled exchange last April? (In Wshington, Senator Charles Potter (Rep.-Mich) demanded a Senate investigation.)

Why were some South Koreans brought south to nearby Kaesong for the disabled exchange, then sent back north? Some repatriated prisoners told of this.

Nudists Offering Prize for Pockets Without Clothes

CAJON PASS, Calif. (AP)—The most pressing problem of nudists meeting here is how to get along without pockets.

Mervin Mounce, of Spokane, Wash., president of the American Sunbathing Association, announced Wednesday a contest to determine the best solution. A prize will be awarded Sunday at the Association's 22nd. annual convention.

Boner by Moscow Is Seen in Note On Big Four Meet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials seem to think Moscow pulled a boner in its note about a Big Four meeting by indicating that conclusion of an Austrian treaty should await substantial agreement on Germany.

These officials are handling the note gingerly, because of considerable uncertainty about what the Soviets are up to. But on the whole, they appear to regard it as fairly weak and possibly mirroring Kremlin adjustment of political pressures such as the East Germany uprisings.

The Russian note—responding to the West's July 15 bid for a Big Four foreign ministers session on Germany unification and Austrian independence — was received late Tuesday in Washington, London and Paris.

Consult Allies

Representatives of the state department opened consultations with British and French diplomats here Wednesday. The state department has kept State Secretary Dulles informed while he is in Seoul conferring with South Korean President Syngman Rhee. It is not expected that a Western reply will be dispatched to Moscow until after Dulles returns here next week.

The expectation here was that the ministers' meeting on German unification would be held sometime this fall or winter.

In meetings Wednesday, some authorities were reported to have advanced the idea that the Reds are not actually very interested in talks on Germany — hence the note's confusing phrases and ideas which might require clarification before the Western powers can reply.

Blow At Austrian Hopes

In respect to an Austrian treaty, which has been under negotiation for six years and could be quickly concluded any time, the Russians said: "A possible successful solution of the German problem could also help a solution of the Austrian question."

This was regarded by American officials as an unnecessary declaration by which Russia struck a blow at Austria's hopes for ending the occupation and regaining full control of its affairs.

It seems certain that the United States would make propaganda capital of this as a boner—hammering a point that the Soviets are playing ruthless power politics with Austrian sovereignty and rights.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Fine, pleasantly cool weather prevail over a large part of Ontario today, except in regions near Lake Superior where showers are occurring. These showers are in advance of a low pressure area that was moving eastward toward Lake Superior on this morning's weather map. This low pressure area is not as energetic as the one that drenched Southern Ontario on Tuesday. However, some showers and thundershowers are expected to occur over the southern and central regions of the province Friday in the path of this disturbance.

OUST SALVATION ARMY

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—Guatemala has declared the Salvation Army cannot remain in the country and has refused Capt. G. Pingarron, head of the organization, permission to reside in Guatemala. Early last month the government refused the Savlation army permission to use the word "army" in its name or to refer to its officers by army titles.

Cpl. Pelletier Newly-Released POW Undergoes Operation on Leg Wound

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MUNSAN (CP)—Doctors decided today to keep Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., released from imprisonment by the Communists Wednesday, in hospital for a while.

Maj. Louis Lavalle of Quebec City, chief surgeon at the 25th Canadian field dressing station, opened a wound on Pelletier's leg, removed mortar fragments and cleaned it up.

When Pelletier came to, the first person he saw was an old buddy, Cpl. Beverly Lefevere, who used to drive a taxi with him in Chatham. Lefevere had been sent by the Royal Canadian Regiment to greet his old comrade.

Pelletier, only Canadian released so far in the prisoner exchange, dragged out his souvenirs, a khaki denim haversack the Chinese issued him and which held an enamel rice bowl and aluminum spoon he used in captivity.

Recounting his experiences for Lefevere, Pelletier said the Communists interrogated prisoners both militarily and politically. He said he told his political questioner: "I like my own way of life, thank you."

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR 14 MISSING IN PLANE CRASH

Pick Up 4 Survivors And Bodies of Five

LONDON (AP) — Ships today picked up the bodies of two more American airmen from the giant U. S. air force RB-36 bomber which crashed in flames in the Atlantic Wednesday.

Five bodies have been recovered thus far. Four men were rescued alive. Fourteen others of the 23-man crew are still missing and hope dimmed tonight that they could have survived.

Two bodies were picked up today, one by the Swedish freighter Monica Smith and the other by the British weather ship India.

Wind Increases

Wind increased in violence today over a 200-mile expanse of heaving sea, 300 to 500 miles west of Ireland as planes and ships searched the area. Rain reduced visibility to about three miles.

One faint radio message from the freighter Manchester Shipper raised the possibility that more men might have been found alive. The skipper reported he was bringing in survivors. Previous messages said the ship had only one survivor and two bodies.

Heavy fog delayed the takeoff of the first daylight search flight of 25 planes until 9 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT)

Both Drivers Charged With Manslaughter

TORONTO (CP)—Manslaughter charges were laid Wednesday against the drivers of a bus and truck which plunged into a St. Lawrence river canal near Morrisburg last Friday with a loss of 20 lives.

C. P. Hope of the Ontario attorney general's department said the charges were laid against Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston and Max Roodman of Toronto.

Chesebrough was the driver of a Colonial Coach Lines bus which hurtled into the canal 20 miles west of Cornwall with 37 aboard, and Roodman the owner of a parked half-ton truck which the bus struck and knocked into the water. Police said the truck was stalled on or near the highway before the accident.

Mr. Hope said no inquest into the accident will be held because it might prejudice the outcome of the manslaughter trials. Previously inspector Robert Wannell of the provincial police had announced an inquest would be held Friday.

Camp Building Burns

JACKSON'S POINT, Ont. (CP)—A $30,000 fire destroyed a workshop and threatened other buildings at a Roman Catholic boys' camp in this Lake Simcoe summer resort area today.

Some 200 boys at the camp of De La Salle College, Toronto, fought the blaze after being roused shortly after midnight. They saved five tents 20 feet away from the burning building.

Firemen from nearby Sutton stopped flames from spreading to other buildings. They gave no explanation for the blaze.

COMBAT ALLERGY

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The world's first "pollen factory" was opened recently at Vegaholm, with an annual production estimated at about five tons. The pollen will be turned into vaccines for treating allergic diseases.

Election Race Comes Down To Wire in Full Gallop

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The election campaign pounded down to the wire today. Political leaders drove harder and harder on the points they hope will convince electors to vote for their respective parties Monday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, crossed paths today. While Mr. Drew flew from Montreal for meetings at Orillia, Ont., and Toronto, Mr. St. Laurent headed for Lachute, Que., and Montreal from Ottawa. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell moved back into Saskatchewan, where he started his campaign six weeks ago, for an address at Lloydminster.

Wednesday, Mr. St. Laurent hit at the Progressive Conservative pledge of cuts in defence expenditures; Mr. Drew attacked the Liberal government for "centralization;" and Mr. Coldwell re-asserted the CCF promise of a national health insurance scheme.

Should Carry Full Load

Mr. St. Laurent told some 2,500 persons who packed a downtown Ottawa theatre that Canadians feel their country should carry its full share of the free world's military load against possible Communist aggression.

A $250,000,000 cut in defence spending, proposed by Mr. Drew, would mean that Canada wouldn't be able to do her full share. The government might have stockpiled too many lesser defence items, but such purchases would not amount to more than $1,000,000 at the most. That would mean the Progressive Conservatives would have to cut other defence expenditures by $249,000,000 to make good on their promised reduction. Mr. St. Laurent said he was sure Canadians did not want that done.

At another point, the prime minister suggested that if there were any danger of dictatorship in Canada, it didn't come from the Liberal government but from the leader of an opposing party.

He described that leader as the man who, he said, a few months ago had proposed suppression of broadcasting because he had not liked opinions expressed on one broadcast.

Critical of CBC

A few months ago in Parliament, Mr. Drew criticized the CBC for permitting a broadcast by Michael Barkway, a parliamentary reporter, dealing with the Currie report and a charge of horses on the payroll at Petawawa military camp.

At Ste. Germaine, Que., Mr. Drew got one of the largest audience of his campaign so far—some 3,000 persons—and received political endorsement from Joseph Begin, colonization minister in Premier Duplessis' Quebec Union Nationale government.

The Progressive Conservative leader reiterated his party's pledge to cut taxes by $500,000,000 a year and again denied Liberal suggestions that this would result in smaller family allowances and other social security payments.

Mr. Drew, who spoke in both French and English, said he had always sought to protect provincial rights to assure adequate taxing powers for the provinces and to safeguard their legislative powers. A Progressive Conservative government would revise the present federal-provincial tax agreements "in the letter and spirit" of Confederation so that no province would lose.

Free Time Broadcast

Later, at Quebec, in a free-time political broadcast over the CBC's French network, Mr. Drew said the Liberals have offered voters "a deluge of misrepresentation, contradiction and utter confusion" instead of a policy.

A continuation of what he termed the trend to centralization of power in the federal government "will mean the end of the autonomy of our provinces."

Mr. Coldwell made his final national broadcast before the election and spoke at Edmonton. He summed up the CCF platform: a national health insurance plan, low-cost subsidized housing on a large scale, increased social security benefits, monetary and tariff concessions to Britain to increase trade, long-range prices support programs and more aid for underdeveloped countries.

He described national health insurance as "perhaps the most important single domestic issue" of the campaign and said only the CCF position on it is clear.

"The Liberals have been promising health insurance for 34 years, but they are still trying to make excuses. The Tories are basically opposed to national health insurance, but they are afraid to say so in the face of insistent public demand."

In Saskatchewan, "with all the constitutional and financial limitations which restrict a provincial administration, the CCF has shown what can be done in the field of health if there is a willingness to tackle the job resolutely and forthrightly."

"How much more can be done on a national scale if we have a government at Ottawa which will live up to its promises as the CCF government did in Saskatchewan."

Supports Socreds

At Peace River, Alta., Premier Manning of Alberta, speaking in support of Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the possibility that Canada is about to change from a wartime to peacetime economy is apt to lead to economic difficulties.

Under existing methods of finance and trade, "there is every likelihood we will return to the boom and bust cycle." The only hope was to put Social Credit theory into practice. This would involve issuance of supplementary purchasing power by the government as production of consumer goods rose. This in turn would enable persons to purchase what they produced.

Defence Minister Claxton spoke from the same platform as Mr. St. Laurent. He contended that the Progressive Conservatives are basing their election appeal on "mistaken facts, misrepresentation and musquotation."

At Kitchener, Ont., E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said the other parties hadn't stolen social security planks from the CCF: "We had to take them one at a time and ram them down their throats."

Returning POW Tell of Death Marches, Burnings, Starvation

By ROBERT EUNSON

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP)—Americans and South Koreans freed by the Communists today told of beatings, burnings, death marches and starvation at the hands of their Red captors—horrors which they said killed countless fellow prisoners.

Lt.-Col. Thomas D. Harrison arrived on crutches with one leg missing. He said the Communists had starved him seven days, then repeatedly smothered him with a wet towel and revived him with jabs from a lighted cigaret in a fruitless attempt to get military informaion.

Harrison, from Clovis, N.Mex., is the second cousin of Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied truce negotiator.

Thursday's accounts, if not so sweepingly lurid as ordeals described by sick and wounded PoWs freed last April in Operation Little Switch, were all the more intense and personal. A new army censorship rule allows a liberated prisoner to tell only of atrocities he saw.

The accounts were grimly accented by the sight of pitiful, broken men who made up part of today's 392 returnees. Some could hardly walk. Others were terribly emaciated. One, a South Korean, was delivered dead.

Another South Korean died of tuberculosis aboard a southbound helicopter from Panmunjom.

Some In Good Condition

In contrast were cheerful British and Commonwealth prisoners.

Skeleton Found Identified as Eastview Man

QUEBEC (CP)—Provincial police said Wednesday remains of a human skeleton, found Monday in the Laurentian Park, have been tentatively identified as those of Ernest Frank Henley of Eastview, Ont., who disappeared in the Quebec bush July 30, 1925.

The remains, a rusted gun, a ring, a watch and a pair of shoes were found near Lac a l'Epaule, in the Laurentian Park, about 40 miles northeast of Quebec, by Antonio Rheaume, a timber limits appraiser.

Police announced their identification after a day-long search Tuesday in dusty files at provincial headquarters.

The records showed that Henley, then 30, obtained a permit to fish in the park. He was not heard from after entering the park and the Eastview police chief got in touch with provincial police. A search at the time led to discovery of Henley's canoe and kit bag but no other trace of the man was found.

The remains are being shipped to Montreal for laboratory tests by a medico-legal expert to determine the age of the bones.

DULLES AND RHEE SEEN IN ACCORD ON SECURITY PACT

Mutual Defence Pact Details Being Mapped

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP)—United States State Secretary Dulles and President Syngman Rhee, apparently in accord on a U.S.-Korean mutual security pact, today mapped plans for the reconstruction of war-torn South Korea.

Dulles and top aides met for almost two hours with the South Korean president while subordinate officers worked on final details of a mutual defence pact.

Authoritative sources said the treaty—subject to ratification by the U.S. Senate—could be ready for initialing before Dulles leaves Saturday for Washington.

Talks "Going Fine"

Dulles told reporters after today's session the talks were going "fine."

Later in the day, Dulles and the 78-year-old Rhee toured Seoul alone for a look at the city and what the U.S. diplomat called an informal chat.

Dulles said today's meeting, the second since he arrived Tuesday, was devoted largely to plans for spending $200,000,000 already voted by the U.S. Congress to start the rehabilitation of South Korea.

The money is the first of an expected $900,000,000 allocation to be spread over a three or four-year period.

Unification Talks Coming

Dulles said the potentially explosive question of Korean unification had not yet been discussed, but probably would come up at Friday's session.

He said he may see Rhee again Saturday before leaving for Tokyo. Dulles said he plans to spend a day in Tokyo and take off for Washington Monday.

Lower level U.S. and South Korean officials, meeting for the second straight day, were reported to be ironing out the differences between the U.S. and South Korean drafts of the defence pact.

They reported "considerable progress."

Missing Man Found Alive

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Alex McCoubrey, 32, of Winnipeg, was found alive in the mountains of the Athabaska pass area early today. He had been missing since July 28.

McCoubrey, an experienced mountaineer attending the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada, disappeared during an assault on Browne peak, 35 miles south of here.

First reports gave no indication as to his condition, or where he was found.

RedBlockade of Rail Travel Cracking Under Pressure of Hungry Millions

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN (AP)—The Communist blockade on rail travel to West Berlin's free food stations was cracking today under the pressure of East Germany's hungry millions.

The giveaway centres reported thousands of Soviet-zoners were joining the throngs of East Berliners lining up today.

Many of the new arrivals reported they had been able to buy railroad tickets to Berlin for the first time since Saturday, when the East government clamped on its travel ban.

East Germany's government made no announcement it was lifting its ban, and in many places tickets still were not on sale. Relief officials, however, reported that people were showing up from farther reaches of the Soviet zone. They said railway employees had sold them tickets at various stations.

Railroad workers in Brandenburg province—which rings Berlin—slipped through 40,000 of their hungry countrymen.

Others got around the travel ban by bicycling, hitch-hiking, or coming by bus to stations near Berlin and then on foot into the city. Railroad men also smuggled through many food parcels for their families and friends.

The influx from East Germany and a big flood of reliefers from Soviet East Berlin sent the food stations off with a rush into their 11th day of distribution and heading for the 2,000,000-parcel mark.

Western Allied sources said they had received a trustworthy report that Russian tanks had been called out to cow a new strike threat in the huge Leunak synthetic fuel refinery at Merseburg, in Saxony-Annalt.

This report said that 20 tanks rolled out to surround the plant Wednesday. It said the tanks did not go into action but apparently were a warning to workers who engaged in the big June 17 rebellion and again have been threatening revolt against the travel embargo.

As further evidence that Communist police control was breaking down, a record number of 51 men deserted from the eastern "People's Police" army and gendarmerie Wednesday.

The flight brought the total number of recorded desertions to Berlin alone this year to more than 2,500.

Many said they were revolting against orders to enforce the hunger blockade and persecute East German hungry who had come to Berlin to fetch the American parcels.

Perhaps due to this police sabotage, East zone reports said that confiscation of food gifts appeared to be easing. But the violent press and radio propaganda campaign against the "Ami (American) Beggar parcels" continued unabated.

Reds May Hold 3,000 Unreported American POW

Gen. Mark Clark Believes Additional Captives Held

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark said today the Reds in North Korea may hold between 2,000 and 3,000 more American prisoners than the 3,313 they have said they will exchange.

The Far East commander also told a Pentagon news conference he applied today for retirement from the army, effective Oct. 31.

He said he had made no plans as to what he will do when he doffs his uniform after 40 years army service.

Clark had this to say about the Korean prisoners:

1. The United Nations command has evidence indicating the Communists hold many more prisoners who should be returned.

2. "Thousands upon thousands" of South Koreans still are unaccounted for and there "may be between 2,000 and 3,000" additional Americans in enemy prison camps.

Clark, who will return to his Tokyo headquarters in a few days, said the 3rd marine division, now under way to the Far East, will be stationed in Japan.

In reply to questions he said there are no plans now "for anybody to come back from Korea."

He explained he meant there is no current intention to move any large combat unit from Korea.

To Probe Reds In Labor Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans for a sweeping investigation of Communist influences in labor unions were laid down today by Senator John Marshall Butler (Rep.-Md), head of a special task force of the Senate judiciary committee.

"Our unions must be free of the slightest taint of communism," Butler said in an interview.

"We can't have this country if we can't keep Communists out of unions, especially out of positions of authority."

Vice Charge Is Laid Against Chicago Boxer

CHICAGO (AP) — Police today seized boxer Bob Satterfield and charged him with operating a house of prostitution.

The 29-year-old heavyweight was seized at his south side home by detectives from the commissioner's office. Two women were also seized and charged with soliciting.

Satterfield, once a contender for the light heavyweight championship, has the reputation in fight circles of being an in-and-outer.

No Motorcycling Until He Is 98 Is Court Ruling

DEVIZES, Eng. (AP) — George Dobson was barred by a court Wednesday from riding his motorcycle again until he is 98 years old.

This was not as bad as it sounds, however, because George is already 95.

He was convicted of riding "without due care and attention" for cutting across a road in front of a car. The arresting officer said a jug of whisky fell out of Dobson's pocket en route to the police station.

The judge's sentence was three years' probation during which Dobson must stay off his motorbike.

Legion Rejects Motion to Ban Some Literature

SUDBURY (CP)—Suppression of the sale of salacious literature met some opposition Wednesday as the Ontario command of the Canadian Legion continued its 18th biennial convention here.

The Peterborough delegation submitted a resolution which would "prohibit the sale of salacious literature which might reach the hands of children and adolescents."

Convention chairman G. Countryman rejected the motion on the grounds that the legion is a broad-minded organization and "what is obscene literature to one is, to his neighbor, great literature which artistically shows the facts of life."

Motion Forwarded

He said the legion, in backing the Peterborough motion, might be supporting what could easily become "objectional censorship."

However, the convention voted to forward the resolution to Dominion headquarters for further study.

The delegates also condemned the recent trend toward elimination of the words "royal" and "dominion" in governmental language and forms. They urged both be restored and retained.

The Van Someren shield as the outstanding branch in Ontario was awarded Sudbury's branch 76.

Presented for the first time this year, the award was established in memory of the former provincial command honorary treasurer, the late Col. Albert van Someren. It is competed for by all Ontario branches.

G. H. Tolley of Sault Ste. Marie was elected president of the Ontario command. He succeeds T. A. M. Hulse of Aurora.

MEMORIAL TO DEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Sculptor Donald le Due Wednesday displayed the 22-foot full-scale model of a war memorial to honor United States dead at the Normandy site of D-Day landings June 8, 1944. The statue depicts a nude man with arms upraised and head tilted back.

REPORT OF MEETING GIVEN KIWANIANS

Members of the Kiwanis Club met in the centre on Tuesday for the regular noon luncheon. There was no special speaker and a minimum of business. Stu Robb commented upon the inter-club meeting held in Port Hope on Thursday. Bill Slade, a local club member, was guest speaker at which nine members from Belleville attended the evening meeting in Port Hope.

TATHAM CO. LTD. BUILDING GRANDSTAND

The new grandstand at the Exhibition Park is being constructed by the Tatham Co. Ltd. of Belleville, and not as erroneously stated in Wednesday's edition by the St. Lawrence Contracting Co. The grandstand is expected to be sufficiently near completion to permit it being used during the Belleville Fair, which opens August 17.

LAD RUNS SMALL WAGON INTO CAR

Lacerations to the left knee requiring three stitches to close were suffered yesterday by Patrick R. Whalen, aged 6, of 67 Gordon Street, when he drove his wagon into the rear of a car which turned onto the street on which he was riding down hill.

The police report indicated that Charles I. Wood, 39 Dunbar St., eastbound on Earl Street, had turned south on Gordon, when the small wagon, being ridden downhill by the Whalen lad, ran into the rear bumper.

Prank Laid To Friend

Just how corn stalks and hills of beans which had been growing in the back yard come to show up in the front lawn at 52 Charlotte Street, is a question being pondered by city police whose attention has been drawn to the matter.

A neighbor of the Ray Post family which is now away on holidays, called the police station and said that corn stalks and hills of beans had been taken from the back garden and planted in the Post lawn.

Although the matter had not yet been investigated by police, officers put the matter down to a prank apparently pulled by some "friend" of the family.

Northern Electric Recreation Field Open Wednesday

The new recreation field of the Northern Electric Company was officially opened Wednesday by A. B. Hunt, formerly of Belleville, and now the general manager of communications' equipment in Montreal.

Chairman for the evening, Frank Grandame, introduced Bob Little, president of the Northern Electric Club of Belleville, and Harold Bradley, executive vice-president of the Northern Electric Club of Montreal. E. S. Booth, manager of the Belleville plant, introduced Colonel R. D. Harkness, president of the Northern Electric Company.

In the opening ceremonies, Messrs. Hunt, Booth and John Todds formed the battery.

In a scheduled Shop League softball game Machine Shop defeated Inspection 2-1 in eight innings.

With the field in the planning stage for two years, a softball diamond and soccer pitch have been finished and it is hoped in the future to have a tennis court, horseshoe pitch, and archery, croquet and clubhouse facilities.

Only One Bathing Area Condemned

Of the six swimming places within city limits, only one has been given an unsatisfactory report by the Board of Health since testing began in June. According to Robert Westlake, sanitary inspector, samples of the water from the Moira River on East Moira St.; on the north and south sides of Zwick's Island; Government Dock; the old beach in front of the Ontario Cheese Producers' building, and at the outlet of the Moira River at Victoria Park, are taken each week.

The only spot which is not fit for swimming, according to Mr. Westlake, is on the south side of Zwick's Island. Signs have been posted at this position for the past three weeks when the water was discovered to be contaminated.

Water samples of the six places are taken early in the week and the testing is done at the hospital.

GEORGE FRANKLIN ACKER
(Murray Township)

George Franklin Acker died on Thursday morning, August 6, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clinton Chapman, 9th concession of Murray Township, near Frankford. The late Mr. Acker, who was in his 89th year, had been ill for the past six months.

Deceased was born at Glen Miller, Ont., a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Acker, and had spent all his life in Murray and Sidney townships, farming until his retirement.

His wife, the former Helen Peal, predeceased him some years ago. Surviving to mourn his passing are one daughter, Emma, Mrs. Clinton Chapman, of Murray Township, with whom he had made his home; and one sister, Mrs. Edith Munn, of Trenton. There are 14 grandchildren and 34 great grandchildren.

In religion the late Mr. Acker was an Anglican.

Announcements of funeral arrangements are made elsewhere in this edition.

CHARLES P. BEDBOROUGH
(Picton)

PICTON — A leading sports figure for many years, and a veteran of World War I, Charles P. Bedborough passed away suddenly at his home Tuesday night. Death was due to a heart attack. His passing came as a great shock to relatives and friends.

The funeral service is being held at the funeral home of G. M. Hicks and Son, Friday afternoon with interment in Glenwood cemetery.

Mr. Bedborough was a veteran employee of Canadian Canners Ltd. and last June was presented with a watch in recognition of 25 years' service with the company.

In earlier years, Mr. Bedborough was a noted hockey player. A member of Picton's "Little Men of Metal", he was an outstanding defenceman, and in earlier years assisted in bringing several hockey titles to this town. In more recent years, he had refereed local hockey games.

He was also a baseball and fishing enthusiast. During the First World War he served overseas as a gunner. Born in Picton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bedborough, all' his life was spent here.

Surviving is his wife, the former Rossie Koch.

LATE DR. SAMUEL EAGLESON
(Madoc)

The funeral of Dr. Samuel Eagleson, of Madoc, was held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence to Trinity United Church and thence to Lakeview cemetery, Madoc, where interment took place.

The late Dr. Eagleson, one of the district's best known and most highly esteemed residents, died on Sunday in the Belleville General Hospital, in his 83rd. year.

Rev. W. M. Heslip, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at Madoc, of which the late Dr. Eagleson had been a member, had charge of the service at the church. The service at the graveside was conducted by George West, Past District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order. The late Dr. Eagleson had been a member and past master of Madoc Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 48.

The pall bearers were: Donald Armstrong, Kenneth West, John Kincaid, Lyn McCoy, Chas. Johnston and Kenneth Connor.

MRS. MARJORIE BATTLE

TRENTON — The funeral was held yesterday at 2.30 p.m. from McNair's Funeral Home for Mrs. Marjorie Battle, 43, who died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital following an illness of six weeks' duration. Padre Madill of the R.C.A.F. conducted the service and burial was made in St. St. George's Cemetery.

Mrs. Battle was the wife of George Battle, a local businessman. She was born in Lansdowne, Ontario, the daughter of Christopher and Effie Williams. She had resided in Trenton 18 months.

Surviving are her parents, two brothers, Elmer of Campbellford and Harold of Kingston; one sister, Mrs. Glen (Vera) Flood of Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Also surviving are four step-children: Mrs. Ben (Lillian) Trudell, Mrs. Bill (Florence) Milligan, Albert Battle and Edward Battle.

Educated in Athens, Ontario, Mrs. Battle attended the Anglican Church and was a member of the Daughters of the Rebekahs.

Pallbearers were: J. J. Jones, T. Forbes, F. Spiker, F. Hubbs and J. Hadley.

Advance Polls Open in Trenton And Belleville

Advance polls for the convenience of railroaders, transport drivers, commercial travellers and other voters whose regular trips out of town would make it inconvenient for them to cast their votes on August 10th, were open in Belleville and in Trenton today according to Felix Rashotte, returning officer for Hastings South.

The advance poll in Belleville will be at the returning officer's headquarters at 113 Victoria Avenue, and in Trenton the poll will be at 142 Division Street. Hours during which the advance polls will be open are from three o'clock p.m. to 11 p.m., both times Daylight Saving Time. The advance polls will be open today, Friday and Saturday.

Approximately 100 persons took advantage of the advance poll in Belleville at the last federal election, while in Trenton the number voting at the advance poll was about 60 voters.

TRENTON

Yacht Club Offered Site For Clubhouse

TRENTON (Special) — There is every reason to believe that the Trenton Yacht Club will be drawing up plans to erect a clubhouse in the near future.

The parks board has offered the club a site on the waterfront at Bayshore Park and Mayor R. E. Whitley has announced that he will see that construction starts as soon as suitable property has been secured. Mayor Whitley is commodore of the Trenton Yacht Club.

A site near the Government Dock would be advantageous because of the proximity to the new man-made-harbor nearing completion south of the cold storage property.

There is much activity in boating in and around Trenton and a clubhouse for the Yacht Club has been a necessity for some time.

Herbert W. Larry Dies Suddenly

TRENTON.—Herbert W. Larry, a well-known Trenton businessman died suddenly here yesterday. He was found slumped in his seat by an usherette at a local theatre. He had been in the habit of attending the show weekly and yesterday went to see "One Minute Before Zero" a picture based on the sinking of the pleasure liner Titanic.

Mr. Larry had been a railroader and opened a grocery store on the east side of the river after retiring some years ago. His son, O. W. Larry, is clerk-treasurer, of the town.

Mourning his loss are his widow, Lois M. Larry and his only son.

The funeral will be held at 3:00 p.m., Friday afternoon at the family residence, 80 Byron St. The Rev. R. C. MacLean will conduct the service. Interment will be in White's Cemetery.

FISH WITH BANK ROLL

COLEMAN, Alta. (CP) — Steve Bacovski of East Coleman caught a fish Wednesday that was worth about 30 cents an inch. Fishing in Elk Valley, B.C., he pulled in a 16-inch bull trout. When he cut open the trout, he found inside three $1 bills and one $2 bill with an elastic band wrapped around them.

Cliff Baragar Tire Shop to Display Many New Features at Open House

Everything in tires from the smallest type that fits a wheelbarrow to six-foot monsters that are standard equipment on giant earthmovers, plus repairs and recapping of all kinds, is the service offered by Cliff Baragar local Goodyear dealer, who Friday and Saturday is holding "open house" for his new plant addition and showroom at 118 Front Street.

Approximately 2,100 feet of floor space has been added to take care of business expansion, while the sparkling showroom is something new and will be devoted to the display of new tires and other Goodyear products.

"Open house" will see scores of prizes given away to lucky customers who visit the Cliff Baragar business location.

Key to "Treasure Chest"

On entering the new showroom visitors will be handed a key for the "open house" treasure chest; they will be taken on a complete tour of the plant and shown the lastest in vulcanizing and retreading equipment and will be given first hand demonstration of the work that adds new life and miles to old tires.

Vulcanizing and recapping of tires are major departments of the Cliff Baragar business.

On completion of the plant tour visitors will be greeted by a lovely costumed pirate girl standing guard over the treasure chest. From the treasure chest visitors will draw tickets for the many prizes offered. Mayor A. M. Haig will officially open the new showroom and will receive the first key for the treasure chest.

The name Cliff Baragar has been associated with the tire business in Belleville since 1933. In 1937 "Cliff" went into business for himself and has operated from his present location since 1943. The firm has a branch store at Oshawa.

New Lines Added

With an additional 2,000 feet of floor space added Mr. Baragar has now taken on new lines. The new lines include Sunshine bicycles, tricycles and porta-cart baby stollers. Also a complete line of rubber products such as Goodyear batteries, garden hose, aerfoam rug cushions to give that living room rug new life, aerfoam cushions and pillows, automotive fan belts and electric motor belts. Goodyear tires and tubes for every requirement and occasion are also handled.

In Baragar's tire repair department equipment to handle the largest tires has been installed. Hydraulic equipment operated merely by the turn of a valve opens up the largest tires for inspection. A special vulcanizing and retreading kettle weighing five tons cures the largest or smallest tires.

The new showroom at Baragar's provides a modern setting for the display of tires and other Goodyear products. The entire front of the building has been faced with glass, while inside tiled floors, plywood walls and special spotlighting is featured.

Former Canadian To be Questioned Regarding Death

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A former Canadian accountant who says he killed his father-in-law in Milwaukee four years ago faced questioning Wednesday on details of the purported crime.

Sheriff's Capt. Ken England said that a list of questions was received from Milwaukee county authorities seeking to establish whether jurisdiction lay in Milwaukee or Waukesha county.

The accountant, Gordon Emerson Weber, 40, formerly of Kitchener and Hamilton, Ont., and Pittsburgh Pa., told officers here that he killed Rudolph Maier, 69, in Milwaukee and cremated the body on a dump in Hartland, a Milwaukee suburb.

Last month, Weber said, he returned to the dump, exhumed his father-in-law's remains and buried them in woods in Waukesha county. He was arrested when he came back to Los Angeles, where his wife resides.

Capt. England said that Weber maintains that the killing was not deliberate, but occurred when Maier, a former mental patient, attacked him and they scuffled in a washroom of a Milwaukee Railroad station.

Weber is held on suspicion of murder.

Kingston Bowlers In Tourney Finals

KINGSTON (CP)—Two Kingston, one Ottawa and one Agincourt entry advanced Wednesday to the finals of the Ontario provincial lawn bowling tournament here.

The four entries, rinks, senior doubles, singles and junior doubles qualified after a day's play at the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club in the Eastern Ontario zone playdowns for districts 13, 14, 15 and 16.

Kingston bowlers qualified in the doubles, both senior and junior; Ottawa won the rinks, and George Hillson of Agincourt was the singles winner.

The three Duncans and Dick Edney carried Kingston's colors into the provincial finals, fourth time in a row for the senior doubles, and the first for the junior. Bill Duncan, Sr., and Edney teamed up in the senior; Bill's two sons, Bill, Jr., and Doug, sailed through the junior.

A team skipped by M. A. Atkinson of Ottawa won the rinks division over rinks from Oshawa and Campbellford. All four entries will play in Hamilton Aug. 22 in the provincial finals.

LONDON (CP)—Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, Canadian army, arrived by air from Canada today to attend next week's Imperial General Staff exercise at Camberley Staff College.

Gen. Simonds was greeted on arrival by senior staff officers of the Canadian joint mission in London. The exercise will be chiefly concerned with the use of atom weapons.

FIND LIQUOR CACHE

STRATFORD (CP) — A police search that turned up 848 bottles of beer and 23 bottles of liquor resulted Wednesday in the conviction of Roy Jones, operator of a taxi business in nearby St. Marys. Magistrate A. F. Cook fined Jones $100 and costs for keeping liquor for sale. Two other charges involving liquor against Jones were withdrawn at the request of the Crown.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade was dull with few good cattle at steady prices and other grades lower at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 40; calves 30; hogs 160; sheep and lambs 40; holdover from Wednesday 1,500 cattle.

Common to medium steers and heifers 10-17; a few good weighty steers 19-20.25; good heifers 18m50-19; good bulls 13-14; plain downward to 10; good quality fed yearlings 20-21.50.

Calves were steady at 21-23 for choice light vealers; medium heavies 15-18.

Hogs were steady at 34 for grade A; dressed sows 22.

Lambs were steady at 26 for good ewes and wethers; bucks 25; culls 18-20.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned firmer in light forenoon stock market trading today.

Industrials attracted mild support in a fairly broad list of issues. Base metals stepped forward while western oils showed better tendencies for the first time in three days. Golds had a majority of gains in very quiet trading.

In industrials, firmness appeared in the papers, utilities, steels and miscellaneous industrials.

Base metals drew the strongest support in the higher-priced group. Lower-priced stocks mixed.

Activity in the golds slowed to a stand-still as Madsen and MacLeod gained slightly but Preston East Dome faded.

Western oils attracted selected buying in a narrow list of issues.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading at the egg market today. Large and grade B prices were firm but weak on mediums and small. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 67; A medium 60; A small 50-51; grade B 48; grade C 40. Wholesale to retail: A large 72; A medium 65; A small 55-56; grade B 53; grade C 45.

Butter solids: First grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57-57¼; Western 58.

TWO MINOR FIRES

A chimney blaze and a rubbish fire brought city firemen out on two occasions yesterday afternoon, both blazes being extinguished before any damage resulted.

The first call was to Great St. James Street where firemen put out a chimney blaze while the second call was to the rear of the Cherry Press on Front Street where a pile of rubbish was reported ablaze.

WOULD ANNEX TOWN

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Board of control recommended Wednesday that city council proceed at once with its application to annex the down-river own of Ojibway and a small strip of Sandwich West township lying between Windsor and Ojibway. The city's application will be sent to the Ontario municipal board.

PLANE CRASH-LANDS

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Four Americans, part of a convoy of light planes from Oregon and Washington, escaped injury Wednesday when pilot Willard E. Kendall crash landed his plane in a soy-bean field 10 miles west of here. Others in the plane were Mr. Kendall's wife, Florence, his daughter, Barbara and his brother, Ivan, all of Seattle, Wash.

Stolen Toronto Cars Are Taken To New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A 29-year-old New orker was arrested Wednesday night as a member of a ring that brought stolen cars to the New ork area from Toronto.

Police said the suspect, Emanuel Lieberman, of the Bronx, had been sought since last June 20, when he allegedly sold two Cadillacs, stolen in Toronto, to a dealer in nearby Nassau county.

Lieut. Maurice van Dyke, who led a group of Nassau detectives at the arrest, said the ring possibly was part of Toronto's notorious Boyd gang. Leonard Jackson, one of the gang, recently was hanged for the murder of a Toronto detective.

Capt. Thomas Curley said the international ring embezzled new, American-made cars in Toronto and disposed of them at cut prices. He said forged bills of sale were used to get New ork registrations.

Authorities said they knew of 50 such illegal transactions, involvinf autos worth around $150,000.

Authorities said the auto ring used the names of reputable Canadians of good credit rating to obtain autos with small down payments.

The autos would then vanish, to turn up on dealer lots in the New York Metropolitan area under phony registrations.

One of Happier Scenes in Korea

A cheer, loud and lusty, is given by Pte. George Barcelo, left, of Vancouver, Chung Yong Jip, Korean soldier attached to the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and Pte. Harvey Plante of Edson, Alta., upon receipt of the "cease-fire" order in Korea. This order came at a time when normally members of the Canadian brigade infantry were preparing for night patrols into "no-man's land." The men had been occupying positions on top of the famed "Little Gibraltar" hill, where one of the heaviest actions of the Korean war took place last October. — Central Press Canadian.

REFORESTATION BEGINS

DACCA, Pakistan (CP)—Agriculture Minister Mafizuddin Ahmad recently planted the first seedling in what it is hoped will become a vast reforestation project. Every citizen was urged to plant at least one sapling.

NEW POWER PLANT

KROKSTRUMMEN, Sweden (CP)—A new 50,000-kilowatt power station has been opened near this town on the Ljusnan river in northern Sweden. Costing $8,000,000, it will supply power to three provinces.

Returning Officers Urged to Assist CP, News Media

OTTAWA (CP) — Returning officers and their deputies are urged to do all they can to aid The Canadian Press and other news media in promptly collecting accurate returns in the Aug. 10 election, Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said today.

Special instructions aimed at bringing the Canadian people the fastest possible news of the election results were outlined by Mr. Castonguay.

In each polling station established in the locality of the returning officer's office, the deputy returning officer has been instructed to deliver his ballot box and an accompanying envelope containing a preliminary statement of the poll to the returning officer as soon as possible after closing of the poll.

Telephone Results

Every deputy returning officer for outlying polling stations has been instructed to telephone or telegraph the appropriate officer of the result from his poll as soon as the count is completed.

Mr. Castonguay said:

"The returning officer for each electoral district has been specially directed to prepare on election night a compilation of the votes cast in each polling station of his electoral district as the ballot boxes are received from local polling stations and as the results are telephoned or telegraphed to him from outlying polling divisions.

"This procedure will be uniform in all constituencies.

"The returning officers also have been directed to furnish the public and the representatives of The Canadian Press and other news media with progressive bulletins giving the state of the poll at various intervals during the evening of polling day.

Prompt Returns

"In order that the public throughout Canada may be informed of these progressive bulletins it is of the utmost importance that the returning officers and deputy returning officers take care to see that their instructions on the subject are carefully carried out.

"Returning officers have been requested to advise candidates or their representatives with progressive bulletins, upon request, as soon as these are available."

MOUNTIE GETS HIS MAN

The story of the exploits of 23-year-old Gerald M. Howe, of the Mounties, makes heart-warming reading.

It is not merely the fact that we have concrete evidence of the truth of an adage long accepted in Canada, although it is satisfying to know that the Mounties do, indeed, always get their man.

In Howe's case he got 21 men, 21 dope pushers or narcotic peddlers. His 57-day disguise in the Vancouver underworld yielded excellent results.

Had Howe been engaged in any other investigation but that dealing with the narcotic trade, his methods would have aroused mixed feelings. There are many who would maintain that the police should be permitted to use any effective methods in their war on crime. But this attitude does not sit well with a belief in British justice and British courts have always frowned on the work of the "agent provocateur." When evidence is gained in this manner, there always lingers the suspicion that the accused might not have committed a crime had he not been persuaded to do so by the police agent.

The narcotic traffic is, however, different. In the first place, it is almost impossible to gain sufficient evidence to obtain convictions unless some police officer fills the role played by Howe. That, in itself, is not sufficient justification for the use of such methods. But there are other factors to be considered. A man who has been a thief but who has decided to "go straight" may be persuaded to rob again. But is there not strong reason to believe that any man who can be persuaded to sell dope must have already had the intention of making such a sale? Otherwise, why would he be in the possession of the narcotics which he sells? It is just possible that he may have had them for his own use, but that is unlikely, for dope is difficult to acquire and the addict is not likely to sell what he may a few hours later desperately need to ease his own pangs.

Yet one's satisfaction at the fact that 21 dope pushers were sent to jail as the result of Howe's exploits is dulled by the knowledge that most of these narcotic salesmen were probably "small fry," that the real criminals, the men who stand to profit most from the exploitation of the helpless addicts, are still enjoying freedom, still reaping in profits.

Perhaps, after all, life is not like the picture painted in story-books and the Mounties, while they get their men, do not always get all their men.

"DE-NATIONALIZATION" UNDERWAY

Restoration of the British iron and steel industry to private ownership has started.

When the British Labor Party was in power it passed a law nationalizing the great bulk of the industry. Sir Winston Churchill's Conservative regme repealed that law earlier this year. But it is easier to repeal a law than to eradicate its effects. For the state to expropriate an industry is comparatively simple. To restore that industry to private ownership is a much more complex operation. There were inevitably those who believed such a task could not be accomplished.

Not all of these doubters were in the ranks of the Socialists; indeed, many of the direst warnings voiced in an effort to prevent the Labor Party achieving power were to the effect that the socialistic measures which that party put upon the statute books could never be erased. Events have proven this view to be misleading.

Perhaps, however, it would be well to warn against the possibility of taking nationalization proposals too lightly, as akin to other policies of political groups which can be easily changed after every election, as occasion may demand.

In the first place one may legitimately wonder whether the transition from private ownership to state ownership, and now from state ownership back to private ownership, could have been so peaceably achieved in any other nation except Britain, with its long tradition of rule by law.

In the second place, what Britain can do once she cannot necessarily do over and over again. If nationalization and de-nationalization of the steel industry, or of any other industry, should occur at irregular intervals over a lengthy period of years, whenever socialistic and capitalistic political parties win elections, the industry will inevitably be weakened, even if nothing worse happens to it.

The Iron and Steel Holding and Realization Agency was created by the Government to dispose of the industry to private owners. It has now completed its first private deal. Terms are significant. British Ropes Ltd. and William Cooke and Co. Ltd. each held one-third of the shares of Templeborough Rolling Mills Ltd. before nationalization. They sold these shares to the government for seven shillings each. They bought them back at seven shillings and sixpence. Many will find those figures surprising, for all too often whenever anything is being sold to the government its value somehow jumps sharply, and when the government has anything to sell its value declines.

But this deal was only a minor one, involving just $14,200. The real test will come this fall, when the shares of the seven main companies in the nationalized industry are offered for sale.

BENCHED BALL PLAYER

Baseball one time I used to play,
Although the children doubt it,
Since at the radio I stay
Or sit and read about it.

I tell the youngsters, once I played
Third base as well as any,
And in my time the hits I made
Were timely, long and many.

Then came the day I took a fall
And knew from pain that wrenched me
That time, who manages us all,
Forevermore had benched me.

No hits, no runs, four errors made
My last baseball endeavor.
And just two innings I had played,
Then taken out forever.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Man having been born to trouble, as the sparks fly upward, has discovered why the sparks fly upward, and now feels he ought to discover some way of getting rid of trouble. The dream of reformers, from the most ancient times, has been to reduce the troubles of mankind. They have gone on the basic assumption that the more men understand, the fewer would be the troubles. Well, Elipahz the Temanite, who made that remark about troubles and sparks, was not puzzled by the sparks flying upward. He probably understood about hot air rising as well as do the modern physicists. All he was pointing out is that by a law as natural as heated air rising, man is born to trouble. And it looks as if he were right and the social trouble shooters are wrong. If we lose one trouble, we can find another in a minute.

If we look at the record and consider the troubles of our opposite numbers in the days of Julius Caesar, for instance, or our ancestors — for we most certainly had plenty of ancestors — in the time of Henry the Eighth, we cannot suppose they had any more troubles than we have today. Yet we are believed to be a good deal more enlightened than they.

If we could take a poll of the whole human race, the whole 2,000 million of them, and asked what their number one wish was, the chances are good that the top of the poll would be the wish for a little rest from the world's trouble.

And there is some reason for us all to expect such a rest. Across the history of the world have occurred fairly regular periods of rest, when whole nations, whole groups of nations, lay back from strife and coasted for a generation or two, taking time to reflect and consider, to catch up, as it were, on their thinking instead of on their doing. In the various nations, Greek, Roman, Spanish, French, British, these eras of rest are referred to as the Golden Age of their separate histories.

Do you suppose we are to have one of the periods of rest in the fairly near future? Haven't we striven and battled and toiled enough, in the past fifty years, to entitle us to a Golden Age for a generation?

Many Blessings

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

The trouble with a lot of people is they don't realize how fortunate they are. Let them do without a motor car for a summer, have no summer vacation at a beach or other resort, and give up some of the other luxuries of the day, and their outlook would be vastly changed for the better.

Guide to Perversity

(By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun)

When I get better I'm going to write a manual for the use of invalids and convalescents who derive satisfaction from making their kind attendants uncomfortable.

Don't tell me that invalids and convalescents don't do that sort of thing. I know better. I'm one of them.

I claim boldly that nobody other than a saint could be confined to bed for more than two weeks without getting a sort of sickly fun out of bedevilling the help.

It was Edgar Allan Poe, I believe, who first employed the phrase "imp of the perverse." My argument is that the imp of the perverse gets into almost everybody who has to lie on his or her back for any length of time staring at an uncommunicative ceiling.

Perversity is the relaxation of the ailing. Oh, yes it is. And my reason for wanting to write a manual or handbook on the subject is because so many convalescents run out of perverse devices and, as a consequence, fret too much and retard their recovery.

Not so far from here, I am told, is a bedridden patriarch who relieves the tedium of invalidism every so often by roaring out for roast swan for dinner.

This performance, I am bound to say, is fanciful and exaggerated and the imp of the perverse must frown upon it.

Food, of course, offers a magnificent field for perversity. But need I say that you've got to be subtle about it? Let me recount a little masterpiece of my own:

Somebody says, "What would you like for lunch?" And you reply, "two soft-boiled eggs in a glass," knowing very well that the soul of any right-thinking woman recoils from the job of coaxing two soft-boiled eggs into a glass without mixing bits of shell with them.

Well, the soft-boiled eggs finally arrive looking chastely elegant in their glass and the bonne femme puts them down beside you with a smirk, because she's uncommonly bucked up over not getting a single fragment of shell in them.

At that moment you lower your underlip onto your chest and say plaintively, "Oh, dear!"

"What's the matter?"

"I thought you were going to give me poached eggs."

"You asked for boiled eggs."

"Oh, no, I said poached eggs." And you pout a little more. "But it doesn't matter. I'll try to eat them."

The eggs are whisked from under your nose and you hear them being carried downstairs to the drumbeat of two heels hitting the floor just a little louder than usual.

And you turn your face into the pillow and grin an evil grin and chalk one up to the imp.

Invalids can make themselves feel a lot better with the simplest properties. You don't require any elaborate stage settings to unleash the diabolical impulses of convalescence.

Take an ordinary object like pillows, for example, and bed clothes.

The trick of being first too hot and then too cold is quite an old one. You can run three women and an apprentice absolutely ragged in an evening by applying a little inventiveness to pillows.

"Can you prop me up a little higher, please?"

"No, that's too high."

"Now, right under the neck. That's right. Or maybe just another one."

By this time you're wedged up like a turkey carcass at Christmastime.

So you watch your chance and suddenly loll your tongue out like a pink necktie and hold your breath until you're slightly purple in the face.

This is guaranteed to bring frenzied screams and, in my case, a swift application of the brandy bottle.

It's a thoroughly contemptible trick, of course. But it does break the monotony. And it does give you a gratifying sense of your own artistry. And a slug of brandy is not to be sneezed at.

Besides the imp laughs like anything.

Minifon May Be Listening

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

If you are one of those free-spoken souls who never heard of Minifon, you will be shocked to learn that it is a recording device so small that a person can wear it concealed in a shoulder holster. Anything you say, even in private conversation, may be recorded on tape and used against you.

A tiny microphone hidden in a watch, or under a coat lapel of the wearer, enables him (or her) to record a two-hour-and-a-half conversation without changing tape.

The tape can be played back either over earphones or over a loud-speaker. Everything within normal earshot of the wearer goes on the record.

Minifon, a German invention, is now on the market in the United States. The Wall Street Journal says 12 General Motor employees, wearing the phones, mingled with the crowds at a recent automobile show in New York and picked up a lot of comments, both critical and laudatory, about the new GM models.

Law enforcement officers are using Minifons when questioning suspects about crimes. Minifon promoters look forward to a big market among businessmen who want to record conversations.

There is no telling where this Minifon thing may lead. The possibilities are frightening. It may even come about in a year or two that one will not dare talk to another, about a confidential or important matter, unless they have thoroughly frisked him (or her) for concealed gadgets, batteries and microphones.

Minifon may be listening.

Still it may be a blessing in disguise in some circumstances by holding down the gossiping and time-consuming talk of many visitors.

Hunting Tips Given Girls

(Montreal Gazette)

An American airline stewardess has given girls some sage advice on husband-catching which all bachelors who like being bachelors should read. First, she advises off-season vacations. The men who go to Florida in the winter, she says, are prosperous and married. The men who go there in the summer are just on their way up; they are also unmarried.

Mrs. Wilcox advises the subtle approach. Rather than ask for a match, she recommends getting bogged down in a crossword-puzzle and letting a male seat-companion help. The temptation to show off his mental prowess, she believes, will prove irresistable to the average male.

Another item that might interest the habitual bachelor who is wondering where to go on his off-season vacation is a dispatch from Washington which seems directly aimed at him. The U.S. civil defence organization is issuing a new 86-page manual that seems to solve the whole thing. It's called "Home Shelters for Protection in an Atomic Attack."

Just try your crossword-puzzle out on one of those, lady.

Neanderthal Neighbors

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

On a previous occasion, this column dipped into a subject which has been discussed since by The Edmonton Journal, namely, that one of the most alarming developments in science, in recent times, is the theory put forward by an American anthropologist that the Neanderthal man is still among us.

Neanderthal, of course, is the name given to a race of ape-like creatures who ranged over a large part of Europe and Asia 100,000 years or so ago. The Encyclopedia Britannica thus describes their appearance, as reconstructed from skeletons found in caves at various places:

"The normal skull of this race was long, wide, and, though low, was capacious. The flattening affected the back part of the skull, so that the head must have appeared as set on a thick bull neck. The brow ridges were massive. The chin was lacking."

Not a nice person at all. In pictures of the prehistoric age, he is generally represented as brandishing a massive stone club and looking for someone to eat.

Until recently, the comforting theory prevailed that the Neanderthalers became extinct fifteen or twenty thousand years ago. It was surmised that the widely-told fairy stories about horrible giants had their origin in encounters between early human beings and the last survivors of this monstrous race.

Now this has been challenged by Professor Cornelius J. Connolly, of the Catholic University of America. He claims that Neanderthal man probably did not die out at all, but intermingled with modern man, and persists to this day.

"This is a dreadful thought," muses The Journal. "It will start us looking more closely, with a horrible surmise, at our homelier friends and relatives. And who knows — any day now a full-fledged Neanderthaler, beetle brows and all, may move in next door and want to borrow the lawnmower!"

Give Irish a Bad Name

(Branford Expositor)

Police had an anxious time during the Queen's visit to Ulster, thanks to the antics of Irish Republicans. Too bad these fanatics can't learn to act their age. They give all the people of the Irish Republic a rather poor name occasionally, and all the people of the Irish Republic aren't like that.

Personal Health Talks

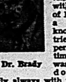
BEWARE OF CODEINE

For recurring winter cough, terpin hydrate, I suggest, among good home remedies, a turpentine derivative.



Dr. Brady

Now in practice I couldn't tell you this without the risk of losing you as a patient. I know because I tried the experiment many times when I was an honest doctor, and nearly always with the same result. So you nice kind people who wish there were more doctors like me, or that I were practising in your community, or that I would tell you which doctors practice what I preach merely delay the game with your blarney —take me back to the wonderful days for away and long ago, the great days when we were blessed with Lalla Rookh and the Laughing One, Topsy the beloved sorrel and Mr. Whitfield's low-sill, patent leather dash, rubber-tired buggy. You may not believe it, but I tried for 16 years to practise what I preach, but most of the paying customers preferred doctors who didn't tell 'em anything. So I turned to quacking it in the public prints, as we ethical docs call 'em when we are not seeking publicity — which isn't often nowadays.

Sometimes I wonder whether I could have continued my career in private practice had support for my family been assured. Honest practice, I mean. But human nature being what it is, I don't believe Utopia will arrive in our time.

"My husband and I have been taking Elixir of Terpin hydrate and codeine for cough, as you advise," a reader's letter begins—but I do not read any more because the reader did not sign her name.

Generally when I have suggested terpin hydrate I have taken pains to specify that it be taken in capsule or tablet directly after food. Time and again I have warned against the liquid preparation called Elixir Terpin Hydrate with Codeine. Codeine is dope, an alkaloid of opium, and in my opinion codeine, like morphine and heroin (diacetyl-morphine), should never be used unless under the immediate attendance of the physician. Indeed, these narcotic drugs are not legally obtainable except by prescription.

It is conceivable that a doctor might in good faith prescribe a dose or two of a narcotic drug, with or without terpin hydrate or other medicine, in a case of chronic bronchitis, recurring winter cough, bronchiectasis or the like. But it is impossible to condone feeding such a patient a narcotic drug day after day and week after week in any circumstance.

An elixir is sweetened, aromatic liquid vehicle for otherwise unpleasant medicines. Two teaspoonfuls of Elixir of Terpin Hydrate (N.F.) contain two grains of terpin hydrate—but don't confuse this with dope-laden Elixir of Terpin Hydrate and Codeine.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON BUILDING A FRIENDSHIP

We really create our own friends. They cannot be ordered like merchandise. And even when a prospective friend is presented to us we have to start at once to build him or her into the sort that we most want.

If we start by discovering the fine and attractive qualities of that friend, and placing each as a foundation stone, we are well on our way to "a beautiful friendship," as the late H. T. Webster used to term it. But if we start out by trying to find the weak spot in the character of that person, we might as well give up counting upon another friend. The good always outweighs the bad, so to build for permanence, keep hunting for and discovering the best, for it's the best that makes a genuine friend.

It's the good in us all that keeps living and growing and developing. We can find plenty of faults in anyone, for other people are like us, usually we see the same faults in others that we ourselves own! But in discovering the good in other people we enhance the same good in us. Then the habit grows and the friend becomes more genuine with the passing of time.

There is no wealth in all this world so much to be desired as the love and confidence of a friend. Napoleon, who at one time was the most powerful man in the world, trading in kings and nations, finally came to his doom, writing in his will the name of but one man whom he could look upon as friend —and that one was his faithful valet!

Instead of building a fortune in material things, no dividends that fortune could offer could possibly meet the dividends, never varying, that accrue from the building and holding of a friend! Even to have earned and held the friendship of "man's greatest friend"—the dog, is not to have totally failed in life!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

BUT WITH NO BITTERNESS

Some time ago, in conversation with a classmate, I was amazed to hear that he had not received his diploma until thirty-eight years after the graduation of our class.

This is how it happened. As a student he and one of his buddies had played a prank on a professor. It seems that this professor was rather dull and when he turned to write on the blackboard, these two students were in the habit of slipping out of the back door of the classroom. They did it just once too often and were caught. So a few days before graduation this student learned to his horror that he would not receive credit for that course and therefore would be denied his diploma.

Now this was what amazed me. The student who had to wait thirty-eight years for his diploma carried absolutely no resentment against that professor. "He did right," said the student, "in cancelling me out of that course. That hard blow," he continued, "taught me a very good lesson."

There has never been the slightest bitterness on the part of this student. As he related these circumstances, I fell to wondering whether or not I could have taken anything of that sort in as fine a spirit as he manifested.

Something to Watch

The Provincial Government of New Brunswick is going to experiment this year with the German paving process which will keep roads free of ice. The experiment should be watched closely by Ontario officials against the possibility of using it along the Trans-Canada in the northern part of our provinces.

Joint Tribute Paid M. Cullen Former Hospital Supervisor

Special tribute to the efficiency, the human dignity and personal characteristics of the late Miss Mildred Cullen, former night supervisor of Belleville General Hospital has been paid by the Nurses Alumnae of Belleville General Hospital and Dr. George H. Stobie, retired surgeon of this city.

Miss Cullen, with the exception of a few years in the twenties, when she did post-graduate work at the Mayo Clinic, filled two of the most important positions in the hospital.

From 1920 to 1925 she was supervisor of the operating rooms, and from 1929 until she became ill a year ago she filled the position of night supervisor.

She possessed a quiet unruffled efficiency, a trait that stood her in good stead in the operating rooms. Here she was at her best. She maintained a serene poise that she imparted to others. She was the acme of efficiency in an emergency.

Dr. Stobie in joint tribute with the Alumnae to Miss Cullen as night supervisor, said, "She, like other supervisors I have known, filled that strenuous, unenviable position with the greatest passion for devotion to duty. I often wondered how they could keep on, night after night, year after year, looking happy and enthusiastic about work that is so strenuous."

"Meeting Miss Cullen on her rounds," Dr. Stobie said, "you would find her placid and cheerful. She was the same way coming off duty after a hard night, that probably witnessed the arrival of several new citizens and the departure of some.

Many Problems

"Night supervisors," he went on, "have many problems peculiar to their position, problems that must be solved without the consultations, that are available in the daytime. These require special qualifications and judgment to make these decisions wisely without needlessly disturbing the doctors, especially in obstetrical cases. Miss Cullen possessed exceptional knowledge that enabled her to know when to call the attendant doctor,—some from surrounding towns—never too soon, and never too late."

"We hear a great deal about 'service', service to the community, to humanity and so on."

"To me," Doctor Stobie said, "the life of Miss Cullen was truly a life of service in its highest sense—given cheerfully and efficiently to the sick and suffering who passed through Belleville General Hospital during the past thirty years. It was a service given in the long dark hours of were enjoying recreation or rest."

"I would say," he concluded, "that Miss Cullen has smoothed more pillows and lulled more suffering people into quiet slumber during the past three decades than anyone in Belleville."

"The profession has lost not only a valued member, but the city has lost an outstanding citizen and a gentle lady. She will be remembered with respect and affection. Her position will indeed be hard to fill."

PICTON

Five Charged With Theft of Six Chickens

PICTON — Five Belleville residents have been charged with theft of six chickens and will appear in Magistrate's court here August 12. They are Stanley McQuaid, Hilda Howell, Louise Arnam, Gordon Cooper and Ben Howell.

Douglas Black, of Huff's Island, who raises chickens on a large scale, had reported losing chickens over a long period and had been on the alert. About one o'clock in the morning he heard a car near his buildings. His appearance resulted in the car driving off and he fired his shotgun. Securing his car, he gave chase and overtook a car containing two women, who denied any knowledge of any theft. Taking the car's license number and letting them go, he telephoned County Constable Earl Marvin of Wellington. Figuring that the car would return to pick up men in the case, he parked his car and acted as a decoy, turning the headlights on and off occasionally. Three men approached the car and soon learned their mistake. They fled but one, S. McQuaid, stopped when threatened by the constable, who had his gun out.

Later Constable Marvin went to Belleville and retrieved five chickens which had their heads cut off. The car containing the two women returned to the scene and were apprehended. The other two men surrendered to police here the following day.

Fruit Crop Shows Small Decrease From Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of agriculture reported Wednesday that this year's fruit crop outlook indicates a less than one per cent decrease from last year's yield.

The apple crop in both southwestern and northeastern areas of Ontario showed a decline of five and 15 per cent respectively. The apple crop prospect is poorer than it was a month ago, the seasonal fruit and vegetable report says, because of excessive rains. The dampness has helped to spread scab fungus.

The peach crop this year is expected to equal the 2,373,000 bushels produced in 1952. Harvesting of some brands started last month.

Sweet cherries in southwestern Ontario are a short crop, about one-third less than last year, due to a poor set following a heavy but short lived bloom this spring.

The province's pear crop is faring well with southwestern Ontario expecting a four-per-cent increase over the 1952 crop and the northern and southwestern sections reporting a possible increase of 30 per cent.

Libel Suit Entered

MONTREAL (CP)—Yvon Dupuis Liberal member of the Quebec legislature for Montreal Ste. Marie, Wednesday lodged a $50,000 libel action against Jean-Paul Boisjoly, Progressive Conservative candidate in Montreal Ste. Marie in Monday's federal election.

Mr. Dupuis in his action taken in Superior Court alleged that he was libelled in a number of political speeches by Mr. Boisjoly.

Mr. Boisjoly two days ago took a $10,000 slander suit against Mr. Dupuis' father, Hector Dupuis, who is Liberal candidate in Montreal Ste. Marie seeking re-election in the Commons.

Bowling Notes

Three doubles rinks, James Hannah and Harold Parker, J. B. Black and A. R. Symons, and A. E. Wonnacott and Wilfred Price, journeyed to Colborne on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Hannah and Mr. Parker were successful in winning the one-game high score. Mr. Wonnacott and his partner had two wins but were defeated in the third game by Art McConnell and George Cowling, of Brighton, who won the tournament. Norman McNally and Bert Chisholm, of Colborne, were in the second three-game high bracket. The turnout was not large but the greens were in excellent condition and the bowlers had a most enjoyable afternoon.

Last Saturday the Brighton Bowling Club held their annual Rex Spry tourney and Belleville rinks made a clean-up. A rink of Bill Nicholson, Gordon Edwards and L. E. McLean had the highest score of the tournament with a 54 plus 16, while Orlo Smith, Percy Graham and Austin Watkin were second high with a score of 51 plus 1. Bruce Miller, Garn Dobbs and G. B. Hyde were third high with a score of 47 plus 4. A Brighton rink of George Cowling, Keith Roblin and Fred Thorne succeeded in winning the one game high.

Today the zone playoffs for Districts 13, 14, 15 and 16 — in women's competition—are being played at the local greens with rinks singles, doubles and trebles teams being present from Ottawa and Toronto. The winners here will go into the provincial playdowns later in the month.

Couple Plead Guilty to 20 Fraud Charges

OTTAWA (CP)—A United States couple who police say entered Canada illegally, breaking parole from U.S. prisons, pleaded guilty Wednesday to 20 charges of fraud and were remanded one week for sentence.

Walter D. McFee, 32, and his 35-year-old wife, Elaine, arrived in Ottawa July 7, registered at a hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Barr and then went on a spending spree.

Mrs. McFee faced a total of 16 charges of fraud, her husband three charges, and jointly they faced a single charge of attempting to defraud the Bank of Toronto of $330.

Police said investigation showed that the couple were not legally married. They said Mrs. McFee's real name was Natalie Cullens, wife of Harold B. Cullens of California, who is serving in the U.S. Army.

The couple also face charges at Bowmanville, Ont., for theft.

Mr., Mrs. J. Murphy Tendered Charivari

On Tuesday evening, a rousing charivari was tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy (nee Loretta Agnes Hogan), when they were treated to a thrilling experience by their Millbridge friends.

They were escorted to a decorated old-fashioned buggy which was placed on a dump truck, doing the "dip and dive" to the tune of various noise makers, including the good old buzz saw, and guarded by four stalwart gentlemen, who never gave them a dull moment.

Many cars, driven by friends, accompanied the parade to Millbridge village, and upon their return to the bride's home, the "charivariers" were promised a dance by the groom, which was held on Friday evening in Millbridge Town Hall. This was attended by a large gathering of friends, who danced to their heart's content to the good music furnished by Mr. John Murphy, piano; Mr. Foster McKilligan, violin; Jack Wilson, guitar, and Don Sprackett, guitar, who also performed the duties of official caller for the square dancing.

At midnight, tasty refreshments were served, after which, Mr. Roy Armstrong, who acted as master of ceremonies, called upon the bride and groom to say a few words.

Both John and Loretta rose to the occasion with well chosen speeches, thanking everyone for the friendship and good fellowship shown them and for the many lovely gifts received.

The charivari party presented them with a beautiful tri-light lamp.

Dancing, both square and round, was resumed until the wee small hour. Everyone went home with happy memories of an evening of good entertainment, after wishing John and Loretta, a long and happy married life.

Mixed Reaction Shown to Shorter Skirts by Dior

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Women on the best-dressed list have a mixed reaction to Christian Dior's shortened hemline, an international survey reveals.

Reached at fashionable spas and summer homes on both sides of the Atlantic, some of them indicated pleasure at the prospect of a change. Others differed. Here are some comments:

The Duchess of Windsor (in Paris): "For my personal taste I prefer an intermediate length, neither too long nor too short. But I can't take sides for neither Mr. Hartnell (British designer for the Royal Family, who champions longer skirts) or M. Dior without seeing their designs. It is only by seeing the dresses on the mannequins that I could decide what I like."

Marlene Dietrich (in New York): "We have worn short skirts before, and liked them. We always need something new to keep things interesting, but it's not necessary to go to extremes. Anyway, it's much easier to shorten your skirts than to lengthen them. I think it's fun to change."

Mme. Henri Bonnet (in Paris): "My prediction is that within six months everyone will be wearing shorter skirts. I found Dior's clothes very beautiful and I think this has been ignored in the furore over the shorter skirts."

The Duchess of Kent's private secretary told reporters: "Even if the Duchess had views on skirts she would not express them."

PERON RESUMES WORK

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — President Juan Peron resumed work Wednesday after a motorcycle accident Sunday on the grounds of his summer home at Olivos.

Moira W.I. Holds Memorial Service, Successful Dinner

On Sunday afternoon the Moira W.I. held a memorial service for the many friends who gathered at Moira Church, as a tribute to their loved ones who have been laid to rest in Moira Cemetery since the beginning of the cemetery in 1835.

The church was decorated with many beautiful flowers, and many journeyed to the cemetery to place flowers on the graves of their loved ones.

The pastor, the Rev. R. L. Norman, preached an impressive sermon, and the choir provided suitable music for the occasion. Mrs. Don Holbert and Pauline Holbert sang a duet "The Church of Long Ago", with Mrs. N. Welsh at the piano.

Enjoyable Day

On Monday, a most enjoyable day was spent on the church grounds. The perfect weather afforded a splendid opportunity for many from far and near to gather together for a day with old friends. Many of those present were born in the community, and received their education in the old stone school house, and many discussed the olden days.

By 12:30 most people had worked up a good appetite and were ready to sit down to a delicious dinner prepared by the women of Moira W.I. and some of the Fuller W.I. ladies.

After the repast, the crowd gathered under the shade of the trees to relax and listen to the program, under the direction of Mr. Ken Stewart, of Lakefield, a former pastor of Moira, who acted as chairman for the occasion. Following the singing of the Ode, and "The More We Get Together", the president, Mrs. Ken Thompson extended a cordial welcome to the visitors and thanked all for the support they had given.

Guest Speakers

Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., spoke of his own boyhood life, as his home was not far from Moira. He congratulated the women on their good dinner, and on the task they had taken on in fixing up the cemetery, adding how lucky Ken Thompson was when he got married. Mr. Robson also spoke of his friendship with Mr. White, but added that he had known the Liberal candidate, "Clute" Foster longer, after which he introduced Mr. White.

Mr. White, M.P., thanked Moira W.I. for the invitation, remarking how glad he was to be able to come, and spoke of this year as Coronation year, explaining Canada's connection with the Crown. He said that, "it was up to the people not to divide up in groups and let communism creep in. It is up to us not to destroy our democracy, but to live up to that for which the flag stands, for we want the right to make our laws; the safety for our boys and girls; our elderly men and women looked after and the freedom of speech."

Needed No Introduction

Mr. Clute Foster was the next speaker, and needed no introduction to his audience as he was a native of Moira. Mr. Foster also spoke of his boyhood days and of his retirement from business; of how he would like now to do some of the things he had always wished to do. He said, "there were 600 people less in this area now than when he was a boy and regardless of what happens he intends to make his home in this area. There is so much to be done to build up and preserve our church, our school and our rural population. Mr. Foster added that he was glad to meet Roy Welsh; to be standing on the church steps, and hoped that the work of the W.I. would go on."

Mr. Roy Welsh spoke briefly, expressing his happiness to be back home at Moira, and told of his early education, adding that the best education he ever received was here at Moira. He said, that when any trouble arose in Toronto, he would think of his old home at Moira and his boyhood days and all the troubles passed away.

The Rev. R. L. Norman complimented the women on the good work they had done in beautifying the cemetery.

Greetings Brought

Mrs. Roscoe Robson brought greetings from East Hastings Institute and told of the A.C.W.W. convention to be held in Toronto on August 21. She also said she hoped the "History of Moira", would be completed for the centennial 1954. Mrs. Robson's ancestors are natives of Moira.

Mr. Stewart read the names of those who had passed on since last year: Mrs. Mabel Vandewater, Mrs. David Thompson and Mrs. Eicheldinger. He also read a poem.

A prize was given to the oldest gentleman present, Mr. Harry Kerr, of Toronto, in his 84th year, a billfold; to the oldest lady, Mrs. Frank Vandewater, a cup and saucer; to the one coming the greatest distance, Mrs. Frank Morton, nee Lillie Dean, of Detroit, a bowl.

Mrs. Nelson Welsh gave the financial report as follows: proceeds for the day: dinner, $200; donations, $163; balance on hand $698.54.

Several pictuers were taken and the day was brought to a close by the singing of, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again".

Each one left for their various homes feeling that it was a day well spent for a good and worthy cause.

Rogers Clan Enjoys Reunion Picnic

The Rogers' clan held their reunion picnic at Cedar Crest Lodge on Varty Lake, on Civic Holiday, with 80 members present, including those from Kingston, Toronto, Saskatchewan, Belleville, Tamworth, Roblin, Marlbank, Napanee, Deseronto and Camden East.

A bountiful dinner was served with all the good things usually had on a picnic.

During the afternoon there were races for all ages, and several contests, including "Calling the husband to dinner".

Prizes were awarded to the oldest member of the clan, Mr. Galbraith, who was nearing his 90th birthday; and also to the one coming the longest distance, Mr. Wilson Weighill, of Saskatchewan.

Those in charge of the prizes were, Mrs. Fred Galbraith, of Camden East, and Mrs. Arthur Tennell, of Deseronto.

The sports committee included Mr. Robert Rogers, of Toronto, and Mr. John H. Armstrong, of Belleville.

All report a delightful day, and a happy get-together.

Birthday Celebrated By Afternoon Tea

Mr. and Mrs. John Exley, 302 East Bridge Street, were hosts at a charming afternoon tea on Tuesday celebrating Mrs. Exley's birthday.

The guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. Alec Briens. Here delicious refreshments were served at three dainty tables, each centred by huge bouquets of summer flowers. Miss J. Redner and Mrs. Arthur Bongard assisted in the tea room.

The birthday cake, presented by Mrs. W. Messer was cut by Mrs. Exley, previous to the opening of a large number of dainty birthday presents brought by the guests.

The happy afternoon was concluded by singing "Happy Birthday" to the hostess and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Exley long years of continued happiness.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Introductions By Mail Are Unwise

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I read in your column about the lady who had the misfortune of having a rich divorcee steal her husband.

As I have just recently had a similar experience with my wife, I would like very much to get together with this lady to talk over our problems. I am all alone now, and I am sure I could be of some comfort to her and that she could be of comfort to me.

I am enclosing a letter which I would like to have you forward to her.

Dear Anon:

I am publishing this letter because I frequently have similar requests made of me and so am taking this way of answering them all.

What I would like to say is, that it is impossible for me to carry out requests of this kind for more than one reason. In the first place, I do not feel it wise to try and introduce people through the mails. In the second place, in most cases I would not be able to do this anyhow, since it usually happens that people who expect me to answer their letters through my column, as in the case you mention, give no name or address, so that I would not know where to forward letters such as yours. You will remember that you yourself did not sign your letter to me, so I have no way of writing a personal letter to explain this situation and return the letter you enclosed. If you would like it back, please send me your name and address.

I am very sorry indeed that you have had a tragedy in your life and that your marriage has been broken up. I am sure, however, that there must be many nice unmarried women in your own city whose acquaintance you could make in a conventional way. My suggestion is that you join some sort of properly sponsored club which has both men and women members. It is far more satisfactory to make friends in this way than to try to do it sight unseen.

He Wants to Marry Soon
She Doesn't Want To Be Hurried

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19, and have fallen in love with a very fine fellow who is 26. He wants me to become engaged to him and then marry very soon after. I said I thought it would be wiser for us to wait at least a year before becoming engaged so that we would have a chance to know each other well enough to be sure of our feelings. We have only known each other a few months now. He thinks I am very foolish, and has even gone as far as to say I am childish, but I think I have a more mature viewpoint than he has.

What do you think?

C.H.K.

Dear C.H.K.:

What I think is that you are quite right in feeling a few months is not a long enough time to make sure you have correctly interpreted your feelings. It is far wiser for two young people to wait until they see whether or not their relationship is one that "wears well" before committing themselves to such an important step as an engagement to marry.

At the same time it might not be necessary for you to wait quite as long as another full year to make your decision. Why not suggest to your young man that you wait until your acquaintance is a year old before deciding about an engagement. This would be a compromise, one that he should be willing to accept.

A Short Course on Canning

By Mary Moore

Last year you were kind enough to let me know how much you liked the general directions I gave you for making pickles.

Those directions were given so that serious pickle makers would know why some of the mysterious steps were taken, and could eventually work out their pickling problems.

Today's "short course" is an attempt to do the same for canning both fruits and vegetables this season.

Commercial canners use pressure cookers (retorts is the name for them in the trade) to sterilize their products packed in tin cans. That is only because under pressure can the temperature be raised high enough to kill all of the micro-organisms that food might contain that cause spoilage.

Readers write to me saying that the vegetables and sometimes the fruits that they have sterilized in the oven have spoiled. Oven canning can never raise the temperature inside the jars of vegetables high enough to kill spoilage bacteria for sure,—although this is not true of tomatoes and fruits.

But another danger lurks in oven canning, for the temperature of dry heated air all too often fluctuates in the oven and often causes failure of jars to seal,—so they may explode and damage the oven and often injure the worker.

So pressure canning for all vegetables and meats is recommended. It is not recommended to can vegetables and meats at all if you do not have pressure equipment. Hot water bath is satisfactory for fruits and tomatoes. Pressure canning is also satisfactory for fruits and tomatoes, for since if you have the equipment the processing time is shortened. Open kettle method is only recommended for jellies, jams, preserves (which have a very high sugar content), and pickles and relishes.

It is true that some home canners are so cautious that they do have success in canning vegetables by hot water bath sterilizing, but it is because they are steeped in experience and do not contaminate their equipment when handling it. I cannot recommend it for novices.

I add that last paragraph because I may receive a flood of letters from readers telling me that they have canned vegetables successfully by hot water bath sterilization for years, without spoilage. I for one would not try it, and I'm an old hand, for the loss of one jar wipes out too much profit.

Canning Cautions

Use only fresh, clean food for canning or preserving. Wash and handle the product as carefully and quickly as possible and pack and process it as soon as possible after it is picked. Test canning equipment for cracks and nicks in rims, which form the sealing surfaces. Rubbers should always be new.

Canning Syrups

Very Thin—1 cup sugar to 4 cups water (often used for raspberries, pineapple and blueberries or pears).

Mein Syrup—1 cup sugar to 3 cups water. If you have a sweet tooth you may want to use it for the fruits listed under "very thin" syrup and also for sweet cherries, apples, peaches, apricots, prunes, plums.

Medium Syrup—1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. Use for sour cherries, cranberries, sour plums, rhubarb.

Heavy Syrup—1 cup sugar to 1 cup water. This syrup is so heavy that the finished product is saturated with sugar flavor and the product is more of a preserve. Maraschino-type cherries, strawberry preserve, quinces, preserved orange and lemon and citron rinds.

Canning in High Altitudes

Above 1000 feet altitude processing time should be increased 20 per cent for each additional 1000 feet, with the exception of pressure canning, in which case we use pressures given for average altitude, up to 2000 feet, but above that increase pressure one pound for each added 2000 feet of elevation.

Next week at this time watch for detailed methods of canning.

LETTER OF RESIGNATION FROM BUSINESS FIRM

Dear Mr. Beeckman:

I have worked in an office for several years, and am planning to resign soon. I am resigning for financial reasons, not because I am dissatisfied with working conditions. Would you please suggest a form for my letter of resignation, business-like yet friendly?

Reader

A resignation from a business firm, as I judge yours is, is usually give in person, and usually to the person who is one's immediate superior. However, perhaps it is the custom in your firm to send a letter of resignation "for the record."

You don't tell me much that could be included in such a letter, but perhaps this might suggest a form:

Mr. George Hall
The Park Company, Inc.
Haven, Ohio
Dear Mr. Hall,

It is with real regret that I am tendering my resignation as secretary in the—Department, which is under your direction, my resignation to take effect as of—(give date). I have enjoyed very much the years I have been connected with the Park Company, and will always value the friendships I have made here. But I have decided to accept an offer made to me which gives me a very considerable advance. (Or, if you wish to record this, "financial advance."

Thank you, Mr. Hall, for your kindess to me.

Sincerely yours,

A Wedding Present Problem

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's nephew's son was married last June. He and his bride are both 18, they had both attended college and he was leaving to go into the service. She is going back to college in the Fall, and he plans to finish college when he returns from Korea, where he expects to be sent. I have never seen the bride, and have met the groom only twice. Therefore I didn't go to the wedding, as I would have felt that "I was in the right church, but in the wrong pew." "My husband did go to the wedding, but didn't take a present because we just didn't know what to get, since of course, they won't be keeping house for some time. They both have well-to-do parents, while we are poor people. The only present we thought of giving them was an ash-tray set—then we found out that neither of them smokes. Please tell me if would be appropriate for us to send them a gift at this time, and if so, what do you suggest?

C.

Apparently you and your husband really want to send a wedding present to this fine and valiant couple. It isn't necessary for you to send one, but I have a strong feeling that your husband would be happy and proud if you do send one. The late date makes no difference. For an inexpensive but thoughtful present, easy to "keep" how about sending, say a pair of guest towels, perhaps the small and so useful finger-tip towels — white ones with perhaps a simple, pastel-shaded edge-decoration? Or a pair of percale pillow-slips-all-white? Or a pair of doilies: white or perhaps, a soft yellow. If you are "handy with the needle" you could embroider any of these gifts with simple, good-looking initials or a monogram.

WALLBRIDGE

WALLBRIDGE — The farmers are busy with their grain harvest and the sound of the threshing machine is again heard.

Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker entertained a number of her relatives on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Phillips and daughter, Nancy, spent the past week at a cottage at Oak Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ketcheson and daughter of Belleville, were Friday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Ketcheson.

The annual ice-cream and pie social under the auspices of the Wallbridge L.A. held in the dining hall on Wednesday night, was well attended. After all were helped to ice cream, pie and cake a most enjoyable program was held in the church. Mr. Clarence Woods acting as chairman. The proceeds of the evening was $74.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kemp of Lindsay were Monday guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris; also Miss Kay MacPherson of Belleville and her niece, Mrs. Donald Jones and little son Allan of Montreal, were callers on Wednesday afternoon at their home.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

Too few WILLS

A competent legal authority has said that considerably more than half the people who leave estates neglect to make a will directing the distribution of their assets.

If a man dies without making a Will, the law steps in and designates those who are to receive his property, and says what shares will go to each. This rigid law, which is designed for "average cases", does not suit every family.

If you have no Will, see your lawyer. We believe that the drafting of this important document requires his professional knowledge and skill. We would be glad to cooperate with you and your lawyer in planning your Will. Our long experience in dealing with the problems of taxation, succession duties, investments, estate administration and distribution qualifies us to offer valuable practical advice.

With a sound Will drawn by your lawyer, and with The Royal Trust Company named as your executor, you may be sure your family will receive the maximum comfort and security to be obtained from your estate.

Child Rescued From Deep Hole At Espanola

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police and volunteer workers Wednesday pulled Douglas Welch, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Welch of Essex, out of a 22-foot deep hole in which the child had been trapped for more than two hours.

The partially-completed well hole is at a tourist camp seven miles east of this Northern Ontario centre.

By using two long lumbermen's pike poles wired together, workers were able to hook the boy's clothing and pull him from the tiny hole.

More than 200 persons watched while workers raced to rescue the youngster before rain-soaked walls of the hole caved in.

During the rescue operation Douglas was able to talk to his parents and others on the surface. Oxygen was pumped into the hole at intervals.

Planing to Lay Underwater Link In Oil Pipe Line

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The longest underwater link of a crude oil pipeline stretching across half of North America is scheduled to be laid under the Straits of Mackinac, 60 miles south of here, on Saturday.

The project is expected to draw thousands of spectators including engineers and government officials of both Canada and the United States.

The basic plan calls for a derrick to pull a two-inch wire cable across the 3½-mile stretch of water. The cable will be attached to the first 2,500-foot length of twin 20 inch pipes and then hauled back towards the southern shore. As each section leaves the upper peninsula shoreline the next length will be attached to it.

Use Pontoons

To overcome the weight of the pipe, 166 pounds a foot, a series of pontoons filled with compressed air will saddle the pipe at 80-foot intervals. Engineers are prepared to make immediate changes in tactics if any hitches develop.

Two Boats Located

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP)—The United States Coast Guard cutter Kaw reported Wednesday night that two small vessels, missing on Lake Erie since Tuesday en route from here to Erie, Pa., had been located. Both had taken shelter in a bay on Long Point, Ont., when a storm swept across the lake Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dean of Erie were aboard the 24-foot power cruiser Pal Dean, while John Gott and David Bresslen, both about 25 and also from Erie, were aboard the 22-foot sloop Jay Dee.

Radio messages from the cutter reported all four to be uninjured and well.

Ships To Rescue

The 7,636-ton British merchant ship Manchester Shipper radioed this morning it had one survivor and two bodies aboard.

The message said the survivor was Sgt. Roy de Vere of Bennington, Okla. The dead were Capt. Norman Hunter and Sgt. Eugene Yeoman.

A crew list issued Wednesday by Travis air force base, Calif., gave Capt. Hunters address as San Jacinto, Calif., and Sgt. eoman's as Burhanan, Mich.

Another British ship, the 1,805-ton Manchester Pioneer, reported it had three survivors aboard. The French trawler Magdalena picked up one body.

Travis air force base said the three other survivors were Maj. George E. Parkes, 37, from Nephi, Utah; airman Harold E. Parker, 22, Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. Charles M. Dehaven, 24, Stroudsburg, Pa.

The third body was not identified.

Messages Sketchy

The radio messages received here were sketchy and often garbled but they indicated two survivors had been picked up from a lifeboat dropped by an air force rescue plane Wednesday while the others had been taken off one-man dinghies.

The huge plane was on a training flight from Travis air force base to England when it went down.

RETURNING

Some of the returning Americans were in excellent condition. But in general, they were worse than the British, though not in as desperate shape as the South Koreans.

U.S. and other airmen appeared to be special targets of Red brutality, probably a reprisal for deadly Allied bombings and strafings, Allied officers said.

A Negro B-29 co-pilot, Lt. Samuel E. Massinberg of Detroit, said he got four days of continuous torture and starvation from the North Koreans, followed by a special effort to woo him to communism "because of my race."

"I understand communism better now. I hate it more," he said.

The returning prisoners presented grim evidence that some of the thousands of missing Americans never will return.

Shung Keum Shoon, a 25-year-old emaciated South Korean told of seeing North Korean Reds beat seven Americans so severely with rifle butts that five died within a few hours.

Cpl. Russel P. James from Auburn, Wash., told of grisly burial details in the bitter winter of 1950-51 in notorious mining camp that prisoners called "death valley."

"We buried 25 to 30 men practically every day. We had no medical treatment at all and all we got to eat then was a little bit of millet every day."

Other prisoners repeated the stories of death marches north during the first winter and how many never made it.

With tears in his eyes, Sgt. Robert M. Wilkins of Detroit told of being thrown into a "black hole" and tortured after he and several others escaped momentarily and were recaptured.

He said a British and an American officer died in the ordeal.

"We were tossed into a dungeon," he said. "I'm not kidding you, we had to lie two deep it was so crowded there. And there was an inch or two of water on the floor."

Later, he said, guards "took us into a room and tied us so that we couldn't move." He said they were forced to kneel with a stick tied behind their knees, their arms drawn up behind them and tied to the ceiling and a choke rope tied around their throats.

The worst horrors described were in the earlier days of the war—through the spring of 1951.

It appeared from the PoWs' stories that conditions improved in some cases as the Chinese Communists took over from the North Korean Reds, and improved still more as the truce talks progressed.

"In the last two or three weeks it seemed like they emptied their warehouses and did everything possible to make us happy," said Maj. John C. Harlan, Institute, W.Va.

A South Korean doctor who examined Pte. Kim Chiang Duk, the 35-year-old RoK soldier who died enroute of tuberculosis, said: "This man was terribly ill before 'Little Switch'."

SOUTH KOREAN

What about the stories from two U.S. officers who said the Reds only days ago sentenced a U.S. lieutenant-colonel and other officers to prison terms for "instigating against peace"?

The Reds had no answers, and, for the moment, neither did anyone else.

The Red Peiping radio said only that all sick and wounded non-Korean prisoners of war were given a medical checkup before their departure for Panmunjom and that "most of them had only minor ailments."

Ill Long Time

Maj.-Gen. Choi Suk, in charge of receiving returned RoK prisoners, said the latest group of South Koreans "are worse; more ill, than those returned to us in Little Switch (the April disabled exchange)—and they were ill long before Little Switch."

The Communists handed these men back without comment.

One of the first Americans freed was Lt.-Col. Thomas D. Harrison, highest ranking U.S. officer yet to return and a second cousin of Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison, who helped negotiate the armistice with the Communists.

Was Tortured

Col. Harrison said the Communists tortured him cruelly trying to get military information. He said he didn't talk even though he was starved, smothered with a wet towel and jabbed with lighted cigarets.

A B-29 co-pilot, Lieut. Samuel E. Masenburg of Detroit, told of four days of continuous torture when the Reds "butted me around . slugged me . . . gave me no food."

Their stories of Red savagery were emphasized by a new army censorship rule that permits a returning prisoner to tell only what he has seen first hand.

Officers Sentenced

Maj. John C. Harlan, 48, of Institute, W.Va., told reporters he knew of U.S. officers the Reds have tried and are trying on charges of "obstructing the peace." Harlan returned Wednesday.

His story backed up that of Maj. John Daujat of Richmond, Calif., who told reporters Tuesday the Reds had sentenced some "high ranking" American officers to prison only two days before the exchange for "instigating against peace."

WELLINGTON

Bovay Family Holds Reunion

WELLINGTON — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay was the scene of a happy reunion on Sunday when the Bovay family met to greet their brother, Harry, and his wife and son, Harry, who had just arrived from Scotland. Mr. Harry Bovay and his wife, who, by the way, was a Scotch girl, left Canada 22 years ago to make their home in Scotland and have been there ever since. Three years ago their eldest son and wife came to Canada and made their home in Toronto. Last Thursday they arrived to pay them a visit.

Mr. Bovay has four brothers and two sisters, who, with their families, were all able to be at the union.

Those who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bovay and son, Harry, Scotland; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bovay, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bovay, Consecon; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clarke and family, Ameliasburg; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bovay and family, Mr. Clarence Bovay, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Roberts, all of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Palmer, Wellington; Mrs. Roy Cooke and family, Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones, Chatham; Mrs. Inez Ingram, Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ingram and Chris., Mr. and Mrs. Don Bovay, Nancy and Dennis, Picton, also Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay.

CAN GIVE SHIPS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to President Eisenhower a bill authorizing him to give or lend 25 small navy vessels "to any friendly nation in the Far-Eastern area." It also would permit the chief executive to lend two submarines to Italy and a small aircraft carrier to France.

EXECUTIONER RESIGNS

OSSINING, N. Y. (AP)—Joseph P. Francell, who pulled the electric chair switch on Julius and Ethel Rosenberg June 19, has resigned as Sing Sing prison executioner. Prison attendants say reported threats against his life and dissatisfaction with the standard fee of $150 an execution led him to quit.

RAWDON

Communities Honor Bride, Bridegroom

RAWDON — On Wednesday evening a large number of folk from Carmel, Mount Pleasant, Wellman's, Wooler, and other points gathered in Carmel Jubilee hall and tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clancy (nee Verna Brown), a miscellaneous shower at which they received a large array of lovely gifts.

Mr. Russell Pyear was chairman for the occasion and a good program was enjoyed. This included vocal solos by Miss Lela McColl, Wooler; readings by Mrs. Ross Hart and others.

The address of appreciation from Carmel community was read by Mrs. R. Pyear. Verna will be greatly missed as she has been an ardent worker in the church and community.

Mr. Jim Hubble read an address on behalf of the charivari group and Mr. Gerald Bailey made the presentation of an electric table lamp.

The bride and groom both voiced thanks for the evening planned in their honor and for the lovely gifts, after which refreshments were served.

Carmel community extends best wishes to Verna for a happy matrimonial voyage.

Wellman's Wide-a-Wake Class held its July meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinds and daughter Lucille. A delightful evening was enjoyed and Mr. Gerald Clancy and his bride, the former Verna Brown, of Carmel, were presented with boudoir lamps. Verna was given a special welcome to the class as Gerald is already a member.

Refreshments were served following the program and the newlyweds voiced thanks for gifts, program and hospitality.

MAULED BY DOGS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)— John Anderson, two-year-old Labrador boy, was reported recovering in hospital here after savage dogs attacked him near his home at Makkovik. Two dogs tore the scalp from his head when he fell while carrying a kettle of water from a well.

Lost Markets Mean
Lost Jobs For You!

The present Liberal government ha sbungled Canada into the BIGGEST TRADE CRISIS IN HISTORY! With its typical head-in-the-sand attitude, the present government says the crisis does not exist — but in the first four months of this year we had a DEFICIT OF $84,000,000 compared with a surplus of $85,000,000 in the same period last year. Canada's farmers are feeling the pinch already — farm income dropped 11 per cent last year. It's only a question of time until EVERY CANADIAN, FARMER, INDUSTRIAL WORKER AND WHITE COLLAR MAN IS AFFECTED, unless prompt action is taken. The present government has repeatedly ignored Progressive-Conservative calls for aciton. Only a Progressive-Conservative government will take the necessary steps to eliminate our trade crisis and restore our traditional markets.

Braves Meet The 'Bums' Today In Do-Or-Die Doubleheader; Yanks Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SOFTBALL PLAYDOWNS!

Here it is hot off the softball griddle. Secretary Frank Feaver of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association announced today the playdown dates and other important info. And don't say you weren't told.

The Glen Roy juniors meet Oshawa at Oshawa in their first playdown game on August 22. They'll be back here on August 29th.

Point Anne or Frankford, representing the city in the intermediate "A" classification, meet Peterborough, playing the first game in the Liftlock City on August 19. Second here August 22.

In the Intermediate "AA" series Belleville goes to Kingston on August 21. Second game here August 25.

In Intermediate "B", Picton meets Wooler, the first slated for Wooler August 15. Second game at Picton August 18.

In Intermediate "C", Tweed meets Madoc, first game at Madoc August 15. Second game at Tweed August 18.

In peewee softball Belleville has drawn a bye for the finals. They will meet either Oshawa or Whitby township.

Frankford Juvenile "C" team has drawn a bye. They meet Cataraqui or Murvale in Frankford on August 22.

Don Lee, past president of the Belleville District Softball League, has been named official OASA convener for Belleville, Picton, Frankford and Wooler. C. E. McColl, Trenton, is convener for Madoc and Tweed.

ALL-STAR SELECTION!

Six of the seven managers of teams comprising the Belleville District Softball League filled in the questionnaires of a managerial poll to select a league all-star squad which will oppose Ace Holden and his Rockets, famous four-man fastball squad at the CNR Recreation Park next Saturday.

The questionnaire asked for the nomination of three teams, the all-star squad to be selected on a point system, three for the first team, two for the second and one for the third.

Some managers left positions vacant, but the teams were selected on the names sent in. Here they are:

The coach selected was Bill Spafford and the manager "Warpy" O'Brien. Second selections were Mike Whalen and Herby Henn.

The majority of the first team selected won their positions by wide margins with Bobby Hunter and Vern Goyer being voted five firsts with Hunter drawing one second and Goyer a third. Barney McColl finished one point behind Doug Radner for the second team pitching choice. Al Adams also received votes. Bill Spafford received a heavy vote as coach while Mike Whalen finished one point behind O'Brien for the managerial berth.

BASEBALL!

Secretary "Red" Doran, of the Belleville District Baseball League, has called a meeting of the loop executive for Friday evening to discuss important business including the playoffs. The confab is being held in the city hall council chambers starting at seven o'clock, it is hoped, and all members are urged to put in an appearance.

It is doubtful if the league playoffs will be over by August 15 when the first Ontario Baseball Association playdowns get under way. This affects the Bryson Reid Regents only since all intermediate classifications do not start playdowns until September 5th. Why this ungodly late date no one knows, for it was this department's opinion the lateness of playdowns was one of the bones of contention that nearly caused the demise of the OBA not too long ago.

Incidentally the peewee, bantam and midget "A" playdowns also get under way, or are supposed to, on August 15th.

Schwabs are leading the Bantam League with eight wins, three losses and a tie for twelve games played, but Wellington and Napanee with seven wins and a loss each, with only eight games played constitute a definite threat to last year's banty champions.

Robb's Rockets are "in" as far as the Midget League is concerned and will represent the city in the midget playdowns. In the Peewee league, Keyes Supply is on top with a record of seven wins and no losses with Avon Jewelry second with seven wins and one loss.

So They Can't Mix !

GALT (CP)—Glen Skov, Detroit Red Wing hockey star, has turned in his Galt Terrier baseball uniform at the request of Red Wing manager Jack Adams, it was learned Wednesday.

Skov, a native of Windsor and a centre with the National Hockey League club, told Galt Senior Intercounty Baseball club executives Adams had advised him he'd "better leave baseball alone."

The loss of Skov will knock a hole in the Galt lineup. He was hitting .277 and cannot be replaced because of a league rule which prohibits player additions

'Jest Idlin', At 170 M.P.H.

SEATTLE (AP)—A flailing driveshaft, ripped loose by a snapped propeller, tore out rear bottom planking of the speedboat Slo-MO-Shun V at 170 miles an hour Wednesday, but owner Stan Sayres said later he was sure his big hydroplane could be repaired in time for Sunday's gold cup race.

The second of Sayres' Slo-Mos was on a speed test on Lake Washington when a blade of the propeller flew off.

In an instant, the vibration tore the driveshaft free and it pounded out the entire bottom back of the engine.

Driver Lou Fageol of Detroit escaped injury.

Dodgers Suffer First Loss In Milwaukee by 5-3 Score; Tribe Scalped by Senators

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

With one eye on the standings and the other on the calendar this looks like the day of decision for Milwaukee Braves.

Charlie rimm's club meets the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers twice today. Nothing less than a pair of victories will convince anybody but the rabid Milwaukee fans that the Braves still have a pennant chance.

The Braves, who jumped from a lacklustre seventh-place outfit in Boston to dangerous contenders in Milwaukee, trail the Dodgers by 7½ games. Twin triumphs would leave them 5½ behind; a double defeat would drop them 9½ back. It's a rare season when a club can make up that much ground in seven weeks—all that's left of the 1953 campaign.

The Dodgers suffered their first loss in Milwaukee Wednesday, a 5-3 decision which saw the Braves come from behind in the eighth inning. Milwaukee scored twice in the seventh and got three more in the eighth.

Giants Collapse

Third-place Philadelphia Phils, nine games back of Brooklyn, trimmed fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals 7-3. New York Giants, who have collapsed completely in the west, lost two more, 9-6 and 7-6, to Chicago Cubs with the second game running 10 innings. Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 6-4.

The top spots in the American League remained static with New York Yankees still five games ahead of Chicago White Sox. New York came from behind to edge Detroit 5-4 while Chicago was carried 14 innings at Philadelphia before Sam Mele broke it up with a two-run homer.

Ben Flowers pitched a shutout in his first major league start for Boston, beating St. Louis Browns 5-0. Bob Porterfield, the majors' leading whitewash artist, threw his seventh shutout and his second in a row as Washington trounced Cleveland 11-0.

Detroit out-hit New York 13-10, but Gus Triandos, just up from Birmingham, and Billy Martin homered for the Yankees and the winning run was scored in the seventh when Yogi Berra doubled home Mickey Mantle.

Mele's winning blast was the fourth home run in the Philadelphia marathon. Gus Zernial and Ray Murray homered for the A's in the second and Ed McGhee tied the count in the eighth with a two-run blow.

Porterfield scattered six hits and contributed two doubles to the 17-hit Washington assault as the Senators broke their string of 23 scoreless innings.

Wildness caused the downfall of Willard Schmidt in his return to the big time with St. Louis. He gave the Phils only five hits in eight innings, but he walked six. Bob Miller tamed the Cards after Stan Musial homered with Red Schoendienst on base in the first inning.

The Giants spotted Chicago eight runs in the first game and when they tried to catch up in the eighth inning, elderly Dutch Leonard stopped them after five runs were across. In the nightcap singles by Warren Hacker, Frank Baumholtz and Tommy Brown produced the winning run in the 10th.

Kesselring Is Favorite for Ontario Amateur

By PETER REILLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRANTFORD (CP) — Sixty-four golfers tee off today in two 18-hole rounds of match play as the Ontario amateur golf championship goes into its second day. By nightfall, a slim field of 16 will be left for Friday's quarter-final round.

Defending champion Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, who Wednesday advanced into the second round on a 7 and 5 win over Norm Martin of Kitchener, still is the top-heavy favorite to make it three in a row. He won the championship in 1949, 1951 and 1952. Nick Weslock walked off with the title in 1950.

Kesselring is paired with George Molnar of Norfolk for today's round. Molnar gained the second round Wednesday with a 3 and 1 triumph over Joe Nolan of Hamilton Chedoke.

Besides Kesselring, veteran observers look for Nick Weslock, Keith Kirkpatrick and Phil Farley to finish easily in today's play. The four made up last year's Willingdon Cup team.

Weslock with a home-made putter, gave Brantford, the fourth-oldest golf club in Canada, a boost Wednesday when he proclaimed it was "one of the best in the country." The course is well irrigated, making the fairways and greens spongy enough to let the ball dig in.

The only well-known player to bow out so far is Bruce Castator of Islington, who fell before 23-year-old Johnny Skeaff of Toronto St. Andrews, making his first start in the Ontario championship.

Toughest hole on the 6,110-yard course, according to the players, is the 433-yard par-four eighth. The approach to the green is bordered closely by trees, demanding a long, accurate drive.

Toronto Scarboro's Farley, at 41, one of the older competitors, was paired off with clubmate Eric Smith, who gained the second round when he defeated junior hockey star Andy Bathgate of Cutten Fields 2 and 1.

Louis Georgas, the golfing skiier from Owen Sound, is paired today with London Highland's Keith Kirkpatrick, high-ranking Ontario player. Georgas hung on Wednesday until the 23rd hole to take a win from Steve Garrett of Brantford Ava.

Panthers Retain Top Spot In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After this busy civic holiday weekend, the Senior Intercounty baseball circuit got back to business Wednesday night with results of three games running more or less true to form.

Front-running Kitchener Panthers remained 1½ games in front of Brantford Red Sox with a 6-3 win against the cellar-dwelling St. Thomas Elgins for the Elgins' first loss in five starts.

Brantford belted the hapless Guelph Maple Leafs 7-0 as Waterloo Tigers tumbled two games off the pace into third spot by bowing 10-5 before London Majors.

The Panthers quickly shelled starter Don Sommers from the box after he had faced five batters and allowed four runs on two walks, a single and Alex Kvasnak's home run. Joe Grasso came on, but the damage was already done.

George Copeland held Guelph to a single hit as the Red Sox came up with their 16-hit whitewashing job. Ed Finney's three-run home run in the third and Jim Wilkes' bases-empty homer in the first provided Brantford with its start at the plate.

London struck early against Waterloo, racking up an 8-0 lead by the fourth before the Tigers route for the Majors while Jerry Wilson cracked a third-inning round tripper.

SIGN PLAYING COACH

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo entry in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Wednesday signed Jay Fry, formerly of Los Angeles Rams, as playing line coach. Fry, 24, played inside and linebacker with the Rams. A graduate of Miami (Ohio) University, he was all-conference inside in 1951.

Canada Faces Cuba in Davis Cup Tie

MONTREAL (CP)—The draw comes up today for the Cuba-Canada Davis Cup tie and there won't be an eyebrow lifted if Lorne Main and Henri Rochon get the singles assignment for Canada.

It appears merely a question of which of the two experienced Davis Cuppers meets which of the Garrido brothers when the semi-final North American zone tie starts Friday.

Main and Rochon opened with successful singles against Mexico last month, and Canada eventually won 3-2. Their choice again Dr. Georges Leclerc, Canada's non-playing captain, appears a formality in a movie designed to get the jump on the Cuban youngsters.

Captain Ricardo Morales, Cuba's veteran captain, said definitely Wednesday he will name the Garridos—Reynaldo, 19, and Orlando, 22—for the singles. In their pre-tournament workouts Reynaldo, of bigger build, has struck observers as having a flatter and harder stroke. He relies more on power than Orlando. The brothers are students—and tennis players—at the University of Miami in Florida.

From the start, the Cubans will face a handicap against the confident Canadians because the Garridos are practically strangers to grass courts.

But Morales said his boys are "young and ambitious and improved over last year." They have found the weather here "perfect for tennis, not too hot and not too cold."

Depending partly upon the outcome of Friday's singles, it is likely Paul Willey and Bob Bedard, newcomers this year to Davis Cup play, will get into action. Willey, from Vancouver, is a likely choice for the doubles Saturday as a teammate of Main, formerly of Vancouver and now of Toronto.

If Canada sweeps the opening singles and the doubles, clinching the tie, Bedard, of Sherbrooke, Que., may go into the Sunday singles.

If Canada defeats Cuba, the next opponents in Montreal will be the United States team, Sept. 11-13.

Fain Must Pay Both Ways

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Chicago White Sox, clinging grimly to hopes of overtaking New York Yankees in the American League pennant race, Wednesday lost the services of their prize first baseman, Ferris Fain, for 10 days to two weeks.

The loss of the fiery, two-time American League batting champion came as the White Sox prepped for their week-end "must" series at Yankee Stadium. They play four games there and on the outcome of those contests could rest the pennant.

Manager Paul Richards confirmed that Fain suffered a "green stick" fracture of the ring finger of his left hand, his throwing hand. The fracture, while not a complete break of the bone, is bad enough to prevent Fain from batting or throwing until it is healed. The hand was injured in a brawl in a tavern.

Fain was dancing with a girl Sunday night when he became involved in a fist fight. James Judge of Washington, an employee of an old soldier's home, filed a $50,000 damage suit in the District of Columbia federal court. Fain suffered a cut forehead and a skinned cheek. And Wednesday the word spread that Richards is deducting from Fain's salary, rumored at about $30,000 a year, a day's pay for each day he misses from playing. So far it's estimated to have cost Fain about $800.

Maracle Robbed Of No-Hitter in Ninth Inning

By PETER UPPER

Pat Maracle was robbed of a perfect game last night at the CNR Recreation field when Point Anne defeated the Glen Roy Juniors 3-0 to become the City District Softball League Champions.

Bob Green broke the perfect game in the bottom of the ninth with a single, after Pat had pitched no hit, no run, and errorless ball for eight and two-third innings.

Point Anne got all their runs in the first inning on two errors, a fielder's choice and a pair of singles. Incidentally Point Anne only managed to scrape up five hits for the whole game which was in effect a real pitchers' duel. In that disastrous inning for the Glens, "Sam" ulholland led off. He got on base on an error. Strachan then grounded out from third to first.. Hull came up and got on on an error to the pitcher and Mulholland raced to third. Mulholland scored on a passed ball. Gilmour singled to move Hull to the "last mile home". Genereaux popped the ball up to Batchelor on second and then Tom Buchanan came through with a single to score Hull and Gilmour.

Maracle went all the way on the hill for the "Stone Crushers" fanning 11 and walking six. Radnor sweated the losing route for the Glens whiffing but one and walking three.

Buchanan got two of the five hits for the Cementmen while Gilmour tangled with Radnor's slants for a pair of singles.

Bob Strachan got the other lone single for Point Anne.

Bob Green was the only junior to put good wood to the ball all evening.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Anyone for boxing? If so, it is our privilege to turn you over to Murray Goodman, the redoubtable publicist of the International Boxing Club, for a mid-summer refresher course on the present state of the manly art.

"In the first place," began Goodman "there is this raise all the main eventers will get starting September 15. After that when a fight is on the TV cable each main eventer will draw $4,000 of TV money in addition to his purse. Just so the picture goes out of the state, that is.

"That's a pretty good raise. We've been giving them $3,600, but in a lot of places over the country they had to take what they could get, so far as I know.

"That's one thing. Another is that Rocky Marciano and Roland Lastarza start boxing Saturday for their fight Sept. 24 at the Polo Grounds. By the way, that will be the first heavyweight championship between two white boys in 18 years, since Jimmy Braddock won the title from Max Baer.

"I've just been two days with Marciano and I want to tell you he isn't taking this thing lightly. He told me this might be his toughest fight. The way Rocky looks at it, Lastarza is younger than he is and is a hell of a boxer. He figures Lastarza is bound to have improved since he fought him three years ago. Rocky is a smart boy.

"The next challenger probably will come out of the fight between Ezzard Charles and Harold Johnson Sept. 8 at Philadelphia. However, if Lastarza wins, you can't tell. He's a boxer, not a puncher, and everybody will want a crack at him, including Archie Moore, the lightheavy champ.

"The best chance for a lot of action this fall and winter is in the middleweight division, Besides Bobo Olson and Randy Turpin, who will fight either here or in San Francisco for the vacant championship, there are four or five other real good middleweights.

"Next comes the welterweights, and nobody knows what Kid Gavilan intends to do about defending. It'll be a crime though if he doesn't give Johnny Bratton of Chicago a title shot. Only thing is, Gavilan might decide to go into the middleweights.

"It never fails. When a fighter wins one division he wants to go up one."

DON JONATHAN

A familiar figure to TV fans, Hans Schmidt, the Munich Terror, will be in Friday night's wrestling feature at the Memorial Arena. Don Leo Jonathan, the young Salt Lake City giant, will take on Schmidt the Schmasher in this outstanding mat events. Schmidt's power, size and ruthlessness have made him a fearsome force. But the six-foot-six, 255-pound Jonathan is a mighty tornado himself, his airplane spins having crashed some of the toughest opponents into the mat seams. Fred Atkins, the flinty Australian, will wrestle Robert "Mr. Europe" Duranton, of France, in the semi-final. Bob Leipsic will oppose Al Costello, New Zealand champion, in the first event.

Aussie Tennis Star Tops Field

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Ken Rosewall, 18-year-old Australian, paced four seeded stars into the quarter-final round of the men's singles play of the Eastern grass court tennis championships Wednesday.

Rosewall, top-seeded foreign entry, won his quarter-final berth by beating Grant Golden of Chicago 6-2, 9-7. Lewis Hoad of Australia, the third-seeded foreign player, was the first to move into the round-of-eight when he put out Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., 6-4, 7-5.

Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., the top-ranking U.S. player and second-seeded American entry had to come from behind to beat Koset Kamo, Japanese Davis Cup star 7-9, 6-2, 6-3.

British Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—An opening partnership of 143 by T. C. Gardner and N. F. Horner got Warwickshire off to a good start against the Australians Wednesday and at the close of play the home team had 225 for four wickets.

Led by schoolmaster Michael Walford, who hit 21 fours in his first appearance of the season, Somerset scored 387 for seven in a county match against Glamorgan.

Final scores:

Warwickshire 225 for four vs Australian Tourists. Rain restricted play.

Surrey 284 vs. Hampshire (to bat).

Leicestershire 251 for nine vs Yorkshire.

Somerset 387 for seven vs Glamorgan.

Middlesex 147 for two vs Kent. Rain restricted play.

Gloucestershire 269, Northamptonshire 65 for two.

Derbyshire 368 for seven declared, Sussex, 17 for no wicket.

Nottinghamshire 361 for eight vs Lancashire.

OSHAWA (CP) — Oshawa Merchants of the semi-pro Senior Intercounty Baseball League defeated the last place Springfield Cubs of the class AAA International League 11-2 in an exhibition game here Wednesday night.

Mike Mellis, playing-manager of the Merchants in 1951-52 and now with Springfield, was charged with the loss as the Merchants collected 10 runs on seven hits off him in the first five innings. Eddie Drapcho pitched the first five innings and got credit for the win.

Frank Dyson's three-run homer, Bill Turk's bases-loaded double and another double by Butch Lawing that drove in two more runs were the big blows against the Cubs.

Marlene Tops Big Field

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A record field of 111 women golfers is entered in the 19th annual Canadian Ladies' Close golf championship which starts at the Sunningdale Club here today. The 54-hole medal competition will choose its champion Saturday.

Heading the field is Marlene Stewart, the smooth-stroking teen-ager from the Lookout Point club at Fonthill, Ont. She hopes to make it three in a row, having won in 1951 and 1952. If she is successful she will establish a record for the tournament, begun in 1922.

Four other members of the Canadian women's team which accompanied Marlene to Britain are to play today. They are the veteran Ada Mackenzie of Toronto Ladies, Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria, Babs Davies of Vancouver Marine Drive and Mary Gay of Kitchener.

Marlene, winner of the British Open, also leads an Ontario team into today's opening rounds. Four players from each province are to battle it out for interprovincial honors, the team with the lowest gross score for the first 36 holes gaining the title. Ontario is the defending champion.

Barbara Davies of Vancouver is the only other former Close winner besides Marlene Stewart and Ada Mackenzie who is starting today.

Marlene shot a 76 in practice Wednesday, women's par for the 5,998-yard course. She says she feels good, but isn't predicting anything.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Akoolap Oxpert knows too much bridge for his own good. It makes him blot out the easiest rules. It makes him deside everything the hard way. It makes him detour the obvious path of bidding.

Take second round bidding. He makes quite a fuss about picking out his second bid. He goes through a laborious set of involved tips and inferences to make the simplest decision.

Horse Sense avoids such a runaround. Our decisions are definite: not based on assumptions. As a result, our second-round bids glide into place; are easier if possible, than first round bids.

Follow the order of choice in T-A-N; tageout, assist, no-trump. Add another simple rule. It is: Increase the last partnership number only when you have an additional trick.

With these two simple rules you are lined up for correct bids on the second round. Assuming, of course, that you knew what your first bid promised and you told the truth about it.

We are discussing this deal:

NORTH
♠K 9 3
♥Q 7 3
♦A 4
♣A K Q 4 3

WEST
♠10 7 2
♥9 8 4
♦10 7 5
♣J 9 8 5

EAST
♠8 5
♥A K J 10
♦K Q J 9
♣10 7 2

SOUTH
♠A Q J 6 4
♥6 5 2
♦8 6 3 2

The bidding has gone this far:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 C	Dbl
1 S	Pass	?

An opening bid of one promises five tricks. With no more than five tricks an opener must not increase the partnership number. For each additional trick he may raise one in number.

Now north merely follows T-A-N. He has not a takeout to a new suit. But his clubs are rebiddable. He takes out to two clubs. His raise in number shows a sixth trick (of the seven he counts.)

Read Bows To Cannifton 7-6

(Contributed)

In a thrilling eighth inning rally the Read team fell short one run of tieing up the ball game; which puts Cannifton in a commanding lead with two straight wins. The score was 7-6.

Read started scoring early in the first inning getting two runs and adding one in the third, one in the fourth, one in the sixth and one in the eighth.

Cannifton got one in the first, three in the third, one in the fourth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh.

H. Shannon on the mound for Read had thirteen strikeouts but nine errors by his team mates led to their loss.

For the Cannifton team, Harder with a two-base hit, singles by Matthews, Sheffield, Moore, Stolliker, Cole and Philips, led their team.

Read heavy hitters were two-base hits by B. Brennan, R. Shannon, G. Brennan and J. Macavoy, coupled with four stolen bases.

Lineups:

Cannifton—Matthews, rf; Marner, cf; Sheffield, 2b; Moore, 1b; Stolliker, c; Cole, 3b; Philip, ss; Oliver, lf, replaced by Harder in 5th inning; Bradden, p., replaced by Dafoe in the 8th inning.

Read — B. Brennan, ss; R. Shannon, 3b; G. Brennan, c; J. Hanley, cf; H. Shannon, p; J. Macavoy, 2b; C. Brennan, lf; J. Meagher, rf; K. Brennan, 1b; Walsh batted for Brennan in the seventh.

Umpires: Plate, Lum Carson; bases, Red Carson.

Scorer: Art Hall.

Next game: Shannonville at Latta Thursday night.

AT THE McCARTHY — Richard Widmark, Darryl Hickman and Casey Adams, Navy weather experts assigned to a lonely desert outpost during the last war, have been alerted to a Japanese air raid in this dramatic moment from "Destination Gobi" Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor suspense drama now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Hollywood's most talked about romantic couple, lovely Arlene Dahl and dashing Latin lover Fernando Lamas, co-star with Patricia Medina in Paramount's first three dimensional Technicolor production, "Sangaree," now in its 5th and final day at the Belle. Based on Frank G. Slaughter's best selling novel "Sangaree" tells an excitement-loaded tale.

AT THE CAPITOL — Pony Express rider, Charlton Heston, hand on revolver, rides full speed out of Missouri in his bold dash to establish a reliable communication line across a rapidly developing continent. A scene from Paramount's brand new Technicolor adventure drama "Pony Express," which opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first showing. The added Technicolor adventure "Caribbean" stars John Payne and Arlene Dahl.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—lendid for personal and home rests, keen mental action, nalysis. But Saturn and Urnus warn against carelessness r too-sure attitudes with dangerous machinery ,tools, etc.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—ne of your most encouraging lanetary days in a month that good on the whole. Speed head with urgent matters; gain ll you can in business, work, earning. Be careful in hazarous activities.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) —ou should be mentally keen, lert, rightly ambitious and eag- to advance in occupation and ther useful interests. Be mindul of, grateful to, those who ave helped you. .Make it a ood day.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —ine vibrations from Venus, ercury, Jupiter can accrue to benefit now if you will forself and plan and work for ear ones and for causes aiding umanity in general. Recreation mportant.

July 22 to August 22 (Leo)—dvancement indicated in any ound, honest business, work, acivity. Good for reliable investents, gains through servicing he public; restaurants, resorts, tc. Have care in travel!

August 23 to September 23 Virgo) — No "clouds" in your ky. You can make it a helpul, generous day. Mercury, upiter and other planets favor ork, personal affairs and vaational activities.

September 24 to October 23 Libra) — You in artistic work, cientific professions, research, uthors, journalists (all requirng bright mentality), are espec- [illegible] to good living and advancement.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — No irritating influences from Mars and very benefic ones from other planets suggest a full, profitable day if you work, business and other personal interests are rightly managed.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Business activities and work schedules are favored for most folk on this average-to-better day. On vacation? Enjoy wholesome pleasures but don't be careless of health.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Saturn's aspect now bids one and all to be especially careful driving, swimming, handling tools, machinery, in travel. It is a productive, interesting day for you if the doing is right.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You are advised to be cautious making important decisions, changes in routine, duties. You can (heeding sound suggestions) have a satisfying day. Don't overdo in pleasures.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Rather similar to Capricorn now. Don't fret nor be discouraged. Most major planets are in encouraging, stimulating, helpful array and you should not only accomplish but have fun in the doing.

YOU BORN TODAY: The sun i your natal planet; power your keyword, and Sunday your zodiacal day of the week. You are interesting, dynamic, clever; inclined to be dictatorial and rather egotistical. But you are innately generous, broad-minded and above pettiness. Your fine qualities are so valuable it behooves you to correct now those faults that could cause you to be misunderstood and defeat the unusual success that can be yours. Listen graciously to others' ideas (we can all learn, you know). Take orders agreeably and pray daily for guidance, God's protection. Mind with whom you associate.

WOMAN DIES IN FIRE

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—The charred body of Mrs. Norman Biesel of Elmira was recovered Wednesday night from embers of a $30,000 frame farm home which burned to the ground two miles south of here.

The 11 persons in the house were candling eggs in the basement when fire of unknown origin broke out in the upper storey. All but Mrs. Biesel escaped in time.

HUGE AREA BLASTED

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Britain's first atomic blast in the nearby Montebello Islands last October devastated nearly 14 square miles, it was disclosed today. Results had been a closely guarded secret up to now. An Australian press party, which flew over the area in the first civilian plane permitted to approach since the tests, reported the area of destruction.

CARMEL

CARMEL — Mr. and Mrs. P. Dier have returned from their holiday in the U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Tearne have moved to their new home in Belleville.

Sorry to report Mrs. J. Reynolds had the misfortune to fall and break her collar bone; friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

Miss Shirley Dafoe returned to her home Sunday after spending a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds and boys spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott, West Huntingdon.

Little Miss Cathy Fox celebrated her second birthday on Wednesday. A number of children and their mothers attended a party at her home.

Presentation Made

A pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Moorman when the neighbors of the community gathered to honor their son, Roscoe, and his bride.

A short program was given of musical numbers. An address was then read by Miss Kay Homans, extending best wishes to the young couple for future happiness.

An electric coffee percolator, toaster and iron were presented to them.

Suitable replies were given by both and an invitation for all to come and visit them in their home in Belleville.

THIS WAS A WHOPPER

HAZELTON, B.C. (CP- — Five Hazelton Indians have come up with the fish story of the year. They have the fish to prove it—a 102-pound beauty hauled from the Skeena river. Departmeznt of fisheries officials, reporting the catch Wednesday, said it took five Indians to haul the big spring salmon from the river. The department said the record for a Pacific coast salmon is 108 pounds.

RAWDON

Oshawa Mayor Takes Civic Service at St. Paul's, Stirling

RAWDON.—His Worship, W. J. Naylor, mayor of Oshawa, was the special guest speaker at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Civic Sunday.

Mayor Naylor is a war veteran, an active church worker in the city of Oshawa, and is a Christian gentleman with a large conception of the value of Christian religion in everyday life. He brought to his large audience a message from the point of view of a layman of the United Church of Canada.

Preceding his message, he graciously thanked the Rev. A. E. Baker for his kind invitation and the honor of giving a message on Civic Sunday. He brought greetings on behalf of the City of Oshawa and congratulated St. Paul's on their Centennial year. Later, he expressed thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Elliott for their kind hospitality in entertaining his wife, Mrs. Naylor, his daughters, Sandra and Brenda, and himself, at their cottage, Oak Lake, over the week-end.

Not Greatly Appreciated

Mr. Naylor told his audience that those who hold public office have their ups and downs. Often they sacrifice much time in order to carry out their duties. Public office carries with it prestige and honor but often public servants are not greatly appreciated. Then, too, when election time rolls around, there are many people who do not bother to use their franchise, they care little about those in municipal office.

Oshawa is no different from any other city of its size. It has enjoyed a growth of population; various new buildings and as it grew to larger dimensions the responsibilities of those in office were greater

Mr. Naylor chose as his text, "The Kingdom of God is Within You", and he dwelt most forcibly on the character or spiritual side of any community and graphically pointed out how necessary religion was to all who take leadership in any community.

He felt all leaders should make an honest effort in a practical sense, to try and carry on civic duties in a Christian manner. The speaker traced the continuity of history down through the ages and in every case, individual people only, carried on successfully when they asked God for strength and courage for the day's needs.

Mr. Naylor quoted several noted writers to prove that man cannot attain high ideals without God's help. He paid tribute to the life of our late Sovereign, King George VI and his well-known quotation "Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God, that shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way." The late King depended on God for strength to carry on his varied tasks, especially during those difficult days of war.

A Governed Will

The speaker stressed that "our will must be governed by us". Each individual must wish to do right. Stanley Jones has said, "When I do the right things, I'm in harmony with the universe."

The old hymn, "I've Wandered Far Away From God, Now I'm Coming Home", was often sung by our forefathers as they realized their dependence on God and as they learned to live daily without prejudice. What a happy world we would have if Japs and Canadians, rich folks and poor folks, Roman Catholics and Protestants could all lose their identity and live together in complete harmony, all trying to make the universe as God would wish it to be."

The speaker quoted men of the Bible, such as Nicodemus, and stressed that all those in civic office need divine help. True, academic education is most worthwhile, but often the man who has been to Calvary has a wider vision and whenever he has the opportunity to serve he does the job and tries to better the lives of others.

In Mr. Naylor's closing words, he urged "that all individual people, surrender their lives to God and then they will be used to His Glory, ever remembering that God expects your whole life, not just a small part of it, and that you cannot buy the peace that is written in the Bible. "My peace I give unto you", rather you must earn that peace by your own day-by-day living."

The speaker felt that in his preparation for this Centennial service he himself had been given renewed strength and he had felt God's power working with him to bring this message to St. Paul's.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, presided over the service and graciously welcomed all civic and community leaders as well as visitors.

Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T., chose Mathews' "Fairest Lord Jesus", as her prelude and over 20 senior choir members and several Royal Junior choir members took their places in the choir loft during the processional hymn.

Following the National Anthem, and the responsive lesson, Warden J. Kincaid, Madoc, read the Bible Lesson found in Matthew Chapter 5.

The choir rendered, "O Holy City Seen of John", and the male quartet, Messrs. Harry Brown, Jack Bush, Grant Richardson and William Aylsworth, sang "The Lord is My Shepherd".

The ushers were Messrs. Claude Tucker, William Wilkins, Russell Rupert and Cecil Macklin.

Thanks Expressed

Mr. Harold Hagerman, recording steward, voiced appreciation to Mr. Naylor, for his inspirational address which would be a great help to everyone as they tried to live more like the Master each day. He also extended thanks to Warden Kincaid, Mrs. A. E. Baker, and her choir, Rev. Mr. Baker for his special plans for the Civic service and all those in attendance.

The service closed with "Lord of the Lands, Make Canada, Thine Own", and the choir rendered "The Centennial theme song, "Near to the Heart of God".

The pedestal baskets were beautiful with gladioli from the gardens of Mrs. Arthur Morrison and Mrs. Claude Tucker.

These Present

Rawdon municipal council attended in almost full strength, Reeve and Mrs. V. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cooney, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mumby, Mr. and Mrs. James Spry and Mr. Ernest Sarles.

Sidney township council was represented by Reeve and Mrs. Harry Morrow and Linda; Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton, and Mr. Roscoe Vandewater.

Stirling council was represented by Messrs. Albert Wells and Harry Philp.

Stirling school board by Messrs. Robert Patterson, Everett Ketcheson and Earl Fox; Stirling teachers, Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Mrs. C. A. Wells.

There will be three special Centennial services in September. On September 6, Rev. W. G. Berry, D.D., associate general secretary, department of Evangelism and Social Service, will have charge of the morning service, and in the evening at 7:30 p.m., will be Rawdon circuit night under the leadership of the pastor Rev. R. R. Bonsteel.

On September 13, in the evening will be Bayside Centennial night, and September 20, West Huntingdon Centennial night.

PROTEST PURCHASE

DUBLIN (CP)—Hundreds of unemployed marched through city streets shouting: "Give us our share of Tulyar—on a plate." The march was in protest against the £250,000 purchase by the national stud of the Republic of Ireland of Tulyar, who won last year's Derby for the Aga Khan.

BACKACHE, ACHING LEG MUSCLES, BAD STOMACH— TELLS HOW HE GOT RELIEF

Troubled Two Years, But Finally Found Help by Taking Syntona Says This Man. Praises It Highly.

When the stomach is out of order and food fails to digest properly, but ferments, causing awful gas, heartburn and sour acidity after eating; when poor kidney action brings on night rising, backache and rheumatic aches and pains; when these upset organic conditions cause you to lose appetite and become rundown, tired and nervous, take Syntona Herbal Compound and see what a difference it makes in only a short time.

Syntona has helped thousands of men and women suffering this way. Here, for example, is the recent experience of Mr. Harry Lanigan, 73 Tom Street, Hamilton, Ontario, who said:

"I have found that Syntona has helped me after suffering for the past two years with backache and aching leg muscles.

"At the same time it brought relief from bad stomach disorders and constipation. I used to be bothered with gas, indigestion and sour acid risings. But now I enjoy my meals without having this trouble afterwards.

"After this fine experience with Syntona I can recommend it to any one suffering from similar disorders."

WHAT IT DOES

Being made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntona acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Drives out acids, impurities and poison waste from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

WHERE TO GET IT

Why not let Syntona help you as it has so many others? It is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Find Punishment Contributed to Soldier's Death

PEMBROKE (CP)—A coroner's jury decided Wednesday night that the punishment handed out to Pte. Frederick Joseph Burke of Regina for overstaying his leave contributed to his death because it aggravated a previous illness.

Burke died July 16 within two hours after navigating an obstacle course at the Petawawa military camp.

The five-man coroner's jury, ordered to hold an inquest by the Ontario government after Burke's death aroused public attention, said the soldier's previous illness should have been considered before the punishment was ordered.

Pneumonia and pleurisy suffered by Burke in February and March, 1953, caused a condition which over-exertion aggravated, the jury ruled after hearing more than 30 witnesses and testimony that differed sharply on Burke's condition.

Did Not Report Condition

The jury also ruled that Burke contributed to his own death by not reporting that he felt ill and asking for medical attention.

The jury, under chief coroner Smirle Lawson of Toronto and with Bruce MacDonald of Windsor, Ont., as special counsel, urged that more thorough medical examinations be given soldiers undergoing detention, medical records be carefully scrutinized and uncertain conditions reported to officers ordering punishment.

Medical authorities should be available at the obstacle course when trainees were sent over it, the jury said.

Petawawa army authorities had reported that Burke, a Korean veteran, had undergone every medical examination required and had not indicated that after his return to camp that he had been ill at the home of an aun in Billings Bridge, Ont., near Ottawa, during his leave.

Coroner Disagrees

Medical witnesses and Dr. Lawson disagreed sharply whether Burke died of pleuro-pneumonia or an acute condition which might not have been indicated by an examination a few hours before his death.

Dr. Lawson insisted that the autopsy findings, in his opinion, revealed a pneumonic condition, but Dr. Max Klotz, who performed the autopsy, said the condition found might have become suddenly acute, with little advance warning.

MILLION-DOLLAR ROBBERY PLAN SMASHED

Dulles and Rhee Draft Mutual Security Pact

U.S. Will Provide Aid In Case of Red Aggression

SEOUL (AP)—State Secretary Dulles and President Syngman Rhee will initial the draft of a security treaty between the United States and South Korea Saturday, it was announced officially tonight.

The ceremony is scheduled for 10 a. m. (9 p. m. EDT today).

Agreement was reached on the treaty today.

The announcement was made by members of Dulles' party and the office of President Rhee. A joint statement from Rhee and Dulles is expected Saturday and the secretary of state will hold a press conference here before leaving for Tokyo.

Rhee has demanded the treaty as one condition for South Korea going along with an armistice in Korea. President Eisenhower promised in June to negotiate a security pact, which still must be approved by the U.S. Senate.

The treaty was reported patterned closely after the security pact between the United States and the Philippines. It provides that the U.S. will come to the aid of South Korea in the event of new Communist aggression. It also provides for basing U.S. troops in South Korea.

Dulles met for two hours and 45 minutes with Rhee today. He said he woould have "some progress" to report Saturday.

Conferred Four Times

Dulles said he would have a final meeting with the South Korean president Saturday morning and then fly to Tokyo.

"I will spend tomorrow night in Tokyo and take off for the States on Sunday," he said.

Dulles and high state department officials arrived in Korea Tuesday and Dulles and President Rhee have conferred four times on post-armistice problems.

At a press conference after he drove out of the grounds of Rhee's mansion, Dulles said he thought "good progress" had been made today.

Asked whether he and President Rhee had discussed unification of North and South Korea, the secretary said:

"We discussed unification every day, every hour on the hour."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th army commander, attended this afternoon's meeting. Dulles met with Rhee both morning and afternoon.

When Dulles emerged from the morning meeting, he was asked if he and Rhee had arrived at a formula for unification.

He replied:

"That's the whole purpose of the political conference."

He said the Allied side wants to enter the political conference "with a certain amount of flexibility."

Asked if he and Rhee had agreed on a site for the political conference, Dulles said that such an agreement was up to the United Nations and the Communists.

GANDHI'S SISTER ILL

RAJKOT, India (AP) — Raliyat Ben, 92-year-old widowed elder sister of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, lay apparently near death today after a heart attack. A recluse for many years, she collapsed while cleaning kitchen utensils.

Small Numbers Marking Ballots Shame, Menace

TORONTO (CP)—G. K. Shells, general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today the proportion of Canadians who vote in municipal, provincial and even federal elections is "so small as to constitute not only a shame and disgrace, but a real menace to national welfare."

In a "get out and vote" address to the Toronto Rotary Club Mr. Shells urged citizens to take at least the same interest in electing the Parliament or "board of directors of Canada unlimited" as they would in electing the board of directors of a business.

In their most recent provincial elections, he said, only 54 per cent of voters turned out in Manitoba; 58 per cent in Alberta; 64.6 per cent in Ontario. The record in municipal elections was worse.

In a study of a representative group of cities across Canada, Mr. Shells added, only Quebec polled more than 60 per cent of its voters in its last civic election. Percentages for other cities included:

Windsor, Ont. 57; Halifax and London, Ont., 46; Vancouver 43; Toronto 35; Montreal 22; Calgary 20; Edmonton 12.5.

The 1949 federal elections had produced something better "but was still far from satisfactory." About 75 per cent of eligible voters cast their ballots, but some constituencies fell far below that figure.

Parachute Cause Of False Alarm

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Phone calls flooded the filter centre of the RCAF here yesterday when a parachute was spotted over Brinston, 22 miles east of here. The RCAF at Ottawa dispatched two Sabre jets to check on the parachute when it was feared that a plane had crashed.

It was later learned that a farmer and his purchase from a war surplus store caused the excitement. The farmer bought a para chute and hung it on a pole in his yard to dry. A gust of wind caught the silk and hoisted it, together with the pole, 3,000 feet into the air.

Three Are Drowned When Yacht Capsizes

MONTREAL (CP)—A woman and two children were drowned and seven persons rescued late Thursday when a motor-driven yacht capsized after striking a floating log in the St. Lawrence river off Lanoraie, 35 miles downstream from Montreal.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Eugene Jobin, 41, and Bernard Desmarteaux, 5, both of Montreal, and Cecile Hervieux, 2, of Lanoraie.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are mostly clear over southern and eastern regions of Ontario but a weak weather disturbance, which is moving east across Lake Superior, is causing cloudy conditions with occasional light rain and drizzle across northwestern regions of the province.

Increasing cloudiness and a few showers will spread across southwestern Ontario this afternoon with a chance of an odd thundershower tonight.

Saturday will be mostly sunny over southwestern Ontario. Cloudy conditions with scattered showers are expected to persist over eastern regions through most of Saturday in eastern and central regions of the province.

CIVIL SERVANTS IN FRANCE STRIKE CRIPPLING NATION

Rumored Economy Plan Angers State Workers

PARIS (AP)—France's 2,000,000 civil servants slapped Premier Joseph Laniel with a crippling 24- to 48-hour country-wide general strike today. They demanded he cut defence costs instead of raising their retirement age and trimming their ranks.

The protest against the premier's rumored plans for government economies was France's worst strike since the 1936 days of Socialist Leon Blum's Popular-Front government.

Trains ground to a halt through the country. Telephones were dead. Gas flickered feebly. Garbage piled up in the streets. Non-government mine workers also joined in.

Paris buses and subways ran throughout the morning, but unions decided just before noon to call out their operators immediately. That left only taxis and private automobiles for capital riders.

Ground crews of Air France were called out on strike at Orly and Le Bourget fields until midnight. Flying personnel did not join. Traffic in and out of the big airports was expected to continue normally despite the walkout by ground crews.

Otherwise business and commercial life rapidly approached paralysis. It looked as if much of it would stay that way until Monday.

Not Red Strike

Unlike most French strikes, this one was not called by the Communists but by the Socialist Labor Force and the Christian Labor Federation. The Red General Confederation of Labor, however, happily joined in.

The walkout was ordered to protest reports that Laniel's six-week-old government planned to up the retirement age for government workers from 57 to 62 and lop many employees off the public payroll.

The premier launched an offensive of appeals and threats against the walkout. He ordered the striking telephone workers back on their jobs, threatened to suspend all striking civil service employees and warned that workers would not be paid for time off the job.

Such threats are usually not enforced, however, once a strike ends.

The government also ordered "requisitioning" of striking telephone workers to restore inter-city communications, but first indications were that this move had failed.

Program Not Announced

The premier's retrenchment program, designed to pull the government out of near-bankruptcy, has not been announced. The rumors of its details have been widely broadcast among workers, however. To the lower-level public servants, who work long years at an average pay of less than $65 a month with retirement as their principal reward, the idea of adding several more years of duty is unthinkable.

These workers argue that the government should cut down first on military spending—38 per cent of this year's $10,500,000,000 budget.

In a broadcast, Laniel urged the workers to wait until the government discloses its reorganization plans, asserting the cabinet has reached no decisions yet.

12 High North Korean Officials Plotted to Overthrow Red Regime

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist radio at Pyongyang said tonight 12 high North Korean officials have been prosecuted for planning to overthrow the Communist regime and spying for U. S. secret agents.

The North Korean radio said among the 12 officials were Rhee Syng Yop, former peoples censorship committee chairman, (the equivalent of special secret police) and Pak Hong Wong, former vice-premier and foreign minister.

While monitors here heard one name as Rhee Syng Yop the broadcast identified him as a former justice minister and the name probably is Lee Sung Yup.

Last month South Korean intelligence sources said Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, had fired Pak and Lee in a purge of cabinet ministers who were pro-Russian rather than pro-Chinese.

The RoK sources said Pak had been jailed and his job given to Lee Tong Kun, a South Korean trained in Red China.

Kim allegedly held a big edge in a tug of war between North Korean Reds trained by the Chinese Communists at Yenan and those trained in Moscow.

Pak, a South Korean who turned up in North Korea after being accused of inciting Red riots in the U. S.-occupied zone in 1946 was, a former general secretary of the Korean Communist party.

Election Barrage Dwindles As Monday E-Day Draws Near

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

E-Day is only three days away.

But the election campaign leading to Monday's voting doesn't appear to be reaching any crescendo. The political speeches are largely thinning out to repetition.

Though the ground campaign runs to election eve, the air campaign ends tonight with a final flurry by the Liberals. The CCF had its last national radio broadcast fling Wednesday night, the Progressive Conservatives Thursday night.

Prime Minister St. Laurent stumped Papineauville, Que., and Montreal Thursday and moves on to Barrie, Ont., and Toronto today, hard on the heels of George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. Mr. Drew, after his Orillia, Ont., and Toronto appearances Thursday, visits three more Ontario centres today—l'Orignal, Hawkesbury and Ottawa. CCF leader M.J. Coldwell returns to his home riding of Rosetown - Biggar after speaking Thursday night at Lloydminster, Sask.

Talk On Agriculture

Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Drew hit on the same theme in their Lloydminster and Orillia speeches—agriculture.

The CCF leader said federal agricultural policies must be completely revised if Canadian farmers are to achieve reasonable economic security.

There was no fair or stable relationship between farm prices and farm costs. In the seven-year period up to last January, costs had risen twice as much as prices. Excessive price spreads harmed both farmer and consumer and helped only the large packing and processing concerns.

Need Long-Term Markets

The government's "failure" to arrange long-term markets to absorb growing farm surpluses threatened to undermine the entire agricultural industry. The problems were too serious to be solved by the government's "stop-gap measures."

Mr. Coldwell outlined the CCF program for parity prices guaranteed in advance, nationalization of the farm implement industry, marketing boards and increased trade with sterling countries.

Mr. Drew promised two trade-building visits if elected, one to Britain, the other to the United States. A conference would be held with President Eisenhower to discuss U.S. restrictions on importation of Canadian dairy products and U.S. "dumping" of textile products in Canada.

Would Go To London

He would also go to London with his ministers of trade, finance and agriculture to "re-open British markets to Canadian farm products.

Mr. Drew said that last year Canada sold no pork, beef, salmon, dairy or poultry products to Britain. The attitude of the Liberals was that Canada had to wait for U.S. action to improve trading conditions with Britain and the rest of the sterling area. "Canada is able to take care of her own affairs," he said.

Mr. Drew referred to Liberal criticism that public works projects pledged by the Progressive Conservatives would cost more than the $500,000,000 in promised tax cuts.

That argument was "an example of why this government should be turned out of office—they don't even know the difference between capital and current expenditures."

Reviews Platform

Later at Toronto, Mr. Drew appeared before an audience of 5,000 to 6,000 in his last big rally. He also made his last radio broadcast of the campaign and reviewed his party's 16-plank platform.

He said there was nothing more certain than death and taxes," but the latter doesn't need to be so permanent if you make the right decision on Monday.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke in two Montreal market places. At St. James Market, Mrs. St. Laurent preceded the prime minister to the platform, making her first appearance of the campaign.

At Atwater Market, some 3,000 persons filled the second-storey meeting-hall and another 2,000 gathered in the streets below. They cheered Mr. St. Laurent's single election promise: "To do my best.

The prime minister spoke about national unity and mentioned four cabinet ministers—Defence Minister Claxton and Finance Minister Abbott, both English-speaking and from Quebec province; Health Minister Martin and Transport Minister Chevrier, both French-speaking and from Ontario.

Defends Claxton

He said he was getting tired of continual Progressive Conservative criticism that Mr. Claxton was negligent and inefficient. The defence department was bigger than any Canadian corporation. It was bigger than Canadian National Railways but Donald Gordon, CNR president, couldnt know everything that went on in his organization. There had been "mistakes in the defence department, but Mr. Claxton had been the first to admit them and to correct them.

The prime minister suggested that Mr. Drew was a "little late with a promise of a $500,000,000-a-year tax reduction. Mr. Drew promised his reduction for next October, but Mr. Abbott had already cut taxes last February. Mr. Drews election promises were "highly imaginaktive."

Mr. St. Laurent described Montreal as the "fortress of Liberalism. Since 1935, Montreal Island has elected four Progressive Conservatives to Parliament compared to 80 Liberals. A similar trend would show up Monday, he said.

Some Americans, One Briton, Many Koreans Stay with Reds

By JIM BECKER

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—Liberated Americans today disclosed for the first time that some United States prisoners of war, and at least one Briton, have swapped freedom for life under Communist rule.

Many South Koreans also were said to have chosen to remain under Communist rule as a result of intense Red propaganda.

Two U.S. soldiers just released from the same North Korean stockade said they knew of about seven Americans who had refused repatriation, apparently the victims of Red propaganda lectures.

Four other repatriates said at least three Americans they knew probably will remain behind of their free will.

Cpl. James Davis, Bradshaw, Md., said the three got special treatment.

"If you hit one of them you'd be going down the road, two to five years in prison," Davis said.

"We called them G.I. Chinks or Chink lovers."

Three returning privates concurred with Davis that the three, all Negroes, would not return.

The four were liberated from a Red prison camp at Pyoktong near the Manchurian border.

Space Station Circling Earth Said Feasible

ZURICH, (AP) — The chief designer of Nazi Germany's V-2 rocket predicted today that a permanent space station with a human crew could begin to circle the earth within 10 to 15 years.

Dr. Wernher von Braun told the International Astronautics Congress here that the realization of the project required only a "co-ordinated space program" by the Western powers. Dr. van Braun is engaged on top-secret military research for the United States. Dr. von Braun called for immediate action to realize his project.

466 JAILED

BERLIN (Reuters) —East German and Soviet authorities jailed 466 university professors and students between April, 1945 and June 1953, a survey by the West German office for All-German Student Affairs disclosed today. Seventy-seven students or teachers were sentenced to 25 years each.

HEALTHIER GROUP OF WAR CAPTIVES FREED ON FRIDAY

Belief Reds Holding Unlisted POW Grows

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A healthier group of 394 Allied war prisoners came out of Communist captivity today and added to mushrooming reports that the Reds are holding back some PoWs—including perhaps 2,000 to 3,000 Americans.

Eighty-one Americans were among the group released today under a brilliant sun at this wayside village in the third day of the Korean war prisoner exchange—"Operation Big Switch."

Although the Reds had promised 400, an unofficial count showed six South Koreans missing from the scheduled 250. There was no immediate explanation.

The Reds also sent back 25 Britons, 25 Turks, 12 Filipinos and seven Colombians.

They said the next group, scheduled Saturday morning, would include 90 Americans, 250 South Koreans, 35 Turks and 25 Britons.

That will bring the total of Americans released to 311, a fraction of the 3,313 the Reds have promised to return.

In all, the Allies are handing over 74,000 Reds for 12,863 Allied PoWs.

Reds Better Behaved

The UN command sent back 2,753 Communists today, a quieter and better-behaved group than those of the first two days, who ranted wildly in last-minute shows of defiance. They still sang and chanted, but they were more restrained and did not attack UN personnel as they did earlier.

The Allied repatriates, wearing faded blue Chinese uniforms, appeared in much better condition mentally and physically than the sick and weary men released the first two days. Even so, some were ill and needed medical care.

The Reds, showing eagerness for the first time, started the exchange five minutes ahead of time.

However reports grew that the Reds may be holding out thousands of PoWs, many of them Americans, in their bleak northern stockades.

Some In Jail

One of today's repatriates, Pte. Thomas R. Murray of Baltimore, said several prisoners were being held in jail. He said one of his friends had been sentenced to a year in prison only recently on charges of slandering the Chinese.

Murray also told of about seven Americans at his camp who had swallowed the Communist line and chose to stay behind in Red hands.

Visiting Washington, Gen. Mark W. Clark, UN Far East commander, told a press conference there is evidence the Reds hold from 2,000 to 3,000 more Americans than the 3,313 they listed for return. He also said "thousands and thousands" of South Koreans are unaccounted for.

Clark said Washington instructed him to sign the armistice, but to reserve the right to press for information about additional captives in later proceedings.

Dies of Polio

HAMILTON (CP)—Mrs. Teresa Gregor, 21, of Welland died of polio in hospital here Thursday.

Mrs. Gregor was brought here Tuesday night.

She is believed the second polio fatality in the area this year.

Kingston Pen 'Graduates' Among Thirteen Arrested

Gang Planned to Hold Up Bank in Central Oshawa

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they thwarted a plan to seize General Motors' million-dollar holiday payroll with the arrest of 11 persons last week.

Two more persons were arrested Thursday night by the newly formed police holdup squad under Sgt. Jim Morgan. Police said they found a fully loaded Sten gun in the trunk of a car parked on a vacant lot and a loaded revolver hidden behind a radio in the Poplar Plains road home where the arrests were made.

Jointly charged with the theft of the Sten gun, receiving and possessing a deadly weapon are Pte. Preston Nix of the army ordinance depot here and Theresa McKenzie, 28, alias Lalonde, alias Nix.

Police said the payroll gang, composed mainly of Kingston Penitentiary "graduates," made elaborate plans for six holdups while in prison. Four of them were carried out but members of the gang told police they were "just warm-ups" for two big holdsups.

Planned Two Robberies

Police information was that within two weeks, beginning last Friday, the mob planned to rob the Royal Bank at the main intersection in Oshawa of the General Motors payroll and then another bank in suburban Scarborough.

Detectives said Nix, arrested Thursday night, was an armorer at the army depot, teaching cadets how to handle machine guns, Sten guns and other small arms. They charge he stole the gun in pieces last month.

One of the gang was reported to have told police: "It's a good thing you caught us when you did. In another two weeks we would have made the Boyd gang look sick."

(The gang headed by bank Robber Alonzo Boyd left a trail of big holdups across Southern Ontario before being rounded up and sentenced.)

Several of those now in custody are charged with the holdups of the Skene Brothers Transport Company and the Orchard Park tavern in Toronto, along with two other robberies in the Hamilton area.

Police said these holdups were to provide money for additional guns, two cars and the rent for an Oshawa home as a hide-out.

Practise Duties

Sgt. Morgan, who helped uncover the arrangements for the General Motors "job," said seven men, six armed with revolvers, the other with a Sten gun, were going to rob the bank. Each man had practised his duties.

A policeman stationed at the entrance of the bank was to have a gun shoved in his ribs and then forced into the bank.

The gang, police said, made two trips to an Oshawa hotel in recent weeks to make their plans.

Arrested last week in three separate raids were: William Lowe, 30; Andrew Peacock, 27; Joseph Renaud, 25; Jack Marshall, 18; Gorman Cassidy, 35; Leo Craig, 51; Leo Gauthier, 50, all of Toronto, and three women, Betty Cassidy, 26; Shirley Reynolds, 29 and Shirley Forrest, 21.

Police also have warrants out for the arrest of another man. Gauthier was originally charged with vagrancy but police said he will be charged with the Orchard Park armed robbery.

Lost in Rockies for Nine Days, Veteran Climber Found by Collie

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Mountain climber Alex McCoubrey of Winnipeg is recovering in hospital after being lost for nine days in the Rocky Mountains near the Alberta-British Columbia boundary 200 miles west of Edmonton.

The 32-year-old veteran mountain climber told his rescuers that a dog found him.

"I guess I owe my life to Laddie," he said. The collie dog is owned by park warden Clarence Wilkins of the Whirlpool river area where McCoubrey was found.

The search was just about to be abandoned Wednesday when McCoubrey was found "well but weak." He was taken to Seton hospital in Jasper. Earlier reports said he was found Thursday.

McCoubrey, son of a former president of the Alpine Club of Canada, became separated from his party July 28. One story said he turned back on the slope of Browne peak after the party completed 6,000 feet of the climb. The second said he disappeared during the descent.

Suffering no apparent ill effect from his ordeal, McCoubrey nevertheless was ordered by hospital officials to refrain from seeing any visitors.

Maj. G. H. Tolley New President Canadian Legion

SUDBURY (CP)—The Ontario command of the Canadian Legion closed its four-day convention Thursday with a decision to hold next year's gathering at Oshawa.

The convention's heavy agenda included resolutions calling for compulsory national service, the extension of liquor privileges to ex-service Indians, the establishment of Nov. 1 as a statutory holiday and an increase in veterans' allowances and pensions.

More than 40 other resolutions awaited attention when the convention closed today. These will be forwarded to the incoming executive for consideration.

Maj. G. H. Tolley of Sault Ste. Marie was inducted as the provincial president, succeeding T. A. M. Hulse of Toronto. Henry Harvey of Ottawa is the vice-president.

Regional vice-presidents elected were: Ray Mann of Brantford, J. Burnet of Cobourg, Leo Troy of North Bay and Jack Burrows of Windsor. E. K. Brunton of Sudbury was re-elected honorary treasurer.

Leo Cunningham of St. Catharines is chairman of the Ontario section and Chester Merriam of Toronto vice-president.

Marooned Three Days After Crash-Landing

WINNIPEG (CP)—The story of a flaming crash in the Barren Lands and three days marooned on the trackless tundra was told here Thursday by a Minneapolis surgeon—one of four men rescued last Friday from the rocky shore of Lake Kaminuriak, 800 miles north of Winnipeg.

Dr. Laurence Larson, 49, medical advisor to a seven-man University of Minnesota scientific party, told of the experience on reaching here. He said he and two companions, returning home ahead of the remainder of the party, owed their lives to bush pilot Charlie Webber, 28, of Churchill, Man.

The others on the plane were James Wilkie, 42, photographer, and his brother Robert Wilkie, 42, sound recorded.

Larson said Webber crash-landed his flaming Norseman on Lake Kaminuriak without injury to the passengers and improvised a raft from inflatable mattresses and plane parts to reach shore. He taught them how to survive on the tundra until a search plane found them.

They survived on berries and young ptarmigan that they stoned.

They were rescued by another pilot, Gunnar Ingebrigtson, veteran northerner.

DRUNK RIDING NOT AS SERIOUS AS DRUNK DRIVING

Just what is the difference between drunk riding and drunk driving?

According to Belleville police the difference on conviction is "ten and costs" for the drunk riding and seven days in jail on the more serious charge of drunk driving.

Twice in the past week local police have picked up bicycle riders, who were later charged as ordinary drunks. This was the only charge that could be laid against a drunken bicycle rider as under the Highway Traffic Act, a bicycle is not a motor vehicle.

MONEY-MAKERS

'Hasty Pees' Precision Squad Takes Honors

Marching like the veterans of their famed first battalion, a squad of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (reserve) now in summer training camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake won the brigade honors and trophy for precision drill on Thursday afternoon.

The detachment under command of Company Sergeant Major Tommy Ash of Madoc, wrested the laurels from similar squads of the Midland Regiment and the Prince of Wales Regiment.

The three units comprise the 6th Infantry Brigade under the command of Colonel Lyle Carr, of Port Hope.

The "Hasty Pees" detachment was trained by Company Sergeant Major "Blacky" Simpson of Trenton, who was unable to be on parade due to family matters. CSM Ash took over at the last minute.

Colonel Carr paid special tribute to the Hasty Pees following the drill. He said they were "keen" and a credit to not only their regiment but to the brigade as well.

Twenty one men comprised the squad out of the 150 all ranks who are undergoing summer training.

The regiment will return at the end of the week.

Voted on All Major Questions Says Follwell in Reply to Criticism

MELROSE (Special)—"I was present in the House during all major votes and at the times when I was away, I was attending to the individual problems of my constituents," Frank Follwell, Liberal candidate told a public meeting Wednesday evening. Mr. Follwell was replying to charges he had been absent when a number of votes were taken in the House of Commons. The criticism of the Liberal candidate was made by Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative candidate in Tweed, last week.

Mr. Follwell said, he personally had no criticism to offer of the Conservative candidate's record as warden, but he added, his own record would compare at any time with that of his opposition. Making reference to his three years as mayor of Belleville, the speaker said the industries which he had introduced into the city during his terms in the mayor's office, had not been acquired by sitting in council, but by getting out and working.

Was on Call

Returning to the matter of Mr. Grills' charges, the Liberal candidate said when he was absent from the House, he was at all times on call at Ottawa.

Making reference to the matter of cheese production he declared the federal government was more than doing its part by establishing a floor price of 24 cents. Mr. Follwell said that in his opinion, the surplus cheese problem in the Province of Ontario was the provincial government's worry and should not be a federal matter. However, he pointed out, the province had refused the cheese producers the six cents it had been paying in past years when the amount was requested in 1953.

"You must take note," Mr. Follwell stated, "when the marketing boards approached the Minister of Agriculture, James Gardiner, asking for a floor price of 29 cents, Mr. Gardiner agreed to buy up last year's surplus for 30 cents and the government would still continue to pay the 24 cents on the board."

The speaker said the federal government had agreed to go even farther. What surplus of cheese remaining after the end of September 1953, the Liberal government also agreed to buy at the 30-cent rate.

Lauds Accomplishments

Robert Temple was included among the speakers Wednesday evening. Mr. Temple, in listing Mr. Follwell's accomplishments as member of parliament and as mayor of Belleville, said that one of the greatest things about Mr. Follwell was his willingness to help his constituents, to do anything for them.

He also said, "Under a Conservative regime, you have had bad times and under the Liberal government, things have gone well for the country."

Also on the platform were: Joseph E. Walsh, president of the Tyendinaga Liberal Association and chairman of the meeting; Les McLaren, deputy-reeve of Tyendinaga township; Irving McGaughey, president of the South Hastings Liberal Association and Mrs. Herbert McCabe.

Wheat Plentiful, Yields Excellent, In Quinte Region

Excellent yields of fall wheat of up to 50 bushels per acre are being reported by farmers in the Bay of Quinte district, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Local wheat buyers say it has been many years since wheat has been as plentiful, with one Belleville buyer having already shipped 23 cars. Price being received by the farmers has been $1.45 per bushel for No. 1 delivered at the railway car, although it was stated the price was expected to drop at least 5c per bushel.

Wheat from the Belleville area is mostly shipped to a cereal company in Peterborough.

Cutting of spring grain is well advanced with considerable oats already having been combined or threshed.

In Northumberland county tomato fields are said to be average and the crop is coming along well in Prince Edward. Canning factories are expected to start processing tomatoes within the next two weeks.

Likely to Be Dear Left Turn For Motorist

The traffic sign at the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets, which indicated that no left turns are permitted means just what it says and the regulation is doubly strong when a traffic officer brings it to the attention of the motorist.

At least that is what one Toronto motorist who refused to take the directions of a traffic officer seriously is going to find out.

During the evening the patrol officer stopped the Toronto motorist in the act of making a left turn. He drew the attention of the motorist to the traffic regulation only to receive some rough language and see the motorist drive on.

The officer made a note of the licence number and today a summons is going out to the motorist who could not see fit to co-operate.

PLANE CRASHES, PILOT OK

CENTRALIA (CP)—A Harvard training plane from RCAF station, Centralia, on a routine training flight, made a forced landing Thursday five miles south of Centralia just off No. 4 Highway. Cause was engine failure. Flt.-Lt. K. R. Stacey, the pilot, walked away uninjured.

McCULLAGH ESTATE SOLD

TORONTO (CP)—The Markham township estate of the late George McCullagh has been sold to Shouldice Surgery, Limited, which will turn the three-storey house into a 45-bed private hospital specializing in hernia operations, it was announced Thursday. Price was $250,000. The late publisher of the Globe and Mail and the Telegram died Aug. 4, 1952.

Building Activity In July Drops To $81,220

Building activity fell off in the city during July, it was reported today by city building inspector Dave Barker who noted that the month's total of permits was considerably below that of the previous three months. Total construction value for the month, including permits for eight new dwellings was $81,220.

No commercial or industrial construction of any note was started during the month, the largest item under this head being a permit for a new store front for $8,000 taken out by Frank Domenico.

Permits were issued to the following during the month:

His wife predeceased him in 1944.

Farm Tractor Set Afire By Steel Brush

A spark from a steel brush being used to clean a farm tractor set fire to the machine at the home of Murray Reid, 4th concession of Sidney township, Thursday evening.

Prompt use of fire extinguishers by Mr. Reid had the blaze almost under control by the time the firemen from Belleville, arrived on the scene. Firemen were called as a precaution, when the flames threatened a nearby driveshed.

Reid's foresight in moving the tractor outside before he started to clean the machine saved the driveshed from burning when the tractor caught afire.

Early this morning firemen had aa second call, this time to an apartment at 163 Moira Street West, where a mattress was reported ablaze. A cigaret was thought to have been responsible for the fire.

POLICE BLOTTER

Two West Hill resident are going to have to decide the responsibility for dented fenders, which resulted yesterday when a car parked in a driveway moved downgrade and bumped a neighbor's car parked on the street. Damage was minor, amounting to about $50.

Police said that the brakes on the car parked in the driveway apparently failed to hold and in the absence of the owner the car backed onto the street and bumped the neighbor's auto.

A local mail carrier, G. D. Percy, complained that he had been bitten on the leg by a dog as he was delivering mail on South John Street. The dog's teeth drew blood, it was stated. The matter was turned over to city dog catcher Charles Thorne for investigation.

Jean Mills, age 7, R.R. 4, Belleville, escaped injury yesterday as she ran into the side of a passing car. Fortunately the car was moving slowly and the little gir lwas uninjured. The accident occurred east of Belleville, where highway repairs are in progress.

BOY, 9, KILLED BY CAR

BRAMPTON (CP) — Edward Turza, 9, was fatally injured Thursday when struck by a car in front of his home on No. 7 highway. He was taken to hospital in Brampton where it was decided to take him to Toronto for a brain operation. He died on the way.

PC Candidate Pledges New Deal For Canadians on Behalf of Party

Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative candidate in next Monday's voting, brought his campaign to a close Thursday night at a meeting that packed the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front St.

The P.C. candidate and his supporting speakers pledged a new deal for Canadians on behalf of their party, criticized the record of the Liberal administration and predicted a successful outcome to the voting.

"So goes Foster Ward, so goes the election," Harry Rollins commented. "Foster Ward is going to lead the victory parade for Lee on Monday," he aded.

In response to the warm greeting given him when he was introduced, Mr. Grills stated the crowd was "an inspiration to me." He added: "I have been receiving almost unbelievable support from fine people all over this riding, and I feel confident that support will bear the fruit we are seeking on Monday.

"I like to be called Lee," Mr. Grills said. "It has a friendly sound and I value friendship more than anything else in the world. Regardless of political persuasion let's all be friends, was his appeal. It will be a better world for all of us that way," he added.

Stresses Personal Service

The candidate stated that he had always tried to give personal service in his municipal career. "And," he added, "I will continue to do just that if you send me to represent you at Ottawa, as I feel you are going to do."

He criticized the federal government for calling a summertime election, which would, he said, result in the disenfranchisement of a large number of voters who would be away on vacation. "But," he added, "they have ignored too many of the people this time and this action will backfire on them."

Mr. Grills expressed his feeling that as many people as possible should be encouraged to own their own homes. This would give them a stake in the community and would be a powerful antidote to communism since "people who have built a home of their own will never become communists."

The candidate also felt that the income tax exemption should be raised to cover all citizens earning up to $5,000.

Mr. Grills repeated references which he had made in previous addresses to the record of non-attendance at voting at parliament of his opponent. The Liberal member in the last House, he stated, had voted only 86 times and had missed 117 divisions during the last parliament. "My opponent," he commented, "apparently doesn't like sitting in the House of Commons.

"Why wasn't he there?" Mr. Grills demanded. "Why didn't he vote?"

Urges Everyone to Vote

He concluded by again urging all present to vote on Monday. "Whether you support me or not, vote," was his parting admonition. "We must all do our duty in that regard on Monday."

"We're all behind Lee and he is going to win," was the statement of Elmer Sandercock, MPP, for Hastings West. "He is a grand person and the more you get to know him the better you like him," was Mr. Sandercock's tribute.

Other speakers who spoke on behalf of the candidate included Sandy Lummiss, Walter Batchelor and R. J. Gunn, of Trenton. These speakers urged workers not to relax their efforts in support of Mr. Grills until the last vote is polled. Reference was made to the war savings certificates by Mr. Batchelor, who pointed out that due to the depreciated Canadian dollar, the certificates were only worth a fraction of their original value.

William House, Jr., president of the Trenton organization predicted that the Conservatives will get an even break there on Monday. A good organization is functioning there, he declared, and its results will be evident at the polls.

Harry Rollins also predicted victory. "And it will be a personal victory for Lee Grills, as fine a man as ever wore shoe leather," Mr. Rollins asserted. "But let's not take anything for granted," he appealed. "Let's not let up in our efforts until the last vote has been polled on election day. We have won the campaign, let's not lose the election," he concluded.

The meeting was followed by entertainment and dancing and refreshments were served by Mrs. J. McKenna and her staff of workers.

Montreal Man Killed Watching Auto Race

MONTREAL (CP)—A mishap at a stock-car racetrack and two highway traffic accidents claimed three lives Thursday in Montreal and district.

Gaston Hetu, 54, of Montreal, was killed while watching a stock-car race at St. Hyacinthe, Que. One of the vehicles went out of control and struck him.

Six-year-old Rene Blais of Cooksville, Que., was killed by an automobile while he was walking along a highway.

Gaston Roy, 23, of Ste. Therese, Que., was killed when the car he was driving collided with a truck on a Laurentian highway near Ste. Rose.

MINING SLUMP

CALGARY (CP)—The unemployment insurance commission office here reported a slump in coal-mining has driven many younger miners away from the Crow's Nest Pass, Alberta's biggest producing area. Reports in late July said miners were working only about three days a week.

Michigan Governor Supports Seaway Plan

SEATTLE (AP)—Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams made a bid Thursday for support of the national governors' conference for the St. Lawrence seaway and power development.

He told the governors the administration is "strongly behind the program, as it has been every year for 20 years."

Williams said Canada is fully prepared to go ahead with the proposed project in short order and, as a matter of good neigrborliness and national self interest, "we should join hands in this project."

ROMEO AND JULIET

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Romeo Morin, Montreal railway worker, arrived here to complete his record of having bicycled in every province of Canada. He has made two coast-to-coast tours in North America and one in Europe on his bicycle, which he calls "Juliet."

Made Good Start Eisenhower Says Of His Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower staked out a claim today that his administration has made "a good start" toward building an honest, efficient regime at home while exerting its power in the cause of world peace.

But Eisenhower conceded that his administration has by no means "seen and conquered all the problems of our nation" in its first six months.

In a radio address Thursday night, the President said this was his "single, supreme purpose":

"To serve and to strengthen our people, all our people, in their faith in freedom and in their quest of peace; and to strengthen all peoples who share with us that faith and that quest."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices held within a narrow range in mixed forenoon trading today.

Volume for the first hour reached 304,500 shares—up about 30,000 shares from Thursday.

Industrials improved slightly. Utilities and refining oils drew the best support; key issues like Bell, B. A. Oil and Imperial Oil added fractions. Imperial Life rose 3½ points on a single sale of 100 shares. Papers weakened.

Golds made no headway. Seniors eased and juniors and holding companies edged forward. Higher were Preston East Dome, East Malartic and Madsen. Hollinger and Lake Shore faded in seniors.

Uraniums failed to continue Thursday's rally. Gunnar and Nesbitt Labine firmed. New Brunswick base metals faded.

Higher-priced base metals led their group lower to halt the two-day advance. Lower were falconbridge, Hudson Bay and Noranda. Cobalt Consolidated, Golden Manitou and Dominion Asbestos slipped in the junior section.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Receipts of cattle for the short holiday week were slightly lower than last week's total at the Ontario stockyards. Prices were steady on better cattle and weaker on lower grades. Calves were steady on handyweights and lower on heavies while hogs gained 50 cents and lambs lost $2. Holdover at the close was 1,050 cattle.

Fresh cattle receipts were 6,974 head added to 700 carried from last week. With Monday a holiday, Tuesday's run was heavy at 6,300 head but receipts dwindled afterwards. Choice light and weighty steers $20-21; a few $21.50; some choice heavy steers $20; good light $19-20; mediums downward to $18; plain light steers and heifers $14-17; good heifers $18.50-19; choice fed yearlings $21-22.50; a few $22.75; medium downward to $18; good cows sold on a dull market at $12-12.50; a few heifery cows $13; canners and cutters $7-10; good heavy bulls $13-14; plain light bulls $9-12; picked lots of stockers $18-18.50; mediums $16-17.50; common as low as $12.

Calves totalled 1,522 head. Choice light veal calves were steady at $21-22; a few tops $23; common to medium vealers $12-18; heavy calves were hard to move at lower prices.

Hogs were 2,536 head. Prices were up 50 cents at $34 for grade A; dressed sows were unchanged at $22.

Sheep and lambs totalled 1,136 head. Lambs opened at $28 for good ewes and wethers and dropped to $26, with bucks at $25; culls $17-20; good sheep closed at $8-10; culls downward to $4.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Trading was slow at the egg market. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 67-68; A medium 60; A small 50; B 48; C 43. Wholesale to retail: A large 72-73; A medium 65; A small 55; B 53; C 45.

Butter solids: 1st grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57-57½; Western 58.

Russian Tanks Reported Ringing German Plants

BERLIN (AP) —Soviet army tanks today were reported ringing many East German factories to deal with possible outbreaks of the rebellious population.

The report was published in the U. S. state department newspaper Neue Zeitung as East Germans coming to West Berlin for the American-backed food handout reported new sporadic unrest in the Russian zone.

Neue Zeitung said the Red tanks first called out to quell the June 17 rebellion, had been stationed around "numerous big East zone factories." There was no indication, however, that violence had developed at any of these potential trouble spots.

The northwest German radio broadcast a report that large Soviet troop, tank and artillery forces have been moved into East Berlin in the last three days, but Western military sources said they did not believe it.

Confiscate Food

With the crumbling of their travel blockade against the food seekers, the Communist police intensified their confiscation drives to strip thousands of East Germans of the food they collected in West Berlin.

Reinforced cordons of Communist People's Police surrounding Berlin snatched the food parcels on trains and at railway stations and plundered people who used pedestrian crossings back to the Russian zone.

Stratford Sea Cadets Win National Contest

TORONTO (CP)—The Royal Oak Sea Cadet Corps of Stratford has won the national ship's name contest, it was announced Thursday by the Navy League of Canada's national council.

The contest, competed for by Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps across the country, is based on a 300-word essay jointly written by members of a corp on the history of its name.

Second place in the contest went to the John Travers Cornwall VC Corps of Winnipeg.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) —The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 3-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 15-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.78 5-8, against $2.78 11-16.

HEADS TRAIL HIKERS

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—F. H. W. Chanter of Nelson, B.C., has been elected president of the Skyline Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies at the group's annual meeting at Skoki lakes. Evelyn Boyd of Shelburne, Ont., was elected to the executive committee.

Drew Urges Canadians to Preserve Two-Party System, Oust Liberals

TORONTO (CP)—George Drew made the final major speech of his general election campaign Thursday night and urged Canadians to preserve the two-party system by voting the Liberals out of office next Monday.

The Progressive Conservative leader addressed between 5,000 and 6,000 persons in Exhibition Park on the shore of Lake Ontario. Earlier in the evening he made his final radio broadcast of the campaign, reviewing his party's platform in a half-hour speech over the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

Today's schedule calls for Mr. Drew to spend the morning in Ottawa, doing no campaigning, then to travel by auomobile through the Ottawa valley south of the capital, speaking at Hawkesbury and Eastview before returning to Ottawa for an evening meeting.

A Great Canadian

Introduced to the park rally as "a great Canadian" by Premier Frost of Ontario, provincial treasurer when Mr Dew was Ontario premier from 1943 to 1948, Mr. Drew said the Conservatives are ready and able to form a government. Replying to Trade Minister Howe's assertion that the party is in no shape to take office afer 18 years out of power, he said that if the voters take Mr. Howe's word, "it means the end of the two-party system in Canada."

He said he is confident the democratic instincts of the Canadian people will result in preservation of the two-party system in Monday's vote.

Repeating his party's promise to cut taxes by $500,000,000, he said Prime Minister St. Laurent had expressed shock at the opposition suggestion that 10 per cent of the $2,500,000,000 defence budget could be reduced without impairing defence efficiency.

"I only wish he had been sufficiently shocked to do something about it."

Made Right Decision

There was nothing more certain than death and taxes—"but the latter doesn't need to be so permanent if you make the right decision on Monday."

Earlier, addressing a picnic audience of about 350 at Orillia, he promised two trade-building visits, one to Britain and the other to the United States, if the Conservatives are eleced.

He said he would go to London with the new ministers of trade, finance and agriculture to "reopen British markets" to Canadian farm products and would confer in Washington with President Eisenhoser on U. S. restrictions on imports of some Canadian foodstuffs and U. S. "dumping" of textile products in this country.

"There is only one way we can make our farmers prosperous—and in that way keep our villages, towns and cities prosperous. That is to find export markets for our farm products."

Dwindling Market

Last year Canada had sold no pork, beef, salmon, dairy or poultry products to Britain. The attitude of the Liberal government was that Canada had to wait for U. S. action to improve trading conditions with Britain and the rest of the sterling area.

Said Mr. Drew:

"Canada is able to take care of her own affairs."

Planes, Vessels Get Extra Work In Election

OTTAWA (CP)—The forthcoming federal election is providing extra work for some commercial airlines and shipping companies operating in the Canadian northland.

Their planes and vessels are being enlisted to carry election materials in and out of the remote places in the northern sections of the Mackenzie river and Saguenay constituencies and the Labrador areas of Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador riding.

These constituencies have about 60,000 eligible voters, many living in spots visited only infrequently by bush planes and supply vessels.

Voting for the first time in these ridings will be 2,500 Eskimos of a population of about 8,500. Few are expected to exercise their right to vote, granted by Parliament since the 1949 election by an amendment to the Election Act.

Most Eskimos will be ranging the Arctic and sub-Arctic country for game during the short summer season. However, at Aklavik and Coppermine in the Northwest Territories and Fort Chimo, Port Harrison, Ivuyivik and Sugluk in northernmost Quebec and Labrador some will be within easy distance of polling stations.

The planes and vessels carried in election supplies, and ballot boxes and will take them out again after the Aug. 10 voting day.

'LIGER' IS SHOT

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (Reuters)—Diana, one of Bloemfontein zoo's two world - famous Ligers—a cross between a lion and a tiger—was shot Thursday after experts found her suffering from an incurable illness. The Liger is difficult to breed and extremely rare. In Diana, who lived to be 19, a lion's massive head was combined with tiger stripes.

Two Are Killed, Three Injured Near Lindsay

LINDSAY (CP) — Two persons were killed and three injured Thursday night when two automobiles collided almost head-on on Highway 7, seven miles south of Lindsay.

Dead are Newton Armstrong, 65, of RR 2, Pontypool, and Nellie Watson, 50, of Kirkland Lake.

In hospital here are Garnet Armstrong, 35, who police said was driver of the car in which his father was a passenger, who suffered severe facial cuts and shock; and his brother, Everett, with shock and minor injuries.

In hospital at Peterborough, 28 miles east of here, is Fern Dorothy Gallinger, 55, of Ottawa, who is suffering from severe shock. The two women were in one car and the three men in the other.

Provincial police have not been able to determine which woman was the driver or in what direction the cars were travelling.

Says He Saw Russian Aiding North Koreans

PANMUNJOM (Reuters(— Sgt. Jack Gauldine of Ashburn, Ga., said on his return here today that he had seen Russians operating anti-aircraft defences in North Korea.

"I saw the Russians working with Chinese technicians, operating a searchlight battery just behind my prison camp," the air force sergeant said.

Pleads Guilty To Passing Five Cheques

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Malcolm Charles, 22, of Brantford, was remanded Thursday to Aug. 14 for sentence after he pleaded guilty to passing five worthless cheques to receive $118.

Officials of a local hotel said Charles, a salesman, received cash for four of the cheques and paid his hotel bill with the fifth.

Charles denied any criminal intent. He said he thought his firm would cover him for his expenses but it had not "backed me up."

Some of us are paying far more than we need to in Income Taxes. ALL OF US are paying more than we should in hidden taxes to pay for surplus budgeting, waste and extravagance EVERY TIME WE SPEND A NICKEL OR A DIME OR A DOLLAR.

These Indirect Taxes which we all pay are the means by which the present Government hopes to make their money grab painless.

The Sales Tax alone accounts for from 17% to 20% of the cost of everything you buy. (The tax is 10%, but mark-ups and taxes-on-taxes bring it much higher.) Under the present crazy system of Ottawa taxation you even pay excise taxes on the sales tax. (Over half the price of a package of cigarettes is still Ottawa taxes).

On the cheapest automobile there is, the Government takes more in taxes than the manufacturer pays in wages.

THE WAR PRISONER PROBLEM

Stories from Panmunjon do not make pleasant reading.

Men ill unto death, men who have been tortured, men who have been half-starved — the reports arouse horror and indignation.

Even more disturbing is the statement of Gen. Mark Clark at Washington that the Communists may hold 2,000 or 3,000 more American prisoners than they have admitted—with the clear inference that the Reds intend to continue holding these men captive. Nor should we overlook the fact that, if this situation exists with respect to American prisoners, it is almost certain to be true on an even larger scale with regard to South Koreans.

It is easy to become angry — but not so easy to suggest any adequate solution for the problem of war prisoners. We should not forget the fact that this is not the first war in which prisoners have been ill-treated. Nor should we be so foolishly optimistic as to entertain hopes that the record will be better in the future, unless some organized effort is made to alter the system.

Much has already been achieved in respect to this problem. Indeed, there will be those who will maintain that all that is required is for combatants to observe the regulations set out in the Geneva Convention. That, however, is to avoid the issue—which is simply that there is no method of forcing a combatant to observe these regulations.

Moreover, even if a nation has the best of intentions and desires to handle war prisoners in a humane fashion, it is still possible for undesirable conditions to arise. This may be the result of laxity, such as gave imprisoned Communists in United Nations camps the opportunity to revolt, with the resulting heavy toll in lives when these rebellions had to be suppressed by force. Or the very hardships which a nation is suffering as the result of the actions of its enemies may inflict even greater suffering on prisoners.

Is there any possible solution? To answer that question, we must first consider what war is.

It is an extension of politics, an effort to obtain by force what cannot be obtained by peaceful means. Except where the objective is itself genocide, the primary aim of the nation at war is not to slaughter the inhabitants of the enemy state but to force them to submit. The easiest and simplest way is to slay—but very early in his history man found such slaughter repugnant when the foe was unable to defend himself. So prisoners were taken. Properly guarded they were as effectively removed from the contest as if they had been slain. Indeed, in earlier days they might be of more value as captives than as corpses, since they could be pressed into the service of their captors. Modern conventions, however, forbid the use of prisoners in this manner. They require, instead, that the captors should feed and house and provide medical attention for the captives. Prisoners of war can thus become a heavy liability to a humane nation—and at the same time no nation is so humane that it will permit this liability to endanger its very existence.

Is it beyond the realm of possibility that the nations of the world might work out a new system, which would remove prisoners of war from further participation in the strife and at the same time eliminate the possibility of their being ill-treated by their foes?

Could there be a scheme under which prisoners of war would be turned over to the custody of a neutral nation, the costs of such custody to be paid by the nation of which the prisoners are citizens? Each side would then be responsible for providing for the welfare of its own soldiers, yet they would be as effectively barred from future participation in the war as they would be if held by their foes.

The difficulties inherent in any such plan are self-evidently immense. What if the neutral nation should itself be drawn into the strife? What if a hard-pressed combatant reported it was unable to continue to pay the costs of feeding, housing and guarding its prisoner sons?

Yet the advantages of some arrangement of this kind are so obvious that one may hope all obstacles may eventually be overcome. To those who may regard it as visionary, the best answer is that there were days, not so many years ago, when the regulations of the Geneva Convention would have been regarded as the Utopian imaginings of some dreamy idealist.

OR BAN MILK FOR CATS?

The milk drivers' union in Toronto has a problem.

A city by-law forbids the delivery before 7 a.m. of milk intended for human consumption.

But when milk is delivered before the deadline and the union prosecutes under the by-law, it is asked to prove that the milk was to be consumed by human beings.

It cannot do that, because cats and dogs also drink milk.

So the by-law is useless.

The union, not unnaturally, wants the Toronto Board of Control to amend the by-law, eliminating the words "for human consumption."

That seems to be the only solution. Unless, of course, the City of Toronto would like to pass a by-law forbidding the consumption of milk by cats and dogs. There does not seem to be any real reason why it should not pass such a by-law. There would be nothing more dictatorial about it than about a by-law forbidding milk deliveries before 7 a.m.

It is easy to understand why the milk drivers desire a by-law forbidding deliveries before 7 a.m. They do not wish to go to work in the wee small hours of the morning, as many milk wagon drivers have done in the past. But a strong union ought to be able to take care of that matter without any city by-law.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A good deal of what is dignified by name of science these days is nothing more than the putting of sense into trick words for the benefit of those familiar with the trick words, who are thereby known as scientists. Even such dignified sciences as medicine, engineering and law consist largely of common sense that has been systematized into a cult, the practitioners of which, however little common sense they may possess outside their profession, have at their command all the common sense that has been amassed out of human experience in past centuries.

But in remote communities and among scattered backwoodsmen, deep sea fishermen and others far from medical care, you will find a high degree of health and a fair competence to deal with most of the vicissitudes and accidents of life. In this country still are numerous midwives and amateurs of healing who, with common sense alone, have developed honest reputations in their art.

On big engineering and construction projects, who do you find sitting at the head table in the mess halls? The big boss, of course, the general manager or superintendent, himself an engineer, flanked all round the table by other engineers. But sitting somewhere pretty handy to the head man himself you will invariably discover some old cuss who lacks the polish of his fellow diners who have been to college, a rough old character who is a seener and a Joner in speech, whose table manners are a little bushy, and who, despite his lack of that refinement which even science can impart to its devotees, appears to enjoy considerable authority in the gathering.

He is no engineer. He is simply the guy who, if it is a bridge they are building, builds bridges; or if it is a hydro-electric power plant they are erecting, erects power plants. It might be worth enquiring if engineers alone, with nothing to serve them but mechanics and laborers, could build anything? For in almost every enterprise in this world you will find somewhere high in authority someone who lacks the science, but has the common sense.

Chef Prefers Wife's Cooking

(Montreal Gazette)

There is the old story about the restaurant-keeper putting on his hat and hurrying out as soon as his last guest is served. "Where you off to?" asks the guest. "I'm hungry," says the restaurateur, "I'm going out to eat."

It turns out that the story has a basis in truth, though not quite the same basis that it implies. Robert Audelan, executive chef of the Essex House in New York, and official of a long list of culinary organizations, says boiled beef is his favorite dish and that he prefers the way his wife cooks it —at home.

"There's nothing peculiar about this," says Audelan, "a chef sees so much artistically prepared food, he develops a conservative taste himself."

Don't look now, but there's a man over on the right who just ordered ham and eggs. Probably 'chef executif' of the Waldorf.

Easy To Lasso Sturgeon

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Fishermen in Saint John harbor and up the St. John river probably didn't even blink an eye at the news despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, about the young housewife who reached over a ferry ramp and grabbed a thirty-one-pound sturgeon by the gill as it swam lazily by in the St. Mary's river.

The catch may have seemed like a remarkable feat to onlookers who had never fished for anything in their lives but nimble, quick-darting trout; it may have seemed almost equivalent to dipping a hand into the ocean and pulling out a swordfish.

Actually, a sturgeon is one of the most stupid and sluggish of fish, nature having bestowed on him far more size than sense. He is so inherently unconscious of danger—perhaps because of his armor-plated hide, which would discourage other fish from attacking him—that he can be even "lassoed" from flat-bottomed rowboats in the shallow breeding waters, up the St. John river.

Oldtimers tell of the great ugly fish being roped by their squarish rudder-like tails and then being tethered to a stake or tree root, whereupon the sturgeon swam around as docile as cows until the day came to hoist them out of the water and send them to market. One man in the Upper Greenwich-Hampstead area made a livelihood out of nothing but sturgeon-catching.

If the commercial fishermen had any comment at all on the Sault Ste. Marie thirty-one-pound sturgeon, at which bystanders looked with such wide-eyed wonder, it doubtless was merely that it must have been a pretty small sturgeon.

These fish grow to startling proportions, and are by far the biggest denizens of the St. John river depths, although they're not so common there as a generation ago. More than one underwater swimmer has been petrified with fear to meet one for the first time—as who wouldn't be at the unexpected sight of a ten-foot long 450-pound creature that looked, through the murk, very much like a crocodile?

To make it worse, there is something of an optical illusion about sturgeon which makes a 100-pound one look like 300 pounds and a 300-pounder look like 1,000 pounds.

• • •

The sturgeon which get trapped in nets set for shad or gaspereaux or other fish in these parts are usually shipped to New York for smoking and sale. Boston, for some reason, isn't a good sturgeon market. Besides the sturgeon steak, the eggs, or roe, bring a high price in New York—five to ten dollars a pound—as caviar. But it is so unusual to get a female sturgeon at just the right time for the roe to be commercially salable, that the exporters rarely bother with it.

Beehive Standards

(Manchester Guardian)

As volume succeeds volume in the series of official histories of the war it becomes strikingly clear that between 1939 and 1945 we came nearer than ever before in this country to a system of state administration applying the pitiless standards of the beehive to the regulation of human society.

The old conception of medieval Christendom that the weak at all times deserve special consideration was formally abandoned whenever the weak become an nuisance. When there was not enough to go round, what there was went to the most "useful" citizen — on strict official scales of utility.

Thus in the chapter on nutrition in the volume on "Medical Research" just published, we read that the Food Rationing (Special Diets) Advisory Committee laid down as a matter of "principle" that "in deciding between competing claims preference should be given to those invalids with better prospects of recovery or who required special rations to . . . be able to contribute to the national effort."

"Hopeless invalids" were ruled out from all concessions (very much as the bees deny food to an ailing and therefore useless member of their colony).

The conflict between expediency and traditional morality was perhaps most acute in the development of penicillin. The "high level" decision to restrict publication of research work on penicillin so that the enemy should not be able to use it in treating his wounded (and wounded prisoners) was recorded in the volume on medicine and pathology published last year with this comment:

As one member of the Penicillin Clinical Trials Committee remarked, this attitude would presumably have been viewed with extreme disfavor by Hippocrates.

The present volume describes how those who tested the drug on the committee's behalf "were compelled to refuse treatment which might have proved beneficial to individual patients but would not have advanced knowledge of the drug's action."

Perhaps this ruthlessness was necessary, and it may be that the deliberate restriction of penicillin to those who could be considered useful human guinea-pigs in fact accelerated the knowledge that the world now has of penicillin. But the price of efficiency on these terms is heavy. It is to the credit of the authors and editors of these histories that they set out the ethical dilemmas of the war years so frankly. They should be widely studied by the framers of social policy.

Angled Deck Aids Carriers

From the British Aircraft Society.

Latest British invention for naval aviation is the angled deck.

The birth of the angled deck came about when scientists were discussing the effect that new, faster and bigger jet aircraft would have on naval carriers which, it was said, would need to have longer and wider decks, and to be faster. Two British scientists came forward with a different and simpler suggestion. Why not turn the landing area of the deck at an angle of a few degrees to the fore-and-aft line of the ship?

The advantages of this are best seen when compared with the conventional arrangement. On a normal Fleet carrier there is about 800 feet of deck free for flying operations. The first third of this is taken up by arrester wires which pull the landing aircraft up short; the middle third is taken up by the tennis-net type barriers, which halt any aircraft whose hook fails to engage with the arrester wires; the third of the deck furthest from the touch-down point is a clear area used for parking.

The angled deck does away with the need for extensive barriers because any aircraft which fails to hook on to a wire can overshoot straight on out to sea and go round again, without fear of running into parked aircraft. Because of this extra safety factor it is possible to use only half the number of arrester wires (so saving space).

The first practical trials were made on the British carriers "Triumph" and "Illustrious".

Then full information about the new development was passed to the U.S. Navy, which decided to convert a big carrier, the "Antietam". The cost of conversion was about $1,000,000, but following on trials with many different types of aircraft, including British jets, the considered opinion is that this expenditure has already been regained in reduced damage to aircraft.

To date, more than 5,000 landings have been made on the ship. Of 80 pilots who landed, 30 had never flown a jet on to a carrier before and 30 had never landed on a carrier at all before. There were no accidents. During the 5,000 landings, 115 aircraft failed to engage with the arrester wire —mainly because the hook hit the deck too hard and bounced over the wires. Normally every one of these 115 aircraft would have run on into the barriers, causing some major or minor damage.

The trials have therefore convinced the British Admiralty and the U.S. Navy of the angled deck's advantages. H.M.S. Hermes will be fitted with it next, and two more American carriers are to be converted shortly.

VACATION PERILS—THE WATER YOU DRINK

Except in some rural places in Central or South American countries, the drinking water nowadays is as safe for visitors or tourists as it is for residents or natives. This applies particularly to the municipal water supply in cities where the water is chlorinated, as in most cities in the United States and Canada. A good many squeamish or misinformed customers in Yankeeland go to a lot of trouble and expense to drink only bottled water, although tap water is as pure and as safe as any that comes in a fancy container.

Dr. Brady

Tourists who know little about sanitation and hygiene sometimes imagine they can avoid the risk of infection with typhoid, dysentery, diarrhea and other intestinal diseases by drinking no water (as such) or drinking only bottled water, while on vacation trips. Too often they fail to consider the more likely sources of such infection, such as

(1) The washing of vegetables or fruit with polluted water.
(2) Contamination of food with germs on the feet of flies.
(3) Handling of food by persons who are ill or, coming down with or carriers of the germs of such disease.

For an emergency, drinking water of questionable purity may be disinfected by putting two drops of Mild Tincture of Iodine (the liquid best suited for first aid disinfection of minor wounds) in a quart of the water, shaking up and allowing it to stand fifteen minutes before drinking.

Is it dangerous to drink ice water when you are overheated or when the weather is very warm? If you are thirsty, yes. At any rate I'll have mine nice and cold if I can get it that way. You may take yours tepid if you prefer.

Isn't it bad for digestion to drink cold water just before eating? On the contrary it improves digestion to do so, if you're thirsty.

Sweat consists of practically nothing but salt and water. The more you sweat the more salt you lose. Therefore it is not refreshing to drink just water or other beverage in extremely warm weather or after vigorous exertion, play or work. With each drink of water in such circumstances you should take a good pinch of common table salt, or perhaps a salt tablet from the dispenser now provided in plants where workers are exposed to great heat or at places where tennis or baseball players are exposed to such conditions. A drink with sufficient salt is much more refreshing than one without salt, you will find.

This same practice of taking a generous pinch (five or ten grains) of salt with each drink of water when you are exposed to extreme heat or when you are working or playing vigorously and sweating a good deal, will prevent heat cramps, heat exhaustion and fatigue.

TODAY'S TALK

HABITUAL FAITH

Every healthy child born into this world has an inherited tendency toward faith. Instinctively it exercises that faith toward its father and mother. Later that faith is placed in friends and, as years are added, faith in oneself and one's work.

Sometimes there is a faltering of this faith, but as it grows more and more habitual, that faith and its owner grow stronger, so that it becomes an abiding factor in all success and happiness. Without this habitual faith we would have little ambition and less initiative. Our entire life plan is centered upon our faith.

Every great achievement is the result of faith—habitual faith that keeps renewing itself. This western continent was discovered by a man of faith—Columbus, and its amazing development has been created by the combined faith of men and women of every nationality, creed, color, and origin.

Faith is the pilot to all worthwhile achievement. It will bring any of us into port safely. What other power in this world is greater than faith? I know of none. It is a part of the story of all men and women, no matter what their objective in life. It's there like a light and safe guide. Jesus admonished his followers because of their lack of faith. Without faith we could not conceive of God!

Faith is the essential equipment for both success and happiness. It has built our cities, inspired our scientists, discoverers, and inventors. And it has comforted us in defeat and sorrow. It has held us firm in the face of unexpected emergencies. It has often conquered disease and turned temporary failure into a glorious triumph. It is a weapon more powerful than the sword. It is the most constructive force in all the world. Faith sweeps out impossibilities!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

GAIN IT AT ALL COSTS

Patience is a rare virtue but a very necessary one. In the Bible we get a picture of the great Moses, who appears all through his life to have been impatient. To the last day of his life, his impatience was getting him into some serious trouble. As an impatient and impetuous young man, he smote the Egyptian task master. On Mount Sinai he was so provoked by the lack of fidelity which the Israelites manifested to Jehovah God that he cast down the tablets of stone on which the Ten Commandments were written and broke them into pieces. When he was an old man, he lost patience with his people again and smote the rock angrily when they called for water. It was hard to see how God kept His patience with Moses. Yet this man who lost his patience was — except for Jesus of Nazareth — the most influential human being that ever lived. He is revered in three religions and is—under God's inspiration—the author of the Ten Commandments. No mere human ever affected the life of every generation as he has done. Yet evidently he spoiled his happiness and almost ruined his career because of his impatience.

Jesus warned his disciples: "In your patience possess ye your souls." We may lose our souls if we lack patience and gain them unto life eternal if we possess it.

Sugar Off Ration List Next Month

COPENHAGEN, (AP) — Britain's minister of food, Gwilym Lloyd George, said here that sugar would be derationed in Britain next month. He added he hoped to abolish rationing of meat and bacon next year.

Speaking during a reception at the British embassy, Lloyd George said Britain is the only country in the world still rationing sugar. Britain also still rations meat, cooking fats, butter, margarine, some cheeses and coal.

LOST IN ROCKIES

They said he was apparently quite tired and was sleeping, but that his general condition was "quite fine."

When McCoubrey and the rescue party reached the Jasper-Columbia Icefields highway about six miles from Jasper Park Lodge late Wednesday, the Winnipeg man looked fit although his clothing was worn and tattered.

"I feel pretty good," he said. McCoubrey said he had shaved every day since being lost eight days ago.

"My razor is rather dull now," he added.

He told RCMP Cpl. E. Kelsbery of the Jasper detachment, who headed the party that reached McCoubrey in the woods, that he had two sandwiches in his pocket when lost. He ate one the second day of his wandering and consumed the second for his "Sunday dinner."

Then he subsisted on berries and water.

McCoubrey was found in the Iroquois creek section over the divide.

He was located largely through the efforts of Laddie who picked up his trail 12 miles from the searcher's camp.

McCoubrey told the searchers he had decided that if he hadn't been found Wednesday he would "have to give in by nightfall."

Man Arrested Shortly After Woman Shot

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Frank Trelyo, about 50, was arrested Thursday night about a half hour after a neighbor, Mrs. Frances Drozdowsky, 36, was shot.

Hospital officials said her condition was fair. She suffered shot gun pellet wounds in the left arm and side.

Trelyo, married and the father of several children, was picked up after being chased by several police cruisers through a four-block area in east-end Windsor. A shotgun was found near the spot where he was apprehended.

Neighbors said Trelyo, carrying a shot gun, crossed the street from his home to the Drozdowsky residence.

Police said Trelyo ordered Mr. and Mrs. Drozdowsky to line up against the fence, then shot at them several times. They said Mr. Drozdowsky escaped injury.

Managed to Avoid Pick-Up Truck Hit by Bus

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — Mervyn Burleigh, 24-year-old Smiths Falls transport driver, managed to avoid a pick-up truck hit moments ltaer by a bus near Morrisburg, July 31, it was learned Thursday. The Colonial Coach Lines bus plunged into the Williamsburg canal after ramming the truck, killing 20 passengers.

Burleigh, who has been questioned by Ontario provincial police investigating the accident, helped to pull bus driver Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston, and truck driver Max Roodman of Toronto up the canal bank.

Burleigh is a driver for H. S. Edwards Transport Company. Edwards gave this account of the crash as told to him by Burleigh:

Burleigh was forced to swing to the right to avoid missing a truck which was moving without lights in the centre of the Highway No. 2.

Burleigh parked his tractor-trailer off the road.

The smaller truck, apparently the one driven by Roodman, proceeded slowly by Burleigh's parked transport, stopping at 15-foot intervals.

Burleigh did not see the bus pass but heard the impact when it hit the truck about 500 yards away.

The transport driver saw both vehicles plunge into the water.

SOME AMERICANS

Another American from the Pyoktong stockade, Pte. Steve Glowacki, of Brooklyn said the camp was emptied during the first days of the prisoner exchange except for one Briton and seven Americans. He said the eight stayed behind voluntarily.

"They were having a party when we left," Glowacki said. "I didn't associate with them."

Under the armistice terms, prisoners, both Allied and Red, who refuse repatriation are to be turned over to a five-nation commission, during which time agents from their homelands will have a chance to convince them to return.

If they continue to refuse repatriation they will be freed within six months after the armistice was signed.

The Communists, in a Peiping radio broadcast today, said they have never screened prisoners to determine whether they want to return home.

The broadcast said the Reds will tell the UN command "as soon as possible" the number of captives they hold who refuse repatriation.

Other Americans returned in today's exchange added to the mounting evidence of Communist brutality and disregard for human life.

They told of mass burials of up to 2,000 Allied prisoners, jail sentences for "instigating against the peace" and intense attempts to convert captives to communism.

Pte. William H. Davis of Hearne, Texas, said "10 or 12" Americans were being held in Red camps awaiting trial on various charges—most of them "instigating against the peace."

Cpl. Ulysses G. Baugh of Little Rock, Ark., told of a Chinese company commander who "threatened to cut my head off" if he didn't write an article for Communist propagandists.

Baugh said he was branded a "re-actionary" because "I told him I could not write them."

A liberated South Korean said many of his countrymen had been frightened into staying in the north—sometimes even as they were within short miles of freedom.

He said the Reds told South Koreans PoWs they would be shot by Republic of Korea troops if they returned to their homes.

The South Korean, Pte. Park Young Ho, said the Red propaganda continued even as the RoK prisoners were being moved to Kaesong for repatriation. Five or six South Koreans, he said, refused repatriation at the last minute.

Latta Defeats Shannonville 12-8

(Contributed)

Playing on their home diamond last night Doc Empson's Latta nine, in a free hitting contest, defeated Shannonville by the score of 12 to 8.

The game started off in the first and second innings as a pitchers' duel, but in the third inning Latta went on a scoring bee getting six runs, adding two in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Gar Hall, for Latta, held the Shannonville team in check until the third inning when they scored one and through some errors in the sixth inning and two hits filled the bases, with Les Reid coming through with a home run, and another hit giving them five runs. They added another in the seventh and one in the ninth.

For the Latta team were doubles by Stewart and Glass, with singles by McCreary, F. Ray, Hall, Sullivan and Ted Ray.

In the eighth inning Hall retired the Shannonville team on four pitched balls.

For Shannonville, Reid with a home run, Nicky Sero with a triple, with singles by Reid, S. Hill, Barbestock, T. Hill. Stewart and Conley aided their cause.

Barbestock started for Shannonville, Les Reid took over in the fourth, till the seventh, with Barbestock finishing the game.

The line-up:

Latta — Glass, catcher; McCreary, right field; Empson, left field, replaced by Rigby in 6th.; F. Ray, first base; Parks, shortstop; Ted Ray, second base; Meeks, centre field; Flindall, third base, replaced by Stewart in 5th.; Hall, pitcher.

Captain Blamed For Loss of Boat During Storm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Coast Guard Thursday blamed Capt. Albert Stiglin of Vermillion, Ohio, for the sinking of his ore carrier last May during a Lake Superior storm and said that steps will be taken to strip him of his licence.

A Coast Guard report on the sinking also said data collected in a recent investigation will be forwarded to the justice department "as such record contains evidence of probable criminal liability on the part of the master of the Henry Steinbrenner."

Seventeen of the crew were lost when the Steinbrenner foundered May 11 off Passage Island in Lake Superior. Fourteen, including the captain, survived. The vessel, loaded with iron ore, was bound for a Lake Erie port.

Dick Haymes Ordered Deported to Argentina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actor-singer Dick Haymes was picked up yesterday for deportation to his native Argentina.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownella announced the arrest, made by immigration service inspectors at Los Angeles.

Brownell said the reason for the 34-year-old Haymes' deportation warrant was that during the second war he filed a certificate for exemption from military service as a citizen of a neutral country.

The attorney general said Haymes thus is ineligible for naturalization under the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act "and therefore automatically deportable."

Weddings

BROWN—HARTLEY

A lovely double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, August 1st, at 2:00 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, by the pastor, the Rev. Sidney E. Larman, when Mona Jean Hartley, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. G. Campbell, of Verdun, Que., and niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. Balyx, of Belleville, became the bride of Norman Roy Brown, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross A. Brown. Pink and white gladioli interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel, while white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Edgerton Boyce, guest organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. George Dawkins, aunt of the bride, who sang, "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Jack Balyx, of Belleville, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, net, and taffeta, featuring a molded, strapless bodice of lace with matching bolero having a small Peter Pan collar and three-quarter length sleeves. The ankle-length skirt was fashioned with a double overskirt of net over taffeta, accented by front and back panels of Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held by a satin coronet encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red Bettertime roses, stephanotis, and white lacelon ribbon. A single strand of pearls and matching earrings, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Miss Shirley Lloyd, of Belleville, and Miss Joan Mary Reid, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids, gowned in similar style, the former in pale blue net over taffeta, and the latter in pale green net over taffeta, featuring molded bodices and full skirts. Both wore matching gloves, and halos of matching roses and lily-of-the-valley, and carried semi cascade bouquets of pink Delight roses, tied with matching lacelon ribbon.

Mr. James Mathews, of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsman; while Messrs. William Poste, and John Ashley, both of Belleville, cousins of the bride, were ushers.

A pretty Old World accent was added as the bridal party left the church, when Master Roy Gatland hung a lovely silver horseshoe with tiny, white 'mums over the bride's bouquet, designating good luck for the future, with health and happiness.

The wedding reception was held at the Club Commodore, Belleville, which was appropriately decorated with gladioli blooms and other summer flowers, for the occasion. The sixty guests were received by the bride's mother, Mrs. G. Campbell, who was gowned in pale blue nylon sheer with matching accessories and corsage of pink Delight roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Ross A. Brown, wearing pale blue crepe with navy accessories and corsage of red Bettertime roses, and Mrs. Jack Balyx, aunt of the bride, attired in pale blue crepe with matching hat and corsage of Hildagarde roses, assisted in the receiving line.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by tiny, figurines depicting a bridal party, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Mrs. Canniff Ashley, and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of lily-of-the-valley.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Glengarry Lodge, and Port Elgin, the bride chose a blue eyelet embroidery ensemble with rose colored accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Trenton and Wellington, Ontario.

The bride's gifts to her bridesmaids were: a gold and enamel lighter, and a rhinestone necklace with matching earrings; and to her soloist, matching necklace and earrings. The bridegroom's gifts to his groomsman, golf clubs, and to the ushers, ties.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by two miscellaneous showers, one in Toronto by friends of the bridegroom, and one in Belleville, by Mrs. Mabel Moore, of Everett Street.

WOODEND—LEVECK

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting for the marriage of Vera Evelyn Leveck, of Northbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iner Leveck, to James Lavern Woodend, of Belleville, son of Mrs. Irene Woodend, on Saturday, July 11. Canon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, officiated before an altar banked with white lilies and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a ballerina-length gown of white lace, featuring a panel front of white nylon pleated net. Her fingertip veil of white nylon net was caught to a white coronet headdress and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and silver streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Miss Leona Leveck was her sister's bridesmaid, attired in a ballerina-length gown of mauve net over taffeta with bolero of Chantilly lace. She wore a mauve net headdress studded with pearls and matching net mittens, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Donald Weese, of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Donald Thrasher, of Belleville, and Mr. James Fox, of Corbyville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Iona Woodend, Foster Avenue, Belleville, where the bride's mother, wearing a navy suit with white accessories and corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in a grey suit with navy accessories and red rose corsage, received.

For the wedding trip to New York State, and Cedar Lodge, Cloyne, the bride donned a mauve gabardine suit, mauve hat and white accessories, with corsage of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Woodend are residing in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Foxboro, Corbyville, Kingston, Northbrook, Shannonville and Tweed.

A trim dress with sailor touches makes a nice choice with which to wind up the summer. It has lines that make it right for the younger or older figure, and is done in rayon shantung in such colors as beige, blue or in black with red and green trim for the contrasting two-color grosgrain trim that marks the front from the V of the sailor collar to hem and for the perky, pointed-upward pockets at the hips.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The Foxboro branch of the Women's Institute met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. G. Peacock, with 21 members, one visitor and four children present. Mrs. M. Shorey, president, presided.

The treasurer reported about $80 in the treasury.

In the absence of Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Cecil Hubble gave the report on "Home Economics and Health" from the convention in Guelph in May. This was followed by a reading "What Do You Do With the Time You Save" read by Mrs. Walter Johnston, and a delightful song by Mrs. W. Rombough to her own quitar accompaniment.

Discussion regarding the purchase of the standard and stand for the flag for the branch was followed by the discussion, regarding the serving of meals at Belleville Fair, on August 20.

Mrs. Peacock and her assistants served refreshments.

MELROSE W.I.

The regular meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute met recently at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hagerman.

The trip to the A.C.W.W. conference in Toronto was discussed. Saturday afternoon at the conference features a pageant by the school children and tickets are still available to members and may be obtained by writing to A.C.W.W., at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto.

The convener, Mrs. K. McMechan, took over and called on the delegates to the district annual for their reports. This was well covered by Mrs. Clare Weese and Mrs. Stratton and proved to be not only a report but an interesting digest of talks by the main speakers at the district annual.

Motto Given

The motto was given by Beatrice McFarlane and Mrs. Ken McMechan followed with hints and ways to save your child's health by the prevention of accidents in the home.

Mrs. Grant McLaren gave a reading on the A.C.W.W. and Mrs. Riley then led the gathering in community singing. Mrs. Roy McLaren gave a humorous reading and Mrs. Newton DeMille read a story for the children present.

Mrs. Charles Kimmett and Mrs. John Kimmett, of Roblin, presented an amusing skit.

An enlightening talk on the provinces of Canada was given by Mrs. Harry Davis, who also won the contest given by Mrs. Ken McMechan.

The hostess and her helpers served refreshments bringing the meeting to a close.

More Red Cross Girls For Far East

TORONTO (CP)—There will be a feminine accent on the first welcome given Canadian soldiers who were imprisoned in Korea.

The Canadian Red Cross announced today that five more Red Cross girls will leave Sunday for the far east to help the welfare team being posted along the line of exchange with comforts for the troops.

The girls are: Kathryn Jefferies, London, Ont.; Margaret McRae, Orillia, Ont., Brenda Long and Astra Eggertson of Winnipeg and Nancy Birks of Montreal. They bring the total to 22.

Fashion Flashes

It's late in the season, we know, but, just the same, new and very dressy cottons continue to appear. A slim sheath good for late afternoon or evening is of red cotton with all-over Spanish shawl type embroidery in white, save for the edges of a wide V-neckline and the tiny sleeves, which are in plain red.

Irresistible is the combination of filmy silk chiffon and lace. It is beautifully handled in an ankle-skirt dance dress of gray chiffon over soft rose silk taffeta, with an underbodice of gray Alencon lace.

Gleaming satin shines right through the new collections of both clothes and accessories. Satin, rhinestone trimmed, is used for a clutch bag and belt set, the fold-over line of the bag marked by a row of rhinestones, which also accent the contoured lines of the belt.

Spotted in every good suit collection is the belted suit, usually slightly bloused. Fine flannel in jewel colors is used for one such suit that also has deep pockets and forked seaming under the bust line.

There's plenty of high styling in moderately priced furs soon to appear in the stores. There should be plenty of service for a jacket of blond-dyed sheared opossum made with a moderately flared back, double-flapped pockets on either side and short sleeves with very wide cuffs. To top off all these smart details there's a portrait collar.

Late season daytime cottons are many and smart, the stores stocking up on fresh looking items—for instance dark seersucker, nicely cut and detailed, in gray, black or navy, for a neat coat-dress. The front button closing is paved with white pique and piped with red. Slash pockets and self-tie belt for this sleeveless dress that is finished with a neat club collar.

A GOOD FILL-IN for the late summer wardrobe is a softly done suit in a novelty mixture of cotton and a synthetic. Pin-striped nylon and cotton in black with rust makes a handsome little suit for town or travel. It has a black nylon velvet collar, and high-placed flap-pockets. Single closing with six buttons and side seaming for a semi-fitted silhouette. Skirt is slim with kick-pleat in back.

PRETTY AND PRACTICAL are the new skirts. A greater use of fine fabrics, and clever tailoring to avoid that too-tight fit across the back of a slim design, combine with smartly-stitched detail to please shoppers. Flannel-back cashmere is a new fabric and used with good effect in a slim skirt with banded slash pockets and tuck fullness below the waist.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS

Her Parents Came From Abroad—Want Her to Live as They Did

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My parents came from a foreign country when I was about eight years old. Now I am 15.

My mother thinks the worst of a girl who even talks to boys, and also of the girl's parents for permitting her to have anything to do with them. I'm not allowed to go with the girls who are my friends at school, and I'm not even permitted to go out in my own yard after sunset because, if I do, they take for granted that I am going to meet a boy friend. They expect that when the time comes, they will choose a husband for me.

Although my parents make all these rules to keep me away from other boys and girls, I have had a boy friend without their knowing about it. He is a very fine boy, 19 years old, doesn't smoke or drink and is a very hard worker. If I had been allowed to have many friends, as American girls do, perhaps he wouldn't mean so much to me, but as it is, I have fallen head over heels in love with him. I even played hookey from school one afternoon to be with him.

I hate to see him on the sly, and wish you could tell me some way I could make my parents understand.

M.F.

Dear M. F.:

Your problem is a very hard one to solve, I know. Like a great many parents who grew up in "the old country, yours cannot shake off the customs of their youth and adapt themselves to the freer life that young people have here. When they were young, boys and girls lived by rigid rules, and they cannot understand why their children shouldn't live by the same rules.

I wonder if you couldn't get the mothers of some of the girls you know to take an interest in helping you work out this problem. I suggest you talk with one or two of them and explain everything; then ask if they won't try to make friends with your mother so that there might be an opportunity for them to talk with her some time and try to make her see that it's not right for her to force you to live differently from the girls of the country which is now your home. If it were school time, I would suggest that you discuss it with one of your teachers, for this is a problem that many schools have to meet, and teachers usually understand how to deal with it. If nothing comes of talking with other mothers, then I advise you to try and put up with the situation as patiently as you can until school opens again, and then have a talk with the principal or some teacher you specially like.

Always Be Your Natural Self

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old and work for a large corporation as a secretary. Recently a very nice young man came to work for us whom I would like to meet.

How can I do this without it being obvious that I am anxious to know him, and if I get to meet him, how should I act in order to get him interested in me? I often pass him in the hall, and when he comes into my department he frequently walks past my desk as though he would like to get acquainted with me, too.

Susan F.

Dear Susan:

It doesn't seem to me it should be very hard for two people who work for the same company to get to know each other. No formal introduction should be necessary under such circumstances. Since this man is a newcomer in the office, it would be the natural thing for you to smile or speak in a friendly way when you pass in the hall, or when he walks by your desk. If he's really interested in knowing you, he won't lose any time following up your lead.

As to how you should act, once you've begun an acquaintance, why should there be any special way? Just act as you'd act with any new friend, and if the two of you find yourselves congenial, the friendship will develop of itself. Never try to play any role except that of your own natural self. People who do almost invariably defeat their own ends.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Question:

I hope you will help me. We have baked a wedding cake, a fruit cake and do not know just the best place to keep it during the summer months. Would the refrigerator be a good place. At present we have it wrapped in wax paper in a tin box.—Mrs. W. H. H.

Answer:

Since you must have room in your refrigerator that is the best place for the cake. Professional bakers wrap their cakes in cellophane and put the wrapped cakes in cartons and store them in refrigerators at 38 deg. Fahr. In the summer months the temperature is so high that cakes will mold around the currants and raisins, if not refrigerated.

Question:

I have a bone to pick with you—however it is only a little bone, and in view of the fact that you have given us so many lovely recipes I may even consider blaming it on the gremlins at the printers. I am referring to the enclosed recipe for "Jiffy Cake". I made it once and the batter was runny, too thin to hold any nuts as described, but the cake turned out not too bad. The second time I made it, it was definitely a flop. Later I came across a former column of yours with a recipe for the same cake with all ingredients the same but the milk—which was only 1-2 cup instead of 1 cup. I thought "aha"—however meanwhile I had displaced the first one so couldn't prove anything. I didn't see any complaint about it though in the paper. Which amount of milk is correct? Also what is the difference between powdered sugar and icing sugar?

I have found in getting lunches (I get 8 every day) for a change the family likes Dagwood sandwiches: Butter, a slice of meat, a slice of cheese, lettuce, onion, pickle or what have you. Of course they don't need so many sandwiches then. Topped off with a jar of milk and fruit and cookies they are satisfied.

I want to tell you again how much I enjoy your column. Reading about the gal who used a dairy thermometer to make candy reminds me of the time when I was young and took my temperature with a dairy thermometer. When I looked at it it read "cheese"! More power to you "Les".

Answer:

Thanks for a good laugh "Les" also for the Dagwood sandwich tip and reminder. The recipe for "Jiffy Cake" contains one-half (1-2) cup milk. These are a repetition of the ingredients (all put in bowl together and beaten until smooth): 4 tablespoons soft shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread smooth batter in greased paper-lined pan. Sprinkle over unbaked batter a mixture of 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1-4 to 1-2 cup chopped nuts or cocoanut. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 35 to 40 minutes. When you consider the fractions I use in these recipes every day I think the printers do remarkably well to make so few errors. Come again.

Question:

I already have your reducers' recipes for Jan. 12, 1953. But was wondering if you have recipes for some cakes and pies. Some girls I know have wanted these reducing recipes so I passed on the Jan. 12 ones and they all really appreciated them. We would like cakes and pies or whatever you have on hand (for reducers). Keep your good recipes coming for we all love you for it. Everyone I know says "why that's a Mary Moore recipe. Grand isn't it?"

This is a recipe of my mother's and when she bakes for church affairs it is spoken for and gone long ahead of time for doors to open:

Spice Cake

(Contributed by Jean F.)

One cup butter or best shortening, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in the milk, 2 heaping cups flour, 1 teaspoon allspice, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Mix as usual cake method, adding milk last. Bake at 350 to 375 deg. F. —Jean F.

Answer:

Thanks for the highly recommended Spice Cake and congratulations to your mother. If you want to make a sugarless apple pie dissolve 15 succaryl tablets in 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix together 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon salt and mix 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Put 6 cups peeled sliced apples in pastry-lined pie plate. Mix the lemon juice and dissolved tablets with flour-butter mixture very well and sprinkle evenly over apples. Put on gashed top crust. Seal edges. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 45 to 55 minutes. See sugarless sponge cake in column tomorrow.

P.S. to "Les": No difference that I know between powdered and icing sugar.

How To Eat Strawberries Served With Their Stems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last Sunday, at a very "stylish" luncheon given by a charming couple I met while I was on my vacation in July, I encountered the first time strawberries (the largest I've ever seen) served whole with the stems on. On each plate with the strawberries was a little mound of powdered sugar. So I'll be sure on my next "encounter" with this service, please tell me the correct way to eat such strawberries.

Bob

Take a stawberry by the stem; dip it in the powdered sugar on the plate; then, holding the stem securely in your fingers, eat the strawberry in one or two bites (perhaps two or three bites for the super-size strawberries we often see nowadays!). Put the stem toward the edge of the plate, and "proceed as above" with the next strawberry.

Three Placements For The Individual Butter Knife

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Like most housekeepers and hostesses, I always enjoy observing, and studying for suggestions, the various table-setting exhibits shown in department stores and sometimes in the jewelry stores here. One question baffles me: the really correct position of the individual butter knife. Sometimes it is placed on the bread-and-butter plate so that it is parallel with the place silver. Sometimes it is placed so that it is at right angles with the place silver. And occasionally I notice that it is placed diagonally on the butter plate. Which is correct? If all are correct (as may be, since I've seen them all), which do you prefer?

Alma N.

All three are considered correct although, to me, the diagonal placing of the individual butter knife looks so awkward that I can never understand why it is considered "correct". I think the diagonal-placing spoils the artistic symmetry of the individual place-setting, the carefully-balanced, square look of the silverpieces.

The most usual position for the butter knife is at right-angles to the place silver. The position I prefer is the placing of the knife parallel to the silver at the individual places. To me this seems most artistic and symmetrical. (Knife blade, of course, toward center of the bread-and-butter plate.)

White Jackets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife and I are planning to spend two or more weeks in Nassau the latter part of this month. We are stopping at one of the better hotels, and we will be dining in the hotel most of the evenings. Would it be proper for me to wear a white jacket with dark trousers instead of the strictly formal trousers that would be worn on a formal occasion?

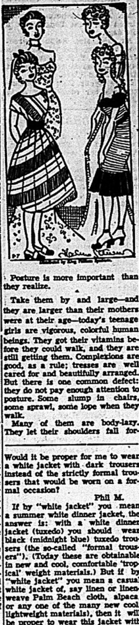
Phil M.

If by "white jacket" you mean a summer white dinner jacket, the answer is: with a white dinner jacket (tuxedo) you should wear black (midnight blue) tuxedo trousers (the so-called "formal trousers"). (Today these are obtainable in new and cool, comfortable 'tropical' weight materials.) But if by "white jacket" you mean a casual white jacket of, say linen or linen-weave Palm Beach cloth, alpaca, or any one of the many new cool, lightweight materials), then it will be proper to wear this jacket with dark trousers. Today, as a matter of fact, trousers worn with white casual jackets may be dark blue or perhaps a lighter blue, an interesting shade of gray, or, sometimes, the so-fashionable charcoal-gray.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

Stand Tall and Look Snappy



Posture is more important than they realize.

Take them by and large—and they are larger than their mothers were at their age—today's teenage girls are vigorous, colorful human beings. They got their vitamins before they could walk, and they are still getting them. Complexions are good, as a rule; tresses are well cared for and beautifully arranged. But there is one common defect: they do not pay enough attention to posture. Some slump in chairs, some sprawl, some lope when they walk.

Many of them are body-lazy. They let their shoulders fall forward and their chests flatten. They don't hold in their tummies and so have awkward, full waistlines. It is a crying shame. Posture is more important than they realize.

This is a matter which should inspire mothers to action. The girl who turns herself into a question mark with head forward is imperilling her health. When the body is held upright the internal organs are kept in place by strong muscles. Reasoning on the basis of health does not usually appeal to young creatures but since the beauty angle does—and the slouchy carriage is anything but attractive—the latter is probably the best approach for mothers to take.

Without perfect stance the prettiest frock loses fine lines: it is nothing but so much dry goods—therefore it lacks style.

There is nothing like vitality to create personality. Boys like girls who are alert, responsive, wholly alive, and the slinky little creatures who fold up when they sit down and don't carry their heads splendidly when they stand do not qualify. Teachers of physical education complain bitterly about slovenly carriage among young girls, but, so far, talking to them hasn't seemed to do much good. They themselves must have the desire to appear splendid. Good posture, like many other qualities of beauty, begins in the mind.

ACCOMMODATION PROBLEM

LONDON (CP) — Arthur Delamont, founder of the Vancouver boys' band which toured Britain, said his biggest headache was finding accommodation for his 39 performers. "It's hard enough to find reasonable lodgings for anyone, let alone 39 boys," he said.

Wellington on the Lake

A SUMMER DAY

A whispering wind the meadow grasses stirring,
A fleeting fragrance wafted on the air,
The leafy branches 'gainst the blue dome showing—
Oh! What can with a summer day compare?

A drowsy note from nests all snugly hidden,
The quail's weird call across the meadowland—
All nature seems to bow in benediction,
With Love's sweet symbols seen on every hand.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON. — The many summer visitors in our town give proof of its many attractions at this season. One sometimes wonders if a summer hotel to accommodate summer guests might add to the social life of the town and bring an atmosphere of other lands to this quiet spot.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osterhout and family of Toronto, with Mrs. Laura Adams, and Mrs. Gordon Wise and family, Toronto, motored to Prince Edward Saturday evening and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osterhout, of Burrs, and with them and other members of the family, enjoyed a picnic in Wellington Park on Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Adams called on Mrs. H. B. Anderson, while in town.

A party of about forty from Hastings, including Mr. and Mrs. G. Beamish, enjoyed a motor trip to Wellington Park, for a picnic on Sunday and then drove to the Sandbanks. They were joined by Mrs. Alberta Smith.

Miss Leis Weeks, Consecon, was a recent guest of Mrs. W. H. Morton, Consecon Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wannamaker and family, enjoyed a re-union in the park on Sunday.

Miss Nellie Arthur and Miss Clara Anderson, Belleville, with Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Miss S. E. Blakely, Wellington, were dinner guests at Grahamanor, Saturday evening. Many holiday people are enjoying vacation at this pleasant resort.

Mr. Ray Preston has purchased the residence of Mrs. Seburn MacDonald, Main Street. Mr. Preston has sold his farm in Gilead to Mr. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas and children of Ottawa, returned home after spending the long week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Putnam and family, of Peterborough, are enjoying holidays in the Jolley cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ainslee, Point Anne, spent a few days in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bovay of Scotland, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay and Mrs. Inez Ingramhe and other friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Bovay expect to locate in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. McHenry and Mr. Bobbie Eigie, of Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McHenry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lavendar at the close of the berry-picking season, entertained their employees at a pleasant afternoon tea on Tuesday in recognition of their valuable services.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Arthur and family of Welland are guests of her sister, Mrs. Edna Platt.

The many friends of Mrs. Effie Phillips will regret to learn that she is a patient in Kingston hospital. All are hoping that she may soon be able to return home.

Mrs. Neilson has returned home after spending several weeks with friends at Mimico. While there she attended the 25th anniversary of her son and daughter-in-law.

A PLACE OF REST

There is a quiet, restful spot
Along Ontario's shore,
Where daily traffic troubles not
Nor motors rush and roar;
Here, little children swing and slide
Throughout the holiday,
No parents near to cheer or chide,
No need their power and sway.

The grass is green and trim and neat,
The flowers are gay and bright,
And when the evening lamps are lit
They flood the scene with light;
Here, weary shoppers rest a while
And picnic parties meet,
And from the world's gay giddy throng
Enjoy a safe retreat.

And would you know where can be found
This quiet sylvan spot,
Where peace doth reign and joy profound
And troubles are forgot?
Oh! Just a verdant summer park
In Wellington-on-the-Lake,
Where all may turn when life is dark
And restful leisure take.

Oh! That each town would set apart
A place by nature blest,
Where weary ones and sick at heart
May find sweet peace and rest.

Sunday School Lesson:

War Between Ideas

By ROY L. SMITH

Columnists and commentators have spent considerable time explaining to us the issues and the techniques of the cold war which has engulfed our world. It is time someone explained to us the war that is going on between ideas.

The Communist Issue

Concerning the threat of communist politics, and the hazard they hold for democratic institutions, the average citizen is reasonably well informed. But concerning the deeper moral and spiritual implications of the war between communist and Christian ideas there is a great deal of fuzzy thinking.

In its basic doctrine of economic determinism, communism declares that the whole of life is economic, not spiritual — that the great achievements by mankind been determined by things rather than by any spiritual upsurge within the soul of man himself. As a matter of fact, communism makes no room in its thinking for the spiritual qualities of human existence. "Everything," the philosophical communist declares, "is a result of the working of economic law." This means that all the beautiful spiritual manifestations of life are the product of some blind, impersonal, non-moral force. That makes it necessary for communism to explain great music, great art, great literature, in terms of the economics of the musician, the artist, or the author.

Against all this the Christian declares that there is a force in life—God, if you please — which is the author of the great virtues, the graces, and the beauties of life.

And there we have the issue clearly joined. Are we to believe in the divinity of economics, or the divinity of the personal virtues?

Taints of Communism

The citizens of every democracy have been alerted concerning the dangers of political infiltration, and, to a dismaying extent we continue indifferent to the dangers of secularism which is a polite name for actual communist philosophy.

Even the most conservative, and anti-communist citizens, among us will hold political communism in contempt and embrace philosophical communism in the form of secularism. Ignoring the idea that all the great graces of great living are derived from the concept of a God of love, they are indifferent to the demands of good religion, all opportunities to worship God, and the claims of organized faith.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 9: "THE CHRISTIAN'S WAR". (Temperance) Romans 14: 13-21; 1 Corinthians 9: 24-27, Ephesians 6: 10-20.

It may come as a shock to some of us to be told that we are fellow-travellers of communism. We have never attended a communism meeting, been a member of a communist front organization, or lent any encouragement to any form of communism in government. But if we have accepted the communist doctrine of economic determinism, it will be hard for us to defend ourselves against the charge. If we have decided that life can be made out of things, and the graces of the spirit eliminated, then communism can ask little more from us.

Let's Inspect Our Ideas

The publication of the list of subversive organizations by the government led at least a few citizens to inspect their connections with scrupulous care. "I do not want one dollar of my money supporting any party that proposes to destroy my government," was the way one good citizen put it, and every right-minded man will agree. But if organizations are to be listed as subversive, what about ideas?

Who is to make up the list of subversive ideas? Each man must do it for himself, inside the sanctity of his own soul. It must be done ruthlessly, and with absolute courage.

Anything which asserts man's subservience to things, the power of force over the power of principle, the rights of governments over the souls of men — that thing is an idea to be battled with all the powers at our command! We are in a war of ideas, and only better ideas are sufficient to win against evil ideas.

Yanks Can Wrap Up 5th Flag With Clean Sweep Over Chicago White Sox

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

EAT HELPER!

Basking in the reflected glory of the good right arm of Bobby Hunter, Pat Marsele, dusky Point Anne hurler, has had little notice from the scribes and the sports Pharisees of the district.

Strange to say, only one team manager gave the rejuvenated hurler a tumble in the selections for the all-star team which battles Ace Holden and his Rockets, four-man squad, at the CNR Recreation Park tomorrow evening.

Pat has come up with some sterling mound performances during the season and while it could be, he was spurred to greater effort after Bobby Hunter joined the squad, the laddybuck has more than held up his end of the chucking stick.

The aging flipper of the guy never worked to better advantage than the other night when he held the powerful Glen Roy junior sluggers to a lone, lousy, measly hit and that came in the last innings. Pat breezed that apple past the McNevin younkers so fast they thought they were in Yankee Stadium with Robin Roberts, Bob Feller and Ed. Lopat rolled into one doing the flinging against them and Bobby Green had to come up with the single that spoiled Pat's perfect game.

Pat's return to form this season is a good thing for the Ox Point squad. With the dark-skinned hurler tossing top-flight softball, at times better than his illustrious palsy-walsy, young Marse Robert, the Point Anne team looms up as one of the strongest to represent the "Point" and the city in some time.

It won't be Pat Marsele's fault if the squad fails to go places in the OASA playdowns. And we're taking it for granted they will eliminate Frankford in the up-coming OASA playoffs. They should.

REMEMBER?

A familiar figure to softball fans of the city and district will be in action here tomorrow evening when the Belleville District All-Stars oppose Ace Holden and his three Jacks. It will be Steve Hook, well known pitcher of these parts who has been in Ottawa with the Canadian National Railways for the past few years, and who has been starring as a mound artist on a topflight Bytown fastball team. Previous to playing with the Ottawa squad, Steve was associated with the Robitailles team in the Montreal Snowdon group.

Steve will likely share the mound duties with Bobby Hunter, Doug Radnar, Barney McColl and Al Adams against the starry Holden and his Rockets.

GREAT FELLA!

T-shirted Ed Schreider loomed up in the office over the holiday week-end and the guy looked lean, lithe and lissome due, no doubt, to his arduous duties as an umpire in West Toronto Senior Baseball League. We guessed right off the bat that Ed was doing a spot of arbiting. It was simple. He carried a white walking stick. Ed is regarded as one of the better mask-and-pad-men in Hog Town. Even Bunny Morganson admits it. And that should be good enough. Got gassing about sport in general. Ed said 'twas a pretty tough league, what with backstops a few feet from home plate and you know what the fans can do to an umps under these circumstances.

Ed got his baptism of fire several years ago when he accompanied the Kiwanis Juniors to Hull, Quebec. The guy was a trifle nervous, who wouldn't be, it was his first time behind the plate. After an inning or two he became acclimatized and smiled and nodded his thanks to the "pea-soup" crowd. What Ed didn't know was the French language. They say the same things, but Ed's ignorance was baseball bliss. Ask Allen "Joe" Kelleher.

TRYOUT CAMP

Kingston has been selected as one of the sites of the St. Louis Cardinals' tryout camps. Red Bird scouts will look for diamond talent there on Monday and Tuesday, August 10 and 11.

Manager Eddie Stanky stressed the importance of tryout camps by relating that "The Cardinals since 1926—when they won their first pennant and World Series—have been a first division ball club in 23 out of 27 years primarily because they operate the finest farm system ever seen in professional baseball.

Each summer the St. Louis National Leaguers conduct tryout camps throughout Canada and the United States as a means of giving young players between 17 and 23 a chance to win a professional contract with the Red Birds.

Workout at Kingston are to get underway each morning promptly at 10 o'clock. Players who report for the sessions are to bring their own glove, shoes and a uniform, if they have one.

The Cards will conduct a similar school at Oshawa August 12-13.

Lead League by Five Games Going Into 'Crooshul' Series; 'Bums', Braves Split Twin Bill

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mathematicians to the contrary, New York Yankees have an opportunity this week-end to wrap up their fifth-straight American League pennant.

The figure filberts can show you this is not so, that no matter what happens in the Yanks' four games with Chicago White Sox starting today, all eight teams in the league still will remain potential flag winners.

But if the Yankees should win all four, those fellows with the figures are going to have a hard time convincing many folks that the race isn't over.

New York led Chicago by five games going into today's contest. Following Saturday's doubleheader and a single game Sunday, the Yankees will have 46 games left. The White Sox will have 44.

The Yankees defeated Detroit 5-2 Thursday without much effort while the White Sox rallied for five runs in the eighth to edge Philadelphia 6-4. Chicago has won eight out of 10 on its eastern road trip; the Yankees have taken seven of nine on their current home stand.

Milwaukee kept alive its fleeting pennant hopes in the National League with a split against first-place Brooklyn. The Dodgers took the first game 4-3 on Pee Wee Reese's bases-loaded single in the 11th inning. Milwaukee won the nightcap 3-2 on a triple by Harry Hanebrink that drove in all three runs in the ninth inning. There were two men out and the Braves had been trailing 2-0.

Warren Saphn, who has not beaten Brooklyn in two seasons, blew an early lead in the first game, was saved temporarily when Del Crandall tied the score with a home run in the eighth, and then lost as Billy Cox and Carl Erskine singled and Junior Gilliam walked prior to Reese's single.

In other National League action Harvey Haddix of St. Louis Cardinals had a no-hitter going for eight innings before Philadelphia nicked him for a pair of singles in the ninth. He escaped with a 2-0 shutout, his 14th victory of the year. New York broke a six-game losing streak at the expense of Chicago 12-6 and Pittsburgh won its third in a row from Cincinnati 4-3.

Ted Williams returned to Boston Red Sox as a futile pinch hitter as the Sox bowed to St. Louis 8-7 in 10 innings. Bobby Young homered in the 10th. Williams, batting with two on and one out in the ninth, popped out.

Washington dumped Cleveland 4-1, Frank Shea winning his ninth game. Jackie Jensen collected three singles as Bobby Feller suffered his sixth loss.

The Giants came out of their slump with an eight-run eighth inning that featured three-run home runs by Monte Irvin and Al Dark.

Shoot Honors Go to Officer Candidate, Cadet

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—An officer candidate and a high school cadet shared top honors Thursday in closing matches of the 22nd annual Ontario Rifle Association shoot.

Officer Candidate C. O. James of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, won the Lieutenant-Governor's match and Silver Medal, the top prestige competition of the four-day meet, while Cadet R. M. Crossan of Hamilton Westdale Collegiate walked off with the Mercer and Ottawa Aggregate and the Capt. Guy F. Mackenzie Memorial Aggregate as Ontario's best shot.

The 18-year-old Hamilton high schooler, competing as a senior, came up with a 563 out of a 580 possible in the Mercer and Ottawa matches and notched 298 out of 300 in the Mackenzie. By winning the Ottawa Aggregate, he will get financial assistance ensuring his presence at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches next week in Ottawa.

In 1952, Crossan won the Wakefield Cup at the DCRA meet as the best rifle shot competing there.

Officer Candidate James came up with a 149 out of a 150 possible in the classy Lieutenant-Governor's match, clicking for 29 bullseyes in 30 shots at 300 and 600 yards. He also shot a 558 in the Mercer and Ottawa Aggregates, tying for third place in those matches.

Maj. W. R. Hampton of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Camp Borden, posted a 559 in the Mercer and Ottawa Aggregates while Lieut. W. V. Hall of Camp Borden tied with James for third with 558. S. Sgt. G. B. Kay of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and Sgt. F. Wallace of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, were fourth with 553 each.

Sub-Lt. T. F. Baines, RCNR, Halifax, was tops in the Visitors' Aggregate with a 553, Maj. W. H. Wood, Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria, coming second with a 509.

The O'Keefe Tyro Aggregate Trophy was won by Sqdn. Ldr. P. S. Shepherd of the RCAF, Camp Borden, whose score was 577. Cadets P. D. F. Ford and D. R. Smith of Hamilton Westdale followed with 573 each.

Lieut. Hall, Sgt. Wallace and Cpl. N. R. Nicol of the 48th Highlanders posted scores of 147 in the Lieutenant-Governor's match to finish two off the pace set by James. This match carries the same prestige as the Governor-General's at the DCRA and the Queen's Prize at Bisley.

Sqdn. Ldr. Shepherd also won the Tait-Brassey title with a 33 and Major Hampton took the Duke of Cornwall and York event with a 38 in a shoot-off to break a tie.

Capt. J. G. Kirk of the 21st Anti-Tank Regiment, Listowel, potted five bulls in a shoot-off for the City of Toronto title, defeating Crossan for the match title.

The Camp Borden Rifle Association won two team events and shared a third with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry. The Camp Borden quartet took the Lieutenant-Governor's team trophy and the Tait Brassey Team Cup. The RHLI group won the City of Toronto challenge event.

Marlene Powers Six-Stroke Lead In Women's Close Golf Tourney

By JACK SULLIVAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart, nervous as a kitten on the golf course and known affectionately to Canada's sport world as "Little Ben" and "Junior" can take it easy.

The sensation of the links around the country since she came up from the caddy ranks six years ago, the Fonthill whiz kid with the smooth-stroking shots powered her way Thursday to a six-stroke lead in the opening round of the 54-hole Canadian women's close golf championship. And the margin should be more than enough to give her the title for the third straight year.

Grim and tight-lipped, Marlene shredded women's par with a terrific 71, five under the women's regulation figure and one below men's for the Sunningdale Golf Club course. Closest to her at the end of 1 was ary Gay from the Westmount club of Kitchener with a one-over-par 77.

'Terrific' He Says

"Terrific, that's the only word for it," said Jim Windsor, Sunningdale pro, after Marlene's score went up.

Windsor's words were echoed by the large gallery which followed the 19-year-old Fonthill miss who stunned the sports world a few weeks ago by winning the British Open title—the first Canadian woman to win a national championship outside Canada.

Her tee shots were deadly and there was plenty of bite in her approach shots giving her easy putts.

At that, Marlene was a bit unlucky. She had an almost-perfect set-up for an eagle three on the 405-yard first hole, but missed a "cinch" two-foot putt for a birdie.

"Missing that putt relaxed me and I'm sort of glad I flubbed it," she said afterwards.

She added three more birdies on the outgoing nine to post a 33. She missed a three-foot putt on the third and a two-footer on the 18th.

Marlene's round was all the more remarkable in that it was the lowest competitive score posted by the brown-haired youngster and the lowest in the 27-year-old history of the tournament. It was also the first time women's par has been broken at the 5,898-yard Sunningdale course.

All in all, it was a big Ontario day. The Ontario four-member interprovincial team jumped into a 15-stroke lead in the opening round of the 36-hole competition and a Sunningdale member, Mrs. Grace Reeves, scored a hole-in-one, the first time in the history of the tournament. Mrs. Reeves "almost died" when she saw her three-iron tee shot on the 142-yard par-three fifth hole plunk into the cup.

Ontario's interprovincial team posted a gross score of 320 against 335 for Manitoba, 339 for British Columbia and Saskatchewan, 344 for Quebec and a booming 367 for the Maritimes. Ontario, defending champion, should wrap it up today.

Individual scores of the Ontario squad were: Mrs. J. B. Seawright, Toronto, 79; Anne Sharp, Fonthill, 80; Shirley Woodley, Toronto, 80, and Mrs. J. H. McCarter, Toronto, 81.

Dodgers, Braves 'Dusting' Episode An Old Dodge with New Ruling

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Out of a routine "dusting" episode in a game between Brooklyn and Milwaukee the other day has come a sharp note from National League headquarters condemning the practice, which is as old as baseball itself, and placing an intolerable burden upon the league's umpiring staff.

Previously an umpire could only caution a pitcher for "loosening up" a batter—and nine times out of 10 get cussed out for his pains. Now, as we interpret president Warren Giles' message, the hard-pressed arbiters are ordered to convict the erring hurler on the spot and turn him in for disciplinary action. Giles has promised to take a "firm position."

The league head was thus stirred into action because Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher, tried to take a bat to Lew Burdette; the Milwaukee pitcher, who had low-bridged him twice running. This created a somewhat riotous scene before the wrathful backstop was disarmed. The game's guardians are vigilant to avoid such episodes, and to keep the public reassured, and so Giles virtually had to say something.

We do not, therefore, mean to chide an old and valued friend. We will go so far as to concede that Warren meant every word of the warning he composed. All we will say is that, having been around baseball for a good while before he attained his present plane, he knows that the pitchers in his league will continue to knock down batters when they feel like it and that he has not an umpire so endowed as to tell for dead sure the difference between a duster and a pitch that "gets away."

Chiefs' Hurler Tosses No-Hitter Against Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harry (Duke) Markell's no-hitter and rightfielder Tom Burgess' three homers topped International League performances Thursday night.

Syracuse's Markell turned in the first no-hit masterpiece of the current league campaign, but his wildness and tardy fielding play spoiled his shutout bid as the Chiefs defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 in the seven-inning opener of a twin bill at Syracuse. Toronto took the second game 3-0.

Burgess' three circuit clouts at Montreal enabled Rochester Red Wings to defeat the pace-setting feat accomplished once before this season and at the same park.

Montreal first baseman Rocky Nelson whacked three of the big blasts June 22 as the Royals drubbed Syracuse 21-5. Burgess drove in six runs.

In hurling his masterpiece, Markell gave up seven bases on balls and three of them led to Toronto's lone twilight-game run. His record now stands at 1-9.

The Leafs won the nightcap behind the one-hit pitching of little Vic Lombardi and Don Johnson. For a time it looked as if Lombardi also was headed for a no-hitter. He was struck by a batted ball after 6 1-3 innings and forced to leave the game. Lombardi and Johnson fanned eight and walked none.

At Montreal, besides Burgess' three homers that ran his total for the year to 16, he collected two singles giving him a perfect night at the plate. Merv Benson whacked his first round-tripper of the season for the Wings.

Springfield Cubs turned the tables on the Bisons at Buffalo, defeating them 5-3. Former Bison Hal Daugherty hit a home run in the second and rapped a triple as a key blow in Springfield's ninth-inning winning spurt.

At Ottawa, Jack Sanford allowed only eight scattered hits to lead Baltimore Orioles to an 8-3 triumph over the Athletics. Sanford twirled his 12th win against eight losses.

Seixas Rallies To Win Match

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia experienced some anxious moments Thursday but came from behind to defeat Gil Shea of Presidio, Calif., 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, and gain the quarter-final round of the eastern grass courts tennis championship.

The bracket was filled when Noel Brown of Los Angeles upset Australia's Mervyn Rose 6-3, 6-4; Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., turned back Ian Ayre of Australia 3-6, 8-6, 6-2, and Rex Hartwig of Australia eliminated Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-3, 4-6, 12-[illegible]

The defeat of Rose was the main upset of the tournament so far.

Kingston Rinks Winners of Zone Playoffs in City

The reputation of the women bowlers in Eastern Ontario was worthily upheld at the local greens on Thursday, when Mrs. R. Edney, of Kingston, won the singles playoff in zone competition in three straight wins, while a trebles rink of Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mrs. C. A. Smart, and Mrs. Ralph Hinton, did likewise. Toronto Fairmount represented by Mrs. C. A. Brown and Mrs. W. Luke in the doubles won that competition.

Winners in districts ten, thirteen, fourteen and sixteen which included Kingston, Kemptville, Tottenham, Brockville, Ottawa, Stouffville, Toronto Norwood, Toronto Fairmount, Toronto Cosbourne were present and the whole playoff was ably conducted by Mrs. P. Hawes, president of the Women's Provincial Lawn Bowling Association. All of the district chairmen were on hand and acted as umpires for the various games.

The winners in the respective groups will compete in the finals against the winners for Western Ontario at St. Matthew's Club on August 25th. During the day the women's section of the local club served a delicious lunch after the first game and tea during the afternoon hours. The greens were in an excellent condition due to the recent rains and the visitors were very appreciative of the hospitality afforded. A large gallery followed the day-long play.

Mrs. Dick Edney, who bowls in this city on numerous occasions easily won the singles title. The trebles rink from Kingston had a stiffer fight, defeating Brockville, Toronto Cosbourne and Stouffville, in turn.

Citadelles Join Junior OHA Loop; Windsor Srs. In

TORONTO (CP)—Two new clubs entered the select Ontario Hockey Association family Thursday, one riding in on a glittering bundle of cash and the other clutching five promissory notes.

Quebec Citadelles, ousted from the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association last spring, were welcomed into the OHA Junior A setup when they posted a total of $45,000 in guarantees to behave. Windsor, Ont., was promised a berth in the Senior A circuit if the five clubs which Thursday nodded in approval agree to back the verbal agreement on the dotted line.

Quebec posted a $25,000 bond as a guarantee that it would finish out the schedule. In addition the Citadelles will pay OHA clubs $1,000 each time the Ontario boys venture into the province—twice each season—and add another $1,000 for each of the three games played there by OHA teams.

The Citadelles dropped out of JAHA play last year during a playoff dispute and were banned from participating in further Quebec play. They were allowed to compete in the Memorial Cup semi-finals, but fell before the Memorial Cup champion Barrie Flyers.

The Windsor application came from William Butcher, president of the Windsor Arena, which up until now has operated the ill-fated Windsor Spitfires of the OHA Junior circuit.

Five of the eight OHA senior clubs said they favored a Windsor entry for the 1953-54 season. They are Hamilton, Chatham, Owen Sound, Sarnia and Kitchener. Niagara Falls is also reported to want Windsor in.

However, they must back today's approval in writing and submit it to OHA headquarters before Windsor can really count itself in.

It is understood that both Brantford and Stratford oppose the Windsor entry.

Today, the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association get together for talks.

The question of the Quebec junior circuit, still suspended by the CAHA for refusing to accept the Citadelles back into their fold, is top priority today. However, the JAHA is still bitter over Quebec's move.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

..Batting: Harry Hanebrink, Milwaukee Braves, tripled with the bases loaded, two out and Milwaukee losing 2-0 in the ninth inning, driving in all of Braves' runs as they salvaged the second game of a doubleheader with Brooklyn 3-2.

..Pitching: Harvey Haddix, St. Louis Cardinals, pitched eight hitless innings before giving up two singles in the ninth in winning his 14th game, his third shutout, 2-0 over Philadelphia.

Canadian Tennis Stars Favored Over Cubans in Davis Cup Round

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's experienced tennis stars, Henri Rochon and Lorne Main, were in the favorites' role today for the opening of the Cuba-Canada North American zone semi-final round of Davis Cup competition.

Observers who have watched both teams at practice feel the Canadians can dispose of the Garrido brothers—Reynaldo, 19, and Orlando, 22—in the opening singles and quickly set up a 2-0 lead for Canada.

Many think Canada has a good chance of duplicating the 5-0 victory scored over Cuba here two years ago. The Garrido youngsters weren't in the cast then, and they are pretty much an unknown quantity hereabouts in competitive tennis.

But captain Ricardo Morales of the Cuban team says his boys are full of ambition and competitive spirit and have no qualms about meeting the favored Canadians.

The draw Thursday brought Rochon against Reynaldo Garrido in the first singles and Main against Orlando in the second.

The Cubans have been working hard to overcome a handicap they will face right at the start—grass courts. They are used to hardcourt play, whereas the Canadians, fresh from a 3-2 victory over Mexico, are right at home on the Mount Royal Tennis club grass.

Both Morales and Dr. Georges Leclerc, non-playing captain of the Canadian team, said they were satisfied with the draw. Both also indicated that their nominees for Saturday's doubles will depend on the outcome of the singles.

If Canada takes both opening singles, it is almost a certainty that Paul Willey of Vancouver, making his debut this year as a Davis Cup team member, will be paired with Main. Morales, a veteran and a topnotch doubles player may put himself into the doubles.

Three-Hour Game Feature of Tennis Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — A thrilling three-hour marathon between Dawn Macdonald of Cornwall and Ruth Trickery of Toronto highlighted Thursday's play of the Ontario junior lawn tennis championships.

Miss Macdonald finally came through against the Toronto lass 7-3, 3-6, 6-4, to advance into today's singles semi-finals.

Jerry Hayward of Toronto defeated Keith Bonnyman of Wallace 8-6, 6-4 in men's singles play while Toronto's Pat Watt downed Patricia Brearley of Belleville 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 in the ladies' singles.

Dick Kalil, a 15-year-old standout from Cornwall, bested Harry Hall of Toronto 7-5 in the first set of a men's singles match after overcoming Hall's 5-1 lead. However, Hall came back to take the match 5-7, 6-1, 6-1.

In delayed second-round matches Peter Barnard of Oakville and Harry Hall of Toronto both advanced into the next round. Barnard whipped Alex Kalil of Cornwall 6-2, 6-2; Hall eliminated Doug Middleton of Toronto 6-2, 6-1.

Cockell Meets 'Kid' Matthews

SEATTLE (AP)—Don Cockell, the wade-in-and-swing fighter from London, will meet the veteran Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle tonight in his first fistic test since he won the British Empire heavyweight title.

Nothing will be at stake in the 10-round battle but prestige. Cockell's crown is not being risked and a victory for Matthews would make him champion only of Don Cockell.

However, both camps look upon this as an important fight. Cockell wants to prove his championship is worth world-wide attention and he'd like to be near the head of the list of challengers for the world heavyweight diadem.

Victory for Matthews could re-establish him as a title contender; defeat might mean oblivion. His prestige suffered a serious blow when he was whipped last year by Rocky Marciano, before the latter won the title from Joe Walcott.

The fighters were to weigh in at noon today, with Matthews expecting to give away about 28 pounds. Harry the Kid usually reaches ringside weighing about 182; Cockell carries about 210 pounds.

'Guy' to Watch Is Linksman From Brantford

By PETER REILLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRANTFORD (CP)—Leo Kempa who knows the Brantford Golf and Country Club course like the back of his hand, is the player to watch in today's fourth round of the Ontario amateur golf championship here.

The Brantford Ava clubber Thursday upset tournament predictions when he putted George Eluck of Windsor out in the second round.

After his 3 and 2 victory over Eluck—rated among the top six amateurs in the province—the little known Kempa in the afternoon round defeated Toronto Scarboro's Eric Hanson 1 up. Kempa is paired with Keith Kirkpatrick of London Highland in the forenoon fourth round today.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, who tore up the course Thursday with a five-under par score for 12 holes, was drawn today with Herb Epstein of Toronto Oakdale, who advanced with a 3 and 2 win over T. Middleton of Sarnia.

Kesselring, three-time winner of the Ontario championship, disposed of Tony Matlock of Windsor, 6 and 5, in the third-round play. Earlier, he polished off George Molnar of Norfolk 4 and 2.

Nick Weslock of Windsor, favored to meet Kesselring in Saturday's final round, was paired with Gord Ball of Kitchener Essex in the fourth round. Weslock finished off Hamilton's Bernie Johnson 5 and 4 in the second round and eliminated Bill Harrison of Kitchener Roseland 6 and 5 after lunch.

Phil Farley, who brought his 13-year-old son, Mike, along to caddy for him, shot an even par in the afternoon to eliminate Jack Payne of Humber Valley. In the morning round, the 41-year-old Farley, six-time winner of the Ontario crown posted a 5 and 3 win over clubmate Eric Smith.

Jack Nash of London Hunt, considered a possible choice for this year's Willingdon Cup team, advanced into fourth round play on a 5 and 4 win over Dan Thibodeau of Kitchener. Nash, three-time winner of the Ontario crown, meets Ted Holmes of Brantford today.

Ted Williams Back in Fold

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, the last of the .400-hitters, is back in competitive action and most likely will be Boston Red Sox' starting left fielder again in about two weeks.

Williams went to bat for the first time since April 30, 1952 in a crucial pinch-hitting situation during Thursday's game with St. Louis Browns.

With the Red Sox trailing 6-7 in the ninth with runners on third and first with one out, manager Lou Boudreau told Williams: "Ted, I've got to use you now."

Thereupon Williams batted for rookie outfielder Tom Umphlett and lofted relief pitcher Marlin Stuart's fourth pitch to first baseman Dick Kryhoski.

Stuart's first pitch to Williams was a strike and the next a ball. Williams then brought the 6,79[illegible] spectators to their feet by lashing a foul into the right field stands.

After Williams returned to the dugout, Jim Piersall singled in the tying run. But Bob Young homered the Browns into an 8-7 victory in the 10th.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No question as to which rules are best for bridge. Those that follow the most natural course; the easiest to apply; the simplest to understand. Those that partner can see.

The bidding has come this far:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 C	Dbl
1 S	Pass	2 C

East told all with his double for takeout on the first round. If west can do nothing about it, east should now pass. This puts south in line for another bid or a pass. How does he decide?

A rebid in the same suit without a jump does not force partner to bid again. So the north rebid in clubs is not forcing. South will bid again only if he has new values to show. How does he know?

All bids follow T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. South has not a new biddable suit to show. But his spade suit is rebiddable. Thus, he should show it with a takeout to two spades.

South should not have made a first response without more than two tricks. Since he did respond with a bid he admitted three tricks or more. If so, how many tricks has he now shown?

Each increase in number consumes an additional trick. His first response of one spade admitted he had more than two tricks. But it was not an increase in number. It did not use up a third trick.

His second bid of two spades over two clubs was not an increase in number. Although it showed his suit rebiddable it did not consume an additional trick. It did not use up a third trick (of his four.)

It is not how many bids you make that shows the number of your tricks. It is the number of raises you make. Nice to know.

British Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—Australia's cricketers fought an uphill battle against Warwickshire at Birmingham Thursday, and at the close of the second day's play were 162 for five in reply to Warwickshire's declared total of 270 for eight.

Lindsay Hassett (60) and Colin McDonald (46) were responsible for an Australian opening stand of 104 runs. Eric Hollies broke the stand by catching Hassett.

Final scores in Thursday's first-class matches:

Warwickshire 270 for eight declared, Australian Tourists 162 for five.

Surrey 284 and 75 for one, Hampshire 172.

Leicestershire 251, Yorkshire 255 for eight.

Somerset 458 for eight declared, Glamorgan 299 for seven.

Middlesex 216 for nine declared and 158 for five, Kent 129.

Gloucestershire 269 and 108 for four, Northamptonshire 163.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, August 8, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—The position of Mars, your planet, indicates added care in personal and business interests. The wrong act or word could prove costly—financially or otherwise. Do not take useless chances.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Most worthy and well managed activities can move ahead profitably, progressing gradually. Private matters may need extra attention. A calm, diplomatic attitude is needed to achieve points more quickly.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Today's tip-top rays favor your especial proclivities; things you really like and strive for. Those in the military and government should receive some encouraging news. Faith!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Buck up and get down to cases today. You may find unexpected contention in unexpected places. Be on guard, don't go heedlessly out on the limb; stay put.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You are fortunate in many ways. Favorable aspects are in the majority and, if you remain mentally at ease during crucial periods (there may be a few), your week should turn out most satisfactorily. Romance favored.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Not an overly generous day but good enough for you keen, conservative ones to make satisfactory progress. The artistic; writers, teachers, doctors, nurses have top billing.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — With a sturdy, vigorous pattern, you can mold out a successful, satisfying day. Have design, knowledge of what you are after. Condense matters to essence fo basic values.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You with strenuous work, difficult tasks or decisions ahead should take due time before acting today. With a certain amount of caution and using knowledge rightly you will come out okay.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)— Go along with the trend if it fits right moods, the acme of worthy desires. Keep close watch on outsiders' actions; what's going on around you. There may be sudden changes.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Co-ordination, condensed action and common sense will get better results. Don't wait too long; neither force issues. During free time indulge in healthy sports, time with family, loved ones.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius—With alterness you will find revived interest in creative work, inventions; literary, professional matters. Money transactions will need close study but can be beneficial. Romance in its place!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)— Your planetary chart encouraging for most modest activities; dealings in sound real estate, gilt-edge securities. Don't take everyone's advice; even friends can be wrong. Study, analyze.

You Born Today: Energetic, mentally and physically, you have the courage of your convictions and once you determine to do a thing, usually stick at it until successful. When properly educated with a keen knowledge of right and wrong, you are a credit to parents, home, community. You like to delve into matters; dislike to be ordered around. You analyze well, have a good sense of humor, like fun and the good things in life. But here be advised to strike a happy medium for the sake of health and future happiness. Curb stubbornness, press always for the truth. Birthdate of: Sir Godfrey Kneller, English painter.

Admits 5 Robberies

MONTREAL (CP) — Arnold Slade, alias John Brown, 27, pleaded guilty Thursday to five charges of armed robbery of banks here since January, 1949. Loot in the robberies totalled almost $25,000.

Slade, who told the court he was a car salesman and, for one term, president of a service club between robberies, was ordered for sentence Aug. 20. Defence counsel asked for the delay so representations could be made on Slade's behalf.

Snipers Damage Train

BRAUNSCHWEIG. (AP) — East German refugees reported that Polish underground snipers have shot up the crack East Berlin-to-Moscow "Blue Express" so badly the train has been side-tracked for repairs.

There have been numerous reports of clashes between Soviet forces and Polish underground fighters in recent weeks but none of these has been confirmed by Allied intelligence officers.

PRODUCTION DROP

REGINA (CP)—E. J. Marshall, provincial forestry director, reported Saskatchewan timber production for the 12 months ended March 31 was valued at $8,785,600, or eight per cent below the previous year. Total production was down 15 per cent.

CANADA PLEDGES AID IF WAR IS RESUMED

Vote on Monday

Monday, August 10, is the date of the Federal election.

That is the day Canadians will decide who will govern this nation during the next four or five years.

If you have a vote, you will have to participate in reaching this decision and you will have to share in the responsibility for the results.

You cannot avoid sharing in that responsibility by declining to vote. For a vote which is not cast may well play as big a role in deciding the issue as a ballot carefully marked.

That right which you have to mark a ballot has been dearly bought—by bullets and by heart-aches, by brave men in trenches and brave men gathered in little crowded halls, in times of war and in times of peace.

They purchased a privilege for you—and because that privilege was bought at such a high price it has also become a duty, a duty which you should discharge.

So vote on Monday.

That does not mean just marking a ballot. For the mere act of forming an X on a sheet of paper is only a part, and the less important part, of voting.

Just as important as the act is the thought which should precede it—the weighing of the issues, the parties and the candidates, the forming of YOUR best judgment.

Be sure to do that. Judge for yourself. Make up your mind. Then mark your ballot as your conscience dictates, not with selfish advantages in mind, not from habit nor even from friendship, but in the conviction that what you are doing is in the best interests of the nation which is your homeland.

Find Two Aged Toronto Men Murdered in Rooming House

TORONTO (CP) — Police are seeking two young men in connection with the slaying of two men in their 70s who were found on beds in a downtown rooming house with their throats cut.

Police said the victims were George King, 81, and George E. Weaver, 78. One of the men is believed to have been a former carnival worker.

George Howlings, who took a room in the house on Jon St., after obtaining a week-end pass from Sunnybrook military hospital where he is a patient, found the bodies.

Howlings told police he went upstairs to the front room and found the bodies on separate cots. Pulling back the covers, Howlings found one body on the cot by the front window with a tie tightened around the throat. Pieces of a broken wine bottle surrounded the head, which was covered in blood that had soaked the mattress.

Howlings said the second body was on the other side of te room. The victim appeared to have died with a deep knife wound through the left side of the throat. The other mattress also was blood-soaked.

Dr. J. B. Lovering, assistant coroner, placed the time of death at about 7:30 p. m. The bodies were found some three hours later.

Rented By Four Men

The rooming house operator, Mike Pynboyski, told police the room was rented by the day by two elderly men and two young men. Other roomers said they heard no fighting or loud arguments.

The room contained four cots, each covered with a thin mattress, sheets and blankets. The rest of the furniture consists of a large dresser and two chairs. A pair of old-fashioned high-buttoned men's shoes lay under the bed of one of the victims.

Find Six Wine Bottles

Police found six wine bottles, two of them broken, in the room.

Chief John Chisholm took personal charge of the investigation.

Howlings described for reporters his discovery of the two shrouded forms on the beds.

"When I pulled back the sheet, I said 'What's this?' The man's neck was slashed from ear to ear. All I could see on the other bed was a leg hanging out from under the covers.

"I ran downstairs and told the manager he'd better go and have a look. What else could I say? I've seen dead people before."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP). — Synopsis: Cloud spread rapidly across Southern Ontario on Friday night accompanied by scattered thundershowers over southwestern regions, and a few light showers elsewhere.

The weather disturbance responsible for this unsettled weather is moving very slowly east across the lower lakes region. Mostly cloudy weather with scattered showers is expected to persist today and Sunday over Southern Ontario. Northern regions will clear late this evening. Sunday will be sunny in northern and central Ontario.

Isolated Quebec Centres to Get Airports Soon

QUEBEC (CP)—Three isolated St. Lawrence river north shore centres soon will have airports, Premier Duplessis announced Friday.

Riviere au Tonnerre, Havre St. Pierre, and Natashquan, respectively 350, 450 and more than 500 miles east of Quebec, will get the airports under an arrangement between the Quebec government and local municipal administrations. Cost was not announced.

P.M. Warns That All Reds Will Cast Votes

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday night appealed to democratic Canadians to get out and vote Monday and prevent the possibility of Communists electing members to the next Parliament.

"There is a section of the population . . . who I know will be at the polling booths," Mr. St. Laurent said in a radio broadcast and political rally here.

"These are the small group of fanatical people who are dedicated to the spread of communism. In this country they go under the name of Labor-Progressives. . . ."

The Communists are out to "destroy" Canada's democratic system of government and all of them will be out to vote Aug. 10, Mr. St. Laurent said.

"Let nothing stand in the way of each one of you casting your vote," the prime minister urged the democratic electorate.

GAIETY COMES TO PANMUNJOM AS POW HEALTHY

Latest Freed Captives Are in Better Spirits

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Some laughter and joy came to Panmunjom today as 90 Americans returned to freedom in obviously better health and spirits than those liberated in the first three days of the Korean prisoner exchange.

There were few maimed and haggard men in today's group.

The Reds sent back 250 South Koreans, 90 Americans, 35 Turks and 25 Britons—a total of 400.

They said Sunday's group of 400 will include 250 South Koreans, 12 Americans, 21 Britons, 13 Turks, two Australians, one Canadian and one Filipino.

So far, the four-day exchange has brought back a total of 1,205 Suth Koreans, 311 Americans, 143 Turks, 126 Britons, 34 Filipinos, 21 Colombians, seven Frenchmen, six Australians, one Belgian, one Canadian, one Greek and one South African.

Of the prisoners released today, 80 were Negroes.

Prisoners Sing

Seeing a convoy of singing Red North Koreans driving up the road, the Americans yelled and hooted.

"We might as well sing, too—shall we give him a little blues, boys?"

The Britons also were full of good cheer. One tall young Tommy shouted, "lets' make it Dirty Dick's!" (a famous East London pub) as his truck rolled up.

A deeper note was struck by the Turks and South Koreans.

Their hatred of their captors was so intense that scores tore off their Chinese prison uniforms in spontaneous acts of defiance.

Strip Off Clothes

Military police had to restrain the Turks from stripping right in the roadway.

But even the MPs could not stop the South Koreans. Many stripped to their underclothes the instant their feet struck ground.

The Communist prisoners, too, followed the urge to shed their garments, and the UN road from Munsan to Panmunjom was littered with American army gear—so much that poverty-stricken Korean civilians stole down from the hills and scavenged it.

Allied officers estimated returning Reds have discarded thousands of dollars worth of prison gear which under the Geneva Convention must be the same quality of clothing as Allied soldiers wear at the front.

Lists In Mess

Although the return of American, British and other UN prisoners went off much as scheduled by the Reds, the Communists showed no such precision with the South Koreans.

Allied officers complained that the lists of South Korean prisoners were grossly out of order and were, frankly, "a mess."

American repatriates revealed that some prisoners smoked a weed which had narcotic effects.

Meanwhile, at Inchon, a port on South Korea's west coast, some American disabled were loaded by helicopter onto the hospital ship Haven for the voyage back to the United States.

As the exchange continued, more Red prisoners were brought north for their ride back to communism.

At the port of Pusan, in far South Korea, 473 North Korean Communist women demonstrated at the docks, shouting "get away, Yankees."

Reds Seek to Bar Even Cyclists From Making Trips for Free Food

BERLIN (AP)—The Russian zone Communists clamped severe new restrictions on travel into Berlin today in a desperate attempt to prevent a week-end rush of East Germans to American free food stations here. But thousands of the hungry and resourceful made it anyhow.

The newest Red measures were aimed at stopping even cyclists and pedestrians. They were said to have been ordered after a one-week ban on the sale of railroad tickets, and direct assaults by Red storm troopers, failed to smash the relief campaign.

The East Germans thumbed their noses at the Communist police by finding or making new loopholes.

Lines formed at the food stations before mid-morning and the vast give-away was expected to pass the 2,000,000-parcel mark during the week-end.

Widespread Communist persecution continued against people who took the American aid. In some places, pensions and other public aid were cut off in reprisal.

East Germany's shaky army and people's police were racked by continued desertions as 25 more cops and soldiers fled to west Berlin Friday night for asylum. This brought the total for the first seven days of August to 186 and the total for this year to 2,656

U.S. No Longer Has Monopoly On H-Bomb Says Malenkov

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Georgi Malenkov told the joint session of the Supreme Soviet today the United States no longer has the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb.

Malenkov said the Soviet Union now had mastered the production of the bomb.

The Supreme Soviet is Russia's parliament.

His appearance at the session today came as a surprise. It had not been heralded beforehand.

The hydrogen bomb is a development of the atom bomb but many times more powerful. The United States atomic energy commission is believed to have exploded the world's first hydrogen bomb in a series of tests at the Einwetok atoll in the marshal islands last year.

(The commission announced Nov. 1, 1952, that it had made tests with weapons "contributing to thermo-nuclear weapon research." Experts said this was a veiled reference to the hydrogen bomb.)

Malenkov also disclosed that Russia will grant 1,000,000,000 rubles (worth $250,000,000 at the agreed Western rate) for rehabilitation in Korea.

Outlines New Program

Malenkov also outlined a big new government program for the production of consumer goods. He said the government was prepared to make a major effort in this direction.

The budget, he told the deputies, was a big step forward towards building communism in the Soviet Union and reflected the government's policy towards a steadily rising national economy.

Three minutes of cheering greeted his appearance from a seat behind the Praesidium table to address the last joint session of the Supreme Soviet's two houses. The Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities.

Election Oratory Over, Now Electors' Ballots Will Talk

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, (CP)—The oratory is just about ended, and now it is the electors who will talk with ballots.

Except for some last-minute shots, the general election campaign is finished after eight weeks of verbal firing. The voters, on the receiving end up to now, take over Monday at the polls.

After a week-end respite from speeches, perhaps 8,000,000 voters will go to the polling stations to make their four-year choice among the Liberals in government, four other major parties and a variety of independents.

In this first August election since 1874, they are confronted with 896 candidates running for 263 Commons seats, two Quebec Liberals have gone in by acclamation, and a multiplicity of issues.

But they know the government can be formed only by the Liberals, the Progressive Conservatives or the CCF. No other group is running enough candidates to get a majority.

Big Upheaval

It will take a big upheaval to put in either of the two opposition parties bidding for power. It needs 133 seats, and at dissolution in June the Progressive Conservatives held 46 and the CCF 13 against 181 by Prime Minister St. Laurent's Liberals.

Political quarters have been looking for any possible big-scale turnover to develop largely among Ontario's 85 seats where the Progressive Conservatives got the bulk of their support in the last election. For that reason Ontario has been the final fighting ground of the leaders of the two big parties.

Barring heavy switches elsewhere, the Progressive Conservatives also must carve out a large chunk of Quebec's 75 traditionally-Liberal constituencies to get into power. They also have been concentrating there in the late days of the campaign. They held only three Quebec seats as Parliament closed.

Contesting All Seats

The two major parties are contesting almost all of the decisive Quebec-Ontario block of 160 seats, with the CCF also putting well over half their candidates in those provinces, though that party had only two Eastern Canadian seats at dissolution.

The Communist Labor-Progressive party, too, has more than half its record 100 candidates in the central provinces. Social Credit has aimed its fire largely at the West, where Alberta gave the group all of its 10 seats in the last Parliament and where it hopes to ride a Social Credit wave in British Columbia.

Several parties have gone in more heavily than usual for women candidates this time. There are 48 in the field. The Communists lead with 21, including seven apiece in Ontario and Quebec.

The CCF is running 13 and the Progressive Conservatives nine. The Liberals have only three and Social Credit one. There is one Independent Progressive Conservative woman.

23 Women In Ontario

Ontario has the heftiest concentration of feminine candidates with 23 and Quebec is next with 11. British Columbia has eight. Only Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have none in the lists.

The Progressive Conservatives have reinforced their bid for the distaff vote by promising that they would bring a woman into the cabinet for the first time since Confederation. In the last Commons, they had the only woman member in Mrs. Ellen Fairclough of Hamilton West, who would likely be one of their cabinet ministers, if re-elected.

In this election, it is probable the eligible voters will run to an all-time high of around 8,500,000, though the total will not be known until regional officials send their enumeration returns to Ottawa after the voting. The previous high was in 1949, when 7,893,629 were qualified. Of these 5,903,572 voted.

Since the number voting has increased steadily in every general election, it appears probable more than 6,000,000 will use the franchise Monday. However, the August date, never before used since Canada started one-day polling, may pose a question mark there.

Armed Services Now Voting

The civilian vote will be buttressed by that of several thousand members of the armed forces in Canada and various parts of the globe, including Korea. They started ballotting Monday and continued through this week.

There are 105,000 men and women in uniform eligible to vote, though returns from some points in the early ballotting indicated the service vote was light. It will be counted Aug. 17—a week after civilian voting—and correlated with the civilian count.

In cases of close counts, the service ballot could overthrow the election night result, but such upsets have been scarce in the past.

In getting out after the votes, the party leaders have made this perhaps the most-travelled election campaign in Canadian history. Each of the top three chiefs, Prime Minister St. Laurent, Progressive Conservative leader George Drew and the CCF's M. J. Coldwell, has rolled up well over 20,000 miles by train, plane and automobile.

They have gone all the way from coast to coast and done a lot of north and south criss-crossing. Solon Low of the Social Credit has done less, for the most part sticking to the West.

Variegated Fare

They have carried to the electorate a variegated fare of issues, of which perhaps the main one has been the record of the Liberal party in 18 years of office and particularly in the last four years under 71-year-old Mr. St. Laurent.

The Liberals have said they are willing to be judged on it, and offered no specific promises for the future. The others have attacked it on many fronts.

The Progressive Conservatives have offered $500,000,000-a-year tax cuts as the front-rank point of a 16-plank platform. The CCF has pressed mainly for a national health insurance scheme financed from the national treasury, along with nationalization of some industries and other Socialist policies. The Social Credit group promised monetary measures to boost trade.

Various side-issues have cropped up. In the West, the building of the South Saskatchewan dam has been one, and opponents are wrangling over this vast project in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

COURT SENTENCES 10 HIGH NORTH KOREANS TO DEATH

Two Others Given Long Prison Terms

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported today the North Korean supreme court has sentenced to death 10 high government officials accused of plotting to overthrow North Korea's Communist regime. Two others were given long jail terms.

The 12 defendants in a typical Communist purge trial "confessed," the radio said, to spying and carrying on other subversive work for the United States and South Korea.

Topping the list of those sentenced to die former justice minister Lee Sung Yup. Among the others were former deputy propaganda minister Cho Yun Nyong, former foreign minister Pak Hong Wong, and the Communist party's former deputy propaganda chief, Rhee Won Cho.

One of the jailed officials was sentenced to 15 years, the other 12.

Queen Mary Leaves Estate Of $1,137,939

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mary left an estate of £406,407 ($1,137,939), it was announced when her will was probated today.

The will did not disclose the names of any of the beneficiaries. The net value of the estate was announced as £379,864. This sum was smaller than many had anticipated.

The net value is the amount left after taxes. which the estate had to pay even though the Queen was the mother of two monarchs and the grandmother of the present Queen. Only wills of reigning kings are exempt from taxation.

Royal family wills are admitted to probate in the usual way but are kept secret unless publication is authorized by the president of the probate court.

Taxes on the estate amounted to £163,742. This indicated Queen Mary had made many gifts during the last years of her life, as inheritance taxes cover five years. In some cases the taxes can exceed the gross of the estate remaining.

WOULD EXAMINE DRIVERS

STRATFORD (CP)—The Canadian Trotting Association should institute medical examinations before issuing licences to harness horse race drivers, a coroner's jury recommended here Friday night. The jury was investigating the death of Harry Field, 71-year-old Hamilton driver who was killed in an accident last Monday at the Stratford race meet when a horse fell.

MORE BIRTHS, DEATHS

OTTAWA (CP)—Births reached a peak during June and the first six months of this year while deaths were moderately higher and there were fewer marriages, the bureau of statistics reported Friday. Births were a record 36,246 from 34,909 a year earlier. Deaths increased to 10,291 from 9,302 in June, 1952. Marriages declined to 11,873 fom 14,707.

Smiths Falls Man Admitted He Was Scared When He Robbed Bank

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Leo Cahill, 29, of Smiths Falls, Ont., charged with the armed robbery of the Portland, Ont., branch of the Royal Bank of Canada on May 25, 1953, was remanded in custody Friday afternoon until Aug. 25 when he will be sentenced by Judge Donald E. Lewis, of Brockville.

Cahill, who elected trial by judge, pleaded guilty to the offence, and $4,324 of the $4,884 stolen from the bank was ordered returned. Bad debts and poor health were given as reason for Cahill's actions. Several character witnesses and his wife were heard.

Even the investigating officer, Inspector J. F. Craig, of Toronto was called as a character witness. He told the court that Cahill appeared to have been stupid in connection with the crime, and was not a hardened criminal type.

"He admitted that he was scared when he robbed the bank and told me that if the manager had said 'boo' when he was scooping up te money he would have fled," Inspector Craig stated. He said Cahill co-operated with police and showed them where the money was hidden.

Cahill's wife had been charged as an accomplice but charges against her were dropped at the preliminary hearing.

She said of Cahill: "As a husband and father I could have none better."

16 Allied Nations Promise to Fight If Reds Attack

Not Pledged to War on China Canada and Britain State

SEOUL (AP)—A treaty pledging the military might of the United States in defence of war-battered South Korea if Red armies break the truce and attack again was initialled here today.

The mutual security pact, which must have U.S. Senate approval, was initialled by U.S. State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai of South Korea.

The ceremonies in President Syngman Rhee's home climaxed four days of important conferences between Rhee and Dulles.

It came as UN headquarters in New York announced that 16 Allied countries with troops in Korea have promised to take up arms again in the event of a new Communist attack. But two countries—Britain and Canada—later hedged their commitment.

Sign With Reservations

Although two signers, Britain and Canada, made it clear they were not committing themselves in advance to strike at Red China itself, the declaration raised such a possibility if Chinese forces were again involved along with North Koreans in a drive to conquer all Korea. In the past the Allies strongly opposed any military action directly against Red China on the ground it might set off a world war.

Dulles and Rhee in a joint statement hailed their work as "an important contribution to the development of independence and freedom in the Far East."

They also announced a United States-Korea agreement to walk out of the forthcoming political conference if both feel after 90 days that the Communists are "exploiting" efforts to achieve peace in Korea.

Dulles, his mission to Korea completed, flew to Tokyo on the first leg of his trip to Washington.

Base Troops In Korea

The security pact provides for basing U.S. troops in Korea. But Dulles told a press conference that "we want to get our armed forces home as soon as is consistent with our responsibilities."

Dulles and his advisers also discussed with South Korean leaders a vast program of economic aid planned by the U.S. to rebuild the war shattered land. The three- to four-year plan contemplates $1,000,000,000 in American aid, of which $200,000,000 already has been approved by Congress.

The Rhee-Dulles statement said they hope their exchange of views "will establish a preparatory foundation for co-ordinated efforts at the political conference."

The high-level international talks, according to the armistice terms, must open by Oct. 27.

Will Walk Out

The talks are aimed at finding a way to unite North and South Korea by peaceful means and fixing a time for withdrawal of Chinese and UN forces from the peninsula.

Dulles told newspaper men other matters might arise for debate. These could include such Asian issues as the fate of Formosa and the Indo-China war.

But Dulles and Rhee agreed that if, after 90 days, the U.S. and South Korea see "that the conference is being exploited by the Communist delegates mainly to infiltrate, propagandize or otherwise embarrass the Republic of Korea," the two nations will walk out.

The statement said the two nations, if they leave the talks, will "consult further regarding the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea."

In response to questions, Dulles said "the agreed duration of the political conference is the time the conference lasts, subject to a cut-off. That would be 90 days if both governments agree."

Dulles emphasized, however, that the conference could go less than 90 days or longer.

Sign On July 27

He added that "any judgment of ours (the United States) on this would be based on consultation with other Allied delegates."

The 16 countries with troops in Korea signed a pledge July 27 to fight again in the event of a new Red attack there, but it was not announced until Friday.

Britain and Canada, both of whom signed, qualified their commitments, apparently because of concern over consequences of war on the China mainland.

The declaration signed last month in Washington says of a possible new Communist attack:

"The consequences of such a break of the armistice would be so grave that, in all probability, it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea."

This apparently was a warning that Red China might be the target of air attacks and possibly a naval blockade.

Captives Died Minutes After 'Mercy Shots'

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—A U.S. soldier returned in today's prisoner exchange said he saw three desperately-ill captives die within minutes after receiving inoculations from the Chinese.

"Everyone called them mercy shots," said Pte. Cleveland Clairmont, 23, of Madison, S.D., who spent 32 months at Pyoktong POW camp near the Yalu river.

Clairmont estimated that about 1,700 prisoners died at Pyoktong from dysentery, pneumonia, exposure and starvation.

Report of Plan For Big Oshawa Holdup in Error

TORONTO: Toronto police Friday night denied reports published Friday that a Toronto gang had planned a $1,500,000 General Motors payroll robbery in Oshawa. It was explained that the rumor began with a facetious remark made in the Don Jail. But authorities added that no proof or evidence had been found to support such a theory.

Merchants Asked To Fill Out Questionnaire

Response to the questionnaire mailed to business men in the city concerning the advisability of holding a Santa Claus parade in December has been "encouraging," according to Don W. Kingdon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

A total of 580 forms was sent out approximately three weeks ago requesting merchants' opinion and support upon the venture. Mr. Kingdon noted the majority of the returns received to date have been in favor of holding a parade.

However, the secretary-manager pointed out a considerable number of recipients of the questionnaires have not as yet been heard from. He reminded that to obtain a fair cross section of opinion, the chamber would like those who have not submitted their forms to return them as soon as possible.

POLICE BLOTTER

Comparative quiet prevailed in the local police circles during the past 24 hours with no serious accidents or other matters of a serious nature being reported.

Theft of a 1947 model auto from the Riggs Motor Sales used car lot at the corner of McAnnany and Pinnacle Street, was reported during the early evening.

Also during the early evening an unknown man was reported to have stolen a quanity of change from a Chinese laundry on Bridge near the Lower Bridge. The man was said to have entered the laundry and while the attendant left the counter, he scooped up the change in the till and ran out. Police were able to secure only a very sketchy description of the man.

Several very minor motor accidents were reported, while ordinary drunks and a couple of family spats rounded out the police blotter.

Point Anne Beats Frankford 10-1 in Opener

Point Anne's powerful bludgeons pounded the Frankford Merchants into 10-4 submission in the first game of their best of seven series for the right to represent the City District Softball League in the OASA intermediate A playdowns.

The Cementment got a pair in the second, four in the third, three in the sixth and one in the eighth on thirteen hits, three of them being homers and four doubles.

Frankford's lone tally came in the fifth.

Maracle went all the way on the hill for Point Anne, leading his team to victory by striking out six and walking none to give up but four hits over the route. Rankin started for the losers and in four complete innings of play struck out one and walked as many. He was relieved in the fifth by Curtis who walked three and struck out one.

John Green led the Cement Makers in the wood department, slamming the ball for a four bagger and a single. Bill Strachan connected for two bases and a single while Maracle helped his own cause with a pair of singles. Buchanan tagged the ball for a brace of singles. Bob Strachan slammed the ball for a homer, as did Sammy Mulholland. Hall, Gilmour and Brannigan rode the ball for doubles.

Adams, Curtis, Rankin and Gilmour were the only hitters for the Merchants, each getting a singleton.

Curtis was ejected from the game in the bottom of the 8th, and it had to be called because Frankford had used all of its eligible players.

Obituary

EDWARD MANLEY TURNER

The funeral of Edward Manley Turner was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Friday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. S. E. Larman, who also said the last rites in Belleville cemetery.

On Thursday evening members of the Elks Lodge convened at the funeral home for service of their order, that was under the direction of Thomas Jury, Jas. McNanee and Ralph Downey.

The bearers were Charles Greatrix, Elwood Dulmage, Jas. McNanee, Thomas Jury and Curry Karkheck.

MRS. SARAH ANN BRADSHAW
(Stirling)

Mrs. Sarah Ann Bradshaw, Stirling, died in Belleville General Hospital on Friday following an illness of only two days. She was in her 77th year.

Born at Flinton, daughter of Eliza Jane Davidson and the late Daniel Sedgwick, she had lived at Stirling for the past five years. Prior to that time she had lived in Tweed. She was a member of the United Church.

Pre-deceased by her husband in 1938, Mrs. Bradshaw is survived by one son, Guy Bradshaw of Stirling, two grandchildren and two greatgrandchildren. She is the last of her family.

Resting at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Canada Takes Two-Game Lead Over Cubans

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Because of wider experience, sharper tennis smartness and greater familiarity with grass-court play, Canada today holds a commanding 2-0 lead over Cuba in the North American zone semi-final Davis Cup tie.

Backed by Friday's clear-cut singles victories of Henri Rochon and Lorne Main over the Garrido brothers, Reynaldo and Orlando, Canada's assignment in today's doubles was faced with confidence and full expectation that the series will be clinched.

Paul Willey of Vancouver was scheduled to make his official Davis Cup debut paired with Main. At the same time Ricardo Morales, 39-year-old captain of the Cuban team, planned to make his farewell stand in the blue-ribbon tennis competition as partner, with 22-year-old Orlando Garrido.

The Garridos Friday could salvage only one set in seven. Rochon, the bouncing Montreal southpaw, romped away to a straight-set victory over Reynaldo, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, and Main, starting slowly and giving up a set while figuring out Orlando's style, went on merrily from there to win 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Reynaldo relied largely on power but his flat shots gave Henri little trouble. Rochon, always unorthodox, decided to depart from his favorite drop shots and baffled his young opponent with slices to Reynaldo's forearm.

Reynaldo double-faulted eight times and had 26 outs to Henri's 18. Each netted 25 times.

For a while it looked as if the second match would put a different aspect on the day's results. Orlando wasted little time getting the jump on the slow-starting Main, but again experience ultimately told. It was a far more interesting match, producing 15 service breaks of which 10 were in Main's favor.

Both were guilty of errors galore in the first set which Garrido won. After that Lorne changed his tactics. His top spin, with a high bouncing ball, had apparently been to Orlando's liking. From then on Lorne began chopping and cutting, scoring repeatedly on short angled placements. In all, the Toronto-Vancouver player had 43 placements to Orlando's 24.

Most Candidates Sit Back To Await People's Verdict

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The election campaign died away to a murmur today. Most of the candidates sat back fretfully to await the people's verdict Monday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent held his last major rally Friday night at Toronto. He goes home to Quebec City today and will speak Sunday there and at Baie St. Paul.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, visits three Lake Ontario centres today—Oshawa, Cobourg and Kingston—to close out his campaign and returns to Ottawa late tonight.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell remained in Saskatchewan. He spoke Friday at Prince Albert and later to his own riding of Rosetown-Biggar. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, was in his home constituency of Peace River after a brief dash into British Columbia.

10,000 Hear St. Laurent

All political radio broadcasts came to a halt Friday night. The Liberals were the last to be heard on the national networks.

Mr. St. Laurent made the radio broadcast and gave substantially the same speech before an audience of about 10,000 in 14,000-seat Maple Leaf Gardens.

He charged that Progressive Conservative campaign promises were a "bare-faced attempt to fool the people."

At Ottawa, Mr. Drew denied that his party's pledge to reduce defence spending would weaken Canada's armed forces: "We will provide all the millions needed for real defence but not one red cent for waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

Addressing ana udience of 1,800 in the Exhibition Park coliseum, he said his party had explained how taxes could be reduced by at least $500,000,000 a ear by ending "over-taxation" and increasing efficiency in the defence department.

Lots Of Able Men

There was no question about finding men of cabinet ability in Progressive Conservative ranks: "I hear the question asked where would we get the men to replace these supermen like the unparalleled minister of national defence, Brooke Claxton . . . I can give you the names of 12 of our members in the last House of Commons who would be 10 times as good as Mr. Claxton."

Mr. Drew promised the five-day week and freedom from "political interference" for the civil service. He criticized State Secretary Pickersgill, recently appointed to the cabinet from his job as clerk of the Privy Council, a civil service post, for his "full time" political activities while he was clerk.

Not Backing Diefenbaker

Mr. Coldwell denied that the CCF supports John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Albert. He said the Diefenbaker club in Prince Albert had issued a pamphlet which carried "what purports to be an interview with me recorded in the Sudbury Daily Star of May 23."

He said a second interview in the Sudbury newspaper July 22 quoted a top CCF campaigner that he believed Mr. Diefenbaker would be elected and that he (the campaigner) would be happy if that were the case. Mr. Coldwell denied knowledge of either interview and said he was the only top CCF campaigner at the place and time mentioned in the story. He urged his theatre audience of 200 to support Dave Corney, CCF candidate in Prince Albert.

Says Coldwell Bitter

At Prince George, B.C., Mr. Low criticized Mr. Coldwell, who, he claimed, had said Social Credit was "North American fascism."

"Mr. Coldwell is a bitterly disappointed man with a vindictive and abusive tongue," he said.

Trade Minister Howe, speaking from the same platform as Mr. St. Laurent, said the Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties "are opposed to the policies which have enabled the Canadian nation to move ahead as it has."

Weather Affected Yield of Syrup

OTTAWA, (CP)—Poor weather during the maple syrup season brought production of maple products to the lowest point since 1945, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Rain and frost-free nights reduced the flow of sap during the spring and winter and production dropped to 1,948,000 gallons this year from 3,470,000 gallons in 1952. The gross farm value decreased to $7,306,000 from $12,175,000.

Prices for syrup rose to an average of $3.74 a gallon from $9.46. Maple sugar prices dropped to about 39 cents a pound from 43.

Ontario's output of maple syrup decreased to 121,000 from 459,000. Ontario's maple sugar production fell to 14,000 from 16,000.

PROLIFIC WRITER DIES

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—J. Victor Bate, 46, former Detroit newspaper man who saw 700 of his detective stories published, died in a Tucson hospital Thursday after a few hours' illness. Bate turned to free-lance writing after 15 years on the Detroit Times. His part in helping solve a Michigan murder case was dramatized on a national television program March 12, 1952.

SET FIRE FATAL TO 15

WILLOWS, Calif. (AP) — Standord Pattan, 26, pleaded guilty Friday to charges of starting a forest fire which killed 15 men July 9. He was sentenced on each of two counts of "willful burning" on which the penalty is from one to 10 years. The two terms are to run consecutively and he will serve a minimum term of two years. Pattan, unemployed, admitted starting the fire so that he could get a job with the firefighting crews.

DELUGE DROWNS SPARROWS

MACOMB, Ill. (AP)—It rained so hard Friday it drowned the sparrows in their roosts. After a cloudburst dropped 1.10 inches of rain in about 15 minutes, the courthouse lawn was covered with dead sparrows. Guy Nell, the courthouse custodian, said he gathered up about 1,100 birds which had fallen from trees around the courthouse.

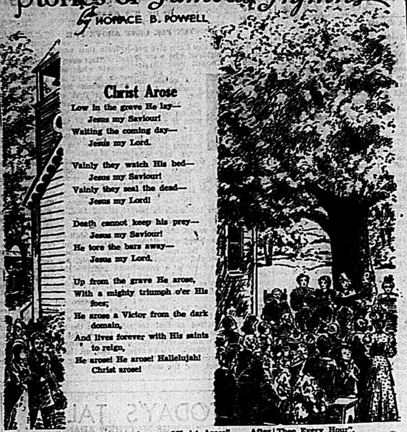
Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



Christ Arose

Low in the grave He lay—
Jesus my Saviour!
Waiting the coming day—
Jesus my Lord.

Vainly they watch His bed—
Jesus my Saviour!
Vainly they seal the dead—
Jesus my Lord!

Death cannot keep his prey—
Jesus my Saviour!
He tore the bars away—
Jesus my Lord.

Up from the grave He arose,
With a mighty triumph o'er His foes;
He arose a Victor from the dark domain,
And lives forever with His saints to reign,
He arose! He arose! Hallelujah!
Christ arose!

By HORACE B. POWELL
"CHRIST AROSE"

Nearly every religious demonination has produced its share of the world's great preachers and hymn writers, and in the Baptist list there is no greater name than that of the pastor-poet, Robert Lowry.

Seventy-five years ago he was serving one of his pastorates in Brooklyn, New York and it was while engaged in this ministry that he wrote his popular Easter hymn, "Christ Arose". After turning out the words of the song he set his own stanzas to music.

Dr. Lowry was still pastor of the Brooklyn church when he wrote words and music for another famous hymn, "Shall We Gather at the River?". He also composed tunes for many hymns besides those which he made himself. One of his Brooklyn parishioners, Mrs. Annie Hawks, whose talent for writing he praised and encouraged during his ministry there was the author, years later, of the popular hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour".

Long after he left Brooklyn, Dr. Lowry continued to correspond with Mrs. Hanks about her writing. One day she sent him a letter containing some verses which she asked that he set to music. Those stanzas, found today in every hymnal, were:

"I need Thee every hour,
Most gracious Lord;
No tender voice like Thine
Can peace afford.
I need Thee, O I need Thee;
Every hour I need Thee;
O bless me now, my Saviour,
I come to Thee!"

Rise of Evangelistic Groups

(By A. C. Forrest in the Hamilton Spectator.)

"As churches grow older and wealthier, their buildings become chancelized, their sermons intellectualized, the music sterilized, and the service ritualized. There are lots of people for whom this sort of worship fails to provide the spiritual nourishment the soul is craving." So writes the editor of the United Church Observer, in an editorial entitled Frozen Souls in the current issue of that publication.

He tells the familiar story of the small Ontario town which 30 years ago had a Methodist, a Presbyterian, an Anglican and a Roman Catholic Church. Today there are five new ones, two of them with "fine new evangelical buildings with good congregations."

The other three groups meet in halls.

He claims that the backbone support of these new congregations is given by former members of the older churches. He implies that many churches have become so dignified and well-to-do that warm fellowship disappears, and plain people miss the simple ministry they yearn for. "If we continue to place the food so high that the sheep cannot reach it, they will naturally wander off to new pastures and that is what is happening in many places," he concludes.

I suspect that the editor is putting his best typewriting finger on one of our most serious situations. His brief editorial of course cannot do justice to an old and big problem. But he does warn us that the historic churches have failed "to meet the spiritual needs of a well-defined section of their membership."

When he issues such a warning we cannot help but think a little of our history. So often in times past religious groups with prestige, influence, wealth and tradition have drowsed as new movements have grown unnoticed in their midst, capturing the imagination and then the allegiance of the masses of the people, and growing up to possess the future.

As I read of eighteenth century England I discover very little to make me think that the contemporaries of John Wesley in the Church of England ever suspected that the Methodist Church which he founded would go out into the world to grow bigger than its mother. A clergyman today cannot help but have a little sympathy with the Very Rev. John Strachan when a century and a quarter ago he expressed irritation at the ways of the Methodist saddle-baggers, and warned that they went out with more zeal than knowledge and dismissed them as illiterate enthusiasts.

There was much truth in what he said, but he obviously wasn't aware of what was happening along the country roads and the back concessions of rural Upper Canada. For out there the saddle-baggers who were discriminated against socially, politically and ecclesiastically were out where the people were, down where the people were, winning them to the Gospel and often away from the older churches.

Among cultured Christians today it is a rare thing to hear any one speak with contempt of the new evangelistic groups, as they have so often been spoken of in times past. But one does hear occasionally a little disdain expressed for the "cults" and it's not unheard of to find that nasty and very inadequate term "holy rollers". But among the best of Christians, the finest members of the cloth, these new churches are often ignored.

But they cannot be ignored, for they are on the march. They put Anglicans, Presbyterians, United Churchmen and many Baptists and Lutherans to shame with the money they sacrificially give to send forth missionaries and build new churches. They also put the large denominations to shame when it comes to recruiting men for a ministry which often lacks the security and prestige possessed by the clergy of the conventional churches.

But I do not think we can infer from the Observer editorial that a chancel in a church, or an intellectual minister, or a high level of musical taste, or a well-ordered service has much to do with it. One can find many churches where there is no chancel, where the music is poor, where the minister is by no stretch of the imagination an intellectual and where the service is informal and disorderly, where the pews are empty and the vitality is low.

Actually, come right down to it, many of our elder churches which are the most vigorous and where the services are well-attended and the missionary zeal is high, are churches with chancels, and Bach music, and Ph.d's in the pulpit.

Lower such standards, and many of the finest Christians will wander away, but simpler folk will not be attracted. The solution is not so simple as all that.

Two things we cannot forget, however. One is that God has His own mysterious ways of reaching His people, and He obviously is using new churches today as He has in times past to save His own. The other is that we should go slowly when we are tempted to deplore the formation and growth of new religious groups, even in an age when we work for councils of churches and union and dream of ecumenicity. What we should deplore is not the members who leave the older churches to go to the new, but the conditions in our older church which let so many slip away from them never to find any new churches in which to worship.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

Color is a queer thing. Sometimes it is present, yet we cannot see it; at other times we see it, but it is not there—at least the pigment (coloring matter) is really not there. Light plays an important part in what we see. Have you ever gone to get a pink blanket from a dark cupboard and come away with what, by a good light, is a blue one? Look at the ruby-throated hummingbird when he comes to drink syrup from your blossoms on a dull day. His coat is dull green, his wide throat patch a dull red. Then watch him another day in bright sunshine. His diminutive, green metallic feathers appear as plates of glistening armor, and his throat is a vivid ruby red.

Scientists tell us that green coloring matter occurs in the feathers of very few birds. What gives us the impression of seeing green is generally due to either of two things. We may be looking at a yellow, orange or greyish brown pigment through a top layer of narrow ridges, or the colorless, horny surface of the feathers catches in the light in a certain way. Many lovely colors are similarly produced.

There are actually very few pigments in feathers although we have some brilliant birds. As there is no blue pigment at all, strange as it may seem, there is no blue coloring matter in the feathers of a bluebird. Notice how intense is its blue when observed in a good light, yet in rainy weather, or seen at a certain angle, it appears to be a dull grey. In some lights the iridescent back of the tree swallow looks distinctly green, at other absolutely blue.

Several kinds of birds which are spoken of as being black often look that way, but sometimes their metallic sheen is visible. Under favorable light conditions a starling in breeding attire is seen to have the black glossed over in certain patches with purple and green. Watch a grackle carefully while it struts around your garden in the sunshine, and you will see bronze, purple, green, and blue glistening in the iridescent plumage. Although the general impression we get of a male cowbird is black, notice that its head shines rusty brown.

It has been discovered that some brightly colored wild birds, such as famingoes and purple finches, when caged, lose their brilliance. Scientists are inclined to think that at least one cause may be a difference in their food.

BLUENOSE HONORED

LUNENBURG, N. S. (CP)—Latest tribute to the Bluenose, famed fishing schooner, came from Josiah Wedgwood and Sons of England, who are featuring the vessel among historic ships on sets of dishes. One of the first sets was presented here to Capt. Angus Walters, former skipper of the Bluenose which was wrecked in the West Indies.

Tiny Bird Eats Like Helicopter

A bird eats a tremendous amount for its weight, and has to keep eating most of the time to stay alive, as do all the small warm blooded creatures on earth, says a writer in The Baltimore Sun.

The smaller the animal the proportionately more food it must eat, the more oxygen it consumes and the more energy it produces. In short, the smaller the animal the higher its metabolism rate.

Weight of Dime

About the smallest of the birds is the hummingbird, some species of which weigh no more than a dime. Its metabolism has been studied methodically by Oliver P. Pearson, assistant curator of mammals in the University of California's museum of comparative zoology, who has reported some of the results in the Scientific American.

Dr. Pearson has kept hummingbirds in bell jars with chemical instruments to measure oxygen consumption and worked up graphs showing that each gram of tissue in a resting hummingbird metabolizes 15 times as fast as a gram of pigeon and 100 times as fast as a gram of elephant (man is about midway between a pigeon and an elephant).

An aeronautics engineer, James L.G. Fitzpatrick, has also made some scientific caluclations concerning hummingbirds and comes up with the fact that the small birds while hovering consume about 726 b.t.u.'s of energy per pound per hour.

This figure comes very close to the energy consumption of a helicopter, which is 750 b.t.u.'s per pound per hour.

Lots of Eating

Any such terrific energy consumption, or metabolism, means that the hummingbird must eat constantly to stand the pace. But what about night time, when hummingbirds are not adapted to night feeding?

Dr. Pearson with his bell jars and 24 hour observations has established the fact that hummingbirds hibernate each evening, otherwise they would be dead by dawn. By midnight the tiny birds are in a completely torpid state, with a metabolism rate (and hence a food need rate) only 1-15th as fast as their daytime rate.

Their daytime bodily temperatures, which would kill an elephant, drop clear down to room temperature at night, and the birds move, reports Dr. Pearson, "as though congealed."

Thus one mystery about the hummingbird is solved. But another mystery is barely explained at all. The ruby throated hummingbird flies south in the fall, from eastern United States to Central America.

In between is the Gulf of Mexico, which is 500 miles wide by the shortest route. Many people have seen flights of hummingbirds start out across the gulf. But how do hummingbirds get to the other side if they must eat constantly to stay in motion?

Dr. Pearson's tentative theory is based on the assumption that the hummingbirds may carry a spare gram of fat for the transgulf trip (an average bird weighs three grams, but fat ones run to four grams).

At 50 miles an hour, the cruising speed at which hummingbirds have been clocked, Dr. Pearson figures that the bird could fly 7.7 hours on its reserve gram of fat. This would carry the hummingbird 385 miles without feeding, which is an impressive distance on one gram of fat.

But 385 miles is not 500 miles, and the hummingbirds under the Pearson theory are thereby left 15 miles from shore without further resources for staying aloft. Yet stay aloft they apparently do, because the migrations from the United States to Central America and back again continue year after year. The question is: How?

Country Doctor

At Madoc there died a beloved and respected man. He was Dr. Samuel Eagleson, 82, who had completed more than 50 years of general medical practice during which he delivered 5,156 babies. And he never lost a mother in child birth, says a Windsor Star editorial.

There may have been some element of luck in thus running counter to the law of averages. But his record would mainly be due to the skill and devotion with which he attended his patients. A large proportion of these babies would be delivered in the homes, under conditions not comparable to those in modern hospitals.

The country doctor is both doctor and friend to the people whom he serves. There is a relationship which cannot exist to the same degree between the specialist and the patient whom he might never have seen before. There is a confidence built up during years of association, one in the other.

There is another feature about Dr. Eagleson's record. He was not an old fogey who remembered only what he had been taught at medical school years ago. He kept up with the latest developments in medical science, and applied them in his practice. Any community is fortunate to have been served by such a man.

'The Elizabethan'

By NEVILLE BARKER
(In London Calling)

When the new British Railways express train, The Elizabethan, pulled into Edinburgh at the end of its first run, non-stop from London, it had travelled 393 miles in six hours and forty minutes. This is the world's longest non-stop daily run, which is re-commencing for the first time since the beginning of the war, and the timing is the fastest ever.

There was a cluster of boys of all ages at the head of the gleaming cream and maroon train as it stood in King's Cross station before its journey began. They were looking at the engine—the 'Walter K. Whigham', a streamlined Class A4 Pacific locomotive with the number 60028. The train pulled out dead on time and thirty miles out of London, as it raced through Hitchin, it was travelling at ninety miles an hour—as fast as it is allowed to go, although maximum speeds vary according to the condition of the track.

There were not many empty seats on this non-stop flyer, which is not surprising because, unlike the pre-war Coronation Scot, there is no supplement to pay on The Elizabethan. A spokesman of British Railways said this was the first time passengers carried at standard fares had been able to travel so quickly on a normal schedule between London and the Scottish capital.

There are eleven coaches on the new express, all shining with new paint and varnish, and as well as restaurant and buffet cars there is a ladies' retiring room with women attendants.

High Speed

Half-way through the journey the driver and fireman handed over to a relief team and took a well-earned rest. The driver, Joe Howard, who has twenty-nine years' experience of driving trains, said the train reached York in three hours and five minutes, which meant an average speed of over sixty miles an hour—good going, considering the weight of the train is more than 400 tons.

Ronald Edmonds, the fireman, said that he had shifted three tons of coal before he was relieved, but although it sounded such an enormous amount it did not mean that he had to shovel the fuel continuously.

Another of his jobs was to pick up water, which he had done four times during the first half of the journey, picking up 2,500 gallons each time, a total of 10,000 gallons.

A Texan passenger, Mr. Jack Stulz of Dallas, said he was surprised at the travelling speed, which compared favorably, he thought, with the speed of American trains. He added that the journey was considerably less expensive, too, than it would have been on a comparable journey in the United States.

The Elizabethan steamed into Edinburgh five minutes ahead of schedule to a rousing greeting from welcoming Scots, led by the stationmaster himself, in his ceremonial silk top hat for the occasion.

In my walks up and down the length of the train I heard nothing but favourable comment on this latest addition to Britain's crack express services. It was a smooth ride, too, with quite a number of passengers getting in a gentle snooze, while The Elizabethan roared through the countryside at eighty and more miles an hour.

WHAT'S THIS, A PLANNED RECESSION?

Used to be a time when planned economy was a phrase synonymous with socialism.

Used to be—but is that day past?

Doubt on that score was aroused by reading one of those "inside report" features in a slick paper magazine from south of the border.

The report said that the U.S. "boom" is in its last stages. "Setback, moderate, comes next."

"Boom's end, in sight, still not imminent. It's months away.

"Setback, adjustment, whatever it is called, will not be a surprise. It will come as an objective—planned—as an alternative to inflation.

"Government wants it, it set out to get it, now sees it coming."

A planned recession in the United States? By a Republican regime? Sounds strange.

But stranger still, to those with memories of the thirties, will be the sentences in which the course of the recession of "setback, moderate" is confidently predicted.

"Duration: A year to 18 months. Down from late 1953 to early 1955, or maybe mid-1955. Up starting sometime in 1955, running through 1956."

One wonders whether the author of those sentences was old enough to even wear a bib back in the thirties. Would any person who experienced those days have the nerve to order a "setback," "recession," or "adjustment" around in that manner?

"Down Fido, down. Nice doggie. Roll over. Up, Fido, up."

It is one thing to predict a recession. There may be signs of it. "Money is tighter." "Spending by Government is headed down." "Goods, piling up, will force cutbacks by industry."

But to predict its length and its severity indicates either vast ignorance of past depressions or an even vaster confidence in the accumulation of knowledge about methods of solving economic problems. That governments have learned much about stimulating economic conditions is a contention with which few will be disposed to argue. That this added knowledge is so comprehensive that any nation can manufacture its own recession to order, in a feeling of complete safety, is a supposition with which few who lived through the thirties will find themselves in agreement.

Most people will find it difficult to conceive of the leaders of the Republican Party in the United States being so brash as to believe that a country's economy can be safely slowed down or speeded up as the whim of the politician suggests.

Most people will hope that those who govern in Washington do not share the magazine prophet's evident belief in their omnipotence.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THIS COMMENT?

An editorial in the Financial Post has aroused our interest. It might even arouse our ire, if we were sure that we understood what the editor of the Post is trying to say.

The editorial is headed: "Fighting is Not a Picnic." With that sentiment all sensible men will agree.

The editorial then refers to a recent speech by Sir Sydney Rowell, chief of the Australian General Staff, in which he said he had never seen troops better fed, equipped and clothed, or with a higher standard of amenities, than those of the western nations in Korea.

The editorial then draws attention to Sir Sydney's doubts as to whether such a standard could be maintained in a major war. It recalls how, not so very long ago, an infantryman went into battle carrying everything he needed on his back. It observes that the Chinese soldiers in Korea followed this old rule.

All this is true.

The editorial then continues:

"But not the Canadian, British and American. For every one of the latter actually fighting in the fighting line, behind there were up to a dozen able-bodied men and all sorts of mechanical transport hauling in tons of supplies, much of which was not at all essential.

"These troops expected to ride in trucks and buses, have huge amounts of ammunition to fire away at anything real or imaginary, and be fed fresh food, served hot. After their stay in the line they expected to ride back to the rear again, to a hot bath, fresh uniforms and a picture show.

"Fighting is dirty, tragic business under the best of circumstances. But we are only prolonging it and increasing the cost in blood when we try to turn it into a picnic. It is not a picnic and we can't make it one, but in trying to we could lose a war."

What is the object of that comment?

It is true that the stress laid by the armies of the western democracies on the welfare and happiness of the fighting man imposes a handicap on these armies, under certain circumstances. It is true, as Sir Sydney suggested, that it might prove impossible to maintain such a high standard of amenities for troops in a major war.

But does the Financial Post suggest that Canadians, Britons and Americans fighting in Korea should not have been provided with "huge amounts of ammunition," with "fresh food, served hot," with hot baths, fresh uniforms and the opportunity to see a movie?

In what way did the provision of these amenities prolong the war? Has it not been generally recognized that additional men, guns and planes in the United Nations forces could not shorten the Korean conflict, because such additions would have been matched from the arsenal of the Communist nations? Such amenities unquestionably increased the cost of the war in dollars, but they may very well have reduced the cost in lives, for well-armed, well-fed, rested men have a better chance of survival.

And, moreover, if the need of maintaining a dozen able-bodied men behind the lines for every one actually in the fighting line handicapped the Allied armies, why should it be the men in Korea who are required to make a sacrifice? Were our resources at home strained to the limit?

If what we provided for our men in Korea is considered turning war into a picnic, were not we on the home front, including the editor of the Financial Post and the readers of that journal, enjoying a veritable banquet?

Why the comment?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

One of my very good minister friends died several years ago. Many of us had warned him and tried to counsel with him on the matter of rest. We pointed out that the Bible forbids any human being to try working seven days a week. But he thought because he was doing it for the Lord it was right. Yet be was inadvertently breaking the fourth commandment. Preachers have to have a day of rest the same as anyone else. The preacher serves God best who applies all the Ten Commandments (including the fourth commandment) to himself as well as to his people.

Physically, mentally, and spiritually, we are made after a certain mold. Just as all human beings are bipeds and have certain characteristics which they alone have among all the creatures of the earth, so there are certain imperatives resting upon them which they disobey to their ruin. One of these is the necessity for one day's rest in seven. At the time of the French Revolution, the authorities of that country tried to make it one day in ten. But it did not fit the human framework. It must be one day in seven and nothing else.

This matter of Sunday observance is most important in the life of every human being, and there are millions who never give it a second thought. This demand for one day in seven is built into the structure of the universe.

Defy it at your peril.

SITTER - OUTER

I have to leave dancing to others
because
I can't waltz around as I did
once.
If I try it, for breath I must
frequently pause—
A bodily weakness I hid once.
Now I sit on the sideline with company gay
I'd gladly have whirled in a
two-step.
I haven't the heart for the
rhumbas they play
And I never have learned any new step.

When discussing the weather my partner and I
At the side of the room may be sitting,
I am asked: "Why not dancing?"
I promptly reply:
"At the moment I'm just baby sitting."

Blessings Of Hay Fever

(New York Times)

The sufferer from hay fever long has had a deplorable manner of life.

As though the reddened eyes and tickling nose were not enough, he has received for his pains something more nearly approaching ridicule than it does sympathy. Cartoonists make him the butt of seasonal jokes and the writers of doggerel verse find in him a pleasing subject for mirth.

He is not yet prepared to see himself as the cartoonists and others see him, and his smile at the jokes is pathetically woebegone. He should cheer up because this particular allergy can have certain advantages. Hay fever needs to be harnessed, that is all.

Hay fever needs only to be controlled and it easily can become a friendly thing. Those who consistently can sneeze their way through the summer are pretty lucky people indeed.

Stop for a moment and compare what may be the summer lives of the hay fever sufferer and, say, the doggerel poet who is earning coffee and cakes by writing about him.

The sufferer knows that at a certain time in the summer he will begin sneezing, and so he arranges, if it is possible, to depart the locality in favor of another. There are stretches of the mountains that are free of hay fever, and long stretches of sandy beach, set beside cooling, ocean water. Basking in the sun, exerting himself only to swim, this sufferer can have a fine time for himself, and with every excuse in the world for so doing.

The poet, on the other hand, is sitting in the kitchen down in Greenwich Village, with heat pressing like fiery tongs against his temples. Too well is he aware that one of the few words rhyming with "sneezy" is "breezy", meaning exposed to breezes. And that is just what he lacks.

Consider, too, the possessor of a multiple type of hay fever, the kind that can be caused by almost every known species of grass, bush, flower and tree.

Clearly the only preventive against this is to remain in Manhattan, as far as possible from Central Park, throughout the summer. This has an enormous number of advantages. By not going away there is an avoidance of crowded roads and crowded resorts, and there is no necessity to squander many hours in packing clothes—not to mention many sheaves of folding money in buying them.

In Manhattan, the movie theatres are quite free of floral pollen, and are cool besides, and in the summer it sometimes is even possible to buy tickets to hit shows. The owner of a well-organized set of allergies can eat fine meals in good restaurants, can take cooling showers at will and, in the pleasant evenings, can sit in bedroom slippers quietly reading.

And then, of course, there always is the agreeable fact that he can take a winter vacation, rather than one in the summer.

The red eyes and the sneeze of hay fever have other advantages besides these. When a particularly distasteful social gathering is proposed this may be declined because of a seasonal malaise. On the other hand, if a good one is suggested, the illness is not so severe as to bar attendance, and furthermore it may arouse a certain amount of pleasing sympathy.

The sad and reddened eyes make an evening at a low-grade movie quite unthinkable, and, in the lower academic brackets, they provide a distinct hazard to tutoring in Latin grammar. Naturally enough, they do not affect the better movies, or the Westerns being shown on television while the grammar gathers dust.

The watery eyes form a reasonable excuse for postponing until tomorrow the dreary act of paying the monthly bills, and the equally dreary one of trying to figure out where all the money goes.

A controlled case of hay fever means that bedtime may be early and rising time may be late, for the way to fight all illnesses is by getting rest.

Beauty Queen Crisis

The Times, of London

Most of us know too little about beauty queens. We have a vague idea, based on bits we have read about them in the papers, that in Great Britain they are generally elected or appointed by some sort of committee, a process which often leads to tears; accusations of favoritism or nepotism are launched by the disappointed runners-up, the queen herself sometimes abdicates in a huff and the organizers of the local fete have to fall back on a display of club-swinging by the Girl Guides.

We also have a notion that beauty queens always used to be crowned, and in the papers like the Loamshire Argus (with which is incorporated more other periodicals than there is space to enumerate here) photographs of these ceremonies are reproduced from time to time; the queen generally looks like one of the apparitions out of Richard III, but the maidens attending upon her appear less insubstantial.

We know, however, that the more sophisticated type of beauty queen does not wear a crown but a very tight bathing dress, athwart which is slung a sash bearing the legend "Miss Patagonia". Her photograph appears in newspapers with a much wider circulation than the Loamshire Argus and she would look completely out of place on Bosworth Field.

We are sometimes told that, when not regnant, she is a shorthand typist or a law student, but we somehow never think of her as a very interesting person. We can see that she is extremely pretty and we assume that she is equally empty-headed. Our interest, tepid enough already, in the private lives of film stars does not extend to hers; we hardly, indeed think of her as having one.

It was doubtless with a view to making the beauty queen more, as it were, three-diminsional to those who have not seen her in the flesh that the judges in this year's "Miss America" beauty contest decreed that every competitor must possess at least one "social talent".

The report does not say what constitutes a social talent—whether, for instance, playing poker counts—but it does say how Miss Michigan qualified for entry. A school teacher who allegedly cannot sing, dance, or play a musical instrument, she broke new ground by lecturing the judges on the short-comings of the local educational system.

Americans, by some strange dispensation of Providence, do not really mind listening to lectures, and no doubt Miss Michigan was as eloquent as she is beautiful. It does, all the same, seem a pity to have established this precedent. Gazing into the future, one seems to see vistas of dazzling creatures worrying their pretty heads over dissertations on sewage disposal or the reorganization of the municipal archives.

Culpably indifferent though one has been in the past to the lot of beauty queens, one instinctively feels that they ought to be preserved from this fate. Up till now one had always thought of them as beautiful but dumb; one is loth to revise this estimate in either of its essentials.

Reds Permit Red Lips Now

(Winnipeg Free Press)

To the bearded and hard-bitten Bolsheviks who mapped out Russia's "ideal state" it must have seemed the most obvious common sense that all the capitalistic and bourgeois foolishness about lipstick, face-powder and eyebrow-pencils should be liquidated out of hand. What, after all could be said for cosmetics? If 50 million female comrades spent 15 minutes "putting on their face" each morning and as long in taking it off each night they would consume something like nine billion woman-hours a year, a perfectly frightful waste of time, to say nothing of the staggering amount of time and energy required for the manufacture and distribution of these false colors under, or rather behind, which the women of the decadent west found it necessary to march. Soviet women, reasoned the Marxian fanatics, would be healthy, well-washed and happy: what more could they ask?

It has taken the flinty-minded men in the Kremlin more than 30 years to convince themselves that it takes more than soap and water to keep a woman happy; that there is more in a woman's world than logic and dialectical materialism. And now Premier Georgi Malenkov has been able to make a good fellow of himself by authorizing the sale of such frivolous concoctions as "Breath of Desire" and "Young Love."

So far the ladies of the Soviets have not won for themselves the right to a "Breath of Freedom," but perhaps Mr. Malenkov is learning that "one should never underestimate the power of a woman."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

TEN PER CENT ABOVE PAR

Dr. Brady

The only advice I can give persons under eighteen who want to reduce is: Consult your physician. I'm an arrant quack, but somehow I still feel bound by the Hippocratic injunction: Do good if you can but do no harm.

My advice to persons 18 to 38 years old who want to reduce because they feel too fat is this: If you are not more than 10 per cent above par don't.

If that seems too much to bother with, here are some practical suggestions which, if followed by an adult burdened with slacker flesh, flabby fat, will make him or her feel and look better:

1. Only an athlete or a growing child who plays as hard as a normal youngster should, may profitably take dessert after a square meal.

2. Alcohol added to a diet already sufficient to maintain body weight, is oxidized as fuel for heat and perhaps to some extent for muscular work, sparing the carbohydrate (starch, sugar) which would normally have been oxidized as fuel, and the carbohydrate thus spared is stored as fat. Thus even an occasional or "social" glass of wine, or beer, or a cocktail or a highball is bad medicine for the corpulent.

3. The first course of dinner should be salad—a large green salad—a dish of herbs and no meat, fish or egg in salad, hors d'oeuvres, cocktail or other "appetizer". These indulgences are strictly for the athletic and the poor of flesh. If you take soup at all, it should be only clear broth or consomme, without thickening, crouton, cracker or other addition.

4. The less salt taken in or on food the better. The bad habit of salting food, in cooking or at table, favors retention of too much water in body tissues and makes one dull and logy.

5. The amount of water one drinks, or whether it be hot, cold or tepid, has nothing to do with underweight or overweight. Just satisfy that thirst at any and all times, and think no more about it.

6. A teaspoonful of sugar yields approximately 33 calories. A quarter of a grain saccharin tablet gives the sweetening effect of a teaspoonful of sugar but has no caloric value, and any one may use up to five grains of saccharin a day without impunity.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GENTLE RAIN

This talk is being written in my small cabin on my island in Grand Lake, Nova Scotia. There is a gentle rain falling, which began at daylight. The lake is smooth and there is hardly a breeze, just little motions of the outhanging limbs of the hemlocks and pines. Pine sparrows, and other varieties of small birds, happily flit from tree to tree.

There is something peaceful relaxing, and uplifting about a rain like this. We stay in our cabin reading and writing, and gathering up a few of the fragments of happiness neglected during the sunny hours. I look out upon the lagoon and watch the raindrops as they touch the surface of the water, and the thirsty earth seems so content with its morning bath, freshened for the day of sunshine later to appear.

Nature's inhabitants seem as content on rainy days as when the sun is shining. It's their world and they take it as it comes. We can learn from them. There are virtues to every variety of weather. We might as well get used to accepting each as it is furnished us—for the weather man has his own ideas and he never changes them to fit the whim of any of us.

So, let us welcome even the mild rainy days that mean life and growth to all nature. Looking out of my window I note the falling drops of rain from the green foliage of the pines, and they fall like discarded pearls and hide in the grass beneath. Then they sink in the rich earth and the Great Chemist gets busy in his great laboratory!

These quiet, gentle rainy days are wonderful for meditation. They are really the creative days. They are days in which to count our blessings, to send messages of love and remembrance to those who are dear to us, and they are days in which to do things that we always planned to do! Welcome—the gentle rain!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a little bath-tub size pocket in the rock between my cottage verandah and the water's edge I piled a few pails of earth and rich humus and planted and watered a nice variety of bright petunias, with a few nasturtiums around the sides. The sun bakes the rocks, and in this steamy tropical gardenette, the flowers bloom mightily and form as fine a miniature jungle as could be wished for by a fine big four foot watersnake in search of shade, moisture and bugs. Not to mention the odd foolish frog.

We had no idea of the snake's presence. From the verandah, it was nice to walk out in the early morning and glance down at this one spot of brilliant color under our noses. Doubtless the reptile did his bathing and swimming at night, picking up his main sustenance in the minnows, and frogs he could sneak up on his appointed way, in the dark. But he returned by daylight to his flowery hide-out, where, with the least effort, he could pick up the slugs, snails and sundry insects that, as we found out inhabited the flower bed.

For, one fine day the ladies of the house went to pick a table bouquet of nasturtiums. And imagine their horror, as they poked down amidst the stems of the luxuriant little garden, to catch a glimpse of a swift polished form nippily dashing to another corner of the flower bed. I was called. I flushed him out with a stick, poking down into the herbage. He was a beauty. But egged on by the cries of the populace demanding thumbs down, I had to clout the fellow as he made a heroic dash for the water.

Within three days, we bagan to notice the first signs of damage to our gardenette. Some plants wilted, others were chewed on leaf and stalk. Even the blossoms began to be eaten. In a week, the little jungle was the victim of a buggy blight: slugs, snails, caterpillars, grasshoppers and crickets took their toll.

In two weeks, even the ladies were mourning the watersnake, for he had been the best gardener of us all.

St. Laurent Accuses PCs of Trying To Fool People With Tax Cut Pledges

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night a vote for a Progressive Conservative candidate in Monday's election "is a vote to take risks with the security of Canada and the Canadian people."

In a final CBC trans - Canada network broadcast and a rally speech to 10,000 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens, the 71-year-old Liberal leader also called Conservative tax-cut promises a "barefaced attempt to fool the people."

Today is a free day for Mr. St. Laurent, who has just wound up a seven-week cross - country campaign. He and Mrs. St. Laurent are returning to Quebec City.

Mr. St. Laurent, joined on the platform by External Affairs Minister Pearson and Trade Minister Howe, said the Conservatives have promised to reduce defence expenditures by $250,000,000 a year through elimination of waste and extravagance in government spending.

But, said the prime minister, most of the Conservative charges of waste and extravagance either are "grossly exaggerated or untrue." Even if they were not, they would not add up to even $1,000,000 a year.

"And that would mean that more than $249,000,000 of the $250,000,000 a year the Conservatives are promising to save would have to be represented by a real reduction in our defences."

No Reductions In Defence

He did not mean Conservative leader George Drew intends to risk Canada's national security—"but that could not help but be the consequence of carrying out his promise."

The Liberals promised no defence reductions until the dangers from world war were overcome.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Drew has tried to appeal to young married couples by promising to raise the income tax exemption to $3,000 a year from $2,000. But if those couples hoped to raise families, they must not forget that both they and their families were being protected by the government's efforts to prevent another war.

The prime minister said he could not help but agree with C C F leader M. J. Coldwell that "there has never been a more bare-faced attempt to fool the people than the Conservative promises in this campaign."

Mr. St. Laurent appealed to democratic Canadians to get out and vote Monday and prevent the possibility of communists electing members to the next Parliament.

He also said the Conservatives have been saying over and over again that Mr. Howe had asked "What's a million?" during a discussion in Parliament in connection with government spending.

"The truth is he never said it at all and you can look for it as I did at the place the Tory literature says it is in Hansard (Parliament's official report) and there is no such thing there."

Mr. Pearson said in an address to the rally that, although some progress has been made in overcoming the "Russian communist aggression the risk of war still remains in Europe and in the Far East. He said the next few years will be fateful for Canada and the other free countries.

Trade Minister Howe said opposition criticism of Liberal financial policies means, those parties would prefer to weaken Canada's financial structure and undermine confidence in Canada as a good investment.

He said Mr. Drew has sniped at the Liberals for taking a leading part in breaking down tariff barriers between Canada and other countries.

"If the people of Canada would let him, and thank heaven they have more sense, he would return the country to the trade policies that brought Canada to disaster in the early 1930s."

Critical Of Drew

In his speech Mr. St. Laurent said that Mr. Drew, if the Progressive Conservatives were elected, was prepared to "talk the language the United States government would understand" in connection with Canada's trade relations.

"I am sure all those Canadians who depend for the livelihood on our trade with the U. S. will shudder at the very possibility of giving Mr. Drew a chance to talk tough in Washington."

As Ontario premier, Mr. Drew had talked this same kind of "tough language" to the late prime minister Mackenzie King "and all we got was disagreement and frustration."

"But as soon as Mr. Drew ceased to be premier, relations between the provincial and federal governments began to improve."

Mr. St. Laurent said he was sure Canadians would be safer with Mr. Howe negotiatng with the U.S. than with Mr. Drew trying to "blast" his way into foreign markets.

Cannifton Takes Semi-Finals

In one of the best played games of the season Cannifton edged Read out of the South Hastings playdowns here, in Cannifton, last night by a score of 3 to 2.

Gord Oliver pitched the nine innings for the winners, having 10 strikeouts and scoring the winning run.

Bernie Brennan pitched a good game for Read and the one run scored indicated the difference.

Sheffield got the only extra base hit, getting a double his first time up.

Mathews, Sheffield, Moore, Stoliker, Cole, Oliver collected hits each for the winner.

G. Brennan, H. Shannon, G. Walsh, F. Shannon got hits for hits for the losers.

The line-up:

Cannifton — Mathews, Marner, Sheffield, Moore, Stoliker, Cole, Dafoe, Phillip, Oliver, Harder for Marner.

Read — B. Brennan, R. Shannon, G. Brennan, H. Shannon, J. Hunt, C. Brennan, G. Walsh, McAvoy, F. Shannon, Meagher for Hunt.

Umpires: Lum Carson, plate, Red Carson, bases.

Latta plays at Shannonville tonight at 6.30.

DOCTOR'S BIG FISH

PLACENTIA, Nfld. (PC)—Dr. William Collingwood, busy doctor at the Cottage Hospital here, landed a 19½-pound salmon at nearby Southeast river during a brief respite. The fish, caught on a silver doctor lure, may be a record for the river.

COAL CARRIER AGROUND

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Salvage tugs worked Friday night to free the United states coal carrier R.E. Moody which went aground early Friday near Amherstburg, about 12 miles south of here. The ship was edging into a dock to deliver her cargo of coal. Earlier in the day two tugs stood by while a lighter started to remove part of the 4,600-ton cargo.

Rollins Clan Holds Reunion Picnic

The annual picnic of the Rollins clan was held recently at Tweed Memorial Park. Since the weather as well as the picnic grounds was ideal for such an occasion, a large crowd was present.

After all had enjoyed the dinner and happy greetings from one another, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mr. John Thompson, of Queensboro, who asked all to join in singing "God Save The Queen", after which a welcome was tendered to one and all. This was followed by the secretary's report, and the treasurer's report, which showed a good balance on hand.

This all important gathering, which is looked forward to by both old and young, is to be held at Tweed Memorial Park on the fourth Wednesday in July next year.

The guest of honor for the day was one of the older folk, Mrs. S. B. Rollins, who in her most gracious manner, spoke of how happy she was to have this opportunity to welcome so many to her home town—the beautiful village of Tweed, and their new park, which is just one of the best for a picnic occasion, to which is added the fine hospitality of the Tweed town folk.

Miss Joan McCurdy, of Foxboro, read a poem which was most suitable for the memorial service. She was assisted in this impressive service by Mrs. Percy Rollins, after which Mrs. Carl Rollins favored with a solo.

Gifts Presented

Suitable gifts were presented to Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Mrs. K. Wilson, Mr. Will Rollins, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rollins of Ivanhoe; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. Arthur Parks, Mrs. Will French and little George Salmon.

Those who addressed this large gathering, expressing how happy they were to spend a day with so many relatives from far and near were, Mrs. Jim Lucas, Mr. Harper Rollins, Mr. J. R. Emerson and Mrs. Harry Rollins.

Don Reynolds was in charge of the sports' events—

5 years and under, boys and girls—Gail Gregg, Billy Tufts, Doreen Hubble.

5 to 8 years—Ellien Thompson, Denny Wilson.

8 to 13 years, boys—Robert Rollins, Ronald Wilson.

8 to 13 years, girls—Marion Hollinger, Marie Hollinger.

Three-legged race—Marion and Marie Hollinger.

Shoe kicking — Fay Rollins, Kathleen Rollins.

Mr. John Rollins of Plainfield, who was also celebrating his birthday, was presented with a lovely birthday cake. After he had blown out the candles and expressed his happiness for the occasion, all shared in his cake, and also sang "Happy Birthday to John".

As the afternoon grew late, all returned to their homes, feeling another happy and very successful picnic had been enjoyed.

Associated Country Women of World To Honor W.I. Founder at Stoney Creek

HAMILTON — This is a story about a little village which nestles beneath the Niagara escarpment, one mile east, southeast of Hamilton, a village of 1,922 souls, Stoney Creek — where Canadian history was made. It is also the story about the magnificent growth of a handful of women who spread the doctrines of household economics and culture to all parts of the world. Eighty-four years after the American forces were defeated on the Stoney Creek bloody battlefield during the War of 1812-14, the Women's Institute was founded in Stoney Creek on a chilly February 19, 1897.

It has been the common cause of men in war and the responsibilities of women that have cemented together two mighty nations. It was the all-embracing love of a country's children that forced the whole world to alert itself to the significance of the institute. The largest rural organization in the world today, it is composed of six million members, and directly stems from the formation of the institute of Stoney Creek. This body, known as the Associated Country Women of the World, will hold its seventh triennial meeting at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, from August 12 to August 23.

August 16 will probably be the biggest day in the history of the village of Stoney Creek, with the exception of June 6, when the United States forces were defeated at that spot. About 1,000, and possibly up to 1,500, delegates to the A.C.W.W. convention will spend two hours as the guests of Stoney Creek on Stoney Creek Day.

Eighteen buses filled with women from 25 countries will attack Stoney Creek with a barrage of questions on August 16. They are expected to reach Battlefield House at four o'clock after a trip to Niagara Falls and Guelph.

The women will tour the historical sites along King Street in Stoney Creek. They will be given colorful leaflets of local history, including the story of the W.I.

Nominees for office from 1953 until 1956 include such prominent women as Miss Amy G. Kane, O.B.E., New Zeland, retired journalist; Lady Coomaraswamy, of Ceylon, whose husband was the former deputy high commissioner of Ceylon, recently appointed to Burma; Lady Wilson, East Africa, and from Canada, Mrs. John L. Rose, Manitoba, and Mrs. Hugh Summers, of Welland.

It is a strange coincidence that both the Farmers' Institute and the Women's Institute had their beginnings in Wentworth County. The F.I., now defunct, was mainly organized through the efforts and influence of public school inspector Joseph H. Smith, and a broadminded, prominent and public-spirited young farmer, Erland Lee, who lived in Saltfleet township.

Looking back at the early beginnings, it was found that Erland Lee, in the fall of 1896 after hearing a stirring address by Mrs. Adelaide Hunter — Hoodless, of Hamilton, was convinced that he should engage her for the F.I's next meeting, a session when the women would be present.

Mrs. Hoodless, born at St. George, Ontario, where a cairn is erected in her memory by the Brant County Women's Institute, stressed that girls should be educated and made fit for a sphere in life for which they were destined — homemaking. Her vital interest in the subject stemmed from the fact that she lost her 18-month-old child as the result of his being fed impure milk. She determined she would do everything in her power to teach others to prevent similar tragedies.

Thirty-five farmers' wives and their daughters promised to attend the institute for women on February 19, 1897. But this attendance was not enough for Erland Lee. So, during the intervening period between the Farmers' Institute meeting, and the first Women's Institute meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Lee travelled from farm to farm in order to arouse the interest of the women.

At Squire's Hall, Stoney Creek, on the night of February 19, 101 women and one man (Erland Lee) heard Mrs. Hoodless speak on homecraft and mothercraft. At the first meeting at Squire's Hall (now the Township Offices) Mrs. Hoodless was chosen as honorary president. The first officers elected by the Mother Institute were Mrs. E. D. Smith, Winona, wife of Senator Smith, a member of the federal government, who was president; Mrs. J. J. Dean, Fruitland, vice-president; Miss M. Nash, Stoney Creek, secretary; Mrs. J. H. McNeilly, Fruitland, treasurer; Mrs. F. M. Carpenter, wife of Major Carpenter, a former member of the provincial cabinet, director, as well as Mrs. Erland Lee, Stoney Creek, and Mrs. C. DeWitt, of Tapleytown.

Of the 101 original members, all residents of Saltfleet township, who met and organized the Mother Institute in Stoney Creek, nine are still living. The charter members include Mrs. Murray Neil, and Mrs. McKinley Morden, both of Hamilton; Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Fred Madden, Mrs. H. P. Van Wagner and Mrs. W. J. Martineau, of Stoney Creek; Mrs. John Budge, Winona; Mrs. Selby Corman, of St. Thomas, and Mrs. George Glidden, of Vinemount, the youngest charter member.

Both Senator Smith and Major Carpenter assisted the women to draft their by-laws and constitution. It was Mrs. Erland Lee who suggested that the membership fee be fixed at 25 cents so that any woman could afford to join the institute.

Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen was the first lecturer and organizer for Women's Institutes appointed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and with four of the pioneer leaders, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. McNeilly, they preached the gospel of the institute and encouraged the organization of new branches.

The second institute opened at Whitby, in Ontario County, and a third was formed at Kemble, in the north end of Grey County, at the turn of the century. The movement was rapidly growing — inquiries were coming from all over the province.

In a report by Mrs. F. M. Carpenter, president of the Stoney Creek Institute in 1903, she said: "Our institutes meet and dispel what has been long felt in rural life — the lack of greater sociability on the part of even near neighbors. The better sanitation of our homes is becoming a burning question, also the relative value of different kinds of food, so as to give the most nourishment to the human system . . ."

In this province alone there are now 1,500 institutes with more than 46,000 members. As the years rolled by the Women's Institutes became a Dominion-wide organization, uniting to become the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

The first Canadian woman to develop institutes in England was Mrs. Alfred Watt, O.B.E., of Collingwood, Ont., who later became the organizer and the first president of the Associated Country Women of the World. Lord Baldwin told Mrs. Watt that the W.I. was the "greatest contribution Canada made to the Old Country." He said it provided a social life for middle class people in England.

Later Mrs. Watt developed institute branches in Wales, while Miss Emily Guest, a native of Middlesex County, Ontario, performed a similar service for the women of Scotland. It included an institute branch at Sandringham, Norfolk, England, in whose meetings the Queen Mother, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose have participated.

International conferences were first held in 1930 in Antwerp, Belgium, the year Belgium celebrated her one hundredth anniversary of her freedom from foreign domination. Belgium was also the first country in Europe to have a Women's Institute. A second session was held three years later in Stockholm, Sweden.

Other conferences were held in London, England, and Amsterdam, Holland. The conference will not be due to come to Canada again for 75 years.

During the last days of the convention the delegates will tour all parts of Ontario, including Ottawa and Kirkland Lake. Some will travel as far west as Banff. Those not taking the organized tours will be guests during three post-convention days in Ontario farm homes; about 30 delegates have already spoken for billeting in Stoney Creek homes.

Mrs. Earl McKay favored with a piano solo.

A harty vote of thanks was tendered those taking part.

Cake and ice cream were served.

Ballet School Concludes Course

The Esther-Lillian Studio of Ballet has concluded a successful two-week summer school course in ballet when an "open class" for children was held at the Y.M.C.A to which parents of the pupils were invited.

The classes have been directed by Miss Rita Emmerson, L.I.S.T.D. (Licentiate and Examiner of the Imperial Society, Teachers of Dancing, England), who has a large school of dancing in England and who has trained several people who are now appearing in stage productions in London.

While in Canada Miss Emmerson has been called upon to examine at the Betty Oliphant School of Dancing in Toronto and to meet the principals of the Canadian National Ballet, following which she will work with the members of the Ceccehetti Society of America in various centres of the United States before returning to England.

Music was supplied throughout the summer course by pianist, Mrs. F. J. Bradley, herself a devoted balletomane.

Mrs. Esther Hughes and Mrs. Lillian Latchford, directors of the Esther-Lillian Studio, joined with their pupils in expressed their appreciaton to Miss Emmerson at the concluding exercises by presenting her a gift of assorted summer flowers.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We've just been reading a piece about the origin of the song "Old Soldiers Never Die." It seems that nobody knows who actually wrote the song. It is a barrack room version of an American gospel hymn, "Kind Words Can Never Die." This hymn was written in 1855 by Sister Abby Hutchison, an evangelist. It began:

Kind words can never die, cherished and blest,
God knows how deep they lie, lodged in the breast.

The chorus went:

Kind words can never die, never die, never die,
Kind words can never die, no, never die.

It is believed that the barrack room version of the song originated in England about 1870. One British source maintains that it was written for the inmates of an old soldiers' home in Chelsea.

The song was popular at West Point around the turn of the century, but it hasn't been played there for many years. In World War I, it was a favourite with British soldiers. "Tommy Tunes," a British volume of military songs published in 1917, has the two lines:

Old soldiers never die, never die, never die,
Old soldiers never die, they always fade away.

The British have also sung, "They simply fade away." General MacArthur remembers the line as "They just fade away."

Table Tops

If you don't want to put the money out for a new breakfast table with one of those smooth pearly plastic tops, here's an idea. Cover your old table or a card table with the new plastic oilcloth which closely resembles the hard, pearly top table surfaces.

This new plastic oilcloth is heavy and can be fastened down tight to the table top or hung over the corners like an ordinary table cloth. It is durable, neat and attractive. Costs about 60c a yard and comes in several colors as well as light grey.

Two sentences in a Sunday School paper are, oh so true: "If you want work well done, select a busy man. The other kind hasn't time."

This reminds us of a friend who believes that the woman who is really busy is the one who is too busy to tell you how busy she is.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Marriage Failed — A New Romance is Failing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I married at 14 and am now 20, with two children. I am separated from my husband and waiting for my divorce to come through.

Shortly after I left my husband, which was about two years ago, I met a fellow and have been going with him ever since, until recently. We had planned to be married after I get a divorce, but now his family have objected to his marrying a divorced woman, and especially one with children. At least, that is what he told me.

This happened a month ago, and he has not been to see me since and I have heard nothing from him. Do you think that if he really loved me he would act like this? He is just a year older than I am.

J.M.

Dear J.M.:

No, I certainly don't think that if this man had feeling for you that a man normally has for a girl he wants to marry, he would have stayed away from you as he has done. It is true, of course, that a 21-year-old man is pretty young to take on the responsibility of a wife and two children all at once, and it may be that his family has convinced him that it would be unwise for him to do so. Whatever the reason for his behavior, however, he certainly should be frank with you and not leave you to wait and wonder. If he doesn't show up with a good explanation soon, you had better just decide that the whole thing is a closed incident and go out with other friends.

She's 30, and Treated Like A Child

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was ten years old, I was orphaned and went to live with my aunt. I am now 30, but my aunt treats me as though I were still ten. She doesn't like me to date, and if I do go out with a man friend, she doesn't like me to invite him in when he brings me home. All she really wants me to do is just stay home in the evenings and read a book. Since I have a job and work during the day, this makes life pretty dull.

My aunt is good to me in other ways, but I don't know what to do about this.

M.J.

Dear M.J.:

It sounds rediculous for a young woman 30 years old to complain that she isn't allowed to go out and have normal good times with her friends. You're much too old to let anyone boss you around like that.

It would be too bad to have any difficulty with your aunt when she has taken the place of your mother for so long, and since she is, in the main, good to you. At the same time, it is nonsense for you to be completely under her thumb. At 30, you should be independent, have many friends and plenty of interesting activities to make your leisure time enjoyable. I think you should tell your aunt that, while you love her very much and deeply appreciate all she has done for you, you feel it is time for you to have a life of your own, and that if you cannot have it in her house, you had better live away from her.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

She should carry herself in a queenly manner.

Ugly Ducklings Can Become Swans

It often happens that the plain Jane has beauty possibilities that could be developed if she would only put her mind to the matter. Even if she can't change her features she can cultivate style, and that counts for a lot these days. Certainly there never was a time when the beauty industry and the cosmetic chemists had so much to offer in the way of aids.

Sometimes a woman herself is responsible for her unattractive appearance. Beautiful hair loses charm if it is not shining clean or if it is not arranged in a becoming manner. The heavyweight, with broad beam, gets into slacks and sweater, thereby publicizing her meal-bag shape. Let her wear soft flowing draperies of dark colors and she will hide the bulk. The prettiest girl will win no beauty laurels if her posture is sloppy, if she is not dainty, if perfect grooming is lacking.

The tall girl, deploring her extra inches, may get into the habit of stooping, throwing her shoulders forward, developing a rounded back, a stance that destroys good lines. She should carry herself in a queenly manner. Being tall is nothing to sob about.

The most misguided woman of all is the one of uncertain age who endeavors to restore a youthful appearance by using an excess of artifice. Her white hair, which could be a beautiful silver halo, has been dyed black as night, forming a harsh frame for her face that has taken on wrinkles with the years.

Hoping to conceal the little accordion pleats in the sagging facial tissues, she uses a heavy foundation that forms a mask-like surface. She lays on rouge with a heavy hand, plucks her eyebrows to a fine line and crayons them. Everything she does makes matters worse. If she would only be and look her age.

The transition from dyed hair to white may be an unpleasant experience, but it will be worth enduring. And, with less makeup she won't look so old.

After a certain time no woman can belie her birthdays. They take a toll and the sensible woman will accept it. White hair is no liability and wrinkles aren't so bad. Beauticians, tactfully, call them "expression lines."

Sugarless Sponge Cake

One cup cake flour, 20 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup cooking oil, 1-3 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 4 egg yolks, grated rind 1-2 lemon, 4 egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Crush sucaryl tablets to a fine powder and sift them with the unsifted flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Make a well in flour mixture and add in order the oil, water, lemon juice, vanilla, egg yolks and lemon rind. Beat with wooden spoon until perfectly smooth. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar together until whites form very stiff peaks, much stiffer than for plain cakes. Beat egg yolk mixture again (with electric beater if you have one) or with rotary beater for 2 minutes. Pour this slowly over whipped whites, gently folding until just blended. Be sure not to stir this now. Pour into ungreased 9x5 loaf pan at once and bake in preheated oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 55 minutes, then increase heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes longer. Let cake cool hanging over rack, then coax it from pan with fingertips.

The diabetics will be interested in this sugarless cake. It is delicious.

Question:

I wonder if you can help me. I used to make simply gorgeous angel food cakes, and as I have had three babies in fairly rapid succession, I have had lots of egg whites to work with. However, in the past year I have had literally dozen of "flops". They all do the same thing: they come out of the oven looking gorgeous, and a minute or so after being inverted they fall out of the pan. I just tried your recipe published a few days ago and baked it at 350 deg. Fahr. for the full 45 minutes and still it fell. I can't understand it, as I just never had this happen before we moved here. I'm sure I am doing everything the same as I used to. Could you tell me some of the reasons for this happening and maybe I can put my finger on my trouble. —Marilyn M. A.

Answer:

Since you say this has happened since you moved I am wondering if you are using the same stove and the same type of fuel. I think possibly your oven thermometer is registering 350 deg. Fahr. falsely and that your oven is actually not this hot. The symptoms described sound as if the cake is underbaked. Try this: —Bake the cake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes and see if this corrects your trouble. Be sure your flour is not damp too and that your egg whites are at room temperature when you beat them. If whites are very cold temperature of cake is low when it is put in oven and batter takes longer to heat through and start baking. Write again if these suggestions do not correct your trouble.

Question:

. . .recently I tasted a cucumber pickle which was called "icicles". The dill-sized cucumber was cut into long strips, was very sweet and crisp. I was told that in the process of making them more sugar was added each day. These were really delicious. Would you have a recipe? Thanks —Margaret P.

Answer:

It was very pleasant to hear from you again. Since you live near me I would enjoy meeting you.

Icicle Pickles

One 6-quart basket of 3 or 4-inch cucumbers are washed, dried and cut in halves lengthwise. Add 1 gallon boiling water to 2 cups common salt. Pour this over the cut cucumbers in a crock or preserving kettle. Let stand 4 days. Brine will ferment. On the 5th day drain brine from pickles and cover with clear boiling water. Let stand 24 hours. On the 6th day drain. Dissolve 1 tablespoon powdered alum in boiling water and pour over cucumbers to cover and let stand 24 hours. On 7th day drain. Make a syrup of 2 1-2 quarts cider vinegar, 8 cups sugar and 3 tablespoons whole mixed spices. Heat to boiling and pour over cucumbers. On 8th day drain and reserve liquid. Heat to boiling, add 2 cups sugar and pour over cucumbers. On 9th day repeat above (that is add 2 more cups sugar). On 10th repeat by adding 2 more cups sugar to boiled syrup and pouring it over. On 11th day drain. Place cucumbers in hot sterile jars. Heat syrup, add 2 cups sugar and strain it to remove spices. Pour over pickles in jars. Seal.

Note: If you have a cool cellar in which to store them these pickles may be kept in crock, covered with wax paper and plate and weighted down. Note 2: 16 cups of sugar are added by the time these are finished. Note 3: Chill these in refrigerator to crispen them more just before serving. Note 4: I would be grateful if pickle makers would clip this now if they intend to make icicle pickles this year.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Today's Guest-Courtesy Tip

The Guest Who's a Pest is the one who is utterly careless about smoking etiquette. He or she uses as an ashtray anything but an ashtray—a cup (particularly a breakfast-coffee cup or an after-dinner coffee cup); a saucer or other flat dish; a vase—particularly a narrow-mouthed one, most difficult to wash; the container or underplate of a plant; the floor or, much worse of course, a carpet or rug; the fireplace. And too, too often, the carelessly-distributed cigarette or cigar ashes are followed by the butts — often, too often —dunked in the dregs of coffee or in a beverage glass, or thrown in the fireplace. Not quite the way, ladies and gentlemen, to insure a "Please-come-again!"

A Small, Inexpensive Wedding Reception Can be "Correct"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to have a church wedding. She will wear a traditional white bridal gown, have bridesmaids, and so forth. The plans are all definite about this. But we're puzzled about the reception plans. We would all like a big reception, but we haven't the necessary funds for this. I thought a small family reception would do. But my daughter would like also to invite some of her friends, and would like to provide dancing for them. How can we have this kind of reception, and not slight other friends?

— Bride's Mother.

If you and your daughter are willing to plan every detail of the reception (as well as the church wedding) with extreme care and forethought, you can, I believe, have the kind of wedding and reception you can afford and the bride yearns for. If you can have the wedding reception in your house or apartment, you can probably invite the members of the two families, the closest relatives, and a few of the most intimate friends of your family and the groom's family. Then your daughter might be able to invite some of her most intimate friends, for dancing, if possible. If hiring a club or hall is the only alternative, then because of the expense of this and the music, the dancing might have to be eliminated. However, wherever the reception is given, you need provide only the wedding cake, punch (for the toasts), some small, simple sandwiches, perhaps, and coffee.

A Sincere Note Should be Written in Thanks for a Mass Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that flowers sent for the funeral should be acknowledged, and that notes of condolence should be acknowledged. But is it also necessary to acknowledge Mass cards?

— Marie S.

Yes . . . most definitely yes! A Mass card is a particularly thoughtful and reverent gesture and the kind friend who sends such a card should receive a note of appreciation. It need not be written promptly, and it need not be long—just a sentence or two of sincere gratitude for the thought and the significance of the thought.

Chips-Down New York Yankees Hurl Back Chicago White Sox Threat

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

ROCKETS TONIGHT!

The sports piece-de-resistance of the week-end is that clash between Ace Holden, wonder-boy softball pitcher, his Rockets and the Belleville District Softball League all-stars, at the CNR Recreation Park this evening. The battle starts at 6.45.

Much has been said and written about this colored pitching sensation but he has three teammates that are a little bit out of the softball world, too.

Take Maury O'Connor, the Ace's catcher. Holden will tell you that this clever receiver is one of the main reasons for his sensational strikeout record. O'Connor has 15 years experience and is a former member of the Montreal Snowdons and Toronto Beaches teams. He played basketball and hockey at Loyola and McGill and served five years with the RCAF.

Leo Rheaume, third baseman, and roving infielder of the Rockets, is another star in his own right. He played senior baseball in Montreal when he was sixteen years of age and at 28 is backed with plenty of years of experience. He holds a lifetime batting average of .300, not bad in any man's league and plays indoor baseball in the winter just to keep his "hand in."

Pete Constable rounds out this glittering array of softball stars and the big first-baseman shines equally as much as does his starry pals.

Ace, of course, is the big star and his feats with the overstuffed baseball are at times uncanny. To properly appreciate his diamond wizardry he should be seen.

OPEN SEASONS!

Open seasons for ducks, geese, rails, coots and gallinules were announced this week.

In Ontario, the season is September 15 to November 13 in the Hudson Bay district; September 19 to November 17 in the northern district, and October 3 to December 1 in the southern district, except that in Essex County the season for geese is November 2 to December 31. All dates are inclusive.

The season for woodcock and Wilson's snipe is September 15 to October 14 in the Hudson Bay district; September 19 to October 18 in the northern district and October 3 to November 1 in the southern district.

Restrictions on shooting methods, weapons, etc., are the same in 1952. Details will be published in the migratory bird regulations and on posters before the beginning of the open seasons.

ALL EVEN!

Frank Baldwin, Bobcats' hurler, couldn't do a thing with that apple the other night against Henn's Hennery, but last evening the veteran hurler came into his own. He chucked a five-hitter, at Herbie's double-yolkers, and the cacklin' resounded for four city blocks.

The Hennery's prize pitching cockerel, M'sieu McCurdy, who stood the Bobcats on their paws to save the battle for the Ole Plymouth Rock earlier in the week, was the victim, although the guy with the deceptive delivery turned in a good mound chore. He allowed but eight hits, but the Bobs came through with some clutch clouting that was the margin between victory and defeat.

BABE WILL PLAY!

Fatigued last week after her first appearance since a serious operation, Babe Didriksen Zaharias has an okay from her doctor now and will play at The Labatt Open, Montreal, August 19.

George Zaharias, her manager-husband, assured The Labatt Open tournament committee Thursday that his wife's health was good, and that she will definitely play in an exhibition match at Canada's top golf event. "She has her Doctor's okay, provided she doesn't tire herself," George Zaharias advised.

The former U.S. and British Women's champion played several rounds with Marlene Stewart in Florida and predicted "that girl really has a brilliant golf career ahead. I was just thrilled when Marlene won the British Open, she sure is doing a wonderful thing for Canadian golf."

Just recently recovered from a serious operation, Babe Zaharias was hesitant to confirm The Labatt Open date till after her first post-illness appearance at Tam O'Shanter last week. Once the doctor gave an okay, she readily accepted the Montreal date. "This will be her only exhibition this season," George said. But he added "the Babe will be glad to make other appearances to benefit any cancer fund."

Champs Settle Issue in Third On Berra's Home-Run Blast; Brooklyn Retains Big Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more it looks as if Chicago White Sox are going to need outside help if they hope to overhaul the fast moving New York Yankees.

The Sox went into today's doubleheader in New York trailing the world champions by six games. After today the clubs meet only six more times, meaning, of course that the most the Chicagoans could possibly make up by their own efforts would be six games.

Where the Sox can find that outside help is another question, for so far this season they are the only club that has as much as broken even with Casey Stengel's crew.

After Friday's 6-1 victory by the Yankees, the season's series stood even at seven games each.

It looked for awhile as if the Sox were going to jump off to a comfortable margin in the second inning when with one out they pounded Eddie Lopat for three straight hits—a double and two singles. But the attack netted only one run as a squeeze play failed. The Yankees settled the issue in the next inning.

Ed Started It

Lopat started with a single. Joe Collins walked and when Minnie Minoso missed a quick cutoff on Mickey Mantle's hit, the fleet-footed Yankee circled the bases. Yogi Berra, the next man up, made the runs look legitimate by poking the ball into the right field seats. Billy Martin homered with one aboard in the eighth.

The Yankees gained another full game over the third-place Cleveland Indians who bowed to Boston Red Sox 4-2. Brilliant fielding by Jim Piersall and relief pitching by Ellis Kinder saved Mel Parnell's 15th victory. Philadelphia Athletics edged Detroit Tigers 3-1 and Connie Marrero of Washington Senators shut out St. Louis Browns on three hits 12-0.

In the National League Brooklyn Dodgers maintained their 7½-game lead over Milwaukee Braves as all the first division teams triumphed. The Dodgers trounced Cincinnati Redlegs 9-4, Milwaukee whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 9-2, Philadelphia Phils nosed out Chicago Cubs 5-4 and St. Louis Cardinals handed New York Giants their 10th loss in 13 games, 2-1.

Parnell's victory over Cleveland was his first against the Indians at Fenway Park in almost four years. He drove in three of the runs.

Alex Kellner fanned seven in beating Ralph Branca and the Tigers for his 10th victory.

Marrero's shutout was the seventh one in the last eight games at Washington.

The Brooklyn game at Cincinnati was interrupted for 42 minutes by rain in the sixth inning, but it didn't help the Redlegs. The Dodgers had just scored three runs and led 3-2 when time was called. If no further play had been possible the three runs would have been washed out and the Redlegs would have won 2-0 on Andy Seminick's two-run homer in the fifth.

As it was the Dodgers added one in the seventh on Duke Snider's homer, four more in the eighth including a three-run drive by Carl Furillo and a final tally in the ninth.

The Cardinals pushed across the run that beat the Giants in the fourth with a double by Ray Jablonski and a single by Steve Bilko. Wilmer Mizell went all the way for his 10th victory.

The Phillies are 9½ games behind the Dodgers, but they play like champions when they encounter the Cubs. Their triumph Friday was their 13th in 14 meetings. Ralph Kiner hit his 27th homer for Chicago.

Del Crandall hit a two-run homer for the Braves.

Willingdon Cup Team Members Are Eliminated

By PETER REILLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRANTFORD (CP) — Only two members of Ontario's 1952 Willingdon Cup team survived quarter-final round match play here Friday to enter today's semi-finals of the Ontario amateur golf championship.

In one of two upsets Friday Ted Holmes of the host Brantford Golf and Country club eliminated Keith Kirkpatrick, a member of last year's Willingdon Cup entry, one up on the 19th hole.

Holmes, who injured his back during the Second World War and was not expected to play again, won when Kirkpatrick, who overshot the green on his second shot, chipped past the cup, then missed his putt. Holmes' second shot landed on the front of the green, and he two-putted for a par four.

In the other shakeup, veteran Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro, who didn't feel well during both rounds Friday, lost out on the 16th green to 23-year-old Grant Shirk of Kitchener.

Shirk, whose father was caddying for him, played well, taking advantage of his good short game to outlast Farley, who has won the Ontario amateur more than anyone else, with six victories since the tournament was inaugurated in 1923.

Nick Weslock of Windsor eliminated the sole remaining Toronto player, Kenny Jacobs of Scarboro, 4 up on the 15th. The red-trousered Jacobs advanced into the quarter-final round on the strength of a win on the 20th green over fellow Torontonian Sonny Adams in the morning round.

Weslock was three under par when the match ended. He birdied the second, 13th and the final holes. Despite his loss, Jacobs showed occasional flashes of brilliance. On the 13th he holed a 35-footer for a birdie.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, still the choice to win the title for the third year in a row, eliminated Moe Norman, also of Kitchener with a comparatively easy 4 and 3 win.

Kesselring kept up his par-smashing pace with an eagle and three birdies. However, he finished only one stroke under at the 15th due to extra strokes on the first and fourth holes and two extra on the 10th, when his second shot wound up tangled in the roots of a tree.

Gerry used a putter to get out of that one, and took a six on the par-four hole.

One of the nicest shots all day was a trip-shot by Holmes on the seventh. His drive on the par-three hole imbedded itself in the sand just below the lip of a trap to the left of the green. Holmes had to stand on a hill to get at the ball, and the slope made his footing treacherous. He reached out and blasted to within six feet of the hole, then dropped his putt for a par-three.

Today's semi-final draw sends Kesselring against Grant Shirk and Weslock against Holmes.

Ontario Gals Defend Title

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario women successfully defended their interprovincial golf title Friday with a gross total of 647, a margin of 34 strokes over Manitoba.

The Ontario team retained for another year the Royal Canadian Golf Association trophy it won at Edmonton a year ago.

British Columbia was third with 685 and Quebec fourth with 689. Alberta finished fifth with 699 followed by Saskatchewan with 704 and the Maritimes with 732.

Shirley Woodley of Toronto paced the Ontario team over the 5,998-yard par-76 Sunningdale Club course with a 36-hole total of 158 made up of rounds of 80 and 78. Next in line was Anne Sharp of Fonthill with 80-79—159.

Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto with 81-80—161 and Mrs. J. B. Seawright of Toronto with 79-90—169 were the other members of the team.

Mrs. J. K. Brown of Winnipeg paced the Manitoba team with 85-81—166.

Junior Switch Peculiar Move

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, said Friday he could find no fault with the admission of Quebec Citadelles to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

Here for discussions among NHL and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials over the pro-amateur agreement between the two bodies, Selke told The Canadian Press, however, that the Citadelles' switch from the Quebec Junior League to the OHA was a "peculiar move."

The Quebec team's move was ratified by the OHA here Thursday. They were ousted from the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association last spring over a play-off dispute and allowed by the CAHA to compete in the Memorial Cup playoffs.

'Hoiman the Goiman' Tosses Donny Jonny in Main Bout

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

It was a "slang-over." Hoiman the Goiman, the Voiman of Munich (or is it Brooklyn?) went for a ride last night in Memorial Arena but he landed rightside up, and won the main bout over handsome agile Don Jonathan, the pride of the Salt Lake, Utah, flats.

Donny the Johnny who never come lately, slung the hated villain over his shoulder. He slang him in the air. He slunged him around in a dizzy whirl of flying legs, Goiman cusswords against a background of the roars of the faithful.

But Don Johnny's strategy failed. The cunning Hoiman, Hans Schmidt it says on the advertising, failed to use his parachute and landed heavily on the canvas.

Unfortunately for the handsome bloke from Salt Lake, he happened to be underneath "Hoiman" when they landed. Bert Maxwell, who is said to be an unreasonable facsimile of a referee closed his eyes, muttered a prayer and started to count. He got as far as three, remembered the double-header in Toronto this afternoon and called it a day.

The poker-faced Heinie who mutters to himself in the finest Munichian is, in this department's opinion, one of the best "rasslers" to show his stuff here. We'd like to see him mix matters with our palsy-walsy (you can have him) Fred Atkins, the 'Orrible H'Anstrylian. There, me buckos, would be a battle.

However, to get back to the main argument, Hans the lusty lout gives everything, takes all that is offered and never bats a Heinie eyelash.

He tossed Donny Johnny willy-milly at the ring turnbuckles at times that had the ancient building rocking and the faithful cussing. He picked him up and put him down with sickening thuds.

"Hoiman" has as much use for officialdom as does the faithful. He turned his poker-puss in disdain to the Hon. Maxwell, on several occasions. But he handed out terrific punishment to the Don, whirling him high in aerial spins, crashing him to the floor in bull-dozing throws and winning the first fall with his famous "backbreaker."

But the faithful had its chance to howl in the second period. Ruffling his cranium mop, Don Johnny, seemingly fed up with the tactics of the Terrible Teuton, took matters in his own hands. He heaved the foe high in the Johnny. Two heels against one, so his flying mare gave him a "colt." He spun, whirled and suddenly sank with a sigh on the prostrate form of the Goiman. That was it.

Came the third fall. Schmidt took several hoists in the puss from the flying heels of Don to speak. Gad, men, then came the speak. Gad, men, then came the final flurry. And the faithful rose as one, as Donald slang the Goiman high in the air, whirled him dizzily and the duo crashed to the canvas.

And who popped up? Schmidt, canny wrestler that he is, flipped flopped and flapped Donny around and came up the winnah.

In the preliminary Al Costello and Bill Leipic battled to a draw with the 'Orrible Haustrylian, Fred Atkins, getting the nod over the Pride of Paree, Robert Duranton, in the semi-final.

Guelph Pitcher Named Manager

GUELPH (CP)—Kenny Yount, a pitcher with a 7-2 record, was appointed Friday to succeed George D'Addario, for the last three seasons manager of Guelph Maple Leafs of the Intercounty Senior Baseball circuit.

Jim Kendrick, Leafs' secretary, said D'Addario henceforth will confine himself to publicity and promotional work while continuing as a player.

Don Cockell Whips Matthews In Ten-Rounder

SEATTLE (AP)—A body blow thrown in the desperation of a losing battle doubled up the veteran Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle Friday night and put the fat but agile British heavyweight champion, Do Cockell,e o th road to a 10-round, split decision vicory.

A crowd of 14,868, wich paid $96,806 to see the scrap, was as surprised as the 180-pound Matthews at the sudden ninth-round explosion. Cockell, who outweighed Matthews by 31½ pounds, was bleeding from a deep gash over his left cheekbone and seemed all but whipped after eight rounds.

Then he caught Harry with the sweeping smash to the mid-section and blasted the Seattle veteran on the jaw before he hit the canvas in the first of three nine-count knockdowns in that decisive ninth round.

There were howls of rage in the Matthews camp after the decision was announced. Only judge Eddie Pinkman favored the 31-year-old "Kid," 51 points to 49. Judge Jim Grant had it 50½ to 49½ for Cockell and referee Jimmy Wilson voted for the Briton, 55 to 45.

"I thought Harry won seven out of 10 rounds," said Jack Hurley, Matthews' manager. "He was so far in front at the ninth I didn't see how he could lose."

But the fight was decided on points. The Associated Press scorecard had Matthews winning six rounds, with two going to Cockell and two even—but split the points, 55 to each man.

Harry began piling up the points from the start, evading the rushes of the overweight Cockell and punishing him with sharp jabs and hooks. In the sixth he opened a cut 1½ inches along on the Londoner's cheek and he kept it bleeding for three rounds.

Early in the ninth Cockell landed his payoff punch as Matthews moved to avoid entrapment in a corner. Don kept launching haymakers as Matthews kept getting up, and most of them landed. The third knockdown, off a looping left, almost knocked Harry through the ropes.

"I was slow," said Cockell. "I couldn't catch him.

"I weighed 205 when I got here and went up to 211½ before the fight. I didn't get any road work and it slowed me down."

Panthers Tighten Top Spot Grip; Terriers Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers tightened their grip on first place in the Senior Inercounty Baseball League Friday night by defeating Guelph Maple Leafs 5-1 while London Majors dealt a blow to Galt Terriers' playoff hopes by winning 7-2 on Bob Penney's one-hit pitching.

In other league games, Waterloo Tigers downed Brantford Red Sox 10-3 to move back into a tie for secnd place and Oshawa Merchants broke the .500 mark for the first time this season by trouncing St. Thomas Legions 9-2.

Kitchener's attack was led by George Boniface and Alex Kvasnak, who scored three hits each. The Panthers scored twice in the sixth on three hits and two Guelph errors.

Penney, in holding the Terriers to one hit, marked up his eighth win. The blow was a two-run homer by Jeep Jessup in the second inning. But London's sixth-inning rally of five runs wiped out the Galt lead. Gerry Cline started for Galt, but was taken off in the fifth and Zeb Eaton finished.

Waterloo's Don Oberholzer, on his first pitching job this year, got credit for the win, although he needed help from George Yorke after giving up three runs on five hits in 5 1-3 innings. Harry Nussleman and Oberholzer were the leading batters for the Tigers. Each scored four runs on three hits.

For Oshawa, Bill Hanrahan limited the Elgins to seven hits. He struck out 12. St. Thomas scored two runs on a walk and three singles in the eighth inning. Pinch hitter Harvey Nicholson grounded out with the bases loaded to end the rally.

Oshawa baseball history was made by Butch Lawing of the Merchants. He hit a 400-foot homer over the centre field wall, the first time the barrier has been cleared.

In tonight's games, Waterloo plays at Kitchener, Guelph at Galt and St. Thomas at Oshawa.

Cheers, Men! Bobo Finally Wins One

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The much-celebrated Alva (Bobo) Holloman has finally come through with his first International Baseball League triumph.

Bobo had found it tough going since being sent down to Toronto by St. Louis Browns, for whom he pitched a no-hit no-run game against Philadelphia Athletics in his firs major league start May 7.

Until Friday night, Bobo had failtd to show anything impressive, and had lost two decisions with the Leafs.

Three runs in the 12 inning at Syracuse gave the Leafs a 6-3 victory over the Chiefs and Bobo's initial win. In the 11 innings he hurled, Holloman yielded only five hits. But Bennie Zientara's two-run homer in the ninth deadlocked the score, forcing extra innings.

At Montreal, the league-leading Royals downed Rochester Red Wings 5-3, tallying four times in the fourth inning.

Don Richmond and Tom Burgess walloped home runs for Rochester.

Buffalo Bisons, in second spot, exploded for five runs in the fifth inning at Buffalo to set up an easy 6-1 victory over Springfield Cubs. Jack Wallaesa hit his 27th round-tripper of the season for the Herd.

Both Baltimore pitchers batted in a run as the Orioles whipped Ottawa Athletics 7-4 at Ottawa. Dick Starr singled in a run in the sixth and reliefer Tom Herrin one in the seventh.

Richest Race Run Today

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's richest harness horse race, the $7,500 Canadian Cup, is to be held at Thorncliffe Raceway today.

Virtually every harness man in the country is willing to concede that Argyle Grattan will win — he's been barred from the betting —except his owner, Dunc Campbell of Ailsa Craig.

"Get away from here with that thing," Campbell admonished a photographer Friday as the cameraman endeavored to take a picture of Argyel with the statuesque Canadian Cup. "Until we win it—if we win it—nobody's gonna take no pictures of that horse with that cup."

Hot Off The Griddle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes, for the second year in a row, can field an entire team of American players.

Alouettes are allowed nine imports, compared with eight for the other Big Four teams, because of their last-place finish in 1952. Americans Herb Trawick, Virgil Wagner and Marv Mierowitz now are all classed as non-imports.

The situation was the same for the Als last year when Chuck Anderson was added to these three and the Alouettes had eight imports.

Illness of Mack Speedie, starry end from Cleveland, is of major concern to Saskatchewan Roughriders, whose eastern exhibition tour against Hamilton and Montreal is less than a week away. Speedie, suffering from a toe infection, was given penicillin in the course of treatment. The big fellow proved allergic to the substance and now is in hospital.

Out of football for the season is 21-year-old Halfback Bobby McDonald of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, stricken this week with poliomyelitis. Coach Carl Voyles may have a hard time replacing McDonald as a defensive half. Unless Ray Truant or some other Canadian can be found to fill the spot, Voyles may have to take import strength from the line to make way for another U.S. player in the backfield.

Ottawa Rough Riders will charge $1 admission to an inter-squad game tonight. Tom O'Malley and Dave Anderson will be passing against each other as they fight for the quarterback spot. From the inter-squad game, 35 players will be picked for the club's western exhibition games next weekend at Winnipeg and Edmonton.

Edmonton Eskimos' biggest workout of this week was a game type scrimmage under the lights Thursday night.

Said Les Lear, former coach of Calgary Stampeders, who saw the workout:

"It was the best I've ever seen a Canadian club engage in. The Esks look like money in the bank."

Eddie Albert, former San Francisco 49er, has impressed everyone with his passing accuracy in the quarterback slot for Calgary. Albert hit Pete Thodos and Henry Johnson repeatedly, once with a 55-yard heave, in an inter-squad game at Lethbridge.

Bobcats Down Northern Electric By 4-1 Score

By PETER UPPER

Behind the five-hit pitching of Frank Baldwin, the Bobcats doyned Northern Electric 4-1 last night at the Alemite field.

The Cats took a three run lead in the third inning. Rollins led off the three-run splurge with a single. Nolan flied out to the centre fielder and moved Rollins to second. "Yank" McBride walked and Ray Burley grounded out third to first. Then Charlie Peters connected on McCurdy's slants for a single to drive in Rollins and McBride. He went to second when the play came to the plate.

Rodgers walked and again two men were on base. Young came up and singled to drive in Peters, but was thrown out trying to stretch it to a double to end the rally which proved all that was needed to win the game.

They added another in the bottom of the eighth just as insurance on a walk and two singles.

Northern's lone tally came in the top of the eighth when Locke scored on a walk and two errors.

"Bunk" Young led the winners in the wood department, getting hold of McCurdy's upshoots for a pair of singles. Frank Baldwin helped his own cause with a triple. Rollins, Nolan, McBride, Peters, Rodgers and Callaghan each touched the ball for a single.

Wardhaugh led the losers at the plate with a triple and a single. Locke, Cousins and DeRushie bingled for the other 3 singles.

Baldwin went all the way on the hill for the Bobs, getting one on strikes and walking six.

Score by innings:

		R	H	E
Northern	000 000 010	1	5	1
Bobcats	003 000 01x	4	8	3

Scorer: P. Upper., Time 1.10.

Kid Chocolate, sensational Cuban lightweight, was defeated for the first time in 169 fights when he dropped a contested decision to Jack (Kid) Berg of England, 23 years ago today at New York. The Negro fighter later contested the feather title with Tommy Paul and Freddie Miller before Miller gained undisputed recognition.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Connie Marrero, Washington Senators, shut ut St. Louis Browns on three hits, winning 12-0.

Batting: Mel Parnell, Boston Red Sox, collected two hits and drove in three runs to help win his own game over Cleveland 4-2.

Marlene Within Reach of Third Title

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A record of three straight Canadian women's close golf championships was within reach of Marlene Stewart today and one will get you five she doesn't miss the chance.

Marlene went into today's final 18 holes of the 54-hole medal play tournament with a six-stroke margin over her closest rival, Mary Gay of Kitchener. Marlene tacked on an even-par 76 Friday to a brilliant opening-round 71 for a 147 total compared to Miss Gay's 77-76—153.

Next in line is Rae Milligan, dark-haired golfer from Jasper, Alta., who scored a 77 Friday to go with her opening 79 for a 165 total.

In fourth place, 11 strokes off the pace, is Shirley Woodley of Toronto with 80-78—158, and fifth place is held by Anne Sharp, of Fonthill, with 80-79—159. The rest of the field of more than 100 competitors range from 13 to 87 strokes behind Miss Stewart, the little golfing dynamo from Fonthill.

No golfer has won the title three straight years since the tournament was started in 1926 but Toronto's Ada Mackenzie, who won the championship that year—before Marlene was born—has taken it five times. And Miss Mackenzie, an active campaigner and a tutor to many promising golfers, can still keep up with the youngsters.

She is 15 strokes off the pace this year with 80-82—162 but far ahead of many golfers 20 or 30 years her junior.

Marlene had to scramble to get her 76 Friday and admitted later she was forced to "work awful hard" to hit women's regulation figures for the 5,986-yard Sunningdale layout. She was one over par on the first nine and birdied the 18th to come in with a one-under 38.

Miss Gay, 1952 Ontario champion, also hit par figures with four birdies and as many bogeys.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Each summer at about this time we begin to wonder why we could not have been as smart in the spring, baseball wise, as we are now. It was all there to see while the clubs were in training, but we must have been looking the other way.

Why, for instance, did we persist in believing that Cleveland Indians had the class and the depth to beat New York Yankees out of their fifth straight pennant. And why did we think that New York Giants had the pitching and the defence to repeat their National League triumph two years ago.

In Cleveland's case, why didn't we realize that Luke Easter was too old and too brittle to supply, day in and day out, the kind of power hitting the Indians would need to stick in the race. We realized that the huge Negro first baseman had fudged on his official age and was somewhere around the 37-38 bracket.

It was clear in Arizona, too, that manager Al Lopez still had a short-stopping problem, and that Ray Boone could never be a top operator until he got away from the Cleveland wolves.

AT THE BELLE—Richard Widmark and Jean Peters rock the screen with their hit-and-kiss romance in "Pickup on South Street", the Twentieth Century-Fox film also starring Thelma Ritter, showing today and Monday at the Belle Theatre. The erstwhile demure Miss Peters plays a sexy but slow-witted siren, in this rough realistic drama.

AT THE CAPITOL—Paula Raymond and Paul Christian co-star with Cecil Kellaway in the Warner Bros. presentation "The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms" which starts Monday at the Capitol theatre. A prehistoric monster, freed by an atomic blast, returns to the world after 140 million years and strikes out against the civilized world. On the same program suspense and action in "The Big Frame" starring Mark Stevens, Jean Kent an da new Canadian star, Dianne Foster. Both hits are first showings.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Splendid indications for Sunday interests, healthy sports and other relaxing divertissements. Essentials sponsored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Very interesting although at times puzzling period. Necessary work can be done quickly to bring satisfactory returns. Pray.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Friendly aspects all around you but your Mercury's influences are not stimulating though this is perhaps helpful, giving time to do things calmly. Your church first.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your Moon, Venus and other planets well poistioned augur for a happy fruitful Sunday. Work on necessary tasks; serve God in prayer and good deeds.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Restraining Sun influences tend to temper impulsiveness, over-enthusiasm. Other planetary vibrations favor urgent work, home duties, church services.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Please read Gemini today. Your chart similar. You should be able to accomplish a great deal or just rest to replenish energy. Pray especially for world peace.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — No exciting or over-stimulating rays from your Venus, but today is crowded with encouraging influences. Expect fine returns from good efforts.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Today holds many inviting possibilities for worthy undertakings; also propitious for due relaxation. Devotion to God will enhance contentment.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Promising for truly good deeds, essential home and business duties, work that cannot be put off. Encouraging for patriotic services and for love of God.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — No clouds for you this grand Sunday. Your Saturn and other planets honor practical, sound, useful and difficult matters.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) —Should be peak day for some things. Interesting and beneficial news, happenings likely. Without neglecting spiritual needs you can have a full, happy day.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Good fortune smiles on you and your dear ones. Be worthy of blessings; try to build for more by following God's gracious laws. Enjoy wholesome fun.

YOU BORN TODAY are gay, debonair, generous of heart. You have specific talent for selling, entertaining, managing groups of people. Now for faults: A tendency to excessive egotism, being too dictatorial at times. Remember, a give-and-take attitude is a happy, sensible way of living. Birthdate: John Dryden, great poet; Izaak Walton, author of the Compleat Angler.

CANNOT SUPPORT SELF

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea will remain dependent upon United States aid forever unless North and South Korea are united, Lee Chai Hyung, minister of commerce and industry, said today in an interview. "Neither South nor North Korea alone is able to realize a self-supporting economy until the whole country of Korea is unified," said Lee.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NO. 6517

A BY-LAW TO PROHIBIT THE CONSTRUCTION OR ERECTION OR THE MAINTENANCE OF ANY FENCES MADE WHOLLY OR IN PART OF BARBED WIRE OR OF ANY OTHER BARBED MATERIAL WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

WHEREAS Section 260 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950, Chapter 243 authorizes a Council to pass by-laws for the safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the Municipality as may be deemed expedient.

AND WHEREAS it is considered dangerous to the health and welfare of the inhabitants of the Corporation of the City of Belleville to have erected within the Corporation, fences constructed wholly or partly of barbed wire or any other barbed material.

THEREFORE, THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS:

1. That from and after the passing of this by-law, no person or persons shall construct or erect any fence or fences made wholly or in part of barbed wire or of any other barbed material, nor shall any person maintain such fence or allow any such fence to be maintained on property belonging to him or occupied by him.

2. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the convicting Magistrate a penalty not exceeding the sum of $50.00 for each offence exclusive of costs, and in default of payment of the said penalty and costs forthwith, the said penalty and costs or costs only may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such penalty can be levied, the convicting Magistrate may commit the offender to the Common Gaol of the County of Hastings with or without hard labor for any period not exceeding six calendar months unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

3. This by-law shall come into force and take effect immediately upon the passing thereof.

PASSED THIS 30th DAY OF JULY, 1953.

McLEAN HAIG
Mayor.
H. D. BATEMAN

MARMORA

Agricultural Society Holds 18th Carnival

MARMORA.—The 18th annual carnival under the auspices of the Marmora Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday evening. This year the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena was utilized for the event.

Although the attendance did not reach expectations, a night of merriment was spent by those patronizing it.

The entertainment provided by Associated Entertainment Enterprizes of Toronto, had Joe Murphy, of Hamilton, as master of ceremonies.

Completing the bill were, Johnny Dash, youthful juggler and uni-cyclist; Mary Mae Demers, (Miss Twisto), novelty acrobatic contortionist Margaret Brenton, comedienne and singer; Ernie Bruce, the comedy musician; Jack Ayre, pianist.

Games were operated by the Agricultural Society, which also with Marmora Women's Institute operated the refreshment booths.

Dancing was held in the Exhibition Building with Jack Grant's orchestra supplying the music.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG — The reopening of the United Church Sunday School on Sunday was not well attended. Too many of the scholars are still away on holidays. It is hoped next Sunday will have a much better report.

Due to a misunderstanding in the time of service, Rev. R. L. Norman, just back from vacation, had few in attendance at morning service. Next Sunday, Aug. 9, service will be in the evening.

The Sunday evening service in Christ Church was fairly well attended.

The Conservative Association held a well-attended open air meeting on the Thomasburg school grounds on Wednesday, July 29th. Mr. Harold Varty, of Sulphide, was master of ceremonies. As well as the political speeches there was a varied program of songs, piano accordion solos, Scotch and tap dances, which were much enjoyed. The Women's Auxiliary of the United Church catered from a booth on the grounds. This netted them a gratifying amount to swell their funds.

In honor of Mrs. M. Bye, Kisbey, Saskatchewan, who is visiting relatives here, the Morton families held at picnic on Sunday at Lake Mazinaw. The day was ideal and everyone reported a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mumby, George and Roy were callers at the home of Lorne Carleton on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Gordon Carleton, Moneymore, was also a caller.

Mr. Roy Welch, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Goss, of Toronto, called on Mr. and Mrs. L. Carleton on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Morton Elliott, of St. Catharines, is visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Tavener and daughter, Edith, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Vance, Sharon and Linda, who have been on holiday, are home again.

Mr. Donald Hobbs, Belleville, who is on holiday, is renewing acquaintances in Thomasburg and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Winters, of Trenton, called on Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, on Civic Holiday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mumby on the birth of their son in the Belleville hospital, Aug. 3.

Bahama Cruise

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Aboard the cruiser Eustanne out of Nassau, Bahama Islands—There are approximately 70,000 square miles of fishing water in the general vicinity of the Bahama Islands. Of this area, only about 30,000 square miles are familiar, known areas and are used by the guides and charter-boat captains to provide sport for either guests.

The other 40,000 square miles remain somewhat of a mystery. However, all this territory is good fishing water, dotted with keys and islands. There is sport to be found there both for the fisherman and the hunter.

With the rapidly growing interest in light-tackle fishing in salt water, mainly fly fishing and spinning, the bonefish is assuming a status of major importance on the agendas of most keen anglers throughout the United States and Canada. In the Bahamas there are plenty of bonefish—in fact, most of the bonefish records emanate from the waters about the Bimini Islands and Cat Cay.

Wishing to learn more of the bonefishing around the islands which lie directly to the north of Nassau, the Honorable Stafford L. Sands, chairman of the Nassau Development Board, went into a huddle with my friend, Don McCarthy, head of the fishing information bureau of Nassau.

On Fishing Expedition

The result of this meeting is this—I flew to Nassau where Don met me. Now we are on the cruiser, Eustanne, out of Nassau, Capt. Milton Pearce, owner and skipper.

With the mate and a development board staff photographer on board and a couple of bonefish skiffs in tow, we have been fishing almost untouched waters for about a week.

Our first stop was at Sandy Point on Great Abaco Island. There we hired a local guide, Alfred White, and set out for the bonefish grounds. Alfred spoke rather carelessly of sixteen-pound fish. (The present Atlantic record is a mere fifteen pounds and some ounces.)

Alred found bonefish for us all right, plenty of bonefish. The first school, feeding industriously on the marl bottom of a shallow bay, must have held at least a hundred fish. We managed to hook four or five of these before the school stopped feeding and moved away.

It must be remembered that there are no outboard motors in the "out islands" of the Bahamas. Those people depend entirely upon sails and sculling oars for their motive power. Thus, Alfred was not too familiar with the waters which lay more than two or three miles from his home port.

Lots Of Fish

However, he is large, strong and willing to pole a boat in a high wind all day long. We cruised about twenty miles of shore line, looking over new bonefish territory. Now and then we would stop to fish a likely area and only rarely did we fail to find fish in quantity.

The next port of call was Gorda Cay. This is a tiny affair, possibly ten miles long and three or four miles wide, surrounded by its attendant group of lesser keys. It is entirely uninhabited, save by a few wild boar and a liberal supply of white crested pigeons. On Abaco, incidentally, there are plenty of wild boar.

Here, too at Gorda Cay we found fishing. Weather was against us and we encountered rain squalls and high winds. Even so, we had no trouble in taking bonefish from schools which numbered anywhere from ten to fifty fish. I'd like to see Gorda Cay again some time when weather conditions are favorable.

From Gorda Cay we cruised to Mores Island. Here there is a small settlement of, perhaps, fifty or sixty people. Again we employed a local guide, Stuart—a huge fellow who never before had ridden in a motor-driven craft.

There are bonefish grounds at Mores Island literally by the square mile—acres upon countless acres upon countless acres of good feeding grounds. The schools are large, each one holding from fifty to two or three hundred fish. We had no trouble taking bonefish, in fact we landed and released eighteen in one day, hooking and losing perhaps half as many more.

At Mores Island Village we talked to the local constable. He told us of another location called Shallow Water Point, some sixteen miles to the northeast. There he assured us we would find "tousands an' tousands of bonefish."

Accordingly, we set sail for Shallow Water Point. This proved to be merely a collection of small keys, divided by "creeks" or passes which lead into broad areas of shallow "swashes," ideal feeding grounds for bonefish.

Milton, our skipper, nosed his way in to safe anchorage, dodging shallow sand bars. Once in the skiffs, we chose arbitrarily to fish the nearest bonefish flat.

To say that we hit the jackpot is rather an understatement. Never have I seen so many bonefish. They were all around the boat, in all sizes. Should we flush one school, another would be along to take its place in a matter of minutes.

For nearly two hours I stood in the prow of our skiff and cast a fly to cruising schools. I hooked fish and landed them; hooked them and lost them; lost flies, broke leaders, cut my fingers on the racing line, and generally had the time of my life.

We cruised the area rather thoroughly and found that it had great possibilities. Two days later, regretfully, we crept out around the shallow bars and pointed the nose of the Eustanne toward Sandy Point. I expect that we shall raise that landfall in about an hour.

And now Milton tells me that dinner is ready. He, in addition to being tops as a skipper and guide, is an outstanding chef. The menu tonight includes conch salad, broiled crawfish and green turtle steak. Please excuse me if I cut this rather short. I know from experience what Milton's meals are like and this salt air has given me a ravenous appetite.

Sale of New Cars In Six Months Increases 28 P.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians spent nearly $700,000,000 on new motor vehicles during the first six months of 1953, an increase of 28 per cent over the same period last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Sales of new vehicles in the January-June period totalled 274,039 valued at $687,883,412, compared with 212,586 vehicles worth $538,433,773 in the correspondent months a year ago. In June, the number of new units sold increased moderately to 46,449 from 43,171 in the same month of 1952.

The number of new passenger cars sold in the six-month period soared to 214,056 units valued at $538,712,766 compared with 155,353 units worth $391,950,362 last year. Sales of commercial vehicles rose to 59,985 units valued at $149,170,646 from 57,213 units worth $146,483,411 in the first half of 1952.

Sales of new motor veicles through finance companies also rose sharply in the first six months of the year. They totalled 102,217 worth $183,041,122, compared with 83,037 valued at $136,095,626 a year ago.

The number of used vehicles financed also rose in the half-year period, totalling 240,287 units valued at $206,722,728 as against 228,91 units worth $168,269,303 last year.

214,000 Extra Refugees Will Be Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law today a bill to admit 214,000 extra refugees, orphans and other aliens into the United States in the next three years.

He called the legislation "a significant humanitarian act and an important contribution toward greater understanding and co-operation among the nations of the free world."

The bill finally sent to the president is a compromise measure containing many provisions aimed at screening out any Communist agents among the immigrants to be admitted over and above regular quotas.

Senator Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.) finally accepted the rewritten version, which will allow the admission of a somewhat smaller number of aliens than Eisenhower originally proposed and also will lengthen the period of the program from two to three years.

AIRPORT BUILDING

CALGARY (CP)—A new administration building costing about $700,000 is expected to be built at Calgary airport next year with the city handling most of the financing. Plans will be submitted to the transport department in September.

DEMOCRACY THEN WHAT?

"Will it be Top Brass Totalitarianism, A MODERN CEASAR?" Where there is no vision the people perish. It may be later than you think.

The election campaign of the two old parties is entirely void of any future national vision. They are so exposing and critical of each other they are not comprehensive of the terrific need for highest level government leadership, in this changing world.

If we electors are to preserve our democratic rights and freedoms, financial progress and security of health and happiness, it's high time we stopped going out on election day and voting against each other, just silly political prattle and broken promises for our reward.

We can not think about a national health program, full employment, social welfare, adequate housing, just labor laws, a national financial credit relation with the Central Bank, etc., without being deeply grateful to the pioneers of the C.C.F. at Ottawa for their vigilant fight for the common weal.

My final and earnest plea to my fellow electors is that on August 10th., you place your X earnestly and decisively where it will leave the best heritage for you and those loved ones that come after you. That you may have the satisfaction of standing — if needs be alone — on the side of the crusaders for democratic justice to all mne and world progress.

Expect Record Number of Voters To Mark Ballots

Eligible to Cast Their Votes Are 8½ Million Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—This is the day the Canadian voter takes over. He is electing the country's new government.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Arctic to the border, the men and women wielding the pencil of power went to the polling booth at 8 a.m local standard time to choose their candidate.

Some time after the ballot boxes are closed at 6 p.m., Canada will know the make-up of her federal administration for about the next four years.

More than 6,000,000 voters—a Canadian record—are expected to make the decision from among four major parties and a miscellany of independent candidates—totalling in all 896.

At stake is the future of the Liberal government, in office 18 years. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, 71, is looking for his second general-election win after leading his supporters to power in 1949 with the greatest parliamentary majority in Canadian history.

George Drew, 59, former Ontario premier and Progressive Conservative leader since 1948, also is in his second general federal contest and seeking to bolster a 48-member representation in the lower House.

The only other party with enough candidates in the field to form a government is the socialist CCF, which had 13 of the Commons' 262 members at dissolution. Under redistribution, the new House will have 265 members, of whom the Liberals already have elected two by acclamation in Quebec.

Apart from the big three groups, the electors also can choose from candidates of the Social Credit party—mainly in the West—and the Communist Labor-Progressive party, largely in Ontario and Quebec. There are, too, 44 candidates running as independents or under a variety of labels.

An electorate estimated at a record 8,500,000 is making the choice in this first August election since 1874. The actual figure will not be known until enumerators report after election day.

However, the popular vote is expected ti exceed the approximately 5,900,000 of 1949.

This year's number of candidates also is ahead of the figure for that election, though not up to the record for 1945's wartime ballitting. In the last election, there were 849 candidates. Four years earlier, 954 ran.

Grandfatherly Mr. St. Laurent, first French-speaking Canadian head of government since sir Wilfred Laurier, is leading 262 Liberals in the fight for the 263 Commons seats that turn on today's voting. In the other, a Liberal supporter runs under a differnt tag.

George Drew, who has waged an aggressive campaign for the eight weeks since the election was called, has a total of 248 in the field. He is banking heavily on picking up seats among Ontario's 85 ridings—and some in strongly-Liberal Quebec—to boost his party's House representation.

CCF leader M. Coldwell, 64, has 17 candidates spread across the country, concentrated in Ontario and Quebec in addition to the western areas where the CCF traditionally has drawn support. In the last House, the socialists had only two members east of the Prairies.

The Social Credit group, espousing unorthodox fiscal policies for Canada, is admittedly aiming mainly at slipping into a balance-of-power position if one or the other of the larger parties does not come up with a clear Commons majority. The party under Solon Low, 53, has 71 candidates afield, most of them in the West.

At dissolution, Social Credit had 10 members in the House, all from the West.

The Liberals at that time had 181 members, down from their all-time high of 190 after the 1949 election but giving them an overwhelming working majority. Besides the Progressive Conservatives' 48 and the CCF's 13, there were one independent Liberal and four independent. There were also five vacancies.

If the Communists can make their way into the House this time, it will be their first representation since 1946, when Fred Rose, then the member for Montreal Cartier, went to the penitentiary for complicity in the Russian espionage ring. National chief Tim Buck is heading up a slate of an even 100 Communists.

Women were out in force among the candidates today, in greater numbers than ever. A total of 48 are in the running, 34 of them in Ontario and Quebec. The Communists went in most strongly for feminine vote-getters, with 21. The CCF was next with 13. The Liberals ran only three.

In their personal campaigns, the five party leaders are spread through four provinces.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is looking for re-election in Quebec East, where he had the biggest majority of anyone in 1949. Mr. Drew is running in Carleton, which returned him then. Mr. Coldwell is in Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., and Mr. Low is in the northern Alberta district of Peace River. Mr. Buck is making his personal bid in Toronto Trinity. He has never been in the Commons.

Report of Plan For Big Oshawa Holdup in Error

TORONTO: Toronto police Friday night denied reports published Friday that a Toronto gang had planned a $1,500,000 General Motors payroll robbery in Oshawa. It was explained that the rumor began with a facetious remark made in the Don Jail. But authorities added that no proof or evidence had been found to support such a theory.

Isolated Quebec Centres to Get Airports Soon

QUEBEC (CP)—Three isolated St. Lawrence river north shore centres soon will have airports. Premier Duplessis announced Friday.

Riviere au Tonnerre, Havre St. Pierre, and Natashouan, respectively 350, 450 and more than 500 miles east of Quebec, will get the airports under an arrangement between the Quebec government and local municipal administrations. Cost was not announced.

P.M. Warns That All Reds Will Cast Votes

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday night appealed to democratic Canadians to get out and vote Monday and prevent the possibility of Communists electing members to the next Parliament.

"There is a section of the population . . . who I know will be at the polling booths," Mr. St. Laurent said in a radio broadcast and political rally here.

"These are the small group of fanatical people who are dedicated to the spread of communism. In this country they go under the name of Labor-Progressives. . . ."

The Communists are out to "destroy" Canada's democratic system of government and all of them will be out to vote Aug. 10, Mr. St. Laurent said.

"Let nothing stand in the way of each one of you casting your vote," the prime minister urged the democratic electorate.

Reds Seek to Bar Even Cyclists From Making Trips for Free Food

BERLIN (AP)—The Russian zone Communists clamped severe new restrictions on travel into Berlin Saturday in a desperate attempt to prevent a week-end rush of East Germans to American free food stations here. But thousands of the hungry and resourceful made it anyhow.

The newest Red measures were aimed at stopping even cyclists and pedestrians. They were said to have been ordered after a one-week ban on the sale of railroad tickets, and direct assaults by Red storm troopers, failed to smash the relief campaign.

The East Germans thumbed their noses at the Communist police by finding or making new loopholes.

Lines formed at the food stations before mid-morning and the vast give-away was expected to pass the 2,000,000-parcel mark during the week-end.

Widespread Communist persecution continued against people who took the American aid. In some places, pensions and other public aid were cut off in reprisal.

East Germany's shaky army and people's police were racked by continued desertions as 25 more cops and soldiers fled to west Berlin Friday night for asylum. This brought the total for the first seven days of August to 186 and the total for this year to 2,658

GAIETY COMES TO PANMUNJOM AS POW HEALTHY

Latest Freed Captives Are in Better Spirits

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Some laughter and joy came to Panmunjom Saturday as 90 Americans returned to freedom in obviously better health and spirits than those liberated in the first three days of the Korean prisoner exchange.

There were few maimed and haggard men in today's group.

The Reds sent back 250 South Koreans, 90 Americans, 35 Turks and 25 Britons—a total of 400.

They said Sunday's group of 400 will include 250 South Koreans, 12 Americans, 21 Britons, 13 Turks, two Australians, one Canadian and one Filipino.

So far, the four-day exchange has brought back a total of 1,205 Suth Koreans, 311 Americans, 143 Turks, 126 Britons, 34 Filipinos, 21 Colombians, seven Frenchmen, six Australians, one Belgian, one Canadian, one Greek and one South African.

Of the prisoners released today, 80 were Negroes.

Prisoners Sing

Seeing a convoy of singing Red North Koreans driving up the road, the Americans yelled and hooted.

"We might as well sing, too—shall we give him a little blues, boys?"

The Britons also were full of good cheer. One tall young Tommy shouted, "lets' make it Dirty Dick's!" (a famous East London pub) as his truck rolled up.

A deeper note was struck by the Turks and South Koreans.

Their hatred of their captors was so intense that scores tore off their Chinese prison uniforms in spontaneous acts of defiance.

Strip Off Clothes

Military police had to restrain the Turks from stripping right in the roadway.

But even the MPs could not stop the South Koreans. Many stripped to their underclothes the instant their feet struck ground.

The Communist prisoners, too, followed the urge to shed their garments, and the UN road from Munsan to Panmunjom was littered with American army gear—so much that poverty-stricken Korean civilians stole down from the hills and scavenged it.

Allied officers estimated returning Reds have discarded thousands of dollars worth of prison gear which under the Geneva Convention must be the same quality of clothing as Allied soldiers wear at the front.

Lists In Mess

Although the return of American, British and other UN prisoners went off much as scheduled by the Reds, the Communists showed no such precision with the South Koreans.

Allied officers complained that the lists of South Korean prisoners were grossly out of order and were, frankly, "a mess."

American repatriates revealed that some prisoners smoked a weed which had narcotic effects.

Meanwhile, at Inchon, a port on South Korea's west roast, some American disabled were loaded by helicopter onto the hospital ship Haven for the voyage back to the United States.

As the exchange continued, more Red prisoners were brought north for their ride back to communism.

At the port of Pusan, in far South Korea, 473 North Korean Communist women demonstrated at the docks, shouting "get away, Yankees."

6 DROWN IN FLOOD

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Six persons were drowned and 300 houses collapsed following 42 hours of rain that flooded streets five feet deep in parts of Karachi Friday. Suburbs of the capital were cut off for 16 hours.

Duty First Even for Princess Anne

U.S. No Longer Has Monopoly On H-Bomb Says Malenkov

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Georgi Malenkov told the joint session of the Supreme Soviet Saturday, the U.S. no longer has the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb.

Malenkov said the Soviet Union now had mastered the production of the bomb.

The Supreme Soviet is Russia's parliament.

His appearance at the session today came as a surprise. It had not been heralded beforehand.

The hydrogen bomb is a development of the atom bomb but many times more powerful. The United States atomic energy commission is believed to have exploded the world's first hydrogen bomb in a series of tests at the Einwetok atoll in the marshal islands last year.

(The commission announced Nov. 1, 1952, that it had made tests with weapons "contributing to thermo-nuclear weapon research." Experts said this was a veiled reference to the hydrogen bomb.)

Malenkov also disclosed that Russia will grant 1,000,000,000 rubles (worth $250,000,000 at the agreed Western rate) for rehabilitation in Korea.

Outlines New Program

Malenkov also outlined a big new government program for the production of consumer goods. He said the government was prepared to make a major effort in this direction.

The budget, he told the deputies, was a big step forward towards building communism in the Soviet Union and reflected the government's policy towards a steadily rising national economy.

Three minutes of cheering greeted his appearance from a seat behind the Praesidium table to address the last joint session of the Supreme Soviet's two houses. The Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities.

Civil Servants Begin Trooping Back to Work

PARIS (AP)—French civil servants began trooping back to work today as the country's worst general strike since 1936 sputtered toward a close. But mail, telegraph, telephone, gas and electric power services remained out.

Buses and subways roared back into operation and government employees were at their desks when offices opened this morning. Crack railroad trains chugged out of Paris's big stations. Elsewhere, the rail strike continued.

The returning workers were an estimated 2,000,000 Frenchmen employed in a variety of public services who left their jobs at midnight Thursday in protest against Premier Joseph Laniel's rumored plans to save money at their expense.

Walkouts in the big government-owned gas and electric power services were scheduled to continue until midnight tonight. The government's postal, telegraph and telephone services also remained unmanned as workers remained away from their jobs for the third consecutive day.

Although the walkout by some 400,000 employees of the government-owned railroads was scheduled to end last midnight, the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor added confusiin to an already bewildering situation by calling on all rail workers to continue their strike until midnight tonight.

CHRISTIANS IN MINORITY

ROME (Reuters)— There are three non-Christians to every two Christians in the world today, according to figures issued by the Vatican. About 1,000,000,000 of the world's estimated population of 2,440,000,000 are Christians. The rest are non-believers in Christ.

Canada Signs Pledge to Resist Korean Attacks

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada signed a pledge last month with 15 other United Nations Allies to resist any new attack in Korea, the external affairs department said Friday.

However, an external affairs department spokesman said that there would have to be full consultation among the 16 signatory powers before any action is taken in the event of a breach of the armistice.

The agreement, signed July 27 in Washington, said that the 16 countries with armed forces in the UN command in Korea "affirm in the interests of world peace that if there is a renewal of the armed attack, challenging again the principles of the UN, we should again be united and prompt to resist."

"The consequences of such a breach of the armistice would be so grave that, in all probability, it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea."

The spokesman said that this latter part of the agreement does not mean that Canada is committed to an immediate invasion of communist China if China breaks the armistice now in effect in Korea.

The UN itself would have to decide whether the armistice had been broken and Canada, as a UN member, then would be obligated to "be prompt to resist."

CHEMISTRY SET FATAL

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—One boy was killed and a companion was severely injured Friday in the explosion, of a chemistry set with which, a detective said, they were trying to make gunpowder. Charles Phillips, 11, died when the blast struck him in the neck, severing the jugular vein. James W. Alpha, 13, in whose basement the boys were working, lost part of his left

COURT SENTENCES 10 HIGH NORTH KOREANS TO DEATH

Two Others Given Long Prison Terms

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported Saturday the North Korean supreme court has sentenced to death 10 high government officials accused of plotting to overthrow North Korea's Communist regime. Two others were given long jail terms.

The 12 defendants in a typical Communist purge trial "confessed," the radio said, to spying and carrying on other subversive work for the United States and South Korea.

Topping the list of those sentenced to die former justice minister Lee Sung Yup. Among the others were former deputy propaganda minister Cho Yun Nyong, former foreign minister Pak Hong Wong, and the Communist party's former deputy propaganda chief, Rhee Won Cho.

One of the jailed officials was sentenced to 15 years, the other 12.

Queen Mary Leaves Estate Of $1,137,939

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mary left an estate of £406,407 ($1,137,939), it was announced when her will was probated Saturday.

The will did not disclose the names of any of the beneficiaries. The net value of the estate was announced as £379,864. This sum was smaller than many had anticipated.

The net value is the amount left after taxes, which the estate had to pay even though the Queen was the mother of two monarchs and the grandmother of the present Queen. Only wills of reigning kings are exempt from taxation.

Royal family wills are admitted to probate in the usual way but are kept secret unless publication is authorized by the president of the probate court.

Word Ogopogo Copyrighted By Kelowna

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — The noise coming over the mountains is from the battle of Ogopogo.

Ogopogo is a pawn in a developing row between the neighboring Okanagan communities of Kelowna ("Land of the Ogopogo") and Vernon.

Kelowna has been plugging Ogopogo for years. Ogo is the monster—so publicity-wise Kelowna people say—who has been appearing in Okanagan lake for many years.

But not any more he won't

A group of eVrnon business men, headed by A. J. Seabrook, manager of radio station CJIB, has copyrighted the word. That means Kelowna can't use the word Ogopogo any more unless it gets permission from the Vernon copyright holders. And if you think that will be easy, you don't know Vernon.

"Of course we will be glad to lend Ogo to Kelowna once in awhile, but that is as far as we will go," quipped Mr. Seabrook Friday.

Kelowna naturally is hot under the collar for Ogopogo is the theme around which is built the town's famous regatta and whole tourist trade.

Smiths Falls Man Admitted He Was Scared When He Robbed Bank

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Leo Cahill, 29, of Smiths Falls, Ont., charged with the armed robbery of the Portland, Ont., branch of the Royal Bank of Canada on May 25, 1953, was remanded in custody Friday afternoon until Aug. 25 when he will be sentenced by Judge Donald E. Lewis, of Brockville.

Cahill, who elected trial by judge, pleaded guilty to the offence, and $4,324 of the $4,884 stolen from the bank was ordered returned. Bad debts and poor health were given as reason for Cahill's actions. Several character witnesses and his wife were heard.

Even the investigating officer, Inspector J. F. Craig, of Toronto was called as a character witness. He told the court that Cahill appeared to have been stupid in connection with the crime, and was not a hardened criminal type.

"He admitted that he was scared when he robbed the bank and told me that if the manager had said "boo" when he was scooping up te money he would have fled," Inspector Craig stated. He said Cahill co-operated with police and showed them where the money was hidden.

Cahill's wife had been charged as an accomplice but charges against her were dropped at the preliminary hearing.

She said of Cahill: "As a husband and father I could have none better."

First POW Leave For Their Homes; Canadian Is Freed

Gunner Orval J. Jenkins Got Lost Hunting Water

PANMUNJOM (CP) — Seventeen disabled but happy Americans left Tokyo tonight by plane for the United States, leaving behind grim months in North Korean prison camps. The first Canadian will be flown home Wednesday.

Another 328 Americans boarded a navy transport in Inchon harbor, and will sail for home Tuesday. About 1,800 U.S. Marines returning home on regular rotation also are aboard the ship, the Gen. Nelson M. Walker.

The big air force plane carrying the vanguard of more than 3,000 Americans scheduled to be liberated in the massive prisoner exchange took off from Tokyo's Haneda airport at 7:07 p.m. (6: 7 a.m. EDT today).

Cpl. Joseph Pelletier, 26, of Chatham, Ont., the first Canadian prisoner released under the armistice Aug. 5, will be flown from Camp Britannia to Tokyo and then to Vancouver aboard a Canadian Pacific Air Lines plane.

Today 389 more Allied soldiers returned from North Korean stockades. The second Canadian was freed Sunday. He is Gunner Orval J. Jenkins, son of Arthur Jenkins, Toronto, formerly of Hamilton.

Jenkins, fighting with the 2nd Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, was captured Aug. 24, 1951 when he left a forward observation party in search, he said, of drinking water. He took a wrong route and ended up in an enemy-occupied village.

For security reasons, the press was not allowed to interview him.

Jenkins was described by Capt. Tom Sailman, Halifax public relations officer, as fit, happy and grinning broadly when he reached Munsan. There he got a welcoming handshake from Brig. Ronald Morton, commander of the Canadian military mission to Tokyo, who is visiting Korea.

Maj. William Pearce, Canadian 25th Brigade PRO, quoted Jenkins as saying he was not well during his early captivity but picked up and is quite well now.

A board of three officers to interrogate Jenkins was convened weeks ago by Brig. Jean Allard, brigade commander. Maj. Pearce said the soldier must first be interrogated by Canadian security officers concerning the circumstances of his capture.

Release of Jenkins cut to 13 the number of Canadians the Reds say they hold as prisoners. But the Canadian Army listed 18 men as prisoners and the return of Jenkins reduces the number to 17.

Pelletier had been listed in Canadian Army records as missing. There still are 26 on the missing list.

Among the prisoners released Sunday was Rifleman Leslie Elliott, whose mother, Mrs. Martha Elliott, lives in Guelph, Ont. She came to Canada from Ireland four years ago and settled in Guelph, where she is employed at the Homewood sanatorium. Elliott, a member of the Royal Ulster Rifles Regiment, joined up five years ago in Ireland when he was 18.

Panmunjom's mood swung between sadness and gaiety today depending on what nationality was on the trucks.

The 125 Americans and 25 trucks all appeared in good condition. The Britons, too were in excellent spirits.

RoKs Emaciated

But there were grim faces on the tough U.S. Marines who unloaded Red ambulances loaded with wasted, emaciated RoK soldiers.

Cynical Communist press photographers largely stayed away since the South Korean living dead offered no propaganda possibilities for them.

There were 20 non-Koreans exchanged Monday. It was the first day that more non-Koreans than RoKs have been returned. Early Monday the Reds suddenly announced they were substituting 15 more Americans and 25 more Britons for 50 South Koreans. Whether this was merely a mixup in the Red schedule or had some deeper significance remained to be seen.

There was speculation the Reds made the sudden switch to avoid delivering the ghastly RoK litter cases before the eyes of India's Foreign Minister, R. K. Nehru.

P.A. System Will be Used To Give Results

Starting at eight o'clock the Ontario Intelligencer will provide telephone election returns as soon as they are available for residents in the city and district.

In addition there will be a loud speaker service for on the spot announcements. The loud speaker will be positioned outside the Ontario Intelligencer.

The Ontario Intelligencer asked that no calls be made for election returns before eight o'clock as it is not expected any returns will be available before this time. The polls do not close in Belleville until seven o'clock and it is not expected results will be known before at least an hour.

WOULD EXAMINE DRIVERS

STRATFORD (CP)—The Canadian Trotting Association should institute medical examinations before issuing licences to harness horse race drivers, a coroner's jury recommended here Friday night. The jury was investigating the death of Harry Field, 71-year-old Hamilton driver who was killed in an accident last Monday at the Stratford race meet when a horse fell.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The weather disturbance, which moved across the lower lakes regions during the week-end, is now drifting slowly over southeastern Ontario. Skies are generally clear throughout the lake regions.

Scattered showers will persist over southeastern Ontario today but skies will clear over night. Tuesday will be a pleasant sunny day in all regions except northwestern Ontario.

Holy Rosary Church Will Be Opened Sunday

Archbishop O'Sullivan of Kingston will officially open and bless Holy Rosary Church before Solemn High Mass Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Michael Simson, O.F.M. Conv. is the pastor of the new parish and is a member of Franciscan Friars Minor Conventual commonly called "Black Franciscans." This is the first time the Franciscan Fathers have had a parish in the Archdiocese of Kingston.

There are more than 180 families listed in the new parish which takes in all the land north of the Canadian National Railway. The eastern boundary is a continuation of Herchimer Avenue, above the railroad north to Corbyville from where it extends northeast until it meets the western boundary of the parish of Read and north to the southern boundaries of the parish of Stoco.

Merchants Asked To Fill Out Questionnaire

Response to the questionnaire mailed to business men in the city concerning the advisability of holding a Santa Claus parade in December has been "encouraging," according to Don W. Kingdon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

A total of 560 forms was sent out approximately three weeks ago requesting merchants' opinion and support upon the venture. Mr. Kingdon noted the majority of the returns received to date have been in favor of holding a parade.

However, the secretary-manager pointed out a considerable number of recipients of the questionnaires have not as yet been heard from. He reminded that to obtain a fair cross section of opinion, the chamber would like those who have not submitted their forms to return them as soon as possible.

POLICE BLOTTER

Comparative quiet prevailed in the local police circles during the past 24 hours with no serious accidents or other matters of a serious nature being reported.

Theft of a 1947 model auto from the Riggs Motor Sales used car lot at the corner of McAnnany and Pinnacle Street, was reported during the early evening.

Also during the early evening an unknown man was reported to have stolen a quantity of change from a Chinese laundry on Bridge near the Lower Bridge. The man was said to have entered the laundry and while the attendant left the counter, he scooped up the change in the till and ran out. Police were able to secure only a very sketchy description of the man.

Several very minor motor accidents were reported, while ordinary drunks and a couple of family spats rounded out the police blotter.

Point Anne Beats Frankford 10-1 in Opener

Point Anne's powerful bludgeons pounded the Frankford Merchants into 10-4 submission in the first game of their best of seven series for the right to represent the City District Softball League in the OASA intermediate A playdowns.

The Cementment got a pair in the second, four in the third, three in the sixth and one in the eighth on thirteen hits, three of them being homers and four doubles.

Frankford's lone tally came in the fifth.

Maracle went all the way on the hill for Point Anne, leading his team to victory by striking out six and walking none to give up but four hits over the route. Rankin started for the losers and in four complete innings of play struck out one and walked as many. He was relieved in the fifth by Curtis who walked three and struck out one.

John Green led the Cement Makers in the wood department, slamming the ball for a four bagger and a single. Bill Strachan connected for two bases and a single, while Maracle helped his own cause with a pair of singles. Buchanan tagged the ball for a brace of singles. Bob Strachan slammed the ball for a homer, as did Sammy Mulholland. Hull, Gilmour and Brannigan rode the ball for doubles.

Adams, Curtis, Rankin and Gilmour were the only hitters for the Merchants, each getting a singleton.

Curtis was ejected from the game in the bottom of the 8th, and it had to be called because Frankford had used all of its eligible players.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Bradshaw, Stirling, died in Belleville General Hospital on Friday following an illness of only two days. She was in her 77th year.

Born at Flinton, daughter of Eliza Jane Davidson and the late Daniel Sedgwick, she had lived at Stirling for the past five years. Prior to that time she had lived in Tweed. She was a member of the United Church.

Pre-deceased by her husband in '1938, Mrs. Bradshaw is survived by one son, Guy Bradshaw, of Stirling, two grandchildren and two greatgrandchildren. She is the last of her family.

Resting at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Canada Takes Two-Game Lead Over Cubans

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Because of wider experience, sharper tennis smartness and greater familiarity with grass-court play, Canada today holds a commanding 2-0 lead over Cuba in the North American zone semi-final Davis Cup tie.

Backed by Friday's clear-cut singles victories of Henri Rochon and Lorne Main over the Garrido brothers, Reynaldo and Orlando, Canada's assignment in today's doubles was faced with confidence and full expectation that the series will be clinched.

Paul Willey of Vancouver was scheduled to make his official Davis Cup debut paired with Main. At the same time Ricardo Morales, 39-year-old captain of the Cuban team, planned to make his farewell stand in the blue-ribbon tennis competition as partner, with 22-year-old Orlando Garrido.

The Garridos Friday could salvage only one set in seven. Rochon, the bouncing Montreal southpaw, romped away to a straight-set victory over Reynaldo, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, and Main, starting slowly and giving up a set while figuring out Orlando's style, went on merrily from there to win 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Reynaldo relied largely on power but his flat shots gave Henri little trouble. Rochon, always unorthodox, decided to depart from his favorite drop shots and baffled his young opponent with slices to Reynaldo's forearm.

Reynaldo double-faulted eight times and had 26 outs to Henri's 18. Each netted 25 times.

For a while it looked as if the second match would put a different aspect on the day's results. Orlando wasted little time getting the jump on the slow-starting Main, but again experience ultimately told. It was a far more interesting match, producing 15 service breaks of which 10 were in Main's favor.

Both were guilty of errors galore in the first set which Garrido won.

After that Lorne changed his tactics. His top spin, with a high bouncing ball, had apparently been to Orlando's liking. From then on Lorne began chopping and cutting, scoring repeatedly on short angled placements. In all, the Toronto-Vancouver player had 43 placements to Orlando's 24.

Most Candidates Sit Back To Await People's Verdict

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The election campaign died away to a murmur today. Most of the candidates sat back fretfully to await the people's verdict Monday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent held his last major rally Friday night at Toronto. He goes home to Quebec City today and will speak Sunday there and at Baie St. Paul.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, visits three Lake Ontario centres today—Oshawa, Cobourg and Kingston—to close out his campaign and returns to Ottawa late tonight.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell remained in Saskatchewan. He spoke Friday at Prince Albert and later to his own riding of Rosetown-Biggar. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, was in his home constituency of Peace River after a brief dash into British Columbia.

10,000 Hear St. Laurent

All political radio broadcasts came to a halt Friday night. The Liberals were the last to be heard on the national networks.

Mr. St. Laurent made the radio broadcast and gave substantially the same speech before an audience of about 10,000 in 14,000-seat Maple Leaf Gardens.

He charged that Progressive Conservative campaign promises were a "bare-faced attempt to fool the people."

At Ottawa, Mr. Drew denied that his party's pledge to reduce defence spending would weaken Canada's armed forces: "We will provide all the millions needed for real defence but not one red cent for waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

Addressing ana udience of 1,800 in the Exhibition Park coliseum, he said his party had explained hov taxes could be reduced by at least $500,000,000 a ear by ending "over-taxation" and increasing efficiency in the defence department.

Lots Of Able Men

There was no question about finding men of cabinet ability in Progressive Conservative ranks: "I hear the question asked where would we get the men to replace these supermen like the unparalleled minister of national defence, Brooke Claxton . . . I can give you the names of 12 of our members in the last House of Commons who would be 10 times as good as Mr. Claxton."

Mr. Drew promised the five-day week and freedom from "political interference" for the civil service. He criticized State Secretary Pickersgill, recently appointed to the cabinet from his job as clerk of the Privy Council, a civil service post, for his "full time" political activities while he was clerk.

Not Backing Diefenbaker

Mr. Coldwell denied that the CCF supports John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Albert. He said the Diefenbaker club in Prince Albert had issued a pamphlet which carried "what purports to be an interview with me recorded in the Sudbury Daily Star of May 23."

He said a second interview in the Sudbury newspaper July 22 quoted a top CCF campaigner that he believed Mr. Diefenbaker would be elected and that he (the campaigner) would be happy if that were the case. Mr. Coldwell denied knowledge of either interview and said he was the only top CCF campaigner at the place and time mentioned in the story. He urged his theatre audience of 200 to support Dave Corney, CCF candidate in Prince Albert.

Says Coldwell Bitter

At Prince George, B.C., Mr. Low criticized Mr. Coldwell, who, he claimed, had said Social Credit was "North American fascism."

"Mr. Coldwell is a bitterly disappointed man with a vindictive and abusive tongue," he said.

Trade Minister Howe, speaking from the same platform as Mr. St. Laurent, said the Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties "are opposed to the policies which have enabled the Canadian nation to move ahead as it has."

Weather Affected Yield of Syrup

OTTAWA (CP)—Poor weather during the maple syrup season brought production of maple products to the lowest point since 1945, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Rain and frost-free nights reduced the flow of sap during the spring and winter and production dropped to 1,948,000 gallons this year from 3,470,000 gallons in 1952. The gross farm value decreased to $7,306,000 from $12,175,000.

Prices for syrup rose to an average of $3.74 a gallon from $3.46. Maple sugar prices dropped to about 39 cents a pound from 43.

Ontario's output of maple syrup decreased to 121,000 from 459,000.

Ontario's maple sugar production fell to 14,000 from 16,000.

PROLIFIC WRITER DIES

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—J. Victor Bate, 45, former Detroit newspaper man who saw 700 of his detective stories published, died in a Tucson hospital Thursday after a few hours' illness. Bate turned to free-lance writing after 15 years on the Detroit Times. His part in helping solve a Michigan murder case was dramatized on a national television program March 12, 1952.

SET FIRE FATAL TO 15

WILLOWS, Calif. (AP) — Standord Pattan, 26, pleaded guilty Friday to charges of starting a forest fire which killed 15 men July 9. He was sentenced on each of two counts of "willful burning" on which the penalty is from one to 10 years. The two terms are to run consecutively and he will serve a minimum term of two years. Pattan, unemployed, admitted starting the fire so that he could get a job with the firefighting crews.

IN MEMORIAM

YOUNG. — In loving memory of our mother, Lillian, who passed away August 9th, 1950.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by son Doug, Ray and family.

ELLIS. — In loving memory of Tom Ellis who was killed in France August 8th, 1918.

In memory we see him just the same.
As long as we live we all treasure his name.
Deep in our hearts he's living yet.
We loved him too deeply to ever forget.
—Mother, sisters and brothers.

COOKE. — In loving memory of dear wife and mother, Effie Ma Cooke, who passed away on August 9th, 1945.

You are not forgotten, mother,
Nor ever will you be;
As long as life and memory lasts
We will remember thee.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank my friends and neighbors for the many favors, flowers and use of their cars, especially Dr. Gibson and the V.O.N. nurses for their kindness to my mother during her illness.
—Mrs. Fred Carter.

DELUGE DROWNS SPARROWS

MACOMB, Ill. (AP)—It rained so hard Friday it drowned the sparrows in their roosts. After a cloudburst dropped 1.10 inches of rain in about 15 minutes, the courthouse lawn was covered with dead sparrows. Guy Nell, the courthouse custodian, said he gathered up about 1,100 birds which had fallen from trees around the courthouse.

Shower

A shower was held in the township hall on Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gardiner (nee Betty Bates). The couple were presented with a chrome set, by the community, and a glass fruit dish, by the charivari gang. The bride and groom both graciously thanked their friends for the kindnesses shown them by the people of the Melrose community and hoped, as they were settling in Belleville, to meet with them in the future, at their home when convenient, and in social gatherings of the neighborhood. Dancing was enjoyed both before and after refreshments. Music was supplied by the McAvoy brothers with Mrs. L. Weese at the piano.

Friends will regret to hear Mrs. Ray Chumbley is a patient in the Belleville hospital. All hope Reta will soon be able to return home.

The Melrose W.I. met for the July meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hagerman. This was an evening meeting and was well attended. Final plans were made for the bus trip to Toronto for the meeting of the A.C.W.W. on August 21st.

WHAT'S THIS, A PLANNED RECESSION?

Used to be a time when planned economy was a phrase synonymous with socialism.

Used to be—but is that day past?

Doubt on that score was aroused by reading one of those "inside report" features in a slick paper magazine from south of the border.

The report said that the U.S. "boom" is in its last stages. "Setback, moderate, comes next."

"Boom's end, in sight, still not imminent. It's months away.

"Setback, adjustment, whatever it is called, will not be a surprise. It will come as an objective—planned—as an alternative to inflation.

"Government wants it, it set out to get it, now sees it coming."

A planned recession in the United States? By a Republican regime? Sounds strange.

But stranger still, to those with memories of the thirties, will be the sentences in which the course of the recession or "setback, moderate" is confidently predicted.

"Duration: A year to 18 months. Down from late 1953 to early 1955, or maybe mid-1955. Up starting sometime in 1955, running through 1956."

One wonders whether the author of those sentences was old enough to even wear a bib back in the thirties. Would any person who experienced those days have the nerve to order a "setback," "recession," or "adjustment" around in that manner?

"Down Fido, down. Nice doggie. Roll over. Up, Fido, up."

It is one thing to predict a recession. There may be signs of it. "Money is tighter." "Spending by Government is headed down." "Goods, piling up, will force cutbacks by industry."

But to predict its length and its severity indicates either vast ignorance of past depressions or an even vaster confidence in the accumulation of knowledge about methods of solving economic problems. That governments have learned much about stimulating economic conditions is a contention with which few will be disposed to argue. That this added knowledge is so comprehensive that any nation can manufacture its own recession to order, in a feeling of complete safety, is a supposition with which few who lived through the thirties will find themselves in agreement.

Most people will find it difficult to conceive of the leaders of the Republican Party in the United States being so brash as to believe that a country's economy can be safely slowed down or speeded up as the whim of the politician suggests.

Most people will hope that those who govern in Washington do not share the magazine prophet's evident belief in their omnipotence.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THIS COMMENT?

An editorial in the Financial Post has aroused our interest. It might even arouse our ire, if we were sure that we understood what the editor of the Post is trying to say.

The editorial is headed: "Fighting is Not a Picnic." With that sentiment all sensible men will agree.

The editorial then refers to a recent speech by Sir Sydney Rowell, chief of the Australian General Staff, in which he said he had never seen troops better fed, equipped and clothed, or with a higher standard of amenities, than those of the western nations in Korea.

The editorial then draws attention to Sir Sydney's doubts as to whether such a standard could be maintained in a major war. It recalls how, not so very long ago, an infantryman went into battle carrying everything he needed on his back. It observes that the Chinese soldiers in Korea followed this old rule.

All this is true.

The editorial then continues:

"But not the Canadian, British and American. For every one of the latter actually fighting in the fighting line, behind there were up to a dozen able-bodied men and all sorts of mechanical transport hauling in tons of supplies much of which was not at all essential.

"These troops expected to ride in trucks and buses, have huge amounts of ammunition to fire away at anything real or imaginary, and be fed fresh food, served hot. After their stay in the line they expected to ride back to the rear again, to a hot bath, fresh uniforms and a picture show.

"Fighting is dirty, tragic business under the best of circumstances. But we are only prolonging it and increasing the cost in blood when we try to turn it into a picnic. It is not a picnic and we can't make it one, but in trying to we could lose a war."

What is the object of that comment?

It is true that the stress laid by the armies of the western democracies on the welfare and happiness of the fighting man imposes a handicap on these armies, under certain circumstances. It is true, as Sir Sydney suggested, that it might prove impossible to maintain such a high standard of amenities for troops in a major war.

But does the Financial Post suggest that Canadians, Britons and Americans fighting in Korea should not have been provided with "huge amounts of ammunition," with "fresh food, served hot," with hot baths, fresh uniforms and the opportunity to see a movie?

In what way did the provision of these amenities prolong the war? Has it not been generally recognized that additional men, guns and planes in the United Nations forces could not shorten the Korean conflict, because such additions would have been matched from the arsenal of the Communist nations? Such amenities unquestionably increased the cost of the war in dollars, but they may very well have reduced the cost in lives, for well-armed, well-fed, rested men have a better chance of survival.

And, moreover, if the need of maintaining a dozen able-bodied men behind the lines for every one actually in the fighting line handicapped the Allied armies, why should it be the men in Korea who are required to make a sacrifice? Were our resources at home strained to the limit?

If what we provided for our men in Korea is considered turning war into a picnic, were not we on the home front, including the editor of the Financial Post and the readers of that journal, enjoying a veritable banquet?

Why the comment?

Strength for the Day
DR. EARL DOUGLASS

One of my very good minister friends died several years ago. Many of us had warned him and tried to counsel with him on the matter of rest. We pointed out that the Bible forbids any human being to try working seven days a week. But he thought because he was doing it for the Lord it was right. Yet he was inadvertently breaking the fourth commandment. Preachers have to have a day of rest the same as anyone else. The preacher serves God best who applies all the Ten Commandments (including the fourth commandment) to himself as well as to his people.

Physically, mentally, and spiritually, we are made after a certain mold. Just as all human beings are bipeds and have certain characteristics which they alone have among all the creatures of the earth, so there are certain imperatives resting upon them which they disobey to their ruin. One of these is the necessity for one day's rest in seven. At the time of the French Revolution, the authorities of that country tried to make it one day in ten. But it did not fit the human framework. It must be one day in seven and nothing else.

This matter of Sunday observance is most important in the life of every human being, and there are millions who never give it a second thought. This demand for one day in seven is built into the structure of the universe.

Defy it at your peril.

SITTER - OUTER

I have to leave dancing to others
because
I can't waltz around as I did
once.
If I try it, for breath I must
frequently pause—
A bodily weakness I hid once.

Now I sit on the sideline with
company gay
I'd gladly have whirled in a
two-step.
I haven't the heart for the
rhumbas they play
And I never have learned any
new step.

When discussing the weather my partner and I
At the side of the room may be sitting,
I am asked: "Why not dancing?"
I promptly reply:
"At the moment I'm just baby sitting."

Blessings Of Hay Fever

(New York Times)

The sufferer from hay fever long has had a deplorable manner of life.

As though the reddened eyes and tickling nose were not enough, he has received for his pains something more nearly approaching ridicule than it does sympathy. Cartoonists make him the butt of seasonal jokes and the writers of doggerel verse find in him a pleasing subject for mirth.

He is not yet prepared to see himself as the cartoonists and others see him, and his smile at the jokes is pathetically woebegone. He should cheer up because this particular allergy can have certain advantages. Hay fever needs to be harnessed, that is all.

Hay fever needs only to be controlled and it easily can become a friendly thing. Those who consistently can sneeze their way through the summer are pretty lucky people indeed.

Stop for a moment and compare what may be the summer lives of the hay fever sufferer and, say, the doggerel poet who is earning coffee and cakes by writing about him.

The sufferer knows that at a certain time in the summer he will begin sneezing, and so he arranges, if it is possible, to depart the locality in favor of another. There are stretches of the mountains that are free of hay fever, and long stretches of sandy beach, set beside cooling, ocean water. Basking in the sun, exerting himself only to swim, this sufferer can have a fine time for himself, and with every excuse in the world for so doing.

The poet, on the other hand, is sitting in the kitchen down in Greenwich Village, with heat pressing like fiery tongs against his temples. Too well is he aware that one of the few words rhyming with "sneezy" is "breezy", meaning exposed to breezes. And that is just what he lacks.

Consider, too, the possessor of a multiple type of hay fever, the kind that can be caused by almost every known species of grass, bush, flower and tree.

Clearly the only preventive against this is to remain in Manhattan, as far as possible from Central Park, throughout the summer. This has an enormous number of advantages. By not going away there is an avoidance of crowded roads and crowded resorts, and there is no necessity to squander many hours in packing clothes—not to mention many sheaves of folding money in buying them.

In Manhattan, the movie theatres are quite free of floral pollen, and are cool besides, and in the summer it sometimes is even possible to buy tickets to hit shows. The owner of a well-organized set of allergies can eat fine meals in good restaurants, can take cooling showers at will, and, in the pleasant evenings, can sit in bedroom slippers quietly reading.

And then, of course, there always is the agreeable fact that he can take a winter vacation, rather than one in the summer.

The red eyes and the sneeze of hay fever have other advantages besides these. When a particularly distasteful social gathering is proposed this may be declined because of a seasonal malaise. On the other hand, if a good one is suggested, the illness is not so severe as to bar attendance, and furthermore it may arouse a certain amount of pleasing sympathy.

The sad and reddened eyes make an evening at a low-grade movie quite unthinkable, and, in the lower academic brackets, they provide a distinct hazard to tutoring in Latin grammar. Naturally enough, they do not affect the better movies, or the Westerns being shown on television while the grammar gathers dust.

The watery eyes form a reasonable excuse for postponing until tomorrow the dreary act of paying the monthly bills, and the equally dreary one of trying to figure out where all the money goes.

A controlled case of hay fever means that bedtime may be early and rising time may be late, for the way to fight all illnesses is by getting rest.

Beauty Queen Crisis

The Times of London

Most of us know too little about beauty queens. We have a vague idea, based on bits we have read about them in the papers, that in Great Britain they are generally elected or appointed by some sort of committee, a process which often leads to tears; accusations of favoritism or nepotism are launched by the disappointed runners-up, the queen herself sometimes abdicates in a huff and the organizers of the local fete have to fall back on a display of club-swinging by the Girl Guides.

We also have a notion that beauty queens always used to be crowned, and in the papers like the Loamshire Argus (with which is incorporated more other periodicals than there is space to enumerate here) photographs of these ceremonies are reproduced from time to time; the queen generally looks like one of the apparitions out of Richard III, but the maidens attending upon her appear less insubstantial.

We know, however, that the more sophisticated type of beauty queen does not wear a crown but a very tight bathing dress, athwart which is slung a sash bearing the legend "Miss Patagonia". Her photograph appears in newspapers with a much wider circulation than the Loamshire Argus and she would look completely out of place on Bosworth Field.

We are sometimes told that, when not regnant, she is a shorthand typist or a law student, but we somehow never think of her as a very interesting person. We can see that she is extremely pretty and we assume that she is equally empty-headed. Our interest, tepid enough already, in the private lives of film stars does not extend to hers; we hardly, indeed think of her as having one.

It was doubtless with a view to making the beauty queen more, as it were, three-diminsional to those who have not seen her in the flesh that the judges in this year's "Miss America" beauty contest decreed that every competitor must possess at least one "social talent".

The report does not say what constitutes a social talent—whether, for instance, playing poker counts—but it does say how Miss Michigan qualified for entry. A school teacher who allegedly cannot sing, dance, or play a musical instrument, she broke new ground by lecturing the judges on the short-comings of the local educational system.

Americans, by some strange dispensation of Providence, do not really mind listening to lectures, and no doubt Miss Michigan was as eloquent as she is beautiful. It does, all the same, seem a pity to have established this precedent. Gazing into the future, one seems to see vistas of dazzling creatures worrying their pretty heads over dissertations on sewage disposal or the reorganization of the municipal archives.

Culpably indifferent though one has been in the past to the lot of beauty queens, one instinctively feels that they ought to be preserved from this fate. Up till now one had always thought of them as beautiful but dumb; one is loth to revise this estimate in either of its essentials.

Reds Permit Red Lips Now

(Winnipeg Free Press)

To the bearded and hard-bitten Bolsheviks who mapped out Russia's "ideal state" it must have seemed the most obvious common sense that all the capitalistic and bourgeois foolishness about lipstick, face-powder and eyebrow-pencils should be liquidated out of hand. What, after all could be said for cosmetics? If 50 million female comrades spent 15 minutes "putting on their face" each morning and as long in taking it off each night they would consume something like nine billion woman-hours a year, a perfectly frightful waste of time, to say nothing of the staggering amount of time and energy required for the manufacture and distribution of these false colors under, or rather behind, which the women of the decadent west found it necessary to march. Soviet women, reasoned the Marxian fanatics, would be healthy, well-washed and happy: what more could they ask?

It has taken the flinty-minded men in the Kremlin more than 30 years to convince themselves that it takes more than soap and water to keep a woman happy; that there is more in a woman's world than logic and dialectical materialism. And now Premier Georgi Malenkov has been able to make a good fellow of himself by authorizing the sale of such frivolous concoctions as "Breath of Desire" and "Young Love."

So far the ladies of the Soviets have not won for themselves the right to a "Breath of Freedom," but perhaps Mr. Malenkov is learning that "one should never underestimate the power of a woman."

Personal Health Talks
By DR. WM. BRADY

TEN PER CENT ABOVE PAR

The only advice I can give persons under eighteen who want to reduce is: Consult your physician. I'm an arrant quack, but somehow I still feel bound by the Hippocratic injunction: Do good if you can but do no harm.

Dr. Brady

My advice to persons 18 to 38 years old who want to reduce because they feel too fat is this: If you are not more than 10 per cent above par don't.

If that seems too much to bother with, here are some practical suggestions which, if followed by an adult burdened with slacker flesh, flabby fat, will make him or her feel and look better:

1. Only an athlete or a growing child who plays as hard as a normal youngster should, may profitably take dessert after a square meal.

2. Alcohol added to a diet already sufficient to maintain body weight, is oxidized as fuel for heat and perhaps to some extent for muscular work, sparing the carbohydrate (starch, sugar) which would normally have been oxidized as fuel, and the carbohydrate thus spared is stored as fat. Thus even an occasional or "social" glass of wine, or beer, or a cocktail or a highball is bad medicine for the corpulent.

3. The first course of dinner should be salad—a large green salad—a dish of herbs and no meat, fish or egg in salad, hors d'oeuvres, cocktail or other "appetizer". These indulgences are strictly for the athletic and the poor of flesh. If you take soup at all, it should be only clear broth or consomme, without thickening, crouton, cracker or other addition.

4. The less salt taken in or on food the better. The bad habit of salting food, in cooking or at table, favors retention of too much water in body tissues and makes one dull and logy.

5. The amount of water one drinks, or whether it be hot, cold or tepid, has nothing to do with underweight or overweight. Just satisfy that thirst at any and all times, and think no more about it.

6. A teaspoonful of sugar yields approximately 33 calories. A quarter of a grain saccharin tablet gives the sweetening effect of a teaspoonful of sugar but has no caloric value, and any one may use up to five grains of saccharin a day without impunity.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GENTLE RAIN

This talk is being written in my small cabin on my island in Grand Lake, Nova Scotia. There is a gentle rain falling, which began at daylight. The lake is smooth and there is hardly a breeze, just little motions of the outhanging limbs of the hemlocks and pines. Pine sparrows, and other varieties of small birds, happily flit from tree to tree.

There is something peaceful relaxing, and uplifting about a rain like this. We stay in our cabin reading and writing, and gathering up a few of the fragments of happiness neglected during the sunny hours. I look out upon the lagoon and watch the raindrops as they touch the surface of the water, and the thirsty earth seems so content with its morning bath, freshened for the day of sunshine later to appear.

Nature's inhabitants seem as content on rainy days as when the sun is shining. It's their world and they take it as it comes. We can learn from them. There are virtues to every variety of weather. We might as well get used to accepting each as it is furnished us—for the weather man has his own ideas and he never changes them to fit the whim of any of us.

So, let us welcome even the mild rainy days that mean life and growth to all nature. Looking out of my window I note the falling drops of rain from the green foliage of the pines, and they fall like discarded pearls and hide in the grass beneath. Then they sink in the rich earth and the Great Chemist gets busy in his great laboratory!

These quiet, gentle rainy days are wonderful for meditation. They are really the creative days. They are days in which to count our blessings, to send messages of love and remembrance to those who are dear to us, and they are days in which to do things that we always planned to do! Welcome—the gentle rain!

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

In a little bath-tub size pocket in the rock between my cottage verandah and the water's edge I piled a few pails of earth and rich humus and planted and watered a nice variety of bright petunias, with a few nasturtiums around the sides. The sun bakes the rocks, and in this steamy tropical gardenette, the flowers bloom mightily and form as fine a miniature jungle as could be wished for by a fine big four foot watersnake in search of shade, moisture and bugs. Not to mention the odd foolish frog.

We had no idea of the snake's presence. From the verandah, it was nice to walk out in the early morning and glance down at this one spot of brilliant color under our noses. Doubtless the reptile did his bathing and swimming at night, picking up his main sustenance in the minnows, and frogs he could sneak up on his appointed way, in the dark. But he returned by daylight to his flowery hide-out, where, with the least effort, he could pick up the slugs, snails and sundry insects that, as we found out inhabited the flower bed.

For, one fine day the ladies of the house went to pick a table bouquet of nasturtiums. And imagine their horror, as they poked down amidst the stems of the luxuriant little garden, to catch a glimpse of a swift polished form nippily dashing to another corner of the flower bed. I was called. I flushed him out with a stick, poking down into the herbage. He was a beauty. But egged on by the cries of the populace demanding thumbs down, I had to clout the fellow as he made a heroic dash for the water.

Within three days, we bagan to notice the first signs of damage to our gardenette. Some plants wilted, others were chewed on leaf and stalk. Even the blossoms began to be eaten. In a week, the little jungle was the victim of a buggy blight: slugs, snails, caterpillars, grasshoppers and crickets took their toll.

In two weeks, even the ladies were mourning the watersnake, for he had been the best gardener of us all.

St. Laurent Accuses PCs of Trying To Fool People With Tax Cut Pledges

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night a vote for a Progressive Conservative candidate in Monday's election "is a vote to take risks with the security of Canada and the Canadian people."

In a final CBC trans - Canada network broadcast and a rally speech to 10,000 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens, the 71-year-old Liberal leader also called Conservative tax-cut promises a "barefaced attempt to fool the people."

Today is a free day for Mr. St. Laurent, who has just wound up a seven-week cross - country campaign. He and Mrs. St. Laurent are returning to Quebec City.

Mr. St. Laurent, joined on the platform by External Affairs Minister Pearson and Trade Minister Howe, said the Conservatives have promised to reduce defence expenditures by -250,000,000 a year through elimination of waste and extravagance in government spending.

But, said the prime minister, most of the Conservative charges of waste and extravagance either are "grossly exaggerated or untrue." Even if they were not, they would not add up to even $1,000,000 a year.

"And that would mean that more than $249,000,000 of the $250,000,000 a year the Conservatives are promising to save would have to be represented by a real reduction in our defences."

No Reductions In Defence

He did not mean Conservative leader George Drew intends to risk Canada's national security—"but that could not help but be the consequence of carrying out his promise."

Thez Liberals promised no defence reductions until the dangers from world war were overcome.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Drew has tried to appeal to young married couples by promising to raise the income tax exemption to $3,000 a year from $2,000. But if those couples hoped to raise families, they must not forget that both they and their families were being protected by the government's efforts to prevent another war.

The prime minister said he could not help but agree with C C F leader M. J. Coldwell that "there has never been a more bare-faced attempt to fool the people than the Conservative promises in this campaign."

Mr. St. Laurent appealed to democratic Canadians to get out and vote Monday and prevent the possibility of communists electing members to the next Parliament.

He also said the Conservatives have been saying over and over again that Mr. Howe had asked "What's a million?" during a discussion in Parliament in connection with government spending.

"The truth is he never said it at all and you can look for it as I did at the place the Tory literature says it is in Hansard (Parliament's official report) and there is no such thing there."

Mr. Pearson said in an address to the rally that, although some progress has been made in overcoming the "Russian communist aggression the risk of war still remains in Europe and in the Far East. He said the next few years will be fateful for Canada and the other free countries.

Trade Minister Howe said opposition criticism of Liberal financial policies means those parties would prefer to weaken Canada's financial structure and undermine confidence in Canada as a good investment.

He said Mr. Drew has sniped at the Liberals for taking a leading part in breaking down tariff barriers between Canada and other countries.

"If the people of Canada would let him, and thank heaven they have more sense, he would return the country to the trade policies that brought Canada to disaster in the early 1930s."

Critical Of Drew

In his speech Mr. St. Laurent said that Mr. Drew, if the Progressive Conservatives were elected, was prepared to "talk the language the United States government would understand" in connection with Canada's trade relations.

"I am sure all those Canadians who depend for the livelihood on our trade with the U. S. will shudder at the very possibility of giving Mr. Drew a chance to talk tough in Washington."

As Ontario premier, Mr. Drew had talked this same kind of "tough language" to the late prime minister Mackenzie King "and all we got was disagreement and frustration."

"But as soon as Mr. Drew ceased to be premier, relations between the provincial and federal governments began to improve."

Mr. St. Laurent said he was sure Canadians would be safer with Mr. Howe negotiatng with the U.S. than with Mr. Drew trying to "blast" his way into foreign markets.

Cannifton Takes Semi-Finals

In one of the best played games of the season Cannifton edged Read out of the South Hastings playdowns here, in Cannifton, last night by a score of 3 to 2.

Gord Oliver pitched the nine innings for the winners, having 10 strikeouts and scoring the winning run.

Bernie Brennan pitched a good game for Read and the one run scored indicated the difference.

Sheffield got the only extra base hit, getting a double his first time up.

Mathews, Sheffield, Moore, Stoliker, Cole, Oliver collected hits each for the winner.

G. Brennan, H. Shannon, G. Walsh, F. Shannon got hits for hits for the losers.

The line-up:

Cannifton — Mathews, Marner, Sheffield, Moore, Stoliker, Cole, Dafoe, Phillip, Oliver, Harder for Marner.

Read — B. Brennan, R. Shannon, G. Brennan, H. Shannon, J. Hunt, C. Brennan, G. Walsh, McAvoy, F. Shannon, Meagher for Hunt.

Umpires: Lum Carson, plate, Red Carson, bases.

Latta plays at Shannonville tonight at 6.30.

DOCTOR'S BIG FISH

PLACENTIA, Nfld. (PC)—Dr. William Collingwood, busy doctor at the Cottage Hospital here, landed a 19½-pound salmon at nearby Southeast river during a brief respite. The fish, caught on a silver doctor lure, may be a record for the river.

COAL CARRIER AGROUND

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Salvage tugs worked Friday night to free the United states coal carrier R.E. Moody which went aground early Friday near Amherstburg, about 12 miles south of here. The ship was edging into a dock to deliver her cargo of coal. Earlier in the day two tugs stood by while a lighter started to remove part of the 4,600-ton cargo.

Rollins Clan Holds Reunion Picnic

The annual picnic of the Rollins clan was held recently at Tweed Memorial Park. Since the weather as well as the picnic grounds was ideal for such an occasion, a large crowd was present.

After all had enjoyed the dinner and happy greetings from one another, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mr. John Thompson, of Queensboro, who asked all to join in singing "God Save The Queen", after which a welcome was tendered to one and all. This was followed by the secretary's report, and the treasurer's report, which showed a good balance on hand.

This all important gathering, which is looked forward to by both old and young, is to be held at Tweed Memorial Park on the fourth Wednesday in July next year.

The guest of honor for the day was one of the older folk, Mrs. S. B. Rollins, who in her most gracious manner, spoke of how happy she was to have this opportunity to welcome so many to her home town—the beautiful village of Tweed, and their new park, which is just one of the best for a picnic occasion, to which is added the fine hospitality of the Tweed town folk.

Miss Joan McCurdy, of Foxboro, read a poem which was most suitable for the memorial service. She was assisted in this impressive service by Mrs. Percy Rollins, after which Mrs. Carl Rollins favored with a solo.

Gifts Presented

Suitable gifts were presented to Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Mrs. K. Wilson, Mr. Will Rollins, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rollins of Ivanhoe; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. Arthur Parks, Mrs. Will French and little George Salmon.

Those who addressed this large gathering, expressing how happy they were to spend a day with so many relatives from far and near were, Mrs. Jim Lucas, Mr. Harper Rollins, Mr. J. R. Emerson and Mrs. Harry Rollins.

Don Reynolds was in charge of the sports' events—

5 years and under, boys and girls—Gail Gregg, Billy Tufts, Doreen Hubble.

5 to 8 years—Ellien Thompson, Denny Wilson.

8 to 13 years, boys—Robert Rollins, Ronald Wilson.

8 to 13 years, girls—Marion Hollinger, Marie Hollinger.

Three-legged race—Marion and Marie Hollinger.

Shoe kicking — Fay Rollins, Kathleen Rollins.

Mr. John Rollins of Plainfield, who was also celebrating his birthday, was presented with a lovely birthday cake. After he had blown out the candles and expressed his happiness for the occasion, all shared in his cake, and also sang "Happy Birthday to John".

As the afternoon grew late, all returned to their homes, feeling another happy and very successful picnic had been enjoyed.

Associated Country Women of World To Honor W.I. Founder at Stoney Creek

HAMILTON — This is a story about a little village which nestles beneath the Niagara escarpment, one mile east, southeast of Hamilton, a village of 1,922 souls, Stoney Creek — where Canadian history was made. It is also the story about the magnificent growth of a handful of women who spread the doctrines of household economics and culture to all parts of the world. Eighty-four years after the American forces were defeated on the Stoney Creek bloody battlefield during the War of 1812-14, the Women's Institute was founded in Stoney Creek on a chilly February 19, 1897.

It has been the common cause of men in war and the responsibilities of women that have cemented together two mighty nations. It was the all-embracing love of a country's children that forced the whole world to alert itself to the significance of the institute. The largest rural organization in the world today, it is composed of six million members, and directly stems from the formation of the institute of Stoney Creek. This body, known as the Associated Country Women of the World, will hold its seventh triennial meeting at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, from August 12 to August 23.

August 16 will probably be the biggest day in the history of the village of Stoney Creek, with the exception of June 6, when the United States forces were defeated at that spot. About 1,000, and possibly up to 1,500, delegates to the A.C.W.W. convention will spend two hours as the guests of Stoney Creek on Stoney Creek Day.

Eighteen buses filled with women from 25 countries will attack Stoney Creek with a barrage of questions on August 16. They are expected to reach Battlefield House at four o'clock after a trip to Niagara Falls and Guelph.

The women will tour the historical sites along King Street in Stoney Creek. They will be given colorful leaflets of local history, including the story of the W.I.

Nominees for office from 1953 until 1956 include such prominent women as Miss Amy G. Kane, O.B.E., New Zeland, retired journalist; Lady Coomaraswamy, of Ceylon, whose husband was the former deputy high commissioner of Ceylon, recently appointed to Burma; Lady Wilson, East Africa, and from Canada, Mrs. John L. Rose, Manitoba, and Mrs. Hugh Summers, of Welland.

It is a strange coincidence that both the Farmers' Institute and the Women's Institute had their beginnings in Wentworth County. The F.I., now defunct, was mainly organized through the efforts and influence of public school inspector Joseph H. Smith, and a broadminded, prominent and public-spirited young farmer, Erland Lee, who lived in Saltfleet township.

Looking back at the early beginnings, it was found that Erland Lee, in the fall of 1896 after hearing a stirring address by Mrs. Adelaide Hunter - Hoodless, of Hamilton, was convinced that he should engage her for the F.I's next meeting, a session when the women would be present.

Mrs. Hoodless, born at St. George, Ontario, where a cairn is erected in her memory by the Brant County Women's Institute, stressed that girls should be educated and made fit for a sphere in life for which they were destined — homemaking. Her vital interest in the subject stemmed from the fact that she lost her 18-month-old child as the result of his being fed impure milk. She determined she would do everything in her power to teach others to prevent similar tragedies.

Thirty-five farmers' wives and their daughters promised to attend the institute for women on February 19, 1897. But this attendance was not enough for Erland Lee. So, during the intervening period between the Farmers' Institute meeting, and the first Women's Institute meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Lee travelled from farm to farm in order to arouse the interest of the women.

At Squire's Hall, Stoney Creek, on the night of February 19, 101 women and one man (Erland Lee) heard Mrs. Hoodless speak on homecraft and mothercraft. At the first meeting at Squire's Hall (now the Township Offices) Mrs. Hoodless was chosen as honorary president. The first officers elected by the Mother Institute were Mrs. E. D. Smith, Winona, wife of Senator Smith, a member of the federal government, who was president; Mrs. J. J. Dean, Fruitland, vice-president; Miss M. Nash, Stoney Creek, secretary; Mrs. J. H. McNeilly, Fruitland, treasurer; Mrs. F. M. Carpenter, wife of Major Carpenter, a former member of the provincial cabinet, director, as well as Mrs. Erland Lee, Stoney Creek, and Mrs. C. DeWitt, of Tapleytown.

Of the 101 original members, all residents of Saltfleet township, who met and organized the Mother Institute in Stoney Creek, nine are still living. The charter members include Mrs. Murray Neil, and Mrs. McKinley Morden, both of Hamilton; Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Fred Madden, Mrs. H. P. Van Wagner and Mrs. W. J. Martineau, of Stoney Creek; Mrs. John Budge, Winona; Mrs. Selby Corman, of St. Thomas, and Mrs. George Glidden, of Vinemount, the youngest charter member.

Both Senator Smith and Major Carpenter assisted the women to draft their by-laws and constitution. It was Mrs. Erland Lee who suggested that the membership fee be fixed at 25 cents so that any woman could afford to join the institute.

Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen was the first lecturer and organizer for Women's Institutes appointed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and with four of the pioneer leaders, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. McNeilly, they preached the gospel of the institute and encouraged the organization of new branches.

The second institute opened at Whitby, in Ontario County, and a third was formed at Kemble, in the north end of Grey County, at the turn of the century. The movement was rapidly growing — inquiries were coming from all over the province.

In a report by Mrs. F. M. Carpenter, president of the Stoney Creek Institute in 1903, she said: "Our institutes meet and dispel what has been long felt in rural life — the lack of greater sociability on the part of even near neighbors. The better sanitation of our homes is becoming a burning question, also the relative value of different kinds of food, so as to give the most nourishment to the human system . . ."

In this province alone there are now 1,500 institutes with more than 46,000 members. As the years rolled by the Women's Institutes became a Dominion-wide organization, uniting to become the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

The first Canadian woman to develop institutes in England was Mrs. Alfred Watt, O.B.E., of Collingwood, Ont., who later became the organizer and the first president of the Associated Country Women of the World. Lord Baldwin told Mrs. Watt that the W.I. was the "greatest contribution Canada made to the Old Country." He said it provided a social life for middle class people in England.

Later Mrs. Watt developed institute branches in Wales, while Miss Emily Guest, a native of Middlesex County, Ontario, performed a similar service for the women of Scotland. It included an institute branch at Sandringham, Norfolk, England, in whose meetings the Queen Mother, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose have participated.

International conferences were first held in 1930 in Antwerp, Belgium, the year Belgium celebrated her one hundredth anniversary of her freedom from foreign domination. Belgium was also the first country in Europe to have a Women's Institute. A second session was held three years later in Stockholm, Sweden.

Other conferences were held in London, England, and Amsterdam, Holland. The conference will not be due to come to Canada again for 75 years.

During the last days of the convention the delegates will tour all parts of Ontario, including Ottawa and Kirkland Lake. Some will travel as far west as Banff. Those not taking the organized tours will be guests during three post-convention days in Ontario farm homes; about 30 delegates have already spoken for billeting in Stoney Creek homes.

Mrs. Earl McKay favored with a piano solo.

A harty vote of thanks was tendered those taking part.

Cake and ice cream were served.

Ballet School Concludes Course

The Esther-Lillian Studio of Ballet has concluded a successful two-week summer school course in ballet when an "open class" for children was held at the Y.M.C.A. to which parents of the pupils were invited.

The classes have been directed by Miss Rita Emmerson, L.I.S.T.D. (Licentiate and Examiner of the Imperial Society, Teachers of Dancing, England), who has a large school of dancing in England and who has trained several people who are now appearing in stage productions in London.

While in Canada Miss Emmerson has been called upon to examine at the Betty Oliphant School of Dancing in Toronto and to meet the principals of the Canadian National Ballet, following which she will work with the members of the Ceccebetti Society of America in various centres of the United States before returning to England.

Music was supplied throughout the summer course by pianist, Mrs. F. J. Bradley, herself a devoted balletomane.

Mrs. Esther Hughes and Mrs. Lillian Latchford, directors of the Esther-Lillian Studio, joined with their pupils in expressed their appreciaton to Miss Emmerson at the concluding exercises by presenting her a gift of assorted summer flowers.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We've just been reading a piece about the origin of the song "Old Soldiers Never Die." It seems that nobody knows who actually wrote the song. It is a barrack room version of an American gospel hymn, "Kind Words Can Never Die." This hymn was written in 1855 by Sister Abby Hutchison, an evangelist. It began:

Kind words can never die, cherished and blest,
God knows how deep they lie, lodged in the breast.

The chorus went:

Kind words can never die, never die, never die,
Kind words can never die, no, never die.

It is believed that the barrack room version of the song originated in England about 1870. One British source maintains that it was written for the inmates of an old soldiers' home in Chelsea.

The song was popular at West Point around the turn of the century, but it hasn't been played there for many years. In World War I, it was a favourite with British soldiers. "Tommy Tunes," a British volume of military songs published in 1917, has the two lines:

Old soldiers never die, never die,
never die,
Old soldiers never die, they always fade away.

The British have also sung, "They simply fade away." General MacArthur remembers the line as "They just fade away."

Table Tops

If you don't want to put the money out for a new breakfast table with one of those smooth pearly plastic tops, here's an idea. Cover your old table or a card table with the new plastic oilcloth which closely resembles the hard, pearly top table surfaces.

This new plastic oilcloth is heavy and can be fastened down tight to the table top or hung over the corners like an ordinary tablecloth. It is durable, neat and attractive. Costs about 60c a yard and comes in several colors as well as light grey.

Are You Busy

Two sentences in a Sunday School paper are, oh so true: "If you want work well done, select a busy man. The other kind hasn't time."

This reminds us of a friend who believes that the woman who is really busy is the one who is too busy to tell you how busy she is.

Uncle Frontenac loves to tell the story of the time he went to a used car dealer's to buy a car. Uncle asked the dealer to show him a good used car. The dealer turned to Uncle with a chuckle and replied, "You show me a good used car. I'd like to see one."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Marriage Failed — A New Romance is Failing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I married at 14 and am now 20, with two children. I am separated from my husband and waiting for my divorce to come through.

Shortly after I left my husband, which was about two years ago, I met a fellow and have been going with him ever since, until recently. We had planned to be married after I get a divorce, but now his family have objected to his marrying a divorced woman, and especially one with children. At least, that is what he told me.

This happened a month ago, and he has not been to see me since and I have heard nothing from him. Do you think that if he really loved me he would act like this? He is just a year older than I am.

J.M.

Dear J.M.:

No, I certainly don't think that if this man had feeling for you that a man normally has for a girl he wants to marry, he would have stayed away from you as he has done. It is true, of course, that a 21-year-old man is pretty young to take on the responsibility of a wife and two children all at once, and it may be that his family has convinced him that it would be unwise for him to do so. Whatever the reason for his behavior, however, he certainly should be frank with you and not leave you to wait and wonder. If he doesn't show up with a good explanation soon, you had better just decide that the whole thing is a closed incident and go out with other friends.

She's 30, and Treated Like A Child

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was ten years old, I was orphaned and went to live with my aunt. I am now 30, but my aunt treats me as though I were still ten. She doesn't like me to date, and if I do go out with a man friend, she doesn't like me to invite him in when he brings me home. All she really wants me to do is just stay home in the evenings and read a book. Since I have a job and work during the day, this makes life pretty dull.

My aunt is good to me in other ways, but I don't know what to do about this.

M.J.

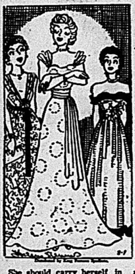
Dear M.J.:

It sounds rediculous for a young woman 30 years old to complain that she isn't allowed to go out and have normal good times with her friends. You're much too old to let anyone boss you around like that.

It would be too bad to have any difficulty with your aunt when she has taken the place of your mother for so long, and since she is, in the main, good to you. At the same time, it is nonsense for you to be completely under her thumb. At 30, you should be independent, have many friends and plenty of interesting activities to make your leisure time enjoyable. I think you should tell your aunt that, while you love her very much and deeply appreciate all she has done for you, you feel it is time for you to have a life of your own, and that if you cannot have it in her house, you had better live away from her.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON



She should carry herself in a queenly manner.

Ugly Ducklings Can Become Swans

It often happens that the plain Jane has beauty possibilities that could be developed if she would only put her mind to the matter. Even if she can't change her features she can cultivate style, and that counts for a lot these days. Certainly there never was a time when the beauty industry and the cosmetic chemists had so much to offer in the way of aids.

Sometimes a woman herself is responsible for her unattractive appearance. Beautiful hair loses charm if it is not shining clean or if it is not arranged in a becoming manner. The heavyweight, with broad beam, gets into slacks and sweater, thereby publicizing her meal-bag shape. Let her wear soft flowing draperies of dark colors and she will hide the bulk. The prettiest girl will win no beauty laurels if her posture is sloppy, if she is not dainty, if perfect grooming is lacking.

The tall girl, deploring her extra inches, may get into the habit of stooping, throwing her shoulders forward, developing a rounded back, a stance that destroys good lines. She should carry herself in a queenly manner. Being tall is nothing to sob about.

The most misguided woman of all is the one of uncertain age who endeavors to restore a youthful appearance by using an excess of artifice. Her white hair, which could be a beautiful silver halo, has been dyed black as night, forming a harsh frame for her face that has taken on wrinkles with the years.

Hoping to conceal the little accordion pleats in the sagging facial tissues, she uses a heavy foundation that forms a mask-like surface. She lays on rouge with a heavy hand, plucks her eyebrows to a fine line and crayons them. Everything she does makes matters worse. If she would only be and look her age.

The transition from dyed hair to white may be an unpleasant experience, but it will be worth enduring. And, with less makeup she won't look so old.

After a certain time, no woman can belie her birthdays. They take a toll and the sensible woman will accept it. White hair is no liability and wrinkles aren't so bad. Beauticians, tactfully, call them "expression lines."

Sugarless Sponge Cake

One cup cake flour, 20 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup cooking oil, 1-3 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 4 egg yolks, grated rind 1-2 lemon, 4 egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Crush sucaryl tablets to a fine powder and sift them with the unsifted flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Make a well in flour mixture and add in order the oil, water, lemon juice, vanilla, egg yolks and lemon rind. Beat with wooden spoon until perfectly smooth. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar together until whites form very stiff peaks, much stiffer than for plain cakes. Beat egg yolk mixture again (with electric beater if you have one) or with rotary beater for 2 minutes. Pour this slowly over whipped whites, gently folding until just blended. Be sure not to stir this now. Pour into ungreased 9x5 loaf pan at once and bake in preheated oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 55 minutes, then increase heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes longer. Let cake cool hanging over rack, then coax it from pan with fingertips.

The diabetics will be interested in this sugarless cake. It is delicious.

Question:

I wonder if you can help me. I used to make simply gorgeous angel food cakes, and as I have had three babies in fairly rapid succession, I have had lots of egg whites to work with. However, in the past year I have had literally dozen of "flops". They all do the same thing: they come out of the oven looking gorgeous, and a minute or so after being inverted they fall out of the pan. I just tried your recipe published a few days ago and baked it at 350 deg. Fahr. for the full 45 minutes and still it fell. I can't understand it, as I just never had this happen before we moved here. I'm sure I am doing everything the same as I used to. Could you tell me some of the reasons for this happening and maybe I can put my finger on my trouble. —Marilyn M. A.

Answer:

Since you say this has happened since you moved I am wondering if you are using the same stove and the same type of fuel. I think possibly your oven thermometer is registering 350 deg. Fahr. falsely, and that your oven is actually not this hot. The symptoms described sound as if the cake is underbaked. Try this: —Bake the cake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes and see if this corrects your trouble. Be sure your flour is not damp too and that your egg whites are at room temperature when you beat them. If whites are very cold temperature of cake is low when it is put in oven and batter takes longer to heat through and start baking. Write again if these suggestions do not correct your trouble.

Question:

. . .recently I tasted a cucumber pickle which was called "icicles". The dill-sized cucumber was cut into long strips, was very sweet and crisp. I was told that in the process of making them more sugar was added each day. These were really delicious. Would you have a recipe? Thanks —Margaret P.

Answer:

It was very pleasant to hear from you again. Since you live near me I would enjoy meeting you.

Icicle Pickles

One 6-quart basket of 3 or 4-inch cucumbers are washed, dried and cut in halves lengthwise. Add 1 gallon boiling water to 2 cups common salt. Pour this over the cut cucumbers in a crock or preserving kettle. Let stand 4 days. Brine will ferment. On the 5th day drain brine from pickles and cover with clear boiling water. Let stand 24 hours. On the 6th day drain. Dissolve 1 tablespoon powdered alum in boiling water and pour over cucumbers to cover and let stand 24 hours. On 7th day drain. Make a syrup of 2 1-2 quarts cider vinegar, 8 cups sugar and 3 tablespoons whole mixed spices. Heat to boiling and pour over cucumbers. On 8th day drain and reserve liquid. Heat to boiling, add 2 cups sugar and pour over cucumbers. On 9th day repeat above (that is add 2 more cups sugar). On 10th repeat by adding 2 more cups sugar to boiled syrup and pouring it over. On 11th day drain. Place cucumbers in hot sterile jars. Heat syrup, add 2 cups sugar and strain it to remove spices. Pour over pickles in jars. Seal.

Note: If you have a cool cellar in which to store them these pickles may be kept in crock, covered with wax paper and plate and weighted down. Note 2: 16 cups of sugar are added by the time these are finished. Note 3: Chill these in refrigerator to crispen them more just before serving. Note 4: I would be grateful if pickle makers would clip this now if they intend to make icicle pickles this year.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Today's Guest-Courtesy Tip

The Guest Who's a Pest is the one who is utterly careless about smoking etiquette. He or she uses as an ashtray anything but an ashtray—a cup (particularly a breakfast-coffee cup or an after-dinner coffee cup); a saucer or other flat dish; a vase—particularly a narrow-mouthed one, most difficult to wash; the container or underplate of a plant; the floor or, much worse of course, a carpet or rug; the fireplace. And too, too often, the carelessly-distributed cigarette or cigar ashes are followed by the butts — often, too often —dunked in the dregs of coffee or in a beverage glass, or thrown in the fireplace. Not quite the way, ladies and gentlemen, to insure a "Please-come-again!"

A Small, Inexpensive Wedding Reception Can be "Cotrect"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to have a church wedding. She will wear a traditional white bridal gown, have bridesmaids, and so forth. The plans are all definite about this. But we're puzzled about the reception plans. We would all like a big reception, but we haven't the necessary funds for this. I thought a small family reception would do. But my daughter would like also to invite some of her friends, and would like to provide dancing for them. How can we have this kind of reception, and not slight other friends?

— Bride's Mother.

If you and your daughter are willing to plan every detail of the reception (as well as the church wedding) with extreme care and forethought, you can, I believe, have the kind of wedding and reception you can afford and the bride yearns for. If you can have the wedding reception in your house or apartment, you can probably invite the members of the two families, the closest relatives, and a few of the most intimate friends of your family and the groom's family. Then your daughter might be able to invite some of her most intimate friends, for dancing, if possible. If hiring a club or hall is the only alternative, then because of the expense of this and the music, the dancing might have to be eliminated. However, wherever the reception is given, you need provide only the wedding cake, punch (for the toasts), some small, simple sandwiches, perhaps, and coffee.

A Sincere Note Should be Written in Thanks for a Mass Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that flowers sent for the funeral should be acknowledged, and that notes of condolence should be acknowledged. But is it also necessary to acknowledge Mass cards?

— Marie S.

Yes . . . most definitely yes! In Lake Trade

More ocean-going vessels are invading the Great Lakes this year than ever before. The 1,731-ton Toraholm was built in Sweden three years ago especially for the overseas runs to the Lakes. Harbor officials at Toronto expect overseas ships this year to chalk up considerably more than the 360 arrivals and departures they made in 1952. — (CP Photo.)

Overseas Shipping at Peak; Docks at Ports Taxed to Limit

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — There's big money in trade on the Great Lakes these days and shippers in 10 countries are hurrying for their share.

As a result shipping lines are scheduling new runs, foreign vessels are making quick trips through the St. Lawrence, and busy lake ports are planning million-dollar additions to warehouses and wharves.

This year overseas shipping is at a peak. Cuban and Venezuelan vessels showed up for the first time since the war, to bring to eight the number of foreign countries sending ships to the Great Lakes.

Harbor officials at Toronto expect overseas ships this year to chalk up considerably more than the 360 arrivals and departures they made in 1952.

Taxed To Limit

Docks at many ports are taxed to the limit. Toronto, for instance, can't get unloaded goods away before another ship comes in. Stevedores worked overtime to handle the almost 1,500 cargoes loaded and unloaded by all ships to July 1 of this year.

The greatest increase at Toronto this year is in cargoes from overseas. Almost twice as many trips by foreign vessels were made to June 1 as during the same period of 1952.

Harbor officials at many Great Lakes ports are planning quick expansion with the feeling that these vessels are the vanguard of large fleets that will come once the St. Lawrence seaway is built.

At Toronto, even more boats are expected next year and the city is building a $350,000 freight shed. Also planned is a $1,000,000 seawall two-thirds of a mile long, with slips for large vessels at each end.

Ships flying the flags of Britain, France, Holland, Germany, Sweden, Norway, Cuba and Venezuela ply the Great Lakes this year. They trade in heavy machinery, textiles, prefabricated houses, olive oil, wines, glassware, and a host of other items.

Matter Of Concern

Officials of Canadian shipping lines show mild concern over the activity of foreign vessels. The law prohibits them from trading between Canadian ports, but they can and do trade between Canadian and U.S. ports.

"We're not concerned if overseas vessels bring their goods to Canada, pick up their return cargo and go home," says G. R. Donovan, secretary of the Dominion Marine Association. "But they're encroaching on our territory when they trade between Great Lakes ports."

Meanwhile, an official of the British Manchester Line says his firm has found the Great Lakes trade so profitable it has brought a new ship to the lakes this year.

Frederick Lewis, captain of the Manchester Pioneer, says the line plans to deliver almost twice the tonnage it did in 1952. Last year, using two ships, the line loaded and unloaded 20,000 tons of goods at Great Lakes ports.

In an interview on his high-decked ship at Toronto, he said the vessel is built well up from the water to stand the pounding of Atlantic storms. "She's built for speed and power to keep a steady course through any weather."

Big For Locks

But he says the ship has difficulty in navigating the St. Lawrence's 26 locks. There's a leeway of only two feet on the ends and less than that on the sides. As a result, passing through the locks is a tricky job that he and other overseas captains are happy to hand over to rivermen.

"We pick up pilots between Kingston and Montreal," Mr. Lewis says. "They're good men, but it's impossible not to hit the locks occasionally."

Wind was the most serious problem in the locks. "It catches tall ships like ours, blows them a foot or so and you're into the concrete."

Overseas shipping lines are waiting for the day when vessels up to 10,000 tons will ply the lakes after coming up from Montreal through the St. Lawrence seaway. Such ships will be able to carry much bigger cargoes than vessels like the Pioneer.

Polio Kills 42 In Canada So Far in Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Poliomyelitis has killed 42 persons in Canada so far this year, a Canadian Press survey showed today. There have been about 1,400 cases reported, compared with about 4,500 for the whole of 1952.

The incidence of the disease has risen sharply from last year in British Columbia and Ontario, but took a big drop in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and is slightly lower in Alberta, Quebec and Newfoundland. Saskatchewan has had more deaths but fewer cases.

Health officials say it is too early yet to predict whether 1953 will be a bad year across the country because the disease follows no definite pattern each year. The disease may reach its peak in July, August or September in various provinces.

In British Columbia so far this year there have been seven deaths in 18 cases; Alberta four deaths in 108 cases; Saskatchewan 10 deaths in 80 cases; Manitoba 10 deaths in 571 cases.

Ontario this year has had nine deaths in 361 cases, compared with six deaths in 183 cases to the same date last year. For 1952 the to-date figures were 13 deaths in 350 cases. Toronto is the worst hit city in the province with 143 cases, most in Toronto's history to date.

In Quebec so far, only one death in 30 cases has been reported.

The Maritimes have had only one death, in Newfoundland, which has had 32 cases. Nova Scotia has seven cases, Prince Edward Island three and New Brunswick 17. Most cases in the four provinces this year are mild.

Grain, Vegetables Harvests Equal Of Last Season

TORONTO (CP) — Grain and vegetable harvests throughout the province are equalling last year's crop, the weekly report of the Ontario department of agriculture said Friday.

In Western Ontario it has been an excellent pasture year for cattle. Grain harvesting, well under way in most counties, indicates that in most cases the crop will surpass last year.

In southern Ontario much-needed rain brightened the outlook for all crops.

Ideal conditions are speeding hay and grain harvesting in eastern Ontario. But some Ontario-Quebec border counties are complaining of lack of rain.

About 80 per cent of the haying has been completed in Northern Ontario counties. But army worms in the Cochrane and Nipissing area are harming pasture lands.

Coldwell Denies Making Statement On Diefenbaker

By DON HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROSETOWN, Sask. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell arrived back in his constituency of Rosetown-Biggar Friday night after the toughest day of his two-month election tour.

He rose at 6 a.m. at Lloydminster, where he had spoken Thursday night, and finished speaking here at 10:20 p.m. In between, he motored 435 miles over Saskatchewan roads with only four breaks—three for coffee and one to change his shirt.

In his first speech, given before an audience of 300 in a Prince Albert theatre, he denied that he had said anything in support of Conservative candidate there.

Mr. Coldwell said the Sudbury Daily Star of July 22 reported that "a top campaigner of the CCF" on his way through Ottawa between the Prairies and the Maritimes had said he believed that Mr. Diefenbaker would be elected and that he (the campaigner) would not be unhappy if that were the case.

Gave No Interview

"I was the only top CCF campaigner in Ottawa just before that date," said Mr. Coldwell. "I gave no such interview and did not see how any reporter in Ottawa could have written such a story. I saw no one in Ottawa connected with any newspaper."

Mr. Diefenbaker was a Conservative "trusted by financial and other interests in Eastern Canada." Mr. Coldwell said that he and the CCF party supported the CCF candidate, David Corney.

After the meeting he took coffee in the committee rooms, picked up a bag of sandwiches and drove 200 miles to Rosetown where an audience of 340 was waiting for him in the community hall.

They and others listening in autos to loudspeakers outside the building heard him say that if there was a stalemate in the election the CCF would not join any coalition, but would give its support in forming a government to the party which would give written promises of a national health plan, the Saskatchewan dam and "other undertakings useful to the people of Canada."

Re-affirms
HIS Pledge To YOU

To The Electors
Of The Constituency of Hastings South:

Just over four years ago, after my election in June 1949, I pledged that "Irrespective of class, creed or political affiliation, I shall do my best to serve you faithfully and well".

Now, four years after, I am happy to remind you of my pledge and to say that I believe I have kept it. I know that I have served you faithfully, and, I belive that I have served you well. I have consistently supported a government dedicated to the progress of Canada, and the well-being of Canadians. I have seen to it that the needs and interests of Belleville and district were met — harbor improvements, permanent RCAF establishments, housing, public buildings and other public improvements. I have given my time and attention to the needs of hundreds of my constituents. I have given particular attention to the needs of veterans and to the men of the armed forces.

The good of Canada, the interests of South Hastings and the needs of its people are, and always have been my concern. I ask for your continued confidence that I and our great Prime Minister and outstanding Canadian gentleman, the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent may continue to serve you and Canada.

Sincerely,

Billy Pierce's Flaming Left Arm Keeps White Sox Pennant Hopes Alive

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

QUITE A SHOW!

The mound wizardry of Ace Holden, colored pitching sensation of the Robitaille Rockets, lived up to advance notices here Saturday night, despite the fact the Belleville District Softball League all-stars augmented by Ottawa's Steve Hook, held the flashy foursome to a three-all tie.

The Ace, of course, was the main attraction, and his blazing shoots, curves, drops and other twisting antics he did with the ball gave the estimated 1200 fans in attendance their money's worth, although Bill Perry told us after the game one pewster did ask for his money back. Some 200 viewed the show from the tracks and the Cannifton Road.

Holden mixed his shoots with an abandon that had the majority of the city sluggers waving at the ozone or poking out pops and grounders. He sent 23 of them down via the strikeout route, Jackie Elliott being a victim when the Ace was blindfolded. He ripped the ball right down the middle in five pitches to send the Ox Pointer back to the bench.

"Turk" Barclay was the only city player who had any degree of luck with the Holden shoots. He blasted two of the Ace's fast ones into deep centre field for home runs and on another occasion flied out.

Holden had the faithful on its seat edge when he whipped the ball across the plate from second base. He has a barrel-stave curve that sometimes threatened to go all the way around the bases before smacking into the catcher's glove. It was a fine exhibition of fastball hurling despite the fact Holden had pitched seven games in eight days prior to his Belleville appearance. He complained of a sore shoulder before the game and that makes his performance all the more creditable.

Coach Bill Spafford used Bobby Hunter, who has lost none of his cunning; Doug Radnar, Al Adams and Steve Hook, the latter working the final three frames. Incidentally the Rockets got all their runs off Hook after trailing on the short end of a 3-0 score for the greater part of the game.

The Ace was at his best when he and the catcher retired a batter while his other mates were playing cards on second base. A piece of unrehearsed comedy occurred when Third Base Umpire Shud Ethier deflected a hard hit ball into fair territory. The batter went out. Phil Loft, Point Anne, Timmy Williams and Harold Bawden were the other arbiters sharing the various duties.

CATS AND CLUCKERS!

Herbie Henn's Northern Electrics meet the Bobcats at the CNR Recreation Park tomorrow night at 6.30 instead of the Alemite Field, according to the "Ole Clucker." The teams each have won a game in their best-of-seven series for the OASA Intermediate "AA" honors and tomorrow's tussle should be a good one.

Picton Army and Wooler start their playdowns on Wednesday night with the Wooler team being hosts to the boys from Prince Edward County. The series is the best of three with the teams playing the second game in Picton on Friday. The third game, if necessary, is slated for Monday at a venue to be decided. Wednesday's game starts at 8.15 under the lights.

BASEBALL!!!

The Belleville District Baseball League has three postponed games to play before it swings into the loop playoffs next Monday. Bryson Reid's junior Regents have a game with the Trenton RCAF Flyers while the Wellington-Bloomfield outfit clashes with the Prince Edward Combines. The W-B Silver Ribbons have a game also with the air force flyboys.

The playoffs get under way August 17 with the first-place team meeting the fourth and the second-placers clashing with the third-spotters. Semi-final series will be two-of-three and the finals best-of-five. Ontario Baseball Association playdowns will come later.

POLICE BATTLE!

Chief of Police Jack Taylor, of Trenton, a former newspaperman, is loosening up the muscles and readying himself for the "battle of the century" when the Trenton Police - Firemen Combines clash with the Belleville Ontario Provincial Police, aided and abetted by two or three city police department stars in the annual police softball game to be held at Bayshore Park, Trenton, August 28th. Chief Taylor has decided to drag the equipment out of the mothballs and lead his stalwarts of the law and smoke-eating department to victory. In fact, it says here, he has made a statement to that effect. Should be quite a joust as they tell us the Louie (P'lis) is also readying his shock troops for the fray.

Blanks Yanks With 5-0 Win After Sox Drop Three in Row; 'Bums' Cling to 7-Game Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whether Chicago's Billy Pierce is the best lefthanded pitcher in baseball is open to argument, but there is no doubt where the White Sox would be today without him.

The 25-year-old ace, sore arm and all, shut out New York Yankees Sunday 5-0 to keep alive the American League flag hopes of the runner-up White Sox. The victory left Chicago seven games behind New York with 44 left to play.

Sunday proved a great day for the "big names" of baseball. Ted Williams, making only his second appearance at bat for Boston since his return from Korea, smashed a 420-foot home run into the distant centrefield bleachers at Fenway Park. Williams was serving as a pinch hitter against Cleveland's Mike Garcia in the seventh inning.

Plenty Of Homers

Despite the 325th round-tripper of Ted's career, the Red Sox bowed to Cleveland 9-3 as Mike Garcia coasted to his 14th victory.

Stan Musial rapped his 17th home run this season with a teammate on base in the seventh to help St. Louis Cardinals defeat New York Giants 6-2 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Raph Kiner basted his 21st round-tripper to lead Chicago Cubs to a second-game 6-5 after Philadelphia Phillies won the opener 7-0.

Duke Snider aso clouted a four-bagger with the bases loaded as the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers crushed Cincinnati Reds 9-1.

Eddie Mathews, National League home run leader, smacked his 36th as the Milwaukee Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4 and 8-3.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial took over the American League's home run lead, hittinghis 28th and 29th as the Athletics defeated and tied Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 8-8. Each game went 10 innings. Satchel Paige relieved St. Louis Browns' starter Duane Pillette to snuff out a Washingtoh threat in the eighth and was credited with the first 3-0 game victory. The Senators walked off with the second game 12-3.

Pierce's brilliant pitching was a life-saver for the White Sox whose pennant hopes were dampened considerably when the Yankees won the first three of the vital four-game series.

Rookie first baseman Bob Boyd, playing in place of the injured Ferris Fain, smashed three hits including his first major league home run to pace a 10-hit attack against loser Vic Raschi and two successors.

Showing no signs of folding, the Braves pounded out 26 hits in their double victory over Pittsburgh to cut Brooklyn's first-place margin to seven games.

Russ Meyer threw a three-hitter against Cincinnati, his 12th triumph against five losses, as the Dodgers handed the Red Legs their sixth-straight defeat.

Joe Presko hurled a five-hitter against the Giants as the Cardinals moved into a third-place tie with the Phillies.

Home runs by Bob Kennedy, Bob Avila and Joe Tipton made Garcia's path easy as the Cleveland righthander spaced nine hits for the Red Sox victory.

In Saturday's games in the American League, the Yankees swept a doubleheader from Chicago, 1-0 and 3-0. Boston edged Cleveland 5-4 and Philadelphia defeated Detroit 9-5.

In the National League, Brooklyn downed Cincinnati 7-4 and St. Louis thumped New York 8-3. Milwaukee scuttled Pittsburgh 7-4 and Chicago defeated Philadelphia 4-1.

'Newport Star' Strong Favorite In Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP) — The names of some 20 three-year-old trotters, each accompanied by a cheque for $1,000, were expected to be dropped into the entry box today for the 28th Hambletonian, which will be raced over Good Time Park's triangular track Wednesday.

The race figures to be the richest in the history of the trotting horse derby, exceeding the 1951 renewal when Mainliner took down the major share of $93,358.65. Only a score of entries are needed to push the value above the $100,000 mark.

As the four-days grand circuit meeting opened, Newport Star remained the strong favorite for the Hambletonian.

Winner of his last four starts for Octave Blake of South Plainfield, N. J., Newport Star will be driven by 33-year-old Del Cameron.

Cliff Argue Presents Prize At Bowling Match

TORONTO (CP) — The international bowling match between the eastern division of the American Lawn Bowling Association and the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association of Ontario was played at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club greens Saturday with the Americans winning by the team score of 150-109 to make the standing in matches 8-5 for Ontario.

Cliff Argue of Belleville presented a record book for the international matches.

Wings Nip Royals, Buffalo Moves Into League Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings dropped Montreal Royals from first position in the International League during the week-end, enabling Buffalo Bisons to move into the league's No. 1 spot.

But the Herd lost their manager as Jack Tighe Sunday was handed an indefinite suspension by League president Frank J. Shaughnessy after a rhubarb with umpire Max Felerski at Buffalo Saturday night.

The Red Wings edged the Royals 3-2 Saturday at Montreal, and then walloped them Sunday 7-4 and 7-1, while Buffalo blanked Springfield Cubs 1-0 Saturday at Buffalo and went on to take the opener of a doubleheader Sunday 6-1. The second game was washed out.

In other week-end games, Toronto Maple Leafs split a doubleheader with Baltimore Orioles Sunday at Toronto, the Leafs taking the opener 6-0, then bowing 2-0 to the Orioles. A Saturday contest between Toronto and Syracuse Chiefs was postponed because of rain. Ottawa Athletics put Syracuse away 2-0 Sunday at Syracuse.

Victory at Montreal gave the Red Wings the important Montreal-Rochester five-game series 4-1.

In Sunday's opener the Birds, aided to victory by the pitching of Dennis Reeder and Jack Crimian who combined to hurl a six-hitter, tallied three times in the first inning and never looked back. First-sacker Charlie Kress clouted a double, a triple and a single in five times at bat.

In the abbreviated second game, right-hander Octavio Rubert, a one-eyed hurler, scattered five hits in scoring his third win.

At Buffalo, the Bisons barely beat the elements to down the Cubs for their third victory in the four-game series. The game was held up with two out in the Springfield half of the fifth. Play resumed long enough to permit the Bisons to score a run with two out in their half of the inning before another deluge terminated matters. Ernie Nevel held the Cubs to four hits.

Don Johnson scattered five hits in the first game at Toronto to gain his 10th victory for the Leafs against eight losses. Joe Rossi's two-run single in the first inning and Bobby DelGreco's two-run homer in the fifth provided Toronto's scoring punch. In the second game, Leafs' starter Bobby Hogue gave up only four infield hits, but the Orioles made use of bunts to get both of their runs.

At Syracuse, only two Athletics got on base until the seventh and final frame, but Jack Littrell, Joe Taylor and Taft Wright came through with successive ground singles in the seventh with Littrell scoring from second and Taylor reaching third on wright's blow. The second tally was scored on Walt Rogers' fly.

Marlene Playing Sensational Golf Posts Record Score to Win 3rd 'Close'

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart, who has scoffed at golf tradition in her brief three-year to prove that she's just about the competitive career, went out today niftiest woman amateur on the continent.

Marlene, the links sensation from Fonthill, and jubilant holder of the Canadian women's Close title for 1953, headed a large Canadian contingent in the week-long Open tournament that has attracted many American golfers. It is medal play today and match play the remainder of the week.

Tradition breaking is Marlene's favorite pastime. In 1951 she became the only woman to win both the Close and Open titles in one year. She added another feather to her tartan cap this year when she won the British Open at Porthcawl, Wales, the first time a Canadian feminine golfer had captured a national title outside Canada.

Completes Sweep

And the sweep was completed Saturday when she posted a record-breaking 54-hole 226 score to win her third straight Canadian Close championship. No one had ever done this in the 27-year history of the tournament.

She finished 10 strokes up on the second-place Mary Gay of Kitchener. Third spot was taken by Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., with a 239 total. No one in the field of more than 100 gave the shy, poker-faced youngster a battle at any time.

She sizzled around the 5,998-yard par-76 Sunningdale course in a record-breaking 71 the first day of the three-day tournament to take a six-stroke lead over Miss Gay. Marlene and the 20-year-old Kitchener girl posted even-par 76s on the second 18 and on Saturday the champ "blew" to a 79 because she "forgot to concentrate" and Miss Gay came home with a blooping 83.

Hard-hitting Barbara Davies of Vancouver was fourth with 244 and from there in the field of golfers from Nova Scotia to British Columbia ranged from 246, posted by 19-year-old red-haired Dorothy Herbertson of Victoria and veteran Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, to well above the 300 figure.

Marlene's 71 was the best competitive score she ever recorded and her 226 total broke her own record of 229 in the championship set last year at Edmonton.

There isn't much chance the ex-caddie will "forget to concentrate" on her game this week when the field will be much tougher. "I've learned my lesson," she said after winning the title on Saturday.

'I'll concentrate on every shot from here in."

Fourteen golfers scratched from Saturday's round to try out the London Hunt layout, scene of the Open.

WIN SOCCER CROWN

VANCOUVER (CP)—With centre Neil McEachnie supplying most of the scoring punch, Vancouver Halecos drubbed Edmonton Cals 7-0 Saturday to win the sudden-death Canadian junior soccer championship. McEachnie scored one goal and set up two.

'Hoiman the Goiman' Tosses Donny Jonny in Main Bout

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

It was a "slang-over." Holman the Goiman, the Voiman of Munich (or is it Brooklyn?) went for a ride last night in Memorial Arena but he landed rightside up, and won the main bout over handsome agile Don Jonathan, the pride of the Salt Lake, Utah, flats.

Donny the Johnny who never come lately, slung the hated villain over his shoulder. He slang him in the air. He slunged him around in a dizzy whirl of flying legs, Goiman cusswords against a background of the roars of the faithful.

But Don Johnny's strategy falled. The cunning Holman, Hans Schmidt it says on the advertising, failed to use his parachute and landed heavily on the canvas.

Unfortunately for the handsome bloke from Salt Lake, he happened to be underneath "Hoiman" when they landed. Bert Maxwell, who is said to be an unreasonable facsimile of a referee closed his eyes, muttered a prayer and started to count. He got as far as three, remembered the double-header in Toronto this afternoon and called it a day.

The poker-faced Heinie who mutters to himself in the finest Munichian is, in this department's opinion, one of the best "rasslers" to show his stuff here. We'd like to see him mix matters with our palsy-walsy (you can have him) Fred Atkins, the 'Orrible H'Austrylian. There, me buckos, would be a battle.

However, to get back to the main argument, Hans the lusty lout gives everything, takes all that is offered and never bats a Heinie eyelash.

He tossed Donny Johnny willy-nilly at the ring turnbuckles at times that had the ancient building rocking and the faithful cussing. He picked him up and put him down with sickening thuds.

"Hoiman" has as much use for officialdom as does the faithful. He turned his poker-puss in disdain to the Hon. Maxwell, on several occasions. But he handed out terrific punishment to the Don, whirling him high in aerial spins, crashing him to the floor in bull-dozing throws and winning the first fall with his famous "backbreaker."

But the faithful had its chance to howl in the second period. Ruffling his cranium mop, Don Johnny, seemingly fed up with the tactics of the Terrible Teuton, took matters in his own hands. He heaved the foe high in the Johnny. Two heels against one, so his flying mare gave him a "colt." He spun, whirled and suddenly sank with a sigh on the prostrate form of the Goiman. That was it.

Came the third fall. Schmidt took several hoists in the puss from the flying heels of Don to speak. Gad, men, then came the speak. Gad, men, then came the final flurry. And the faithful rose as one, as Donald slang the Goiman high in the air, whirled him dizzily and the duo crashed to the canvas.

And who popped up? Schmidt, canny wrestler that he is, flipped flopped and flapped Donny around and came up the winnah.

In the preliminary Al Costello and Bill Leipic battled to a draw with the 'Orrible Haustrylian, Fred Atkins, getting the nod over the Pride of Paree, Robert Duranton, in the semi-final.

Guelph Pitcher Named Manager

GUELPH (CP)—Kenny Yount, a pitcher with a 7-2 record, was appointed Friday to succeed George D'Addario, for the last three seasons manager of Guelph Maple Leafs of the Intercounty Senior Baseball circuit.

Jim Kendrick, Leafs' secretary, said D'Addario henceforth will confine himself to publicity and promotional work while continuing as a player.

Don Cockell Whips Matthews In Ten-Rounder

SEATTLE (AP)—A body blow thrown in the desperation of a losing battle doubled up the veteran Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle Friday night and put the fat but agile British heavyweight champion, Do Cockell,e o th road to a 10-round, split decision vicory.

A crowd of 14,868, wich paid $96,606 to see the scrap, was as surprised as the 180-pound Matthews at the sudden ninth-round explosion. Cockell, who outweighed Matthews by 31½ pounds, was bleeding from a deep gash over his left cheekbone and seemed all but whipped after eight rounds.

Then he caught Harry with the sweeping smash to the mid-section and blasted the Seattle veteran on the jaw before he hit the canvas in the first of three nine-count knockdowns in that decisive ninth roud.

There were howls of rage in the Matthews camp after the decision was announced. Only judge Eddie Pinkman favored the 31-year-old "Kid," 51 points to 49. Judge Jim Grant had it 50½ to 49½ for Cockell and referee Jimmy Wilson voted for the Briton, 55 to 45.

"I thought Harry won seven out of 10 rounds," said Jack Hurley, Matthews' manager. "He was so far in front at the ninth I didn't see how he could lose."

But the fight was decided on points. The Associated Press scorecard had Matthews winning six rounds, with two going to Cockell and two even—but split the points, 55 to each man.

Harry began piling up the points from the start, evading the rushes of the overweight Cockell and punishing him with sharp jabs and hooks. In the sixth he opened a cut 1½ inches along on the Londoner's cheek and he kept it bleeding for three rounds.

Early in the ninth Cockell landed his payoff punch as Matthews moved to avoid entrapment in a corner. Don kept launching haymakers as Matthews kept getting up, and most of them landed. The third knockdown, off a looping left, almost knocked Harry through the ropes.

"I was slow," said Cockell. "I couldn't catch him.

"I weighed 205 when I got here and went up to 211½ before the fight. I didn't get any road work and it slowed me down."

Panthers Tighten Top Spot Grip; Terriers Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers tighiened their grip on first place in the Senior Inercounty Baseball League Friday night by defeating Guelph Maple Leafs 5-1 while London Majors dealt a blow to Galt Terriers' playoff hopes by winning 7-2 on Bob Penney's one-hit pitching.

In other league games, Waterloo Tigers downed Brantford Red Sox 10-3 to move back into a tie for secnd place and Oshawa Merchants broke the .500 mark for the first time this season by trouncing St. Thomas Legions 9-2.

Kitchener's attack was led by George Boniface and Alex Kvasnak, who scored three hits each. The Panthers scored twice in the sixth on three hits and two Guelph errors.

Penney, in holding the Terriers to one hit, marked up his eighth win. T/ɜ blow was a two-run homer by Jeep Jessup in the second inning. But London's sixth-inning rally of five runs wiped out the Galt lead. Gerry Cline started for Galt, but was taken off in the fifth and Zeb Eaton finished.

Waterloo's Don Oberholzer, on his first pitching job this year, got credit for the win, although he needed help from George Yorke after giving up three runs on five hits in 5 1-3 innings. Harry Nusslemen and Oberholzer were the leading batters for the Tigers. Each scored four runs on three hits.

For Oshawa, Bill Hanrahan limited the Elgins to seven hits. He struck out 12. St. Thomas scored two runs on a walk and three singles in the eighth inning. Pinch hitter Harvey Nicholson grounded out with the bases loaded to end the rally.

Oshawa baseball history was made by Butch Lawing of the Merchants. He hit a 400-foot homer over the centre field wall, the first time the barrier has been cleared.

In tonight's games, Waterloo plays at Kitchener, Guelph at Galt and St. Thomas at Oshawa.

Cheers, Men! Bobo Finally Wins One

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The much-celebrated Alva (Bobo) Holloman has finally come through with his first International Baseball League triumph.

Bobo had found it tough going since being sent down to Toronto by St. Louis Browns, for whom he pitched a no-hit no-run game against Philadelphia Athletics in his firs major league start May 7.

Until Friday night, Bobo had failtd to show anything impressive, and had lost two decisions with the Leafs.

Three runs in the 12 inning at Syracuse gave the Leafs a 6-3 victory over the Chiefs and Bobo's initial win. In the 11 innings he hurled, Holloman yielded only five hits. But Bennie Zientara's two-run homer in the ninth deadlocked the score, forcing extra innings.

At Montreal, the league-leading Royals downed Rochester Red Wings 5-3, tallying four times in the fourth inning.

Don Richmond and Tom Burgess walloped home runs for Rochester.

Buffalo Bisons, in second spot, exploded for five runs in the fifth inning at Buffalo to set up an easy 6-1 victory over Springfield Cubs. Jack Wallaesa hit his 27th round-tripper of the season for the Herd.

Both Baltimore pitchers batted in a run as the Orioles whipped Ottawa Athletics 7-4 at Ottawa. Dick Starr singled in a run in the sixth and reliefer Tom Herrin one in the seventh.

Richest Race Run Today

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's richest harness horse race, the $7,500 Canadian Cup, is to be held at Thorncliffe Raceway today.

Virtually every harness man in the country is willing to concede that Argyle Grattan will win — he's been barred from the betting —except his owner, Dunc Campbell of Ailsa Craig.

"Get away from here with that thing," Campbell admonished a photographer Friday as the camera man endeavored to take a picture of Argyel with the statuesque Canadian Cup. "Until we win it—if we win it—nobody's gonna take no pictures of that horse with that cup."

Hot Off The Griddle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes, for the second year in a row, can field an entire team of American players.

Alouettes are allowed nine imports, compared with eight for the other Big Four teams, because of their last-place finish in 1952. Americans Herb Trawick, Virgil Wagner and Marv Mierowitz now are all classed as non-imports.

The situation was the same for the Als last year when Chuck Anderson was added to these three and the Alouettes had eight imports.

Illness of Mack Speedie, starry end from Cleveland, is of major concern to Saskatchewan Roughriders, whose eastern exhibition tour against Hamilton and Montreal is less than a week away. Speedie, suffering from a toe infection, was given penicillin in the course of treatment. The big fellow proved allergic to the substance and now is in hospital.

Out of football for the season is 21-year-old Halfback Bobby McDonald of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, stricken this week with poliomyelitis. Coach Carl Voyles may have a hard time replacing McDonald as a defensive half. Unless Ray Truant or some other Canadian can be found to fill the spot, Voyles may have to take import strength from the line to make way for another U.S. player in the backfield.

Ottawa Rough Riders will charge $1 admission to an inter-squad game tonight. Tom O'Malley and Dave Anderson will be passing against each other as they fight for the quarterback spot. From the inter-squad game, 35 players will be picked for the club's western exhibition games next weekend at Winnipeg and Edmonton.

Edmonton Eskimos' biggest workout of this week was a game type scrimmage under the lights Thursday night.

Said Les Lear, former coach of Calgary Stampeders, who saw the workout:

"It was the best I've ever seen a Canadian club engage in. The Esks look like money in the bank."

Eddie Albert, former San Francisco 49er, has impressed everyone with his passing accuracy in the quarterback slot for Calgary. Albert hit Pete Thodos and Henry Johnson repeatedly, once with a 55-yard heave, in an inter-squad game at Lethbridge.

Bobcats Down Northern Electric By 4-1 Score

By PETER UPPER

Behind the five-hit pitching of Frank Baldwin, the Bobcats downed Northern Electric 4-1 last night at the Alemite field.

The Cats took a three run lead in the third inning. Rollins led off the three-run splurge with a single. Nolan flied out to the centre fielder and moved Rollins to second. "Yank" McBride walked and Ray Burley grounded out third to first. Then Charlie Peters connected on McCurdy's slants for a single to drive in Rollins and McBride. He went to second when the play came to the plate.

Rodgers walked and again two men were on base. Young came up and singled to drive in Peters, but was thrown out trying to stretch it to a double to end the rally which proved all that was needed to win the game.

They added another in the bottom of the eighth just as insurance on a walk and two singles.

Northern's lone tally came in the top of the eighth when Locke scored on a walk and two errors.

"Bunk" Young led the winners in the wood department, getting hold of McCurdy's upshoots for a pair of singles. Frank Baldwin helped his own cause with a triple. Rollins, Nolan, McBride, Peters, Rodgers and Callaghan each touched the ball for a single.

Wardhaugh led the losers at the plate with a triple and a single. Locke, Cousins and DeRushie bingled for the other 3 singles.

Baldwin went all the way on the hill for the Bobs, getting one on strikes and walking six.

Score by innings:

		R	H	E
Northern	000 000 010	1	5	1
Bobcats	003 000 01x	4	8	3

Scorer: P. Upper.. Time 1.10.

Marlene Within Reach of Third Title

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A record of three straight Canadian women's close golf championships was within reach of Marlene Stewart today and one will get you five she doesn't miss the chance.

Marlene went into today's final 18 holes of the 54-hole medal play tournament with a six-stroke margin over her closest rival, Mary Gay of Kitchener. Marlene tacked on an even-par 76 Friday to a brilliant opening-round 71 for a 147 total compared to Miss Gay's 77-76—153.

Next in line is Rae Milligan, dark-haired golfer from Jasper, Alta., who scored a 77 Friday to go with her opening 79 for a 165 total.

In fourth place, 11 strokes off the pace, is Shirley Woodley of Toronto with 80-78—158, and fifth place is held by Anne Sharp, of Fonthill, with 80-79—159. The rest of the field of more than 100 competitors range from 13 to 87 strokes behind Miss Stewart, the little golfing dynamo from Fonthill.

No golfer has won the title three straight years since the tournament was started in 1926 but Toronto's Ada Mackenzie, who won the championship that year—before Marlene was born—has taken it five times. And Miss Mackenzie, an active campaigner and a tutor to many promising golfers, can still keep up with the youngsters.

She is 15 strokes off the pace this year with 80-82—162 but far ahead of many golfers 20 or 30 years her junior.

Marlene had to scramble to get her 76 Friday and admitted later she was forced to "work awful hard" to hit women's regulation figures for the 5,998-yard Sunningdale layout. She was one over par on the first nine and birdied the 18th to come in with a one-under 38.

Miss Gay, 1952 Ontario champion, also hit par figures with four birdies and as many bogeys.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Each summer at about this time we begin to wonder why we could not have been as smart in the spring, baseball wise, as we are now. It was all there to see while the clubs were in training, but we must have been looking the other way.

Why, for instance, did we persist in believing that Cleveland Indians had the class and the depth to beat New York Yankees out of their fifth straight pennant. And why did we think that New York Giants had the pitching and the defence to repeat their National League triumph two years ago.

In Cleveland's case, why didn't we realize that Luke Easter was too old and too brittle to supply, day in and day out, the kind of power hitting the Indians would need to stick in the race. We realized that the huge Negro first baseman had fudged on his official age and was somewhere around the 37-38 bracket.

It was clear in Arizona, too, that manager Al Lopez still had a short-stopping problem, and that Ray Boone could never be a top operator until he got away from the Cleveland wolves.

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—Les E. Russell, former newspaper man in Winnipeg and Montreal and editor of Bermuda's Mid-Ocean News, died Thursday in hospital. Born in Winnipeg, Mr. Russell worked for a time with the Mid-Ocean News before returning to Winnipeg, where he was on the staff of the Free Press. He later joined the Montreal Herald, but returned to Bermuda a year ago as editor of the News.

AT THE BELLE—Richard Widmark and Jean Peters rock the screen with their hit-and-kiss romance in "Pickup on South Street", the Twentieth Century-Fox film also starring Thelma Ritter, showing today and Monday at the Belle Theatre. The erstwhile demure Miss Peters plays a sexy but slow-witted siren, in this rough realistic drama.

AT THE CAPITOL—Paula Raymond and Paul Christian co-star with Cecil Kellaway in the Warner Bros. presentation "The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms" which starts Monday at the Capitol theatre. A prehistoric monster, freed by an atomic blast, returns to the world after 140 million years and strikes out against the civilized world. On the same program suspense and action in "The Big Frame" starring Mark Stevens, Jean Kent an da new Canadian star, Dianne Foster. Both hits are first showings.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Planetary aspects strong in your favor for both business and personal matters. Watch investments, especially industrial, bonds. Merchandising, mining, building more favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—You clever persons can go far if you tone down persistency, arguing it out. Labor, industry should fair well with right co-operation. Some news after 3 p.m. will indicate high rewards.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Plenty of don'ts and be-careful-ofs in this mixed period. Up to 5 p.m. move cautiously, be on guard against schemers, unquestionable angles presented to you. After 6, better aspects.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Financial and professional activities can advance faster this mildly generous day. Check details well, obligations, no matter how small. Don't put off, do it now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) —To make ends meet and finish on the credit side, prod yourself into more initiative on the high-grade level. Consistency needed in all efforts, plus good common sense and good cheer.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — You'll find results more than good if you forget little annoyances and put shoulders to the task where essentials are concerned. Strike out in matters that have lasting possibilities.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Vibrations especially favor promotion, advertising, new ideas, the unusual and artistic. P.M. sponsors heart interests, family and children's welfare. Follow a sensible diet.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mixed day. Good fruit comes from good trees, bad from bad trees; same applies to business or personal efforts. It lies within your power to get a good result today. Try hard.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Stars stress co-operation, pleasant conditions, rather than forced, uncompromising situations. Strive to aid others and relieve your own tension while so doing.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — All worth while and sensible activities, including new endeavors, sponsored this stimulating day. Lend your capability to useful social affairs, children's advancement, charities.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Whatever your schedule calls for, make some time for refreshing and restful diversion from usual routine. Keep faith with your own inherent good qualities. Don't be misled.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — You should be delighted and appreciative of the many things it is possible to accomplish during this inspiring period. As you achieve, be tolerant with fellowmen.

YOU BORN TODAY. Innately sincere and kind, you have charity in your heart at proper times. Are fond of home, family, loved ones, and can be depended upon to do your duty; to provide for and protect them always. Rarely afraid of the new. You serve without red tape or fuss and usually reach decisions rapidly (and are generally right). Have artistic and musical ability; talent for advertising, promotional, military and business affairs. Seek higher education, hold to highest principles and nothing can stop you. Birthdate: Carrie Jacobs Bond, Amer. composer; Geo. Gruen, Gruen Watch Co.

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS

IN THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE, IN THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

To Wit:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor under seal of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, Ontario, to me directed, bearing date of 19th day of May 1953, I hereby give notice that unless such arears of taxes and costs are sooner paid, I shall proceed to sell by public auction the said lands or as much thereof as may be necessary for payment of said taxes and costs, in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Belleville, Ontario, Tuesday the tenth day of November 1953, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of Taxes has been published in the Ontario Gazette and it's issue of August 1st 1953, and that copies of said list may be had at my office in the City Hall, Front St., Belleville.

Treasurer's office this third day of July 1953.

D. S. DENYES,
Treasurer,
City of Belleville.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NO. 6517

A BY-LAW TO PROHIBIT THE CONSTRUCTION OR ERECTION OR THE MAINTENANCE OF ANY FENCES MADE WHOLLY OR IN PART OF BARBED WIRE OR OF ANY OTHER BARBED MATERIAL WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

WHEREAS Section 260 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950, Chapter 243 authorizes a Council to pass by-laws for the safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the Municipality as may be deemed expedient.

AND WHEREAS it is considered dangerous to the health and welfare of the inhabitants of the Corporation of the City of Belleville to have erected within the Corporation, fences constructed wholly or partly of barbed wire or any other barbed material.

THEREFORE, THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS:

1. That from and after the passing of this by-law, no person or persons shall construct or erect any fence or fences made wholly or in part of barbed wire or of any other barbed material, nor shall any person maintain such fence or allow any such fence to be maintained on property belonging to him or occupied by him.

2. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the convicting Magistrate a penalty not exceeding the sum of $50.00 for each offence exclusive of costs, and in default of payment of the said penalty and costs forthwith, the said penalty and costs or costs only may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such penalty can be levied, the convicting Magistrate may commit the offender to the Common Gaol of the County of Hastings with or without hard labor for any period not exceeding six calendar months unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

3. This by-law shall come into force and take effect immediately upon the passing thereof.

PASSED THIS 30th DAY OF JULY, 1953.

McLEAN HAIG
Mayor.
H. D. BATEMAN
Acting Clerk

MARMORA

Agricultural Society Holds 18th Carnival

MARMORA.—The 18th annual carnival under the auspices of the Marmora Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday evening. This year, the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena was utilized for the event.

Although the attendance did not reach expectations, a night of merriment was spent by those patronizing it.

The entertainment provided by Associated Entertainment Enterprizes of Toronto, had Joe Murphy, of Hamilton, as master of ceremonies.

Completing the bill were, Johnny Dash, youthful juggler and uni-cyclist; Mary Mae Demers, (Miss Twisto), novelty acrobatic contortionist Margaret Brenton, comedienne and singer; Ernie Bruce, the comedy musician; Jack Ayre, pianist.

Games were operated by the Agricultural Society, which also with Marmora Women's Institute operated the refreshment booths.

Dancing was held in the Exhibition Building with Jack Grant's orchestra supplying the music.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG — The reopening of the United Church Sunday School on Sunday was not well attended. Too many of the scholars are still away on holidays. It is hoped next Sunday will have a much better report.

Due to a misunderstanding in the time of service, Rev. R. L. Norman, just back from vacation, had few in attendance at morning service. Next Sunday, Aug. 9, service will be in the evening.

The Sunday evening service in Christ Church was fairly well attended.

The Conservative Association held a well-attended open air meeting on the Thomasburg school grounds on Wednesday, July 29th. Mr. Harold Varty, of Sulphide, was master of ceremonies. As well as the political speeches there was a varied program of songs, piano accordion solos, Scotch and tap dances, which were much enjoyed. The Women's Auxiliary of the United Church catered from a booth on the grounds. This netted them a gratifying amount to swell their funds.

In honor of Mrs. M. Bye, Kisbey, Saskatchewan, who is visiting relatives here, the Morton families held at picnic on Sunday at Lake Mazinaw. The day was ideal and everyone reported a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mumby, George and Roy were callers at the home of Lorne Carleton on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Gordon Carleton, Moneymore, was also a caller.

Mr. Roy Welch, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Goss, of Toronto, called on Mr. and Mrs. L. Carleton on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Morton Elliott, of St. Catharines, is visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Tavener and daughter, Edith, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Vance, Sharon and Linda, who have been on holiday, are home again.

Mr. Donald Hobbs, Belleville, who is on holiday, is renewing acquaintances in Thomasburg and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Winters, of Trenton, called on Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, on Civic Holiday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mumby on the birth of their son in the Belleville hospital, Aug. 3.

Bahama Cruise

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Aboard the cruiser Eustanne out of Nassau, Bahma Islands—There are approximately 70,000 square miles of fishing water in the general vicinity of the Bahama Islands. Of this area, only about 30,000 square miles are familiar, known areas and are used by the guides and charter-boat captains to provide sport for either guests.

The other 40,000 square miles remain somewhat of a mystery. However, all this territory is good fishing water, dotted with keys and islands. There is sport to be found there both for the fisherman and the hunter.

With the rapidly growing interest in light-tackle fishing in salt water, mainly fly fishing and spinning, the bonefish is assuming a status of major importance on the agendas of most keen anglers throughout the United States and Canada. In the Bahamas there are plenty of bonefish—in fact, most of the bonefish records emanate from the waters about the Bimini Islands and Cat Cay.

Wishing to learn more of the bonefishing around the islands which lie directly to the south of Nassau, the Honorable Stafford L. Sands, chairman of the Nassau Development Board, went into a huddle with my friend, Don McCarthy, head of the fishing information bureau of Nassau.

On Fishing Expedition

The result of this meeting is this—I flew to Nassau where Don met me. Now we are on the cruiser, Eustanne, out of Nassau, Capt. Milton Pearce, owner and skipper.

With the mate and a development board staff photographer on board and a couple of bonefish skiffs in tow, we have been fishing almost untouched waters for about a week.

Our first stop was at Sandy Point on Great Abaco Island. There we hired a local guide, Alfred White, and set out for the bonefish grounds. Alfred spoke rather carelessy of sixteen-pound fish. (The present Atlantic record is a mere fifteen pounds and some ounces.)

Alred found bonefish for us all right, plenty of bonefish. The first school, feeding industriously on the marl bottom of a shallow bay, must have held at least a hundred fish. We managed to hook four or five of these before the school stopped feeding and moved away.

It must be remembered that there are no outboard motors in the "out islands" of the Bahamas. Those people depend entirely upon sails and sculling oars for their motive power. Thus, Alfred was not too familiar with the waters which lay more than two or three miles from his home port.

Lots Of Fish

However, he is large, strong and willing to pole a boat in a high wind all day long. We cruised about twenty miles of shore line, looking over new bonefish territory. Now and then we would stop to fish a likely area and only rarely did we fail to find fish in quantity.

The next port of call was Gorda Cay. This is a tiny affair, possibly ten miles long and three or four miles wide, surrounded by its attendant group of lesser keys. It is entirely uninhabited, save by a few wild boar and a liberal supply of white crested pigeons. On Abaco, incidentally, there are plenty of wild boar.

Here, too at Gorda Cay we found fishing. Weather was against us and we encountered rain squalls and high winds. Even so, we had no trouble in taking bonefish from schools which numbered anywhere from ten to fifty fish. I'd like to see Gorda Cay again some time when weather conditions are favorable.

From Gorda Cay we cruised to Mores Island. Here there is a small settlement of, perhaps, fifty or sixty people. Again we employed a local guide, Stuart—a huge fellow who never before had ridden in a motor-driven craft.

There are bonefish grounds at Mores Island literally by the square mile—acres upon countless acres upon countless acres of good feeding grounds. The schools are large, each one holding from fifty to two or three hundred fish. We had no trouble taking bonefish, in fact we landed and released eighteen in one day, hooking and losing perhaps half as many more.

At Mores Island Village we talked to the local constable. He told us of another location called Shallow Water Point, some sixteen miles to the northeast. There he assured us we would find "tousands an' tousands of bonefish."

Accordingly, we set sail for Shallow Water Point. This proved to be merely a collection of small keys, divided by "creeks" or passes which lead into broad areas of shallow "swashes," ideal feeding grounds for bonefish.

Milton, our skipper, nosed his way in to safe anchorage, dodging shallow sand bars. Once in the skiffs, we chose arbitrarily to fish the nearest bonefish flat.

To say that we hit the jackpot is rather an understatement. Never have I seen so many bonefish. They were all around the boat, in all sizes. Should we flush one school, another would be along to take its place in a matter of minutes.

For nearly two hours I stood in the prow of our skiff and cast a fly to cruising schools. I hooked fish and landed them; hooked them and lost them; lost flies, broke leaders, cut my fingers on the racing line, and generally had the time of my life.

We cruised the area rather thoroughly and found that it had great possibilities. Two days later, regretfully, we crept out around the shallow bars and pointed the nose of the Eustanne toward Sandy Point. I expect that we shall raise that landfall in about an hour.

And now Milton tells me that dinner is ready. He, in addition to being tops as a skipper and guide, is an outstanding chef. The menu tonight includes conch salad, broiled crawfish and green turtle steak. Please excuse me if I cut this rather short. I know from experience what Milton's meals are like and this salt air has given me a ravenous appetite.

Sale of New Cars In Six Months Increases 28 P.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians spent nearly $700,000,000 on new motor vehicles during the first six months of 1953, an increase of 28 per cent over the same period last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Sales of new vehicles in the January-June period totalled 274,039 valued at $687,883,412, compared with 212,566 vehicles worth $538,433,773 in the correspondent months a year ago. In June, the number of new units sold increased moderately to 46,449 from 43,171 in the same month of 1952.

The number of new passenger cars sold in the six-month period soared to 214,056 units valued at $538,712,766 compared with 155,353 units worth $391,950,362 last year. Sales of commercial vehicles rose to 59,985 units valued at $149,170,646 from 57,213 units worth $146,483,411 in the first half of 1952.

Sales of new motor veicles through finance companies also rose sharply in the first six months of the year. They totalled 102,217 worth $183,041,122, compared with 83,037 valued at $136,095,626 a year ago.

The number of used vehicles financed also rose in the half-year period, totalling 240,287 units valued at $206,722,728 as against 228,91 units worth $168,269,303 last year.

214,000 Extra Refugees Will Be Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law today a bill to admit 214,000 extra refugees, orphans and other aliens into the United States in the next three years.

He called the legislation "a significant humanitarian act and an important contribution toward greater understanding and co-operation among the nations of the free world."

The bill finally sent to the president is a compromise measure containing many provisions aimed at screening out any Communist agents among the immigrants to be admitted over and above regular quotas.

Senator Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.) finally accepted the rewritten version, which will allow the admission of a somewhat smaller number of aliens than Eisenhower originally proposed and also will lengthen the period of the program from two to three years.

AIRPORT BUILDING

CALGARY (CP)—A new administration building costing about $700,000 is expected to be built at Calgary airport next year with the city handling most of the financing. Plans will be submitted to the transport department in September.

DEMOCRACY THEN WHAT?

"Will it be Top Brass Totalitarianism, A MODERN CEASAR?" Where there is no vision the people perish. It may be later than you think.

The election campaign of the two old parties is entirely void of any future national vision. They are so exposing and critical of each other they are not comprehensive of the terrific need for highest level government leadership, in this changing world.

If we electors are to preserve our democratic rights and freedoms, financial progress and security of health and happiness, it's high time we stopped going out on election day and voting against each other, just silly political prattle and broken promises for our reward.

We can not think about a national health program, full employment, social welfare, adequate housing, just labor laws, a national financial credit relation with the Central Bank, etc., without being deeply grateful to the pioneers of the C.C.F. at Ottawa for their vigilant fight for the common weal.

My final and earnest plea to my fellow electors is that on August 10th., you place your X earnestly and decisively where it will leave the best heritage for you and those loved ones that come after you. That you may have the satisfaction of standing — if needs be alone — on the side of the crusaders for democratic justice to all mne and world progress.

LIBERALS RETURNED TO POWER AT OTTAWA

Gaspe Prospector Held as Witness In Hunters' Deaths

Wilbert Coffin in Custody Solicitor General Says

FRANK S. FOLLWELL

Liberal member for South Hastings, and former mayor and alderman of this city, was returned in the government victory on Monday. He defeated Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative and George Elliott, C.C.F.

QUEBEC (CP) — Solicitor-General Rivard said today that Wilbert Coffin, 37-year-old Gaspe prospector, is being held as a material witness in connection with the deaths of three Pennsylvania hunters in the Gaspe wilds.
